FIFTY-FIFTH YEAR OPENS WITH ADDRESS ON "DANTE"

Prof. J. D. M. Brown Eloquently Describes Hell Awaiting Cribbers.

POINTS WAY TO HEAVEN ABODE OF THE STARS

Impressive opening exercises, with an address on "Dante" by Prof. John D. M. Brown marked the beginning of the fifty-fifth collegiate year at Muhlenberg last Tuesday morning. Dr. Haas presided, using the Matin service of the Lutheran church. Every seat in the chapel was occupied by the students and visitors.

"Not by sitting upon down, man comes to fame," was the quotation from Dante's "Divine Comedy" stressed by Prof. Brown. Taking the descriptions of Purgatory, Hell and Heaven as conceived by Dante, he compared the fate of the people in the poem with the possible fate of the student newly entering college, who is about to fix habits that will cling to him through life.

He said in part:

"Dante reiterates the lesson that in making our characters we are building everlastingly for better or for worse. You must choose whether your college course shall be a success or an utter failure. The faculty cannot help you win a diploma if you will not help yourself, and be square with yourself and your fellows. We cannot and will not make you eat if you will not.

"Dante pictures Purgatory as a mountain with a winding spiral path up which the sufferers shuffle continually. Upon their shoulders are heavy burdens under which they bend low; these took the easiest way on earth, and suffer for it. At the top of the mountain is a stony race course where suffering men run without stopping, year after year. They were the quitters. And at the very base the mountain, perpetually following the aimless wavings of a flag are the drifters, those who had no purpose in life.

"Hell is represented as a pit in which there are different groups, according to the crimes they have committed on earth. The uppermost group is composed of drunkards, spendthrifts and morally unclean. The next in order are the drafters, thieves, cheaters. Lastly are the traitors. To be a spendthrift or the drunkard is bad but to be thief is worse and to be a traitor is the most abominable of sins.

MUHLENBERG GREETSS NEW FACES ON FACULTY

Profs. Deck, Shankweiler, and Corbiere Assume Duties.

Three changes in the faculty took effect with the opening of college, each of the new men being Muhlenberg graduates with honorary standing. John V. Shankweiler replaces Frederick H. Worsinger, Jr., as instructor in Biology, Luther J. Deck takes the place of Hugo Anderson in the department of Physics and Mathematics, and Anthony S. Corbiere instructs in modern languages, taking over part of the work of Dr. Wackeragel and Prof. Brown in French and Spanish. Mr. Worsinger has taken a position with the Pa. Dept. of Entomology, and is located at Philadelphia; Prof. Anderson is reported to be principal of a high school somewhere in California, and Dr. Wackeragel is the first Professor Emeritus of Muhlenberg, following 41 years of service.

Anthony S. Corbiere

Mr. Corbiere was born at Nice, France, in 1893, and studied under private tutors. A great part of his childhood was spent aboard ship, up until he located at Seattle at the age of 14. Here he entered the public school in 1909, entered grammar school in 1911, and from there went to Tacoma High School, at Tacoma Wash., where he finished the course in three years. In the fall of 1914 he entered the University of Washington and for three years took work in Journalism. His activities included three years on the U. of W. DAILY, three years on the Year Book, known as the TYEE, three years on the glee club, and two on the class swimming team. He was a member of Alpha Upsilon chapter of Phi Kappa Sigma Fraternity, and of the local chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, national honorary fraternity of Journalism. He was also elected to the Associated University Players, a national Dramatic fraternity.

Shortly after the declaration of war in 1917, Mr. Corbiere enlisted with the U. of W. Ambulance section, was ordered to the Ambulance camp, later Camp Crane, at Allentown, arriving June 20, 1917. He sailed a year later with Base Hospital 7, as Sgt. Major arriving in France on July 15. He was located at Mesves, south of Paris, until March 1, 1919, when he was discharged in France, upon which he visited with his relatives and friends there. Four months later he returned to the States, and in the fall entered Muhlenberg College.

OPENING DAY SHOWS ENROLLMENT GAIN

Bumper Crop of Freshmen

The overcrowded condition which has been usual during the last few years is repeated this year, with an enrollment that passes the 250 mark. Comparison with last year's records shows a gain of about 15 freshmen and men with advanced standing were admitted to the number of 12.

The advance applications received by Mr. Bernheim before the opening day totaled 139 in all classes, but a Continued on Page 4.

Y. M. C. A. IS HOST TO NEW STUDENTS

"Shorty" Miller, former football star at Albright College and the State Student Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, was the principal speaker at the reception to new men held in the commons Friday night by the college "Y." He spoke of the difficulty confronting the student who is in the doubts cast upon his religion by the apparently contradictory ideas of great thinkers, until the young man doesn't know what he really believes. "A firm personal hold on Jesus Christ in the only thing that can keep your life strong and pure during your years of mental growth," said Mr. Miller.

A former classmate of Miller's, J. B. Haines, who is now the assistant to Secretary Lilly of the Allentown "Y." represented the local association, and invited the students to make the fullest use of all the privileges of the building, to which their Continued on Page 3.

PROPOSE MEMORIAL TO CAPT. SNYDER

Student Body to Draw Up Resolutions.

A memorial tablet of bronze to the memory of Raymond Snyder, captain-elect of the Muhlenberg football team, who lost his life in an auto accident this summer, was suggested at a meeting of the student body held in the college chapel Friday morning. A committee consisting of Ira Fritz, Conrad Voigt and W. Theodore Benze was appointed to recommend a suitable size, location, and inscription for the tablet, which it is hoped to transfer to the college gymnasium when it is erected.

Coach Spiegel made a stirring appeal to the men for additional men on the football squad, and more than twenty of the men present promised to turn out for practice. The new coach made a hit with his direct and forceful talk.

Included in the miscellaneous business was a motion that a 'pep' hour for the Lafayette game be held at eleven o'clock next Friday morning with members of the faculty to make speeches.

Committees were appointed as follows: to arrange for special cars to Lafayette, Werkheiser, DeTurk and Balmer, to see that the Freshmen secure megaphones, Ramer, Trexler and Spieker; and to prepare resolutions on the death of Captain Snyder, Sharkey, Kehrl, and Oberly. Thomas Lantz was appointed head of a committee of his own choosing to sell tickets for the Lafayette game.

MUHLENBERG GRID PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHTER THAN EVER

Five Teams in Uniform Getting Coach Spiegel's Instructions.

LATE CAPT. SNYDER'S ABSENCE IS FELT

Muhlenberg will open its battles for gridiron fame for the 1921 season next Saturday when the Cardinal and Gray eleven faces the strong Lafayette team on March Field. Since September 1, Coach Johnny Spiegel has been training the candidates for the team and all indications point to a dangerous combination in Cardinal and Gray jerseys. On the first day of practice twenty-four men reported for preliminary conditioning and since then the number has grown until now there are fifty-three men in uniform, and fifty-three men battling for positions in the varsity line-up at some time during the coming season.

Captain Raymond Snyder, who for three years served his Alma Mater faithfully at guard and always played an almost spectacular game will be greatly missed and sadly mourned during the coming season. He was killed in an automobile accident early in the summer. But his untimely death will be an inspiration to every man trying out for the team, for every true Muhlenberg man has the same noble aim as Captain Snyder; to hit just a little harder than any opponent and to play as clean a game of football as any man who ever stepped on a gridiron.

Chapel Talk Brings Out Men.

Recruiting took a spurt last Friday morning when Coach Spiegel met the student body in chapel and asked for more candidates. Fourteen men answered his call. In this number is some very good material and under such a man as Coach Spiegel will develop into men that Muhlenberg will be proud to call her own. The new recruits are Voigt, Trexler, Shuler, Wagner, Riggs, Winkleman, J. Miller, N. Miller, Utz, Dileo, Helfrich, Sieger, and Unferzacht.

The coach is out on the field and right in every squad and every play. He's there with the goods and is rapidly delivering it to the men who are his care. One minute he's in the middle of the field following the squads teaching them the plays, the next he's liable to be somewhere else injecting pep into some fellow who has begun to lag a little, and all the time he's right with each and every individual urging him on, encouraging him, and instilling him with the greatest asset a football man can have; an aggressive fighting and never-die spirit.

PHILADELPHIA MAYOR COLLEGE DAY SPEAKER

College Day will be celebrated this year on Friday, Oct. 7th, with Mayor Moore, of Philadelphia, as the principal speaker. The usual program will be carried thru, with inspection of buildings, athletic events, and other features. This will be the third annual college day, and all students are urged to have their parents visit them for the occasion. Alumni and friends of the college are expected to be present in great numbers. For those who can stay over night, the Bucknell game on the Muhlenberg gridiron will be a big Saturday attraction.

SCHEDULE

Sept. 24—Lafayette at Easton.
Oct. 1—Delaware State College at Newark.
Oct. 8—Bucknell here.
Oct. 15—Lebanon Valley here.
Oct. 22—Gettysburg at Gettysburg.
Oct. 29—Swarthmore at Swarthmore.
Nov. 12—Fordham here.
Nov. 19—Albright at Myerstown.
Nov. 24—Ursinus here.

STUDENT COUNCIL TO ELECT PRESIDENT

At the first meeting of the Student Council held this year, D. Theodore Benze was chosen temporary president, to fill the office of Raymond Snyder, deceased. The election of a permanent president will be held Thursday.

The secretary was instructed to write the following letter:

September 19, 1921

Mr. & Mrs. A. J. Snyder,
Allentown, Pa.

Dear Friends:—

The Student Council of Muhlenberg College wishes to express its warmest sympathy to you by reason of the bereavement which visited you in the death of your son Raymond.

He was a strong leader, a clean athlete, a diligent student, and a choice friend. We wish that it was in our power to lighten your burden of sorrow, and we trust that attempting to share it with you in this manner may bring to you a portion of comfort and peace.

Very sincerely yours,
IRA FRITZ,
Secretary

New Chairs Installed.

Additional class room space has been provided by the installation of side arm chairs in what was formerly the Sophronia Literary Society hall. Changes in the seating arrangements were also made during the summer in the Mathematics and History rooms, allowing more men to be accommodated. During the summer sessions, the Ad building was badly overtaxed, and the changes completed since that time will make for more comfort.

Glee Club Offers Prize.

A prize of ten dollars awaits the writer of the skit which will be used by the Glee Club this year. Up to this time no skits have been submitted in the contest, which closes Nov. 1, 1921. The playing time desired is about a half hour, and any other information desired by contestants can be secured from Prof. Brown, the dramatic director of the club.

Editorial Comment

The editor wishes to add his voice to the general chorus of sorrow at the death of Raymond Snyder. As a classmate, as a leader in football, as a student, as a friend, "Doughnuts" was a man of high value, and a distinct loss has come to all of us thru his untimely death.

Say fellows listen—now all together—"Welcome Frosh"—repeat that one hundred and seven times, one time for each of the young men who have exhibited keen intellect and rare qualities of mental endowment by selecting dear old Muhlenberg to spend the next four years in arduous study and writing home for money.

You betcha those fellows are welcome. A couple of classes of such numerical strength and we won't need that endowment fund.

Just stretch your imagination a little, Frosh, and have each and every Senior, Junior and Soph shake hands with you right now and bid you a hearty welcome. We want you to feel at home. We want you to feel that every other student is your pal and is interested in your comfort and welfare. That's the spirit here at Muhlenberg. We are all one big family—all brothers—all striving toward the same goal, that of trying to so live our lives that the world shall be just a little bit better for our having been here.

Take an interest in all college activities to the best of your ability. Do everything possible to sustain our good reputation, and as you continue among us may our mutual ties ever knit closer.

Once more now fellows, "Welcome Frosh."

F. W. W. '23

One of the conventional mottoes for use on a sundial is the sentence: "I count only sunny hours." Without too much stretching, the same motto might be used in connection with the typical student "scrap-book," for all of the pleasant experiences of a college course are sure to be recorded there. Over across the valley, at Cedar Crest, they call them "Memory Books," which is the feminine of "scrap book." Whatever the name, a memory assistant in which to represent the delights of life by means of toothpicks, news clippings, haikus, paper napkins, snapshots, and signatures is one valuable possession which every man can own, and the new man would do well to begin collecting the "scraps" or "memories" without delay.

"If we can judge from the first few days, there are prospects of pretty good 'eats' this year" is a remark that might come from any "commonite". Yes, fellows, the changes appear to be for the better.

The menu is varied and agreeable; the tables are as neat and clean as possible; and the waiters are courteous and willing. We are positive that the changes are appreciated.

The quality, quantity, and variety of 'eats' has certainly improved. A training table has been established for football men. This will enable them to have better food and more of it. A training table will also do much to help win the football games.

Fellows, we are all pleased with the changes. Let's co-operate and keep up the high standard.

H. S. M. '23

Fellows, are we going to have a Cross-Country team this year? The answer rests with you. Many of the men who were on last year's team are back with us and there is much more new material.

Cross-country running does much to develop the body and should have many supporters. Moreover the students should support those men who are willing to go into the intensive training necessary for the cross-country work.

In previous years letters have been awarded for this work and it is probable that the same will be true this year.

A cross-country team can be a credit to any school, and Muhlenberg with more men than ever in the history of the school should be able to send out a team that will defeat all opponents.

Fellows, let's get together and put out a good cross-country team this year!

FIFTY-FIFTH YEAR OPENS WITH ADDRESS ON "DANTE."

"Heaven is the abode of the stars. It is the abode of those who have made good, who have done something for others and who are leaders in thoughts and deeds. It is the home for those who had a definite purpose for good and who accomplished it.

"In getting an education one must feel his responsibility to his fellows and to God. A man must decide at the start whether he is going to follow the path of least resistance or whether he is going to make good."

His closing words were: "The journey is before you: the mountain is to be climbed. Put forth your strength, open your mind to that which is to be revealed to you, and apply your heart to wisdom. Many are they who throng about you; many are the voices that are ready to speak to you. 'Go, therefore, on and in going, listen.'"

Following the address and exercises, the Freshmen and new men of advanced standing remained for announcements relating to dormitory accommodations, recitation hours, and the like. Professor Horn, who was given the office of Assistant to the President in June will soon establish a schedule of hours during which he will be in the Presidents office for conference with any students who need advice of any kind.

tered Muhlenberg as a Senior. He served as Secretary of the class of 1920, and was graduated with honorable mention in the Ph. B. course.

Since his graduation he has spent two summers in graduate work, at Columbia and Penn. During last year he taught French and Spanish in the High School at Belleville, N. J. He was elected to his present position in January of this year, and began his work with the opening of the present term.

Luther J. Deck

"Vociferous, talkative, and argumentative" are the terms used by one of the class of '20 in describing our new instructor in Mathematics and Physics, Mr. Luther J. Deck.

He was born at Hamburg, Pa., February 7, 1899 and at an early age was graduated from the Hamburg High School. In 1916 he entered Muhlenberg and was graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

While he was pursuing his studies at Muhlenberg, Mr. Deck was a member of the Delta Theta Fraternity. During the S. A. T. C. in 1918, he served as Football Manager and later in the same year as a member of Student Council. In his Senior year he was again Football Manager.

Mr. Deck was superior in his studies as well as in his other activities. He was on the Honor group for the four years of his college course.

It the latter half of his Senior Year, Mr. Deck finished his work at Muhlenberg and accepted a position as teacher in Fairview Academy, Broadheads-ville, Pa. During the summer of 1920, he also taught physics and mathematics in the Muhlenberg Summer School.

The following year found him teaching mathematics at Elizabeth College, Salem, Virginia. During the last summer, he took a course in higher mathematics at the University of Pennsylvania Summer School.

Mr. Deck is one of our own men and is well known to most of the upper classes. He is highly qualified to teach and THE WEEKLY wishes him much success in his work here.

John V. Shankweiler.

The newly-wed on the faculty is Mr. Shankweiler, who has just returned from his honeymoon to take up his duties in the Biological department. He was born in Berks County in 1894, and after completing his work in the common schools entered Keystone State Normal School with the class of 1915. After his graduation, he taught in the Mohnton High School for two years, when he responded to the call to the colors. Enlisting as a private, Mr. Shankweiler served with the 310th Field Artillery of the 79th Division, which saw service in all parts of France, ending with a station near St. Mihiel. After a year in France he came home in 1919, and entered Muhlenberg College, as a member of the Junior class. He is a member of Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity, and among his other activities were two years of basketball, and one year of football. Within a few weeks, Mr. Shankweiler expects to be at home with his bride on the Shuler farm near Rittersville.

SUMMER SCHOOL OUTGREW QUARTERS

Enrollment of 271 in Summer Courses.

The splendid service being given by Muhlenberg College to members of the teaching profession who seek better qualifications for their work was increasingly evident in the summer courses offered during the six weeks from June 27 to August 6, when a total of 271 students took advantage of the wide variety of work offered. Of this number 27 were working for the Emergency B teacher's certificate and 14 for the Emergency A. The accommodations of the college were taxed to capacity and only 54 students were able to find room at the Preparatory School dormitories. It is expected that he made to use the college dormitories by another year arrangements can and dining hall.

The courses in Supervised Study were as attractive as last year. Miss Carrie M. Graham, the first woman to be on the faculty of Muhlenberg Summer School, conducted a demonstration class in history and English under the supervised study with 30 children from the seventh grade. Fifty teachers watched this work and then entered into the discussion during the following hour. The special class in junior high school English had an attendance of 82. Miss Graham has promised to return next year and continue the work. The entire junior high school faculty from Hazleton, Penna., was registered for this work.

Dr. Wright offered to the teachers for the first time his work in Educational Measurements and Silent Reading. The majority of the children from the demonstration class were tested in the psychological clinic and their ratings compared with the group ratings of the demonstration class. There were four assistants in the Department of Education.

Professor Simpson had very large registrations for his classes in Sociology and Economics. The biology laboratory was taxed to the limit to care for the large classes in Bacteriology, Zoology, Botany and General Science. Professor Bailey had two assistants.

The chemistry rooms were full from morning until night and Professor Fasig with his two assistants was busy caring for the large number of students.

The enrollment in History, English Modern Languages, Mathematics Ancient Languages, and Physics was large.

A general assembly of the students was held on August 4th, at which time Dr. Wright addressed the group concerning the plans of the college for this winter and next summer, the attitude of the State Department of Public Instruction with regard to the training and certification of teachers, and the philosophy of education which recognizes the right of a student to do the work of the school at the rate for which his intelligence is adapted. This was the first time that the women students of the college have attended a college session in the chapel and marks another step in the progressive attitude of the college to be of service up to the limit of its resources.

Extension courses for the fall term will be begun on Saturday, October 1.

Noise Being Organized

The first cheer practice for the year was held on the grandstand Monday afternoon, with a few score of upperclassmen present in addition to the Freshmen. Cheer leader "Babe" Oberly, '22, was on the job with the old-time "pep" and with the upperclassmen as an example, managed to give the Frosh a yelling knowledge of the Muhlenberg songs and yells. Practice will be held daily until the vocal abilities of the class of '25 meet with the approval of the cheer leader.

Complete football outfits include a few spareribs.

The staff regrets the lateness of this number of the WEEKLY. To the extra work necessary because this is the first issue, was added a jam of "Allentown Fair" business at the printers. We hope to publish on Tuesdays hereafter.

HOW BIG COLLEGES RANK IN ATHLETICS

Following is list of championships conceded schools for 1920-21; Eastern football, California, intersectional football, California; intersectional track, California; rowing, Navy and soccer, University of Pennsylvania; cross country, Cornell; hockey Harvard; fencing, Navy; golf, Dartmouth and Princeton, tennis, Princeton, Stanford, and Harvard; swimming, Yale; water polo, Princeton; wrestling, Penn State, boxing, Navy; gymnastics, Navy; trap shooting, Yale.

Overseas Service Recognized.

Announcement has been made by the Student Council that freshmen who have given military service overseas will not be required to wear freshman caps. How many men will be effected by the rule this year has not been learned up to this time.

The Freshman Handbook

It is safe to say that all normal freshmen have already seen demonstrations of real fellowship here at Muhlenberg. Of course it is hard to "get one's bearings" as a new man especially is this so if there is no one to direct or to advise. The Young Men's Christian Association, magnanimously indeed, rescues or helps to rescue the freshmen from their perplexing situation through the medium of the Freshman Handbook or Bible as it is sometimes called.

The handbook itself is simple, precise, and exhaustive. It is a handbook of Muhlenberg customs, songs, yells, and laws, a complete diary, a directory of the college and Allentown itself. To all freshmen it should be the one elucidating beacon. If the book does not serve its purpose and even other purposes the fault lies with the freshmen. Over last year's publication this one is a marked improvement. Of course if the book was bound in let us say leather or even good cloth it's value would be increased to this extent only that it would make it more serviceable and convert it into a practical souvenir. However it is unjust to expect the management to go to any additional expense. In fact would it be less than natural to make a small charge for the book, say a half dollar? It's worth more.

The whole work reflects the high mindedness of the local Young Men's Christian Association and shows in what laudable spirit and with what sincerity of purpose it does its work.

A Freshman.

college "Y" membership entitles them. Dr. Haas and Dean George T. Ettinger presented the welcome of the faculty and Rev. A. T. W. Steinhäuser spoke in behalf of the churches of the city. For the occasion, the Sophomore class were the "humble servants" of the Freshmen, and passed out the refreshments.

The officers of the Muhlenberg Y. M. C. A. are: President, Luther F. Gerhart; Vice President, Titus V. Druckenmiller; Secretary, Horace S. Mann; Treasurer, W. Theodore Benze; Ira S. Fritz, Chairman of Bible Study; Robert S. Oberly, Chairman of Mission Study; and Percy F. Rex, Secretary of the Employment Bureau.

The Employment secretary is of great help to students who are working their way through college. Through it students may form connections with local business men and find openings in various lines such as clerical, tutoring, stenography, agencies for various articles, mowing lawns, cleaning windows, and many kinds of odd jobs.

Among the men who have reported this year for the first team are Campbell, center; Johnson and Beck tackles; Weston, Tursi, E. Johnson, Holstrom, and Bachert, ends; Grimmett, Betz, and Brewer, guards; and Crum Shatz, Hartman, Demolling, Fulcher, Daniels, Gebhart, Whitt, and Nagle, backfield men.

Field in Fine Shape.

Muhlenberg has a field that is the pride of every one of her students. In the last year a spacious stand has been erected for the accommodation of patrons, and a fence has been erected that completely encloses the beautiful bit of turf. Charley Copley, a former Muhlenberg star, and member of the world's champion professional football team was here for a few days before Labor Day and said, "I have seen football gridirons in almost every state, and have played from coast to coast, but I have never seen nor played on a faster field than Muhlenberg Field."

In a talk in chapel on Friday morning Guernsey F. Afflerbach, graduate manager of athletics and field secretary of the college, told the new men of the attitude of Muhlenberg men toward their gridiron warriors.

In his remarks Mr. Afflerbach said: "Next Saturday our men are going to Lafayette to start the football season. For two months there will be a game every Saturday and most of these games will be near enough for the student body to attend without backs up the team to the limit, sacrifices many things to see the games, and does all in his power to help make the team a success. Muhlenberg does not know what it is to have a spiritless student body, and will never know what it is to have a team that does not have the student body back of it. If any man is so self-centered and spineless as to be indifferent about football, we do not want him here. This is no place for him and he had better leave immediately."

As a parting word of advice to freshmen, Mr. Afflerbach said, "The football season is on, and all social and other engagements are off until after football season is over. If you cannot afford to go to both the football games and the movies or other places of amusement, the amusements must be sacrificed for the football games. If any man in the student body cannot afford to go to Easton on Saturday, I want to see him. I'll arrange some means of his getting there, and I'll expect to see you all at March Field on September 24 and at every other Muhlenberg game held within reasonable traveling distance."

Flag Staff in Use At Last

After years of barrenness, except on holiday occasions, the fine flag-pole on the campus is decorated daily with the Stars and Stripes and the big Muhlenberg pennant. The student council is delegating Freshmen to raise and lower the flags with the sun.

Frosh Elect Officers.

Organization of the Freshman class was effected at a meeting held on Friday morning during the Student Body hour. Since the new men have not up to this time matriculated, they were not to be present at the Student Body meeting, and accordingly W. T. Benze and T. W. Lantz, two of the senior members of the Student Council took charge of the Frosh and conducted their meeting in the Latin room.

Officers were elected as follows: President, Howard Winkleman, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Vice-president, William A. Campbell, of Detroit, Mich.; Secretary, Marvin N. J. Beck, of Northampton; Treasurer, W. F. Frey, of Troy, N. Y.; Monitor, E. Stanley Rahn, of Allentown.

Men Wanted

New men who wish to "scrub" for positions on the WEEKLY staff are requested to hand their names to one of the editors immediately. Assignments will be made on the regular assignment list, and the men producing the best results will be recommended for election to the staff.

As a recognition for two year's work, the WEEKLY presents members of the staff with a neat gold charm with a quill and open book design. A further recognition for the men attaining to the position of Editor-in-chief, or business manager is the handsome gold key presented by the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association.

FAST AND FURIOUS FIGHTING FIGURES IN FROSH-SOPH SCRAP

Freshmen Come Out Victorious
In Exhausting Pole
Fight

FIERCEST CONTEST SEEN IN YEARS

The fiercest pole fight in the memory of the students now at college took place on Tuesday, September 20, when the sophs met a picked body of freshmen in the annual tug of war.

Although the day was dreary, the two opposing sides showed lots of spirit in the fray. The freshmen had only a few more men than the sophs and also had the advantage of having a large number from whom to pick their material.

The first conflict was almost a tie at first, although the Sophs had the advantage of Steigerwalt, who managed to capture one of the fresh ropes. The frosh were thus at a disadvantage from the start but they recovered quickly and it was not long before they had pulled the sophs past the goal line.

LARGE NUMBER OF '21 CONTINUE STUDING

Seminary, Teaching, and Law Schools Claim Majority Of New Grads.

Nearly all of the members of the class of 1921 have decided upon some work for the coming year. Many of the class are going to continue their studies either at the seminary or at a university.

Arthur Freitag, Harold Fry, Daniel Kistler, Victor Kroinger, Amon Lichty, Hugh Murtagh, Clarence Shaertel, and Mark Trexler have entered the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Mt. Airy.

Rowland B. Wehr has entered the Union Theological Seminary at New York.

Ralph H. Bornman is continuing his studies at Moravian Seminary, Bethlehem.

Of those entering the University of Pennsylvania, Harold J. Barthold, Paul D. Edelman, Alfred K. Hettinger, G. Herbert Koch, and Linn H. Schantz are studying law; Thomas Trach and Elmer McKee have medicine in view; William Shane has entered the Wharton School; and Amos Ettinger is intending to take graduate work in history.

Some of the men have devoted themselves to athletics: Harold C. Anderson is Coach of Athletics at Englewood N. J.; Franklin D. Butz is Principal and Coach of Athletics at Bristol, Pa. His team won their first game on Saturday. George D. Feldman is coach of the Queen City Football Team.

COLLEGE DAY WILL BE GREATER THAN EVER

Prominent Men Have Messages For Alumni, Friends and Students.

The Third Annual College Day exercises will be held Friday, Oct. 7, in the college chapel. The program includes some of the most prominent speakers in this vicinity, including J. Hampton Moore, Mayor of Philadelphia, and formerly representative to the fifty-ninth and sixtieth Congress from the third district of Pennsylvania.

College Day is not an academic day at the institution but rather a popular one. Its purpose is two-fold in that it gets people interested in the college and also gives them an opportunity to see what the school offers.

In the afternoon Rev. John F. Nicholas, D.D. will be the principal speaker. Rev. Nicholas is a lecturer and popular speaker of no mean ability. His political lectures have received favorable comment from some of the leading papers in the country. Rev. Harry K. Lantz of Shimerstown and former president of the Lancaster Conference will be the other speaker of the afternoon. The Allentown Band will play during the afternoon and evening on the campus.

Last year's College Day was a big success, and it is hoped that the popularity of the event will grow from year to year.

PRESIDENT AND DEAN AT MT. AIRY OPENING

Dr. Haas and Dean Ettinger were given a taste of fast driving on Thursday, Sept. 22nd, when Amos Ettinger, son of the dean, drove them to Philadelphia in one hour and a half. At Philadelphia they attended the opening services of Mt. Airy Theological Seminary as directors of that institution.

OUTLOOK IS BRIGHT FOR CROSS COUNTRY

Lafayette, Lehigh and C. C. of N. Y. Ask For Meets.

The time for the opening of Muhlenberg's cross-country season is here. There is no legitimate reason why Muhlenberg should not be able to continue along the successful lines that were established by last year's team, considering the new material that is available in the Freshman class.

In cross-country there is an opportunity for those men who think themselves too light or otherwise unfitted for football, to develop themselves physically, as well as to show their spark of loyalty for Muhlenberg. Efforts along this line will no longer go unrewarded, since last year's team won recognition, and as a result letters were awarded. The same sanction on the part of the college authorities is sure to be granted if there is enough real interest manifested in this sport, which is fast becoming popular in leading colleges.

Last year's cross-country team made a splendid showing at New York when it defeated the college of the City of New York in a meet held there, and again at South Bethlehem when Muhlenberg won second place in the Mid-

WILL ARRANGE STIFF BASKETBALL SEASON

Manager Gebert Is Negotiating With Army and Navy.

Basketball Manager G. H. Gebert is very optimistic about the Basketball season for this year. Although no definite schedule has been arranged, interest on the campus is at a high pitch because of the fact that among the new football material is also a wealth of material for basketball. In addition to the new material, the men from last year's team who have returned are Butz, Capt., Taggart, and Shanz.

The tentative schedule arranged by Manager Gebert opens the season with Penn, as in former years, and includes such teams as: Dickinson, Lehigh, Gettysburg, Carnegie Tech., Moravian, and possible games with the Army, Navy, Lafayette, Ursinus, Delaware, Bucknell, Swarthmore, Fordham, and Lebanon Valley. Albright has been taken from the schedule this year.

Two New Trustees in June.

The Ministerium elected two new trustees for the College, Charles Freihof of Philadelphia, and John E. Snyder, of Hershey, who held their positions for the first time at the June meeting of the Board of Trustees. They were elected for a term of three years, and succeed Rev. C. M. Jacobs, of Philadelphia, and R. D. Wenrich, of Wernersville.

LAFAYETTE TEAM OF VETERANS DEFEATS MUHLENBERG ELEVEN

48-0 Score Does Not Indicate Intensity of Opening Struggle

FELCHER, CRUM, AND HOLSTROM STAR

Muhlenberg College opened its football season by kicking off to Lafayette at March Field last Saturday and then trailing on the short end of a 48-0 score. All hopes of a victory vanished when Coach Sutherland's veteran team hustled the ball over the line for a touchdown in the first few minutes of play.

The game was characterized by great team work among the Cardinal and Gray squad when one considers the fact that it was the first time the team had ever played together. But the Lafayette squad showed superiority in every respect except in the use of the forward pass. Only one of the Lafayette's five attempts at passing was completed, but that one netted them a touchdown. Crum made some beautiful passes which were completed by Gebhart and Holstrom, but neither could get away from the defensive team for a touchdown. Once when Lafayette's goal was in danger Felcher made an attempt at a drop kick but missed the goal.

Lehecka, Gazella, and Seasholtz played the same tellar game for which they became justly famous last year. Williams, who was sent in for a while played his characteristic dirty game until the referee discovered him deliberately kicking Witt, who happened to be lying on the field after taking his man out. Heavy penalties were registered against the Maroon and White team, two of which were administered for unsportsmanlike conduct.

Felcher, Crum, and Holstrom made spectacular plays for the Muhlenberg eleven. Felcher recovered a fumble and started for Lafayette's goal line but got only twenty yards before being successfully tackled by Berry. In the last few minutes of play Reinartz got away and made a twenty-five yard run before being tackled. But it was too near the end of the game to benefit Muhlenberg.

EXTENSION WORK STARTS ON OCT. 1

Complete Courses for Teachers and Students Offered.

The students who intend to take extension work this fall and winter have already been flocking to our campus to arrange for this work. The regular work of the division will begin on Saturday, Oct. 1.

The students are superintendents, supervising principals and supervisors of special branches of instruction, teachers who are preparing to pass the examinations for a higher certificate or a renewal of their present one, teachers who desire to increase their professional training, students preparing to teach their first school who wish to study methods used in the elementary school, undergraduates who desire to add to their credits or to make up deficiencies, all persons who desire speaking ability in French, German or Spanish.

Professor Robert C. Horn, has charge of the department of Greek. No knowledge of the Greek language is required for this course. It calls for Greek literature in English translation, history of art and a study of Greek and Roman art and architecture, Greek in English; a study of the contributions of the Greek language to English, leading up to the study of scientific terms; methods of teaching Greek and Latin. Courses in Greek language and literature will be given where there is a demand for them.

The other departments are in charge of the following: Latin, Dean George T. Ettinger; biology, Professor Harry D. Bailey and Mr. Shankweiler; physics and chemistry, Professors Albert C. H. Fasig and Mr. Deck; English, Professors Simpson and Brown; history, Professor Mueller; mathematics, Professor Deck; modern language, Professors Fritsch and Corbiere; education, President Haas, Dr. Wright and Mr. Boyer.

For complete information regarding the courses address Dr. Isaac Miles Wright, No. 246 North St. Cloud street, Allentown.

Rough Stuff at Lehigh.

Lehigh Sophomores caught the Freshmen coming out of a hygiene lecture at Packer Hall, Friday noon, and after turning their coats inside out and rolling their pants above the knees, they made them lockstep thru-out the town. After having them crawl on their hands and knees for a good distance the Sophs made the Freshies kiss the numerals of the class of 1924. Every Saturday night until after Founders' Day on Oct. 12, "tea parties" will be held in the Quadrangle in front of the dormitories when every one will be on hand to make things as uncomfortable as possible for the new men.

Editorial Comment

Last year at this time football hopes were high at Muhlenberg, when the team came back with a 27-7 record against Penn State's varsity which was destined to go thru the season with seven victories, two tied games, and no defeats. The first game proved to be the most spectacular of the season for us, and the bright expectations resulting from the State game were far from being realized. Lehigh was no better than Penn State, score 7-7, but Lehigh defeated us 56-0. The beginning looks different this year. A 48-0 defeat at the hands of Lafayette, even tho the Lafayette outfit looks like the All-American for this year, isn't just the brightest kind of a start. But, with the experience of the first game behind them, the Muhlenberg squad ought to rub it into Delaware with a vengeance, and come back with a fierce attack on Bucknell.

What the Lehigh team will amount to this year is hard to tell. They open next Saturday with Susquehanna, and from the results of that game it will be possible to judge their performance for the rest of the season.

All those who saw the Lafayette game realize that an exceptional scoring machine has been built up there during the last four years, and a defeat at their hands is no disgrace for any football team in the country. With the light schedule that Lafayette has, a defeat-free season ought to demand a meeting of Lafayette with Princeton on Thanksgiving day.

Nobody has the least word of criticism for our new coach. Anyone looking at the work of the Lafayette eleven realizes that it was not since the 6th of September of this year that their efficient machine was organized. With all of our present squad back next year and many for the following two years, we ought to get into the world-beating class before long.

Very soon the call will come for Glee Club try-outs. Those of the new men who have never heard the Muhlenberg Glee concert may not realize the high standards of the club. It is an honor to be selected and an education to make the trips. All students, whether they be seniors whose voice has just changed, Freshmen who have just learned the Alma Mater ought to report when try-outs are announced, to make sure whether or not they will some day fill the place left vacant by the death of Caruso.

Last spring the Student Council decided that the money which had come into their treasury should be used to buy a new flag for the college. During Commencement Week and again at the opening of the present school year, we were pleased to see "old glory" floating in the breeze from our splendid flagpole.

At once the question arose as to who should care for the flag and the honor and responsibility was given to the Freshman Class.

The freshmen in turn will be assigned to the duty of raising and lowering the colors on clear days. It is a duty, an honor, and a privilege for the freshmen to perform this task.

Freshman, do you have college spirit? If you have, you will be on hand to do your duty when the task is assigned you. If you do not care enough for your school to perform this duty faithfully when called upon, you do not belong here.

What we want at Muhlenberg is a student body that takes pride in flying its colors in the breeze and we cannot tolerate anyone who will not perform his duty to his school.

Freshmen, get wise before it is too late!

OPTIMISM PERVADES FIRST PEP MEETING

Voices, trained for yelling, that shouted "Rush, Rush on Down the Field," opened the "Pep" meeting in chapel last Friday morning. Bob Oberley, realizing the truth of Major Gen. Bell's aphorism that "a singing nation is a winning nation," stepped on the platform and conducted the orgy. After the first strains had died away fresh yells of "We Want Simpson" that magnified and augmented themselves into ear-rendering whoops, greeted the ears of that amicable professor. He responded and triumphantly declared that he wanted Lafayette to win every game—except this one. A round of applause, a couple more yells and cries of "We Want Ettinger" rent the welkin. He greeted the surging tide with a "Do them before they do you; and do it 'omnibus viribus'." Then someone spied Dr. Kleckner in the halls and shouts of "We Want Kleckner" brought that Muhlenberg enthusiast to the platform. Dr. Kleckner lauded the efforts of our team and encouraged the ardor of the Student body. Last but by no means least, the clamorings of the student body bore fruit and coach "Johnny" Spiegel stepped on the platform and delivered a heart-to-heart talk such as only he can deliver. And that closed the "Pep" meeting.

The world will never disarm until disambitioned—Greenville Piedmont.

FAIR SEX ADDS COLOR TO ALLENTOWN FAIR

Saturday marked the passing of the Great Allentown Fair and is also noted the triumphant advance of all Muhlenberg men who had applied themselves in the past year. The Allentown Fair, like the Muhlenberg frosh, was a record-breaker in the number of exhibits placed.

Monday saw an exceedingly large crowd on the grounds. Tuesday found, with practically every frosh absent from classes, what appeared to be a record-breaker Children's Day. Almost every student attended classes on Wednesday. Heavy rains on Wednesday slowed up attendance records at the fair. Thursday afternoon, the college authorities saw fit to call off all class for the remainder of the day. A "Big Thursday" crowd resulted. Friday afternoon gave the bunch another well-deserved recess. And all of them attended. Saturday with an alluring racing program as the main drawing card found not a student present and all of them at the game.

Now that the pacers, racers, prize cucumbers, hot dogs, kewpie dolls, tractors, hootchey-kootchey shows, patent embroidery needles, toy balloons, super-fat hogs, Percheron stallions, mechanical mice, trained ponies, wild steers, crowds and crowds, motor-dome enthusiasts, and all the thrilling enjoyable, exciting features of the fair have left us, we can once more set ourselves to work so that when the next fair comes it will once again mark the triumphant advance of all Muhlenberg men who had applied themselves in the past year.

OUTLOOK IS BRIGHT FOR CROSS COUNTRY

The States Intercollegiate Cross-Country Meet, ahead of Lehigh University. Altho Bittner and Bolinski, two stellar runners are no longer with us, we still have several good men to start a winning team. Arthur Webb, one of our best long distance men, as well as Titus and Earl Druckenmiller, both veterans of last year's team, have again returned to college.

Communications in an effort to arrange meets have already been received from Lafayette and Lehigh and the College of the City of New York.

The men and especially the new ones can show their real interest in cross-country by training well, and speaking the cross-country gospel.

Investigation has shown the price of coal at the mine; but what about the price of silk hose at the cotton patch?

FAST AND FURIOUS FIGHTING FIGURES IN FROSH-SOPH SCRAP.

The second tug looked like a walk-away for the frosh at first but Mattson of the sidelines rallied his wearied men and the struggle became more intense, especially with Winkleman coaching the other side. When the frosh had the sophs with about 20 yards of the goal line one of their ropes tore. The sophs were quick to seize the opportunity and, before the frosh had time to recover, had pulled the pole across their own line.

The third struggle was the deciding one and was also the fiercest. Both sides were eager for the victory but the greater weight of the frosh soon told and, despite the skillful tactics of Mattson in letting the men rest on the ropes after each effort, the frosh finally won the struggle.

Some of the stars were Steigerwalt, Druckenmiller, E. Rope, and Fenstermacher. A few minor casualties are reported on both sides and Green, a freshman, was seriously injured, how seriously it has as yet not been determined.

LARGE NUMBER OF '21 CONTINUE STUDYING

Arlan Kline is studying law at Harvard and Waldemar Fedko is studying medicine at the same place.

William Wills is studying medicine at the Long Island Medical School; William F. Weaver at the University of Pittsburgh Medical School; John T. Bauer at John Hopkins University; and Raven H. Zeigler, and Albert H. Shafer, at Jefferson Medical School.

Teaching has claimed a number of the class: E. Stanley Phillips and David M. Bean, at Somerville, N. J.; William D. Beddow, at New York City; Earl Eteffly, at Brooklyn, N. Y.; William H. Wilson, at Hempstead, L. I.; John V. Shankweiler, in his Alma Mater; and Paul K. Skelly at Wagner College.

James G. Morgan, last year's Editor-in-Chief of the "Weekly," is teaching in the Mansfield State Normal School at Mansfield, Pa. He is the director of extension work for the Normal School and will be the first man in the state to hold such a position. The position was recently made possible by the passage of a new law.

Two of the class, J. Paul Hoffberger and Paul J. Lynch, have entered Community Service Work in New York State.

Those entering business are: Paul H. Heim at Orwigsburg, Pa.; Raymond G. Shankweiler for the firm of Shankweiler & Lehr at Allentown, Pa.; Arthur V. Talmage in a Fifth Avenue Bank in New York City; and Theodore W. Zweier at Sunbury, Pa.

A Few Ciarlas On Hand

He:—"The editors say not."

BAND PUTS PEP INTO LAFAYETTE GAME

Ettinger and Fedko Reorganize Band For Football Season.

True to the old Muhlenberg traditions, we are again having a band at our football games. Waldemar T. Fedko with the assistance of Amos Ettinger have been doing hard work on the campus to stir up some spirit for a band. Both these men are members of the class of '21 and were active in organizing bands for other years.

Much credit is due to these two men for their gratuitous work this year but we must also remember the other men who gave their time to this work. Acker, Kurtz, H. Sowers, Bauer, Shover, and A. H. Fedko are veterans in our band and Buehler, Preuss, Holland, and Kremser, although new men at school, show that they know how to make music.

At the Lafayette game the band did very praiseworthy work. Between the quarters and between halves they furnished very agreeable music. They were, of course lacking in variety but we hope that this deficiency will be overcome shortly.

To Inaugurate Question Box.

Dr. Haas announced in chapel this week that hereafter a few minutes of every Wednesday morning service will be devoted to the answering of questions which may be asked by students. Questions should be written out and slipped under the door of the President's office.

Further announcements stated that a song service will be part of the program every Wednesday morning. Speakers will be secured for every Thursday morning, and Tuesdays will also be available for speakers if the Y. M. C. A. or any student organization desires to arrange for addresses. Any student desiring to hear a particular local man will communicate his wishes to Prof. Fritch, the Chaplain.

Welcome for Lafayette Frosh

Lafayette Sophomores conducted an opening reception all of their own on the campus on the opening night and with the use of two plug streams and a ton of fruit and eggs succeeded in keeping the Freshmen from gaining entrance to the main quadrangle.

Notice for Summer Students.

Prof. Horn, assistant to the President would like all Certificates of Credit for Summer work at the college to be turned in promptly so that credit can be given on the records. No credit whatsoever will be given unless this matter is attended to.

Short-Story Prize Offered.

A prize of $100, and one each of $50 and $25 offered by the ATLANTIC MONTHLY Magazine will be awarded for the best short-story submitted by a member of a class using the magazine as a text book in English.

Prof. Simpson is planning to have this offer made available to members of the class in Journalism by using the ATLANTIC MONTHLY in connection with the work of that course. Journalism is a Junior-Senior elective, but Sophomores showing proper qualifications can be admitted to the class, meeting Tuesdays at 1.

Dr. Haas Speaks at Chautauqua.

On the invitation of Dean Shailer Matthews, Dr. John A. W. Haas took a prominent part in the religious work of the first week of Chautauqua Institution at Chautauqua, N. Y. This is the first year that such a part was assigned to a clergyman of the Lutheran denomination.

He delivered the sermon on Sunday, July 3 and conducted devotional hours on the following days:

Monday, July 4. Characteristics of Faith.

Tuesday, July 5. Receptivity of Faith.

Wednesday, July 6. Personality of Faith.

Thursday, July 7. Obedience of Faith.

Friday, July 8. Power of Faith.

One Man.

I saw him stand, stoop-shouldered, stolid, like
A beast. The human light gone from his eyes,
Blown out by fifty years of grinding toil.

A broken man. That brow, bent back—that jaw, Hung loose—those jaded, blood-shot eyes—he seemed
A human temple vandalized by Greed.

The time had been (I scarce could think it true)
When once he strode, head high, and felt the thrill
Of living, and had sensed the beauty of

The universe; kind impulse, social joy,
High hope, audacity, had clothed him them,
As now the sordid garment which he wore.

But life had passed, he scarcely knew it e'er had been —Machinery had pulverized the past,
And only dust remained to parch his aching throat.

RULES ADOPTED BY CEDAR CREST SOPHS

No Beauty Permitted for Frosh —Men Warned To Avoid Campus

At a meeting of the Sophomore Class of Cedar Crest. College rules were formulated for the Freshmen period of probation from September 20 to October 4, each day from 8 A. M. to 4 P. M. while on the campus. These rules are:

1. Large napkins must be worn around the neck for breakfast with a string of twelve safety pins each two inches long on the outside.

2. An umbrella must be carried while on the campus and raised when a Sophomore passes.

3. No rouge, powder, or jewelry, except watches, are to be worn.

4. Hair must be worn with a puff over the left ear and drawn back tightly on the right side with the ear visible.

5. Oxfords must be worn with green laces, which may be purchased from Sophomores.

6. Do not use front entrance to the Administration Building.

7. Walk in middle of stairs and halls, the only exception being in front of the bulletin board.

During the entire year:

1. Faculty and upper classmen go first everywhere.

2. No cutting across the grass.

3. Rise when a faculty member enters room.

A fine is to be imposed by the Sophomores if these rules are not obeyed.

Unconquerable.

Be strong my soul, disquietude,
Shall not forever be thy lot;
This fearful, fretful, turbid mood
Shall break like ancient Gordius' Knot.

The restless lees shall settle, thy Life liquid shall translucent be.
A dulcet stream shall mollify
Thy pain, and, like a budding tree

Thy brow shall don new equipage;
And, like a bird let loose to fly
Leaves far behind its narrow cage,
So shalt thou, free, exultant die

To fear and its enslaving hour,
And live to bold and daring things,
Chaste, strong, undaunted by the power
Of men or devils, crowds or kings.

Student Body Numbers 270.

Revision of records of enrollment according to Prof. Horn, shows that the student body totals 270 odd men. Of this number 110 to 115 are Freshmen. The corresponding figures last year were 250 and 100 respectively.

CAMPUS JOTTINGS.

The Delta Theta Fraternity have elected Maurice De Turk and George Rupp as their representatives to Student Council. These men take the places of Raymond Snyder and Wesley Hackman.

The Student Council met on Thursday and elected Thomas W. Lantz as President to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Raymond Snyder.

Robert Oberly has been admitted to the Sacred Heart Hospital for surgical treatment.

"A Fresh Freshman" is reported on the campus.

"Drucky" is back and his store is doing business with an entirely new stock!

on the campus this year has made a hit with the Freshmen. Seniors, try a few doses of tea, and you may be able to match that mustache!

A large number of alumni were present at the Lafayette game. Most of them spent Sunday on the Campus.

Stanley Schweimer, Roy Hoffman,

FACULTY NOTES

Prof. Fritsch conducted Harvest
Home Services at St. Joseph's Lutheran church, East Allentown, on Sunday Sept. 18th. On Oct. 2nd he will conduct Communion services, to which all students are invited, at the same Church.

Prof. Bailey will deliver one of his interesting and instructive lectures to The Ladies Auxiliary of the college on Tuesday Sept. 27th, at 2 P. M.

Dean Ettinger addressed the members and friends of St. Peter's Reformed church, East Allentown, at their Rally Day services on Sunday evening, Sept. 25th.

Dr. Haas will attend the Lutheran Conference at Wernersville on Tuesday, Sept. 27th.

Professor Simpson is suffering from a fractured elbow, the result of a fall.

Specials Must Take Full Time.

Prof. Horn, assistant to the President, announces that the policy of the college this year and in following years in regards to admittance will be that only men desiring to take the three regular courses or a full time special course will be admitted. That means that all candidates for admission desiring to take a part time special course will not be admitted. This rule does not apply to Pre-Medical students who take only a two year course.

Schedule Cards Must Be Filed.

All students who have not filed a copy of their schedule with Prof. Horn at the President's office, should do so immediately. Notice of this has already been given on the Bulletin boards and in Chapel, but a majority of the students have as yet not attended to the matter. Do no delay.
Attend to the filing of schedule cards at once.

JUDGE MILTON C. HENNINGER DIES SUDDENLY AT HIS HOME

Graduate of Muhlenberg in 1874
He Became One of County's Leading Attorneys.

TAUGHT ONE YEAR
AT ALLENTOWN PREP.

Judge Milton Christian Henninger, '74, died Sunday morning at 5:30 o'clock, at his home, 1131 Walnut street, from an attack of indigestion and dilation of the heart. He was in his seventy-first year, having been born April 22, 1851.

The death of Judge Henninger came as a shock to his family and the community at large, for he had been about the city streets as late as Saturday afternoon and attended the Fair on Friday. He had suffered from a heavy cold, but nothing serious was looked for. He was soon taken ill Saturday evening, and suffered another attack at about 4 o'clock Sunday morning, when upon the arrival of the family physician, the family was informed that the case was hopeless.

Judge Henninger moved in a vast circle of friends, in Allentown, Lehigh county and distant cities, where his ready smile, congenial word of greeting and hearty handclasp, were always welcomed. It was this whole-hearted manner with those who came in contact with him, which stood him in good stead in the judgeship campaign in 1919.

After a vigorous campaign during the summer and fall of 1919, the then Hon. M. C. Henninger, in November, was elected as the second judge for Lehigh county. After election, at a conference with President Judge Clinton A. Groman, the latter assigned the work of the orphans court to his colleague. On the first Monday in January, 1920 Judge Henninger assumed his duties and has faithfully and with credit filled the office since. He was the first to announce his candidacy for the position after the legislature passed the bill to create

STUDENT BODY PLANS SWIMMING TEAM

Committee Appointed at Friday's Meeting To Secure
"Y" Pool

A swimming team at Muhlenberg able to compete with the teams of other colleges in this neighborhood, was suggested at a meeting of the student body held in the college chapel Friday morning. A committee consisting of Gomer Rees; Carl D. Neubling and "Corp" Reinartz was appointed to find out how many men would participate in this sport and to inquire whether the Y. M. C. A. swimming pool would be available for practice. Efforts had been made previously to organize a swimming team, but nothing tangible was accomplished. The discussion which arose over this question, showed that the sentiment of the Student Body was favorable to the proposal. It is hoped that Muhlenberg College will soon be able to boast of a fast swimming squad.

The committee on purchasing a bronze tablet to the memory of Captain Snyder reported that various suggestions had been made as to suitable

HOWARD B. KISTLER IS CHEMISTRY INSTRUCTOR

Formerly Supervisor at J. T.
Baker Chemical Co.

Howard B. Kistler, '15, formerly supervisor at J. T. Baker Chemical Co., Phillipsburg, N. J., arrived Monday to take up his duties as Instructor in the Chemical Department.

Born at Weatherley, Pa., in 1892, and coming to Allentown with his parents in 1893, he attended the public schools here and was graduated from the Allentown High School in 1911, and from Muhlenberg in 1915.

During the six years since he left college, he has been connected with the J. T. Baker Chemical Co., at Phillipsburg, N. J., where he worked up to Supervisor of Drugs and Laboratory Reagents for Drugs and Chemical Salts. He is a member of the American Chemical Society, the Chemical and Metallurgical Engineering Society, and the British Society of Chemical Industry.

With an expert knowledge of Chemical reagents, Mr. Kistler plans to offer a new elective course in Industrial Chemistry, in which he will make as many of the laboratory reagents for the Chemical Department as the present equipment will permit.

PHI KAPPA TAU HOST TO NEW MEN

Eta Chapter of Phi Kappa Tau entertained a large number of the new men at a Get Acquainted Stag at the fraternity house on Thursday evening. After the men had had their fill of cards, pool, and music, Dean Ettinger took the reins and acted as Chief Welcomer. In a few well chosen words he welcomed the men to Muhlenberg, and hoped that they would enjoy their stay here. Dr. Wright, Prof. Simpson, and Prof. Shankweiler also gave the new men a few ideas of Muhlenberg spirit. Among the other guests were Coach Spiegel and some of the football men. After the short remarks of the faculty members, the guests were treated to a luncheon served in true Phi Kappa Tau style.

PREPARATIONS MADE FOR COLLEGE DAY

Speakers, Band, Open House, and Football Game Will Be Attractions.

The Third Annual College Day to be held on Friday, October 7th, promises to eclipse all previous College Day celebrations. As has been previously announced, J. Hampton Moore, Mayor of Phila., who besides his record as a speaker, has in Penna. the record of a clean sweep man through his efforts in the city of Philadelphia, will be the principal speaker. His address will be of interest to all who attend the College Day exercises, especially since he is the beacon light of clean politics in Philadelphia. The afternoon speakers will be Rev. John F. Nicholas and Rev. Harry K. Lantz, of Shimerstown. Rev. Lantz, the former president of the Lancaster Conference can be counted upon to have a speech that will be of vital importance to all Muhlenberg boosters. Rev. Nicholas is a well known lecturer and popular speaker, and it is a certainty that the guests of Muhlenberg will be afforded a great treat.

College Day will be important however for another reason. In the afternoon the verdant Frosh, will endeavor to wrest from the crafty sophomores the victory in the annual Fresh-Soph. Football game. Since the score of the fights now stands 1-1, the Fresh will put forth their best efforts to vanquish the Sophs, so that they may enter the Ad. by way of the front door for the rest of the season. The Sophs are just as determined that the Frosh shall be defeated, and it seems that they have a wonderful opportunity to put across the knockout punch since they are again able to put into action the backfield that was instrumental in defeating the class of 1923 last year. The Sophomores line also promises to be as heavy if not heavier than that of last year, and with their experience should be able to crush the puny Frosh.

However, the Frosh, under the leadership of President Winkleman, are practising daily, and from all appearances will have a team that will be as fast and perhaps as heavy as the fighting Sophomores combination. Both sides are confident of a victory, and the guests and students of Muhlenberg are promised a wonderful amateur game on the afternoon of College Day.

CRUM'S FORWARDS ARE FEATURE OF GAME

Bewildered and outplayed on every hand, The University of Delaware went down to defeat on Frazer Field at Newark, Delaware, at the hands of Coach Spiegel's Muhlenberg squad last Saturday. With Crum piloting the team the Cardinal and Gray carried on to a 21-0 victory via the aerial method. Crum's numerous and novel forwards had the home team bewildered from the very start and although they played a scrappy game the Delaware aggregation did not have a chance after the first ten minutes of play. The game was almost entirely played on Delaware's half of the field and not once was Muhlenberg's goal in danger. The Blue and Gold team tried line buck after line buck and several times started away on end runs, but Muhlenberg's line held like a stone wall, allowing only one substantial gain of twenty-five yards on an end run by Jackson.

The game opened with Delaware kicking to Muhlenberg. After a line buck and an incomplete forward, Crum kicked to the local team. Delaware punted to Muhlenberg after three unsuccessful attempts at breaking through the line. Felcher immediately carried the ball thru Delaware's line for a first down. The snappy little quarterback then uncorked one of his long passes and Daniels completed it, running twenty-five yards before being brought to earth. Crum then carried the ball around left end for a touchdown. Delaware kicked off again and Manning took Gebhart down in his tracks before the giant fullback could get away. Demoling missed a short forward and after unsuccessful attempts at line bucking and

EXTENSION SCHOOL OPENED SATURDAY

Dr. Wright Expects Enrollment
To Exceed That of Last Year.

Last Saturday marked the opening of the Saturday and evening sessions of the Muhlenberg extension school.

Dr. I. M. Wright, head of the extension department said that although the enrollment was not yet complete, it would be a great deal larger than at any time before.

The English Department will offer the following courses in the Central Junior High School. All persons interested in the study of literature are eligible to enroll in these classes which are being organized this week: Monday evening 7 to 8, "Contemporary European Plays," Prof. John D. M. Brown; Tuesday evening 7 to 8, "A Survey of English Literature," 8 to 9, "Victorian and Modern Essayists," Prof. Stephen G. Simpson.

The extension courses will this year also be offered at Hazleton, one night a week.

The growth of the extension school has necessitated the securing of an additional instructor. Charles Seidel, the Junior High School supervisor, has therefore been added to the extension school faculty.

PLANS FOR A BETTER "WEEKLY" DISCUSSED

I. N. A. Will Be Asked To Hold Their Spring Convention
At Muhlenberg

At a "peppy" meeting of the members of the "Weekly" Staff on Friday night at the Phi Kappa Tau house, it was unanimously decided to invite the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association to hold their Spring Convention at Muhlenberg. This will bring the men of our own "Weekly" Staff into closer touch with representative men from other colleges. Moreover, the whole staff, instead of only two of them, will have an opportunity to benefit from the convention.

It is also the plan of the Staff to increase the circulation among alumni. The circulation manager is at work for this purpose and many of the students can help by getting some of their alumni friends to subscribe.

After the business had been dispensed with, refreshments were served and, when the party broke up, all declared they had had a very good time.

A. P. S. CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

On Tuesday, Sept. 27, the Allentown Preparatory School Club held a meeting in the chapel for the purpose of electing officers and to outline a program for the ensuing year. A large number of freshmen have been enrolled and the prospects are bright for a club that will have plenty of "pep."

The following were elected in the Club: President, Raymond C. Miller; Vice President, Wilmer H. Long; Secretary, Paul Spieker; and Treasurer, Charles Diefenderfer.

Editorial Comment

Muhlenberg has no basketball floor, but it has a basketball team. We have no swimming pool, but we ought to have a swimming team. Out of a student body of 270 there will be enough men interested in water sports to make swimming a live issue, and with as fine a pool as that of the Allentown "Y" available for practice and meets, no difficulty should be experienced in getting together. Let the slogan be: "Come on in; the water's fine!"

Political pull and elections seem to be inseparable. However the famous "vox populi" actually says something now and then.

Ordinarily newspapers and politics go together. The combination is unsavory in a college publication. There is so much work and so little honor to a staff job that an election should be nothing but a selection of the most capable and ambitious man for the job.

Readers who have observed the line in the "mast head" of the WEEKLY specifying one of the Junior assistants as editor for the week will see that feature continued.

Headlines, features, the signed editorial, and the layout of the paper put out by each of these aspirants to the position of Editor-in-chief will unmistakably show his fitness or unfitness for the position, making the election in spring a "take your choice" proposition instead of a grab-bag.

Have you ever thought of what the word "Commons" means?

Associations and the broadening influence of meeting men from different sections of the country are at least half of a college man's education. The reason for calling the dining hall of Muhlenberg "The Commons" was to show that around the dinner table, both before and especially afterwards, is the place for all the students to get together and talk things over.

Applying that definition to the way the Commons is now run even the most unsophisticated Frosh can see that this year it is far from attaining its purpose. The door is closed until about two or three minutes before the meals are supposed to start, and after the meal is finished the fellows are herded out as fast as possible. Even smoking is now prohibited. Does not a meal mean more than simply the food? Shouldn't the Commons at Muhlenberg at least attempt to be true to its name.

Concerning the food, well, nothing needs to be said about those who have eaten there. So far this year it has been better than last year, but there is hardly enough served to whet the appetite. The linen and silverware are usually so dirty that a fellow is ashamed to bring any of his friends or his parents to a meal. It is a common sight to see the fellows cleaning the silverware on the table before the meal.

When a suggestion is made to the men in charge, they claim that the students are only trying to "buck" them. The Commons here at Muhlenberg seems to be run solely with the idea of making money. Good food and enough of it seems to be of no consequence when there is an opportunity to make money.

Mr. Alumnus: this may be the nearest you have been to your college in a long time. With the Muhlenberg WEEKLY in your hand to recall the days gone by, your thoughts are sure to go back to your student days. Whether you studied hard or whether you didn't is none of our business, but we know you got from Muhlenberg much that has been important in your life.

We respectfully tender you a double invitation: first, come back to your alma mater on College Day for a day of rejuvenation; and second, send our circulation man the good news that you will be one of the interested, that you will subscribe for the WEEKLY. We are here to serve you, we are trying hard to send out each week a faithful record of events, which you may have delivered to your vestibule for little more than the cost of mailing. This will be a banner year for Muhlenberg; why not rejoice with us as a loyal son, by keeping up to date on campus news?

A. H. S. CLUB HOLDS FIRST MEETING

The A. H. S. Club held its first meeting of the school year on Wednesday, Sept. 28th. A large number of the Freshmen were in attendance, but the Pres., Harold P. Knauss desires at the next monthly meeting a full attendance of the members of the classes. It was decided to ask Dr. Kleckner, a Muhlenberg and High School alumnus and booster, to speak to the Seniors at High School and invite them to attend college day exercises. In this way it is felt that a larger percentage of Allentown students will become interested in their home town college. The keynote spirit of the entire meeting was:—Boost Muhlenberg at Allentown High School. The officers of the club are: Pres. H. P. Knauss; Vice-Pres. Carl Cassone; Treas. Elwood Helfrich; Secretary, Betram Shover.

They advertise gray hair restorer—but who wants gray hair?

Old Muhlenberg

It's the magic of the campus, lyin' sleepy in the sun,
 An' the magic of the campus when the sleepy day is done;
 It's the magic of the moonlight that, slippin' through the trees,
 When they nod their heads and whisper in the ildin' evening breeze—
 Ain't I right?

When you smell the spring a-coming—tho' you've planned to go away.
 For a real vacation summer—still you kind o' think you'll stay
 Just a day or two—no longer—just to see that summer school
 Get's its send-off—an' the magic that for once you thot you'd fool
 Has you right.

For you meet old friends you haven't seen since Hector was a pup,
 An' before you know what's happened, you find you're dated up
 A week or two—or more—ahead, an' then you settle down
 An' sign up for a Hist'ry course—an' summer in the town—
 Ain't I right?

Then it's evenin' on the campus and the co-eds all parade
 An' underneath the cherry-tree—or anywhere there's shade—
 Affords a place to congregate an' sit an' smoke an' talk,
 An' look the prospects over while they take their evenin' walk—
 Ain't I right?

An' by an' by it's getting dark, an' the birds are flyin' low.
 An' then the moon comes floatin' up all lazy like and slow.
 Then the campus starts a-pullin' an' a-tuggin'—an' you know
 That you've business in the room, an' you guess you'd better go—Ain't you right?

O' the summer in old Muhlenberg, with the campus lyin' still
 In the sunlight or the moonlight—only wish I had the skill
 Just to paint it like I love it with the shadows on the grass
 An' the shrubbery that won't let you, when you think you're goin' to pass.

When you know you got to leave it all, it kin' o' chokes you dry,
 An' you have a lot of trouble with a cinder in your eye;
 An' you swear that tho' you're goin', you're not leaving it for long, an additional judgeship for Lehigh county. He still had eight years to serve.

Judge Henninger was one of the leading attorneys of the county. He was a product of the old school, learning his lessons well as a student in the offices of the late John Stiles, after graduating from Muhlenberg in 1874. During this period as a law student, Judge Henninger still found time during one term to be a teacher in the academic department of his alma mater, Allentown Prep. He had prior to this time taught in the schools of the county, where as a leader of youth he gained an enviable reputation, many of his students of those days, being among his warmest friends of later years.

Born at the old homestead, near Emaus, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Henninger, as a youth he attended the public schools and during the summer months assisted the farmers in making hay and harvesting. Later he took a course at Freeland Seminary, now Ursinus College, and in 1870 graduated from the Keystone State Normal School, at Kutztown. Four years later, 1874, he became an alumnus of Muhlenberg College.

It was then that he took up the study of law and on September 5, 1876, was admitted as a member of the bar of Lehigh county, following successfully his practice ever since.

forwards Crum kicked. Immediately Blue and Gold punted and got a first down thru a Muhlenberg man interfering with the kicker. Demoling then got away with a pretty end run which netted the visitors a 20 yard gain. Felcher then pushed his way through the line for a first down just as the whistle blew for the quarter.

The second quarter opened with Delaware on the defense. Freed caught a short forward which put the ball near enough to the local team's goal line for Gebhart to push it over on the next play. Muhlenberg again got the ball after Delaware's kick and the forward passing was continued. Demoling and Daniels completed successive forwards, and then Felcher fumbled one which was recovered by Demoling. Before the whistle blew for the end of the half Felcher caught a forward and ran 18 yards leaving the ball within ten yards of the Delaware goal at the end of the half.

In the third quarter Muhlenberg opened up and by a succession of line bucks, end runs, and forwards got the ball on the five yard line. A penalty for holding took the ball back 15 yards. Four heavy penalties were inflicted on Muhlenberg in this quarter for a total loss of 65 yards. Freed recovered a blocked kick and then completed three successive forwards. On the five yard line Muhlenberg lost the ball on an attempted end run. Delaware kicked just as the whistle blew for the end of the quarter.

A series of forwards completed by Daniels and Freed again put the local goal line in danger. An unlucky fumble gave the ball to Delaware. Jackson then got off with a twenty-five yard run around right end only to lose the ball on downs. Several short forwards brought the ball to Delaware's twenty yard line. Johnson then completed a forward and ran through Delaware's secondary defense for the third and last touchdown of the game. Felcher made all three goals. In the last few minutes of play Magaw recovered a fumbled forward and got the ball into midfield only to have it dragged back near his own goal line by a line buck and several successful forwards.

The line-up:

Delaware	Pos.	Muhlenberg
Magaw	L. E.	Freed
Holton	L. T.	Whiteknight
(Capt.)	(Capt.)
Lilly	C.	Brewer
Aiken	L. G.	Skean
Hurff	R. G.	Hartman
Repp	R. T.	Weston
Manning	R. E.	Daniels
Magee	Q. B.	Crum
McDonald	L. H. B.	Demoling
Ivory	L. H. B.	Felcher
Williams	F. B.	Gebhart

Touchdown, Crum, Gebhart and Johnson. Goals from touchdown. Felcher 3. Substitutions for Delaware, Schaeffer for Magee. Betzmer for Manning, Rothrock for Ivory. Ivory for Rothrock, Goffigan for Hurff; Muhlenberg, Witt for Gebhart, Reinartz for Witt, Reese for Daniels, Daniels for Crum, Gebhart for Reinhardt, Tursi for Reese, Johnson for Tursi, Weiss for Weston, and McNeil for Weiss. Referee, Eberle of Swarthmore. Umpire, Green, of Syracuse, and head linesman, Gilbert, of Williamson.

CHOICE OF VOCATION IS SUBJECT OF TALK

Dr. Haas Gives Advice On Question Confronting All Students.

On Wednesday Dr. Haas gave a chapel talk to the students using as his subject, "How to Select a Vocation." The talk was of special value to the freshmen altho there were many parts of it that were important to the upper classmen. Dr. Haas with a background of many years as an educator and as president of our institution was well fitted to give this heart to heart talk to the students.

He dwelled upon three things in the course of his talk; saying that one should seek happiness in his vocation, should listen to the advice of his elders, and should not consider as most important the amount of money to be received. Dr. Haas said in part:

"One ought to have someone examine himself or do so himself to see into what vocation he is able to fit. One must have certain characteristics or traits to enter various vocations. If a man wants to prepare himself for the ministry, for medicine or for law or any other vocation he must possess certain characteristics which these various vocations of professions demand. One ought not take up a vocation without having the proper qualifications to carry it out successfully. One ought also not go into a vocation merely because some one wants him to do so.

"If one has gone into a vocation and finds that he is not receiving any joy from it, it is an indication that he is a misfit. One ought to receive a great deal of joy and happiness while following the vocation of his choice if he is qualified for it. The best results are always attainable if one receives joy and happiness in his work.

"Every person who contemplates going into any vocation ought to make it his business to consult with persons who are older than himself, and especially men who have had many years experience in various vocations. We ought not disregard the advice of our parents nor the advice of the faculty.

"Our present manner of living seems to have a tendency to weigh everything according to dollars and cents. We must get away from that utilitarian idea. Many of the great inventors and men who have done the greatest good to mankind did not think of how much they were going to get for their contribution to the world. We must get rid of this idea of going into a vocation where we can get the most reward in money. We ought to go into those vocations where we can be of the greatest service first to God and secondly to mankind."

memorials. A drinking fountain at the tennis court, post office boxes in the Arcade, a large framed picture of Capt. Snyder to be placed in the trophy room; and a drinking fountain inside the Ad. building were all offered as suggestions. After some discussion the committee was instructed to deliberate and report to the next meeting.

Included in the miscellaneous business was the proposal to hold a smoker or dance before the Bucknell Game. This question was left to be decided at a special meeting which the president will call some time this week.

At a special meeting of the Student Body held on Monday morning, it was decided to hold a Bucknell Smoker in the Commons on Thursday evening, October 6.

Prof. Fasig addressed The American Chemical Society, in the chemical laboratory of Lehigh University, on Wednesday evening. He spoke on "Cultural Studies for the Chemical Engineer."

Salem Church, Bethlehem, on Sunday evening.

TWENTY REGISTER IN PAST TWO WEEKS

Approximately twenty new men have joined the ranks of the Student body since the first issue of the Weekly was published. In the first issue, a complete list of registrations up to September 20 was given. This list was as nearly correct as it could be obtained at so early a time. Since then many new men who had not registered previously arrived and many who had registered, failed to appear.

These corrections and additions appear in the revised list.

TAME BANNER RUSH WON BY SOPHOMORES

Usual Barrage of Stale Vegetables And Other Delicacies Missing.

The annual exhibition of Frosh-Soph class rivalry, officially known as the banner rush, was given last Tuesday in the college grove. The traditional fight was a white collar affair, in comparison with those that have been held in the past. This year the pole fight showed the mettle of the two under classes better than Tuesday's scrap did. As a tea party it might have been a success, but as a banner rush it was a failure. The fight was staged under the strict supervision of the Student Council, which enforced several new rules. No slugging was permitted and the throwing of odoriferous fish or any other missiles was barred. The thickness of the banner was limited to an eighth of an inch.

The Sophs went into the fight with a rush, but the first period of eight minutes came to an end with the '25 banner still on the tree. The Sophs tried again and again to boost their smaller men over the pushing and wrestling mass of humanity, but they could not get a good hold on the do-ble-felt pennant. After six minutes of the second period had passed, several husky Sophs succeeded in throwing Bert Shover up to the banner. His strangle hold persuaded the pennant that the Sophs were more worthy of preserving it for posterity than the Frosh.

The onlookers were disappointed, because they had expected the fight to be better than last year's. The pole fight showed that both classes can scrap, if they have half a chance. However, in the eyes of the students, the new rules have ruined the banner rush.

DR. HAAS ADDRESSES READING CONFERENCE

Muhlenberg to Launch Building
Program in 1924, Says President.

That Muhlenberg College this year had the most auspicious opening in its history both as to number and character of the students was the declaration made by Dr. Haas, in addressing the closing session of the Reading Lutheran Conference in Trinity Church.

Dr. Haas said that there are 270 students enrolled in the college at present and that 20 applicants had to be turned away because of lack of facilities to accommodate them.

Dr. Haas stressed the need of a new library building, gymnasium building and science building and asserted that the college will be obliged to launch a building program not later than 1924. He suggested that an effort be made in each congregation to get a group of members to give regular annual subscriptions to the college to meet the future needs of the institution.

Dr. Haas said that Muhlenberg is going in for intensive work rather than for large numbers and made the claim that this institution is sending more men into the ministry than any other legitimate Lutheran college.

Prof. Fritsch delivered the principal address at the Sunday School Convention at Nazareth on Thursday evening, October 6th.

SOPHS HUMBLE FROSH IN FOOTBALL CLASSIC

One Sided Game Entertains College Day Visitors

Starting promptly at 3:30 p. m. on Friday October the seventh, the invincible Sophomore team clearly demonstrated their ability to outplay the Freshman delegation in the annual Frosh-Soph football match. The game was one of the major attractions on the College Day program. The Sophomore victory proved conclusively the superiority of the Sophomores over the Freshmen. It determined, once and for all, whether the Freshmen should be allowed to use the main entrance to the Administration building. A large and interested group of visitors and students attended the game and supported their favorites. Coach Spiegel, too, was on hand in search of a possible find which might have been overlooked. Then there was the Allentown Band, which was repeatedly applauded for its excellent music between the quarters and halves. The cheering was continuous. Shover and Heller were always on their feet leading.

MUHLENBERG TEAM SHOWS METTLE AGAINST BUCKNELL ON WET FIELD

Bucknell came to Allentown last Friday with intentions of taking home a pigskin that would represent a high score against the Muhlenberg team. But in the desperately fought battle that was waged on Muhlenberg Field the giant Blue and Gold aggregation were lucky to get away without a defeat. Only one of the two touchdowns was earned and the muddy field was responsible for three unsuccessful attempts on the part of the Cardinal and Gray outfit to score. Although it rained hard thruout most of the game, the crowd passed the thousand mark and saw Coach Spiegel's proteges put up a wonderful exhibition of football.

Bucknell kicked off to Muhlenberg when the whistle blew. Fulcher fumbled the slippery ball and a Bucknell man recovered it. Hall went thru tackle for six yards. Bowser was given the ball for an end run. He was nipped four yards away from the goal. Then Hall succeeded in pushing the ball over a line buck. Bowser kicked the goal.

Near the end of the second quarter Coach Reynold's men again carried the ball across for a touchdown. Bowser tried a placement kick which was caught on Muhlenberg's four yard line. Unable to advance the ball Crum punted but the punt went skyward and fell within fifteen yards of the Muhlenberg goal. It was run back to the ten yard line. A line buck advanced the ball a yard and a five yard penalty brought the ball to the four yard line. Bowser pushed the ball over on a plunge through center. Bowser made his second goal.

The second half opened with Muhlenberg out for revenge. Crum unhooked a forward from the Muhlenberg twenty yard line and the local team started playing rings around the Lewisburg bunch. Several line bucks were successful and two successive first downs were scored. But the Cardinal and Gray warriors were unable to bunch their advances. They lost the ball within fifteen yards of the Bucknell goal. Bowser kicked and Gebhart caught the punt. He advanced the ball to midfield and again the ball was taken into enemy territory. Fulcher got back to start an end run and got away with no one near to interfere with his intentions. A few yards from the line of scrimmage he slipped and Spirit.

The old familiar "Muhlenberg Spirit," accompanied by a dense smoke of "P. A." characterized the first smoker held on the eve of the Bucknell game in the commons.

Yells and songs were in charge of Cheer Leader "pro tem." "Cal" Knauss, who was assisted by Begel and Heller.

Harold Knauss, '22, president of the Student Body presided and in order to assure the men of a speech from Dr. Haas, he introduced him as the first speaker.

Dr. Haas emphasized the idea of putting religion into the game and encouraged the men of the Student Body to back the team better than they ever did before.

"Tom" Lantz, '22 student manager of the football team was introduced as

REV. LILLY ADDRESSES MEN IN CHAPEL

"Work, play and worship, are three attributes to character, that should be developed by every young man." This thought was the key-note of an interesting talk by Rev. Lilly, secretary of the Allentown Y. M. C. A., and the Allentown Federation of Churches, last Tuesday morning. This was the first of a series of talks to be held every Tuesday morning at Chapel period, under the auspices of the college "Y", with prominent men of Allentown and vicinity as speakers.

Rev. Lilly cordially invited all college men to take advantage of the splendid privileges of the local Y. M. C. A., and also said that the city churches were eager to have college men participate in worship, and in church activities. This in co-operation with the christian, social, and athletic activities at the college, he was sure would ensure a well developed character along lines of work, play, and worship.

Opportunity knocks, but temptation kicks the door in.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA ENTERTAINS NEW MEN

The men of Alpha Tau Omega held a smoker at their house on 42 S. 14th St., last Wednesday evening. The smoker had a record attendance, in the neighborhood of sixty-five new men being present.

The Fantasy Six from the Keith's Circuit entertained with numerous selections and novelties. The men heard no long-winded speeches from faculty members and Alumni, but were cheered with birch-beer, pretzels and apples,—the spread for which Alpha Iota is famous.

This was the first of a series of Rushing Smokers held by the chapter. It is the hearty wish of the chapter that the new men of Muhlenberg shall be made to feel at home and to this end, they are extended an invitation to visit the chapter house at their leisure.

Prof. Horn is teaching the adult Bible Class in Christ Lutheran Sunday School. As one of the the Assistant Superintendents he extends a cordial invitation to Muhlenberg men to meet with either the adult or the young men's class at the school.

COACH SPIEGEL TALKS AT KIWANIS DINNER

Business Men Catch Muhlenberg Spirit and Pledge Full Support

Coach John E. Spiegel, as the guest of honor of Mayor Malcolm Gross, was the principal speaker before the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis Club, Hotel Allen, noon Thursday. Mayor Gross was chairman of the meeting and could find no better theme for a successful meeting than Muhlenberg College, his Alma Mater, with special emphasis on college athletics. It will be remembered that Mr. Gross was for many years actively identified with the athletic side of Muhlenberg and was a member of the athletic association. In introducing Coach Spiegel, His Honor made an earnest plea for a closer public contact with Muhlenberg. He deplored the fact that too many folks of this community were satisfied with the mere acknowledgement that Muhlenberg College is located here. What he wants to see is that the general public takes a greater interest in our college.

Coach Spiegel's theme was "Harmony." He pointed out that a piece of machinery in order to turn out work efficiently must have harmony and unison of parts. That is what he said was his one aim in trying to make a good football team out of the Muhlenberg players. He wanted team harmony and unison. He said the Giants last year had a team of stars and there was too much individual effort, so they lost the pennant. He said that any member of the team who did not fully appreciate that any injury he did to himself personally in a breach of training regulations would also do great injury to the team as a whole would not be permitted to continue as a member of the team.

Attorney L. H. Rupp, member of the College Athletic Association told briefly how Mr. Spiegel came to be chosen coach over a large field of applicants. He said that the letter of application written by Mr. Spiegel showed that he was a man with a conviction and with a lot of proper nerve. Mr. Rupp paid high tribute to President Dr. Haas.

Gomer Reese, Howard Winkelman, Luther Bennyhoff, Arthur Mickley, Century Ritter and John O'Brien entertained with vocal and instrumental selections, President Dr. J. A. W. Haas, Registrar Oscar Bernheim and Ira Wise were also guests at the luncheon.

THIRD ANNUAL COLLEGE DAY ATTRACTS MANY VISITORS

The Third Annual College Day, which was held on Friday, October 7th, indeed eclipsed all previous College Day celebrations. A beautiful day greeted the visitors, altho a strong south wind prevented the exercises of the afternoon to be held on the campus, and as a result were held in the chapel. The exercise was largely attended. After the singing of a song, and the reading of the Thirty-Third psalm Dr. Haas in a few well chosen words introduced the speaker of the morning, J. Hampton Moore, mayor of Philadelphia. Mayor Moore said in part:

"What shall we say to the younger generation of our day? Are they properly directed to the tendencies of our age? Our youth in the future must face these great problems which we are facing and will face. Our responsibilities are even greater today than they were ever before in the history of our country. Today many of our men after they leave college and go into active life want an office, a stenographer and many other such conveniences as well as power, within a short time. Let us not forget Lafayette, who landed at Georgetown, with that famous document which Benjamin Franklin gave him and took him thirty-two days to deliver to headquarters. He had a hard time to have anyone recognize him. It took him a long time to acquire the honor he sought.

"The man who says that America or the World owes him a living has a dangerous notion. We can never succeed unless we put forth an effort. Many of our young men today are given an automobile, a home and many other conveniences by their parents. The question that we often ask ourselves when we see such conditions is, 'What will become of such young men?' One thing we do know, that it hinders a young man from putting all his efforts into some work, because he is accustomed to luxury. He is un-

THE SOPHS, THE SOPHS, THE SOPHS!! HELD THEIR BANQUET

Beating time in regular military fashion, a large number of Freshmen, escorted by vigilant Sophs, marched thru the city late at night on Monday, Oct. 3d., crying out to the bystanders—"The Sophs, the Sophs, the Sophs held their Banquet." Such was the glorious finale of a wonderful night.

The Sophs had indeed held their banquet, and some banquet it was. With the Hotel Allen as the scene of activities, and chaperoned by members of the faculty, the class filed into the banquet room promptly at eight o'clock with their "guest" at the head of the procession. But that brings us ahead of our story. Who was the "guest"? Wait. It so happened that when then ceremonies were about to commence there was absent, one who although not knowing of the affair, was however expected to be present. Accordingly, a group of the crafty Sophs were commissioned to seek the tardy "guest." After some scouting they returned and with them came the President of the Freshman class, donned, in the verdant green, and wearing a torn cook's apron. In his arms was clasped his trusty fiddle. Cheer after cheer was given as the class filed onto the stage—the banquet room.

With the Freshmen Class President as their "guest" the affair was already a success. But greater victories were yet to come. Sitting down at the festive board, the class was treated to a real "Allen" meal. With roast young chicken as a foundation, the "management" had built upon it such a confusion of oyster cocktail, baked fish a la creole, grenadin of veal, french vanilla ice cream, and demi tasse and cigars, that after all had partaken, they were glad to sit back and enjoy the scene of speeches and toasts which was to come.

After several violin selections by Mr. Winkelman '25, Pres. "Musty" Flower called upon Prof. Henry Mueller for the first speech. He took as his topic: "The value of the Arts College." In a short speech he clearly outlined to the diners the value of the course which they were pursuing at Muhlenberg. At the conclusion of his speech he made an announcement pertaining to the next days' work in History, which was received by the class with a round of cheers for Prof. Mueller.

The next speaker called upon was Coach "Johnny" Spiegel. In a few well chosen words he told the class of that spirit should be backed by that spirit should be backed upon by the student body. A "Long Muhlenberg" was then given for Coach Spiegel. Next on the program was "Rev." Robert Wesley Huckle. He briefly explained the spiritual development of the class since the Freshman year. Edward Mattson then gave a few short dramatic Pennsylvania Dutch dialogs, which were thoroly enjoyed by all present. As a grand finale to the speech-making, Pres. Flower called upon the Pres. of the Frosh, who told of his efforts to bring his classmates to a better understanding of college regulations. After several cheers, the class proceeded to the dormitories, only to find that not a single room was mussed up and that none of the Frosh knew a thing about the "doins" down town." Then came the Freshman "reception."

The committee that had charge of the banquet consisted of—Paul O'Conner, Chairman; Paul Fasig, Ted Fentmacher, Roland Heller, and Eugene Stowell. The Frosh can thank these men that they knew nothing of the affair.

Editorial Comment

The editorial in last week's issue of the WEEKLY denouncing the dining room needs an apology. An outsider reading it would get an idea that the chief dietician at Muhlenberg was trained in the kitchen at Sing Sing, and that the same man directed the comings and goings of the boarders. It isn't at all like that. No one is forced to eat at the commons, but almost everyone does. Food and service have been improved, and further improvements are coming.

The editorial was an unwise use of the student's eternal privilege of criticizing. The criticism was partly exaggerated, and partly untrue. Mr. Sowers has tried hard to better the commons, and he has succeeded to a very noticeable degree. Any suggestions toward further reforms should be taken directly to him, instead of the editors of the WEEKLY.

Fellows, if there is one thing we want to get, we want to keep, nurse and cherish every day of our happy college years, it is a college spirit that rings true. College days, we are told by those who have gone before, are or at least should be the happiest in one's whole lifetime. College days come in those years when one is no longer a child, still blind to life's burdens, when one has not yet had occasion to appreciate that life is made up of hills and vales, but they come in that period when we are sufficiently matured to at least appreciate a true happiness, a wonderful opportunity.

Then let's make the most of these halcyon days. These are the days we make friendships that shall go with us all through life. True, we are here possibly for the prime purpose of mental, spiritual and physical development; to be made fit and strong for the days when we are to assume and share the burdens to which all human beings are heir. While eminence, in scholarship is to be commended, while leadership in athletics is worth while, the greatest lesson we want to learn while here at school is that individual leadership without the complement of a true fellowship toward all mankind leaves life empty and void.

We want to take full advantage of every opportunity offered us in this preparatory period; but let us not overlook our greatest opportunity, that of developing a spirit that shall make us ever optimistic, ever considerate of those about us—that wherever we may be, we may contribute to the happiness and welfare of our neighbors.

Let our college spirit go with us into the marts of the world, into the very wilds of the heathen if called upon. We are all brothers. Let's be cheerful, happy, sunshiny every day. The sun is always shining although sometimes shadowy clouds may hide it. Let there be no college anywhere where there is a more wholesome spirit and atmosphere than right here at good old Muhlenberg.

F. W. W. '23.

The freshman football team suffered defeat on Friday, but that is no reason why the Freshmen can't put a team on the field good enough to play the High Schools of the neighborhood. The men who were out for the varsity earlier in the season and have since handed in their suits ought to be added to the frosh team, and a real fighting aggregation developed. If a start is made immediately, a number of games could be arranged. Get busy, Frosh!

was held down after gaining three yards. He then completed a forward for a fifteen yard gain. Encouraged Crum gave the ball to Fulcher and he started for another end run, but slipped behind the line of scrimmage and was unable to recover himself. Crum then got away with a run around left end. Bucknell then got the ball and advanced it to Muhlenberg's thirty-five yard line. There they lost it on a fumble which was picked up by Gebhart. Two good line plunges brought the Cardinal and Gray out of their own territory. Gebhart took the ball for a short pass and ploughed thru for a first down. Attempts were made at two long forwards, but they were knocked down by Hall. Daniels played back for an end run and for a third time what would have been a sure touchdown on a dry field turned out to be but a small gain. Not once during the second half was Muhlenberg's goal in danger. Bucknell's four first downs were kept scattered in such a way as to keep them constantly on the defense.

the second speaker. He praised the men for their splendid work in the Delaware game and emphasized the fact that every member of the team had the fighting Muhlenberg spirit.

Rev. Harry W. Lantz, father of manager Lantz expressed his appreciation of being back at Muhlenberg and seeing the old Muhlenberg spirit still going strong as it did 25 years ago.

Hon. C. R. Lantz, a member of the Board of Trustees of the college and "Tommy's" grandfather opened his remarks with a catchy piece of poetry. Following the remarks of the elder Lantz, Dr. Haas, exclaimed that Knauss had cut into Bucknell with three lances.

Dr. Wright explained the relation of football to psychology. He said that a man gained more popularity and prominence by his athletic ability than by his knowledge of "book stuff". Prof. Fasig praised the Muhlenberg spirit and stated that there was not one quitter on the football squad.

Dr. Noble made a plea for the entire student body to get out and shout their team to victory even if they had to see him about any hoarseness which might develop through it. "Shorty" Edwards, a faithful Muhlenberg supporter for a number of years related incidents of the old time teams and praised Dr. Seip as the father of football at Muhlenberg.

"Hap" Nenow stated that more pep existed now than in former years, both as far as the public is concerned and the team itself.

"Bab" Oberly, '22, as cheer leader, explained to the men how he had brought two girls to a football game and had entirely forgotten them until the game was won. His whole heart and soul was with the team.

He also asked the student body to back the cheer leaders and help to make it easy for them to lead the cheers.

Guerney Afflerbach faculty manager of the football team encouraged every man to get the Muhlenberg spirit, that is "We will win."

Dr. Seip emphasized the fact that the men must have a fighting spirit to win any game played. At this point Knauss asked who the student body wanted to hear next.

"Spiegel, Spiegel" everyone yelled amid applause and cheers.

"Johnny" responded saying that he is putting pep into every man on the field, the "fight to win" pep, and that everyone of the 11 men will have the real ginger. He also took on himself responsibility for the absence of 92 out of 110 Frosh, since it was up to him to put out a winning team which would put pep into the absent ones.

The meeting was adjourned to reconvene on the stands Saturday.

NEW FACULTY RULING ON ABSENCES

1. Excuses for all absences shall be obtained by the student from the office, signed by the instructor, and returned by the student to the office, within ten days after the absence shall have been incurred.
2. Every unexcused absence shall reduce the student's final average by one-half grade. Example, two unexcused absences will change a final average from "B" to "C."
3. Every student tardy to the class-room shall be marked absent unless specifically excused for his tardiness by the instructor.
4. Any student having in any subject unexcused absences more than twice the number of periods in that subject per week shall be immediately dropped from the class-roll.
5. Any student not having the minimum number of twelve class-room periods per week shall be immediately dismissed from the institution.

3RD ANNUAL COLLEGE DAY ATTRACTS MANY VISITORS

willing to endure hardships. There is also another kind of young man, the man who comes from a poor family. This man is compelled to put forth all his efforts because he has no one to help him other than himself. The college boy who is overbred is running a great risk. The college boy who does not feel that it is only through his efforts for others, will be disappointed.

"We can learn a great deal from nature, watch the squirrels at this time of the year and you will see that they are busy gathering and storing food into their store house so that they have something to eat during the winter, when the snow covers the ground. The farmer fills his silo and gathers in his crops so that he and others may have food during the winter. Take the birds, in that little nest in some tree you will find a mother bird and its young. After its young have grown so that they are able to help themselves the motherbird cast the young ones out of the nest to learn to fly and to take care of themselves. Isn't this true with us? We are sent out into the world to take things into our own hands. If the young man will prepare himself with training and store it up so that he will be prepared when the time comes to put it into use, he is the young man who will make the greatest success in his life.

"I am the executive of two million people in a city which there are more blacks than the population of Allentown and Reading. Many of our people in Philadelphia are foreigners and what I am striving for is to convince them that it is for their good to be come Americans. I do not believe in the contractor rule, and as long as I am in office I will not tolerate such a condition because it is degrading to the welfare of any city or community. Whatever may be the opinions of some people concerning the various questions makes no difference, the laws of our city must be enforced."

Afternoon Exercises...

In the afternoon at two o'clock the Allentown band gave a concert which was greatly appreciated. Because of the strong wind they were stationed in the lobby. After they had played several numbers Dr. Haas introduced the speakers of the afternoon to a large audience. The first speaker was Rev. John F. Nicholas. Rev. Nicholas spoke on "Religious Education." In very convincing words he showed that education to amount to any good must be sanctified. He also laid a great deal of stress upon the Bible as the text book which was used in days gone by and which still can be used as the greatest of text books. He held his audience at a high pitch of interest when he said that in the United States there were 5 1-2 per cent. of people who can neither write nor read; that Georgia and other States lack about 5,000 school teachers. He also drew the attention of the ministerial students by saying that there are 30,000 pulpits that are vacant because our young men no longer care to study for the ministry. He ended his address by drawing the people's attention to the fact that about one-half of the world has never heard the word of Jesus ing a 'rah, rah team' or a 'long muhlenberg for the Sophs.'

Four minutes after the game started, Kroninger, the Sophomore quarterback carried the pigskin across for the first score. Hodgins kicked the goal, making the score 7-0 in favor of the Sophs.

In the second quarter, Kroninger smashed the Freshman line of defense, carried the ball for thirty yards but was stopped by the Frosh defense and forced to yield the ball at the Freshmen's twenty yard line. Then the Sophs made effective use of the triple pass. A forward to Wright, a line plunge by Hodgins and the passing of the ball to Rogers, who took it across; were the tactics that produced the second sophomore touchdown.

In the third period the Sophs scored two touchdowns. The persistent and continuous line smashes of the second year men took the ball up to the ten yard line. Here Wright intercepted a pass to Huber and carried the ball across the line.

Near the end of the third quarter the Sophs scored their fourth and final touchdown. A series of end runs and forwards took the ball to within eight yards of the goal. On the next play Wright took the ball around right end, and unnoticed by the bewildered Frosh, planted it safely on the other side of the goal line.

CEDAR CREST CHATTER

Cedar Crest College as a whole want to thank the Muhlenberg Weekly for the kind offer of using news from the Crest. We accept this offer and will try our very best to send in bits of news that may be floating about the place. If there is anything which we can do in return, and it is within our power, we will be more than glad to do so.

On Tuesday evening the Sophomore Class gave a formal tea in the Recreation Hall in honor of their very obedient lower classmen, the Freshmen.
This term is used in the description of the Freshmen because of their obedience to the rules which the Sophomores had laid down to them for them to obey during the past two weeks. The faculty were the chaperons at the tea and seemed to enjoy it a lot.

The room was decorated in the Sophomore Class colors of brown and gold, while the fire in the grate was a very popular and welcome guest. Various forms of entertainment were given, among which was a very clever reading by Miss Mansuer, head of the Expression Department; also a very attractive Spanish song by our Spanish student Concha Marquez. A few of the Sophomores gave a very exciting and wild motion picture pantomime which was a great rival to any which might run for weeks at the Orpheum.

The guests however were compelled to leave quite early as study hour began at 7:30 P. M. and that MEANT at least absolute quietness.

Although it was not a tea to which young men were invited, the men from Muhlenberg, Lafayette, Lehigh and elsewhere were greatly missed.

Since women have been given the right to vote they also possess the right to suggest things.

The girls at Cedar Crest suggest that a jitney bus should be run from this place to Muhlenberg, especially on Friday and Saturday evenings. To keep the spirit of school union working—you know.

A step towards co-education--Cedar Crest now having a place in the Muhlenberg Weekly, we wonder who will be interested in this movement.

There are many girls at Cedar Crest who could very well be christened, "the old faithful." No matter how strong the sun shines or how hard it rains they do not miss the football games at Muhlenberg.

Muhlenberg might consult the weather man and ask for clear weather and they most likely will have the Cedar Crest faculty over there, too.

There are babies and babies—but there was never before such a collection of babies as assembled Saturday evening, October 9th, in the Recreation Room at Curtis Hall, being there at the bidding of the Secretarial Department of the college. There were long ones and short ones; thin ones and fat ones each trying to out-do the other in their attempt to act "young and kiddish."

No one lacked amusement for when you were tired of playing games such as "Farmer in the Dell" and "London-Bridge," you could sit down in some cozy corner and console yourself with a nice, pretty dolly. Then—Oh, bliss!
There were lolly-pops too and later came ice-cream and animal crackers.
Lastly we sang all our beautiful Cedar Crest songs, making the room ring with our pep and spirit.

Finally the time arrived when all good children should be in bed, so we left but not before saying "that we had the best time ever."

Missionary Will Speak Wednesday

Dr. Robert H. Goheen, a medical missionary who has had a remarkable experience in India, will be on the campus Wednesday, October 12 and will speak in chapel that morning. His message direct from the front line of the missionary work in India will be of interest to all the students of Muhlenberg.

LEBANON VALLEY SCORES TIE IN HOTLY CONTESTED GAME

Several Questioned Decisions
Add To Excitement In Second Half.

FLUKE PLAYS FEATURE IN ENTIRE CONTEST

Lebanon Valley held Muhlenberg to a 21-21 tie on Muhlenberg Field last Saturday, altho they were outplayed in every department of the game by the Cardinal and Grey. For a large part of the game, the Muhlenberg eleven were running short of the form displayed in the three previous games of the season.

Muhlenberg lost the toss and kicked off to Lebanon Valley. On the second play called by the Blue and White quarterback Brewer intercepted a forward and ran for a touchdown. Fulcher kicked the goal. The Cardinal and Gray then received the kick and after Gebhart successfully completed a forward Crum tried another which Freed caught in the open field and took across for a touchdown. Fulcher again used his toe with success. Lebanon Valley was held for downs and had to kick. Gebhart followed the punt until the sun blinded him. One of Coach Wilder's crew seized the ball and carried it behind Muhlenberg's goal line. The referee called the touchdown legal and Behman kicked the goal. This was the first questioned decision. Muhlenberg came back with a third touchdown, with Gebhart carrying the ball.

In the second half Weston recovered.

FIRE PREVENTION DAY IS OBSERVED

Students Asked To Be Careful In The Handling Of
"Smokes"

"You, as students, can render a great service in helping to reduce our National Fire Waste by using individual caution in the handling of all matches and smoking material and, if your student body would adopt some system of careful inspection of all dormitories to see that all proper precautions are carried out, it would be a practical step to the end for which Fire Prevention Day was inaugurated."

This was the appeal that Mr. Harry I. Koch, an Allentown business man, made before the students on Monday, October 10th, in observance of the National Fire Prevention Day. By reason of the danger of fire, of the enormous waste, and of the economic loss resultant from our fires, President Wilson in 1920 and President Harding in 1921 set apart a day, October 9, as Fire Prevention Day. "This day is intended to be set apart for a study of the conditions in this country by our public schools, colleges, universities, and every place where men gather."

LARGE ENROLLMENT IN EXTENSION COURSES

The Muhlenberg College Extension Division is now in full swing. Registration is rapidly nearing completion, with a total enrolment of about 400. This shows quite an increase from last years enrollment, which was 255.

The work that Muhlenberg College offers to teachers and students is a great boon to them as it enables them to get either professional or academic credit. This is manifest in the large classes enrolled in each course.

In order to accomodate the large and varied requirements of the different students, additions have been made to the teaching force. Harold Knause and Carl W. Boyer have been chosen to fill these positions.

The Extension Division of Muhlenberg College is under the excellent direction of Dr. Isaac Miles Wright.

DR. GOHEEN TALKS TO STUDENT BODY

Dr. Goheen, a representative of the Student Volunteer Missionary Movement, and a medical missionary from India addressed the students in chapel on Wednesday morning, October 12.

His talk was very interesting to all who heard him speak. He related the incidents which occur with the founding of a hospital in India, and how the natives are won over after tedious effort, to look kindly upon the missionaries. He also related the different trials a missionary must go through because of the fact that the natives think the missionaries unclean, and give them the name Barta (unclean).

Dr. Goheen, stressing the need for workers said in part:—"During the past year the churches sent out 1600 new men and women. This year in order to keep on with the work, 2000 men and women are sorely needed."

After the speech the students were given an opportunity to meet Dr. Goheen, and many of them took advantage of the chance to meet a fine type of manhood. The Y. M. C. A. deserves credit for securing Dr. Goheen.

EUGENICS EXPLAINED BY PROF. BAILEY

Practical Eugenical Teachings Made Clear In Talk to Ladies Auxiliary.

The science of Eugenics was the subject of a talk by Prof. Harry D. Bailey delivered before the Ladies Auxiliary of Muhlenberg College at their first meeting for the fall season held in the college chapel Tuesday afternoon. "Always marry for love, but always marry that which is lovely," was a quotation from Benjamin Franklin which Prof. Bailey stressed in his talk.

Professor Bailey's explanation of the principles of eugenics pointed out in a very practical way some of the considerations which make the study of heredity a necessity.

In answer to the question, should one not marry for love, Prof. Bailey said: "There are practical considerations which all of us allow to be legitimate, such as propinquity, so-

Nine New Men Are Chosen To Fill Vacancies In Club

EXCELLENT PROGRAM
EXPECTED THIS YEAR

Professor Marks, ably assisted by the Executive Committee of the Glee Club, held try-outs Tuesday in the College Chapel for positions made vacant by graduation last year. Thirty-six men responded to the call and it was with some difficulty that the men were selected.

The majority of the aspirants were members of this year's Freshman class. It seemed that the record made by the Club last year had a big effect on the men for many of them missed their cars and trains in their desire to remain. At six o'clock the last man was heard and soon after the successful candidates were notified.

Those successful in making a place on the Club were: Rufe '23; Thomas, '23, Bjerkoe '22, Bauer, '24, Steltz '25, Hollenbach '25, Winkleman '25, Zeber '25, Preuss '25.

Everybody said that the Club last year was the best that Muhlenberg ever put out. Well, you can say what you please but you will have to go some if you expect to beat the Club that will represent Muhlenberg this year. Boys, it can't be done. Why just think for a minute. All the old men are back and we have a group of new men that will be hard to find anywhere. Another thing to our advantage is that these new men have had experience in concert work.

A Glee Club is known for its versatility. What do you think of this? There are six men on the Club that can play mandolins, ten men that can play a piano, two men that are experts on the violin, a real baritone soloist, a sturdy bass soloist, an actor of no mean ability and twenty-two boys that can harmonize. Has Muhlenberg ever had such a versatile Club before?

The Club this year will produce one act but it will be a REAL act, lasting a half hour. It's going to be funnier than ever.

The music this year will be from soup to nuts or in other words from opera to real American jazz. The selections for the concert season of 1921 have been chosen by Professor Marks and Leader Bennyhoff. That's a good sign for it's the song that's sung that starts the tongue.

Save your dollar boys for the Allentown concert because you never want to miss it. It's going to be a humdinger.

Write home and tell the folks to keep a look out for the Club this year. Pick out your girls to take to the concerts when they strike your home town and get set to laugh until you are ready to bust for when Dear Old Muhlenberg sends out her Club this year that's exactly what you're going to do.

STUDENT BODY HAS SPIRITED MEETING

Track Manager, Baseball Manager, and Representative to The A. A. Elected.

The most important business meeting of the Student Body held this year was held on Friday, October the Fourteenth in the college chapel. Much business was transacted and many important questions were discussed.

Gebert in a spirited speech made a strong plea for more and better cheering at the coming football games.

Oberly reported that he had called for volunteers from the Sophomore Class and that so far four handed in their names to him; viz., Heller, Beagle, Kurtz, and C. Knauss. He assured the Student Body that excellent cheerleading would be furnished at Saturday's game. The discussion ended by the President appointing Gebert as a committee of one to draw up an amendment to the Constitution on this question.

It was decided to hold the Swarthmore smoker on October 28. A hospital bill for Green, a Freshman who was injured in the Pole Fight, was ordered paid. Dillman read a letter from the Reading H. S. Swimming team which stated that they would be willing to compete with our team when organized. Bjerkoe reported that the balance in the treasury was $21.00.

Three officers were elected: Track Manager, Mills; Senior Member to the A. A., Gebert; and Yehl, Baseball Manager. While the elections were being held the Jazzland Five furnished some catchy jazz. After the returns were announced the meeting adjourned.

Editorial Comment

Walter Dunn, in the Philadelphia Ledger, takes up the defense of Tod Eberle, the referee who was assaulted after the Lebanon Vally game here. Says Dunn: "As Eberle walked from the field some unknown individual attacked him with a blow from behind. After seeing one of the crowd take a punch at the referee, of course, others had to add to the injury. Knowing what a truly blue-blooded sportsman that Tod Eberle has been ever since he romped around the historic athletic field of Central High, we feel confident that he, as a man will do, defend himself as far as one person could against a small army. He struggled for his rights until an enfrenzied individual landed a blow in the solar plexis. It was then that a former ex-overseas man in the crowd rushed to the assistance of Eberle."

Overlooking the "former ex-overseas man," and the "solar plexis," and the assumption that Eberle "defend himself," Dunn's defense is largely made up of personal opinion and misinformation.

Of course the attack on Eberle was an "outrage." But so was his inefficient officiating. Even if his decisions were in his rights according to the rules, his refereeing was poor. At no time after the first period did he have the respect of either of the teams on the field, and both argued with him repeatedly. He had no rule book in his pocket, and went so far as to ask the opinion of coach Spiegel on a play which might have been a safety or a touchback.

These were the provocations. But, no matter how poor his decisions, no matter how inefficient his handling of the men, no matter how much arguing he allowed to dilute the football game, he should not have been mobbed.

The only thing to do in the face of questionable officiating is to collect the evidence of a man's incompetency and present it to the central board on officials.

The students would have accepted the work of the referee, but the crowd did not. Fortunately, investigations reveal that the students actually aided in protecting Eberle from the mob. The well known "Muhlenberg Spirit" has no place for unsportsmanlike outbreaks such as this, which showed, in words of Walter Dunn, "the cowardly instincts of some few who generally edge around sports events where truly nice people attend."

It is lamentable that a mob without the least idea of the meaning of collegiate sports should bring the good name of Muhlenberg in question.

Allentown has been shown good football this year, but if the crowds attending the games continue to show the spirit that prevailed on Saturday, the death of Muhlenberg athletics will be the inevitable result.

Ask any man who has been at Muhlenberg one winter what he thinks of the car service and he will at once reply that there should be an extension of the car line at least as far as the campus. He knows that the trip from the switch to the campus is a hard one, especially when the weather is bad.

But the student has had a stout ally in his trouble in the person of the resident of College Heights. It is this individual who is actually fighting for an improvement in the service.

At last the Lehigh Valley Transit Company has made a small improvement in the service within the past month. They have engaged the College Heights Bus to run from Greenwood Switch to College Heights. This service is limited (see the schedule posted in the Arcade) but it is a step in a better service to the community.

How can we help to improve this service? The bus driver is required to keep an account of passengers that he carries. If we students take the bus at the switch whenever it is there, we can ride to 23rd & Gordon streets. This will bring us nearer to the college and at the same time increase the number of the passengers that the bus carries. When the Transit Company sees the increase in the number of passengers, it will begin to think more seriously of some plan to give better service.

Then, fellows, let's use the conveniences that are at hand and at the same time try to improve them!

The circulation manager reports that subscription checks are coming in at the rate of ten a day. Revered alumnus, if you have not joined the procession by sending in your subscription, hang a curtain over your mirror, and confess that you do not want to hear from your college, or send your draft at once.

The business manager's mail box was graced during the past week by the letter from a former Cedar Crest Student who wrote: "Keep the good work up. I certainly do enjoy the Muhlenberg Weekly, both the Cedar Crest notes and the Muhlenberg News."

"Y" BUDGET DRIVE STARTS WEDNESDAY

The Christian Service Campaign of the Muhlenberg Student Y. M. C. A. will begin Wednesday when the individual students will be asked to contribute to the work carried on throughout the year by the college Y. M. C. A.

In previous years the students have been asked at different times throughout the year to contribute to various causes such as the support of a student in Japan and the relief of students in the war areas of Europe. This year, however, a campaign to cover all the activities of the college "Y", throughout the entire year, will be run to make up a budget.

The Y. M. C. A. is one of the most active organizations on the campus. It publishes the Cardinal and Grey Annual otherwise known as the "M Book" or the "Freshman Bible" and puts on a program of education and entertainment for the students. The college organization also provides to any student who applies for it a Student Membership card which entitles the holder to full membership privileges in any Y. M. C. A. in the country. The expenses of delegates to the various students conferences are partly borne by the "Y" treasury. The students who are sent to these conventions receive a broader viewpoint and bring to us a better conception of larger activities.

FIRE PREVENTION DAY IS OBSERVED

Mr. Koch gave statistics to show the enormous annual loss by fire. The causes of fire in the order of their importance are: (1) electricity, (2) matches, (3) stoves, furnaces, etc., (4) spontaneous combustion, (5) lightning, (6) sparks on roofs, and (7) petroleum and its products.

"The item most conspicuous and of interest to us as students is that of matches—smoking, the second largest destructor by fire in America. This high total is possible only because of the great carelessness chargeable to our American people in the use of matches, cigarettes, cigars and tobacco. When you realize that there are between eleven and twelve million smokers in the United States and that they use for smoking and other purposes 700 million matches every day, it is easy to see the hazard from these sources and how disastrous just a little carelessness in this direction will be."

EUROPEAN STUDENTS

Dr. J. A. Morehead, former president of Roanoke College and noted educator, just back from Europe where he supervised aid to students in 15 countries, says:

"I saw the fine young manhood and womanhood so needed now for the tremendous task of economic recovery, for the maintenance of good government, for the service of the indispensable causes of education and religion, blotted out by war and revolution. I saw them fasting, endeavoring to make one frugal meal a day serve, sleeping without a roof or in chilly stations to save rent, making unheard of ventures to follow the gleam of the longed-for larger service. Their need continues. Extend the right hand of Christian friendship to your brother student who under impossible conditions struggles for the same high goal that you would attain."

A personal gift or pledge by every Lutheran student during October 15-31 is the goal. It is the only goal to work for. Team Work is required to sweep to victory. Class and college organization help students make this goal. Now What Do You Say? Let's Go!

LINDENMUTH CHOSEN CIARLA PHOTOGRAPHER

In a heated meeting of the 1923 Ciarla Staff in 222 F last Monday night, Lindenmuth was finally chosen to take the individual and group pictures for the Ciarla. There was a bid from another photographer but the majority of the Staff were in favor of Lindenmuth's Studio.

The Staff also decided to dedicate the Ciarla to Dr. Wackernagel, as the first Professor to be retired by the Trustees of Muhlenberg College, and in recognition of his great work for our Alma Mater.

Contracts have been closed for most of the work and the reports of the department editors are very encouraging. We expect a bigger and better book this year!

LEBANON VALLEY SCORES TIE IN HOTLY CONTESTED GAME.

ed a fumble, but the referee turned the ball over to the visitors.

Soon after, Whistler picked up a fumbled snap-back and carried it for a touchdown. The third score was made when Cohen the flashy Lebanon Valley pilot completed a forward and Smith raced thru the Muhlenberg team for a touchdown.

During the rest of the half there was a lull in the game.

Muhlenberg kept the ball in enemy territory most of the time and came near scoring on several occasions.

During the two later periods the Cardinal and Gray had 11 first downs against none by Lebanon Valley. Toward the close of the game a apparent safety was made on Fulcher's attempted drop kick but it was not legal and registered as a touchback.

Muhlenberg apparently had broken the tie by one of Fulcher's beautiful drop kicks, but this was also rejected by the referee, in spite of the fact that the umpire counselled him as to its legitimacy. As the whistle blew for the close of the game, the speculators swarmed the field following from Eberle to the Ad. building and the combined efforts of the police and players could not save the referee from a beating at the hands of the angry mob.

The line-up:

Muhlenberg	Pos.	Leb. Valley
Holstrom	L. E.	Smith (Capt)
K. Johnson	L. T.	Behman
Brewer	L. G.	Fake
Rees	C.	Beck
Hartman	R. G.	Lauster
Weston	R. T.	Whistler
Freed	R. E.	Wueschinski
Crum	Q. B.	Cohen
Daniels	L. H. B.	Metoxin
Fulcher	R. H. B.	Wolfe
Gebhart (Capt.)	F. B.	Danker

Score by Periods:

Muhlenberg	21	0	0	0—21
Lebanon Valley	7	0	14	0—21

Touchdowns—Brewer, Freed, Whistler, Gebhart, Wueschinski, Smith. Goals from touchdown — Fulcher 3, Behman, 3. Substitutions — Taggart for Brewer, Backert for Holstrom, Holstrom for Backert, Neubling for Daniels, Whiteknight for K. Johnson, Krouse for Metoxin, Demoling for Gebhart, O'Connor for Rees, Daniels for Neubling.

Umpire—Moffat, Penn State. Referee — Eberle, Swarthmore. Head linesman — Houck, Ursinus. Thirty minute halves.

ST. JOHN'S CONDUCTS FIRST COLLEGE NIGHT

The series of services that for two years have been held in St. John's church on one Sunday evening each month will be continued during the present year. The wide-spread interest which these services have elicited among the members of the student body of Muhlenberg will continue to make successful the thoughtful observance.

On Sunday night, October Sixteenth, the Rev. E. P. Pfattheicher, Ph.D., D.D., pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, Reading, preached on the subject, "Lights that Mislead." In the morning of this same Sunday Dr. Pfattheicher preached to the students of Lafayette.

SWARTHMORE GAME IS TRANSFERRED HERE

Guerney Afflerbach, graduate manager of athletics announced yesterday afternoon that he had succeeded in his efforts to have the Muhlenberg-Swarthmore game transferred from Swarthmore to this city.

Accordingly, the game will be played on Muhlenberg field on Saturday afternoon, October 29th, and will give the students an opportunity of seeing the Cardinal and Grey squad in action against one of the strongest teams on its schedule. Swarthmore plays Penn at Philadelphia on Saturday of this week.

SATURDAY'S SCHEDULES CALL FOR BIG GAMES

EUGENICS EXPLAINED BY PROF. BAILEY

cial standing, money, religion, and race; to these must be added eugenics.

"Startling as it may seem, we have proved definitely that certain human characteristics are transmitted according to Mendel's law, by which we can calculate to a high degree of probability the percentage of offspring that will exhibit a trait if it is present in one of the parents. Color of hair, complexion, height, corpulence, fluency of speech, readiness in composition, memory, imagination, and temperament are transmitted according to the Mendelian law. One of the pair of opposite characters will be dominant, and will appear in all the children of parents who exhibit pure strains of opposite qualities, and the other character will be recessive, appearing in the third generation as a pure strain in 25 per cent., and as a mixed strain in 50 per cent. of the children of the third generation.

"Such qualities as manual dexterity, musical ability, tendency to drink, sexual degeneracy, criminality, imbecility, insanity, and feeble-mindedness follow this law." The Professor then cited cases where whole families running back to the Revolutionary period have been examined, and practically all of the descendants of a feeble-minded mother have been feeble-minded or degenerate.

"There are two methods in eugenics: the negative, which aims to prevent the multiplication of defectives by confinement, or sterilization; and the positive method, which deals with the question of proper mating. We apply our knowledge of heredity in all other kinds of breeding, except to raising the human family. The average number of children in the feeble-minded family is 7, and only 2 in the normal family. See where that leads to!

"Legal measures have been taken in several states, but the whole question remains a national problem."

LADIES AUXILIARY HOLD FIRST MEETING

The first meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the college for the year was held last Tuesday with a talk on Eugenics by Prof. Bailey as a feature.

In the absence of Mrs. George K. Mosser, President of the Auxiliary, the vice-presidents shared the work, with Mrs. Holman taking charge of the opening exercises and Mrs. John A. W. Haas conducting the business session. In connection with their meeting, the ladies did some sewing on towels and aprons for the college dining room, which will be taken up further at their future meetings. A letter was read from O. F. Bernheim, Treasurer of the college, acknowledging the receipt of $500 as a final payment of the Auxiliary's subscription of $1500 in the campaign of last year. Six new members were received.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 25, at a place to be announced later.

SCISSORS AND PASTE.

Well, gentle readers here we are again.

"Bab's Diary" disappeared from the castilian columns of this paper many moons ago.

We failed to live up to the 99.44% standard of the paper, so we had to go.

It is with fear and trembling that we stealthily insinuate our typewriter into the ranks of the artillery of the "Weekly."

We would have started sooner but were in the hospital for a week-end and to quote the president of the S. B. (student body, not Smith Brothers) were temporarily incapacitated.

One good thing about being wheeled into an operating room—you know that when you wake up you will be somewhere else.

It's bound to be one of three places. In our case it was the little white bed with the big road clearance that we had left behind.

And then that sensation of coming out of ether—a kind of a "morning after" feeling—and you try to remember where you were last night; that sensation cost us five bucks in the hospital and at that it wasn't so much more than it would have cost us (or someone else) outside of the hospital.

Muhlenberg was well represented in the college box at the Lyric Friday night. We all saw the Greenwich Village Follies.

The Hickey Brothers weren't bad. Here's one that they pulled with a great deal of success, or was it at the Orpheum that we heard it?

"How long did you work on your last job?"

"Two years."

"What were you doing?"

"Two years."

Now we will unsheathe our trusty scissors and see what we can find in the "Collegiate World."

Prof.: "You say this theme is entirely the result of your own efforts?"

Stude: "Absolutely, sir. I spent two days finding somebody who had it written up."—Punch Bowl.

White—"Did you favor the Honor System at the recent election?"

Green—"I sure did. Why, I voted for it five times."—Panther.

"Say, I'm stuck. Do you know anything about a flivver?"

"Nothing but a couple of funny stories."

Construction Fund Started

CEDAR CREST CHATTER

On Friday evening, the Pennsylvania girls gave a State Party in the Administration Building, each state having a particular stunt.

New York started the evening with their stunt entitled, "The Inside of a Cedar Crest Girl's Stomach." This Gastric Juice with Shoo-fly cake, Sauercrout, Hot-dogs, Candy and various other mixtures that a Cedar Crest girl eats. However, Gastric Juice finally conquered them all with the aid of Miss Gherst's Pill.

Women of every kind and description answered to the advertisement of a bachelor in his search for a wife. From the vamp to the widow, and the old maid to the flapper, they all passed his glance, but when the quiet home-loving woman entered, she made it "Home Sweet Home." Thus Ohio, California, Connecticut, West Virginia and Guatemala represented their respective states.

Our Virginia and Maryland girls, with their usual originality and pep gave us a comic picture of a real darkey wedding. They, as true Southerners took their parts so well that the audience was delighted.

Miss O'Kell, the sole representative of Florida, executed a very graceful toe dance, which was very much appreciated by the girls.

"The Coquette," was the title of the stunt given by our Jersey girls. Miss Polster was very much at home in her role as the Coquette, and the audience "fell" for the wonderful looking suitors who came to call on her.

Pennsylvania, the hostess of the evening, was represented by a Minstrel. There were over 35 in the chorus and our ever popular end-man, Miss Rousch, and her side partner, Miss Kennedy, with their local jokes and comic songs made a decided hit with every one. They were heartily supported by the large chorus which would be a credit to any musical production.

This concluded the program, then ice-cream and pretzels were served and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing. The individuality and talent of the girls was brought out in their stunts and every one had a wonderful time.

FACULTY NOTES.

Dr. Haas attended the Education Conference at Penn State from Wednesday to Saturday of last week. On Monday he attended the Conference on Church Literature at Philadelphia.

The Philadelphia English Conference meets at Frankford on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. Dr. Haas will address the Conference on Tuesday evening. Mr. Guernsey F. Afflerbach will also represent Muhlenberg at this Conference.

Professor Corbiere is taking graduate work in French and Spanish at the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Wright had sixty-one people in his extension class at Hazleton last Tuesday evening.

Professor Fritch will speak at the Rally Day services at Red Hill Church of which Rev. Curtis Mills is pastor.

Dr. Guy, head of the department of Psychology of the Pittsburgh Public Schools, was the guest of Dr. Wright last Thursday.

Prof. Fritsch addressed the Bible Study Class of Zion Lutheran Church Northampton, Monday evening. He will conduct this class throughout the winter.

Dr. Haas spoke on: "Who is an American," at the Telford Conference, Saturday evening. On Monday evening he spoke at the Wilkes-Barre Conference at Lehigh.

The Luther Leagues of Chester, Montgomery and Bucks Counties have asked Prof. Fritsch to give them a series of eight of his helpful Bible studies each Thursday evening beginning October 13th. The meetings will be held at different centers, as follows—Lansdale, Quakertown, St. John, Sellersville, Hatfield, Perkase, Quakertown (Trinity Church), Telford and Souderton.

"Y" CAMPAIGNS ARE NOW CONSOLIDATED

Druckenmiller Outlines New Budget System for Coming Year.

"Just as the Student Body places the greatest confidence in the world in its players at a football game, so the Y. M. C. A. places its utmost confidence in you, the players in an equally fascinating and important game, the game of Christian Service." With these words, Titus Druckenmiller made the metaphorical kickoff, Wednesday morning in Chapel, that started the Y. M. C. A. Budget Campaign. "This Organization," he continued, "expects you to play the game fair and square to put into the game all the strength and pep at your command and ultimately to roll up a heavy score in favor of Y. M. C. A. work on the Campus."

Formerly it was the custom to have separate drives for each Y. M. C. A. activity; one for new members, one for the relief of needy students in Europe; and another for the support of a native missionary student. Now it is planned to consolidate all these drives into one big Budget Campaign for $900.

The chief item among the estimated expenses for the coming year is that of $250.00 for Relief of European Students. No other world need is so urgent or deserving. Men who are intimately acquainted with the facts testify to the alarming dearth of food, clothing and shelter all over Europe. Says John R. Mott, "Tens of thousands of students are without the food and clothing necessary to maintain health and life. Large numbers die from starvation or from disease caused by insufficient food or from lack of medicines. Many commit suicide as a result of their hard lot." Conrad Hoffman, Jr., in a report to the World Student Christian Federation says, "The majority of the students in these countries go without breakfast. In Budapest it was found that some twenty-

LUTHERANS OPEN 1921 WORLD SERVICE DRIVE

National Council Budget

Calls for $1,250,000

When the Commissioners sent to Europe by the National Lutheran Council reported their findings in December, 1919 they recommended a general program of relief and rehabilitation extending over several years and calling for about $5,000,000. That this request was moderate, developments have amply proved. A definite program with a budget of $1,800,000 was adopted for the first year and carried through.

While the morning guns of the 1921 World Service Campaign are firing their salute to the new day in Europe, two statements challenge the humanitarianism and the religious determination of the American Lutherans.

The first, from the lips of Dr. J. A. Morehead, the Hoover, of the Lutheran Church, as he addressed himself to the Lutheran pastors of America, tells in no uncertain terms that the need is not yet satisfied, the appalling condition of our European brethren is improved, but not yet corrected. "By the grace of God, the work must go on."

The second, whispered through the centuries from the sea of Tiberius on

PAGANS SHUT OUT MINISTERS 41-0

Several Weird Plays Used to Get Touchdowns

In the annual Pagan Minister tilt this afternoon, the Pagans ran away with the Knights of the Prayerbook and rolled up a 41-0 score. From the very beginning the game showed its one-sidedness when the ministers lost the ball on a fumble after the kickoff. Shuler made an end run for twenty yards and Thomas followed with a fifteen yard gain. On a fake pass Mills carried the ball over the line for the touchdown. Rufe kicked the goal. Owing to the tragic interference of Satan and his cohorts few of the Epistles and their bearers reached their destination. The only chance the God fearing outfit had to score was nipped in the bud when from the four yard skypilot Wagner called for an Epistle to the Thessalonians and Jeremiah was bottled up in town before he could get to the gates of Jerusalem. Pagan Koch was responsible for the dirty work. Those Pagans proved that a cowl and robe were very poor protection for a minister when not among his people. Time after time they tore through the line of the angelic horde. Knauss got away with two touchdowns, the last on the weirdest play ever seen on Muhlenberg Field. Rufe, Nagle, and Koch also got away with touchdowns. The most sensational part of the game was when Koch intercepted a forward pass on the Pagan thirty-five yard line and ran through the whole minister team for a touchdown. Rufe kicked five out of six goals. Wagner and J. Miller played sensational games for these

CAN NATIONS DISARM? PRINCETON ASKS

71 Schools Will Be Represented On October 26--Thomas W. Lantz Our Representative

Definite steps have been taken by the Senior Council of Princeton University to call an intercollegiate conference on the subject of disarmament, to be held in Princeton on October 26th. The proposal is to invite representatives from over 60 colleges and universities throughout the East, and it is hoped in this manner to stimulate discussion among the undergraduate bodies of these colleges and to deepen the interest in the whole question of the limitation of armaments.

Why an Intercollegiate Conference?

University men are supposed to be intelligent men. We have been told that we are the future leaders in moulding and expressing Public Opinion; which though a somewhat hackneyed generalization, is substantially true. The war record of college men proves that when the price of peace is war, we are ready to pay, proves our absolute loyalty. If war came again, we should bear the brunt.

The purpose of the Conference is two-fold. First, it should serve to stimulate and deepen the interest in the whole question of the limitation and reduction of armaments, primarily in the delegates themselves, and thru them in the institutions which they represent. Secondly, it is a medium through which college men may express to the Government, in the form of a resolution, their sympathy with

STOPP LIBRARY IS BEING CATALOGUED

Librarian Prof. Simpson Rapidly Approaching End Of Tedious Task.

"The cataloguing of the Stopp Memorial Library is rapidly being completed," is the statement given out by the Librarian, Prof. Simpson.

This library was bequeathed to Muhlenberg College by Rev. Samuel Bridges Stopp, '96, who died June 13, 1917.

The library numbers 5900 magnificent volumes, consisting of books on Literature, Travel, Art, and Religion. Among the most noteworthy of the books of Literature is a collection of complete works of American and English authors. There are six fine editions of Shakespeare.

The books on Art comprise works on Painting, Sculpture, Gardening, and Home decoration.

The Travel books are all finely illustrated and deal with all the countries of the world.

According to the terms of the will of the late Rev. Stopp, the Library, is to be known as the Samuel Bridges Stopp Memorial Library.

Rev. Stopp lived at 34 N. 5th St., Allentown, Pa., in one of the old residential sections, near the First Presbyterian Church. He was graduated from Muhlenberg in the class of 1896, and the next year entered Princeton to take up Post-graduate work. From 1898 to 1901 he was a student at Mt.

As part of the celebrities of Gettysburg's Annual Homecoming Day, Muhlenberg defeated the Nixon Field warriors by pulling up from behind a two touchdown lead with two well earned touchdowns and a beautiful dropkick in a most thrilling and spectacular exhibition of gridiron strategy. It was a clean game from start to finish with only two penalties of five yards each, one being registered against each team. The crowd was one of the largest drawn to Nixon Field in recent years and the fact that the Lutherans battled to a 17-13 score in favor of the Allentown aggregation is sufficient proof that the spectators were given a fine exhibition of football.

At the opening of the game things looked pretty blue for the Cardinal and Gray. The Gettysburg bunch started with a rush after a poor kickoff and by short plunges and a forward pass brought Muhlenberg's goal in danger. Muhlenberg held and when the Cardinal and Gray got the ball Crum punted. Once more the enemy started romping through our team by a series of off tackle plays and two successful forwards brought the ball on Muhlenberg's twenty yard line. With Brenneman carrying the ball around left end the home team got their first touchdown after a twenty yard run. Emmanuel failed to kick the goal.

Gilliland kicked off and the punt was taken back by Gebhart to Muhlenberg's twenty-five yard line. There Gettysburg held for downs and Crum

TEACHERS ASKED TO REGISTER WITH STATE

Placement Service of Department of Instruction Can Aid Teachers and Schools.

Requests are constantly coming to the office of the Placement Service of the Department of Public Instruction, Harrisburg, Pa., for teachers specifically trained along certain lines. Many of these positions not only offer larger fields of service but very attractive compensation.

The Placement Service is unable to suggest candidates for these positions due to the paucity of registrants.

The Placement Service has made no effort to solicit registration of teachers, although there were registered during the past year 3643 teachers. In most instances these teachers desired to be in positions nearer home, and in larger fields of influence. Many were seeking promotion for which their additional professional training justly entitled them.

It was largely impossible to learn of vacancies prior to the establishment of the Placement Service, except thru agencies operated for profit. During his brief period of operation 250 teachers have been placed through this Bur-

Editorial Comment

The Muhlenberg "Press Club" is among those elusive organizations which are gathered together with difficulty when it is time to take group pictures for the Ciarla. At other times it doesn't gather.

Last year, one man sent out news for metropolitan papers. He was, therefore, the Press Club. If the Student Body sees fit to elect men to the Press Club on the basis of friendship, it may happen again that one of the men chosen will do some work, but hardly more than one out of six.

Putting things into print is a fascinating trick, and most college men with gumption enough to handle a typewriter ought to be able to prepare copy all ready for the linotypist of the Scranton Republican or the Quakertown Free Press (published weekly) or the New York Sun, if only someone with a knowledge of practical newspaper requirements direct the selection of items.

Cedar Crest succeeds; why can not we?

The time will be here before long when the fraternities will begin selecting the men who will be invited to join them. By the ruling of the Pan-Hellenic Council, no Freshman may be pledged to a fraternity until after the results of the mid-year examinations are announced, and new men with other than Freshman standing may not be pledged until two months after they matriculate.

To those of the new men to whom an invitation comes, some suggestions might not be amiss. Much is involved in the acceptance or rejection of a "bid." If more than one bid comes to a man, a still greater responsibility rests upon him, either to choose his group or reject all of them. The proposition is well stated on page 31 of our contemporary, the "Cardinal and Grey Annual."

A few words with several substantial upper-class non-fraternity man should be of help to the new man who wants any additional side-lights on the Fraternity situation at Muhlenberg.

Merchants who advertise in the WEEKLY show by so doing that they desire college patronage. Readers of the WEEKLY will confer a favor upon the merchant, upon the WEEKLY, and thereby upon themselves, by dealing with advertisers, and telling them why.

A break in our favor seems to have come with the winning of last Saturday's game. We may now expect to add a few more victories to our string.

Muhlenberg is represented this year by one of the hardest fight teams on the gridiron. The exhibition of football at Gettysburg demonstrated the strength and conquerable spirit of the men on the team.

The team brought back a victory. Are you going to back your team to the limit? Every true Muhlenberg man will answer this affirmatively, and will display this spirit by coming out to the Swarthmore Smoker on Friday evening. A. C. K. '22

Airy Theological Seminary, at Philadelphia, Pa.

In 1903 he accepted a call to the Lutheran Church in Doylestown, Pa., and after some years of service there, he resigned and came back to Allentown, where he supplied pulpits in Allentown and vicinity, up to the time of his death.

A suitable book plate has been engraved for the Stopp Library, with a pen sketch of the doorway of the Administration building.

The books of the Stopp Memorial Library will remain in the room adjoining Sophronia Hall, on the third floor of the Administration building, awaiting a home in the proposed new library building of Muhlenberg College.

The work of cataloguing this collection was begun immediately after the close of Summer School, and continued up to the beginning of this Fall term. Prof. Simpson was aided in his work by the able assistance of Mr. Russell Stine, '22.

The College Library now numbers 30,000 books, exclusive of the new Stopp acquisition.

OUR ALUMNI

'99—Rev. Frank N. D. Buchman, lecturer on Missions at Kennedy School of Missions, Hartford, Conn., last spring left for England, where he is doing personal Christian work among the men of Cambridge University. Rev. Buchman, who is an alumnus of Muhlenberg College and Mt. Airy, was formerly in the Japanese mission field, and more recently preceded Sherwood Eddy in his tour through the Orient, training groups of workers in personal evangelism.

'03—Rev. Charles Daniel Trexler, of Brooklyn, New York, last Sunday preached to the men of the 101 Cavalry, known locally as "Troop C," of which he is chaplain. In announcing the service a Brooklyn newspaper gave the following tribute to the work of Chaplain Trexler.

Pastor Trexler's interest in public matters is as unflagging as his work for the church. Not content with an enviable record of service overseas in the great war, the pastor, upon his return, became at once active in rebuilding the troop to its pre-war state.

The men were highly appreciative of Chaplain Trexler's work at camp.

He established an efficient post office on their arrival, and it was not long after that he managed to win for the regiment the use of a fine recreation hall. This was soon equipped with reading and writing material and indoor games. The crowds that filled it at night and the comforts it afforded on rainy days are a tribute to the genius of Pastor Trexler for getting things done.

Many of the boys of his church are members of the troop.

SEVEN SOPHOMORES SCRUBBING FOR STAFF

Positions Open Only to Men Who Scrub—No New Names Taken After Friday.

The next meeting of the Inter-Scholastic Newspaper Association will be held at Bucknell on October 29. "The Muhlenberg Weekly" will be represented at the conference by from two to five men. A meeting of the "Weekly" staff was held at the A. T. O. fraternity house Thursday evening, October 20.

A number of Sophomores are scrubbing for places on the editorial staff of the "Weekly." They are Bashore, Waller, Beerweiler, Helfrich, Heller, Stowell, and Nuebling. Any other Sophomores who wish to scrub for positions should report to Knauss '22, this week. The organization of a Press Club was also discussed.

eau, representing salaries aggregating $360,000. The actual saving in fees for the teachers of Pennsylvania amounts to $18,000; if to this is added the registration fee of $2 required by commercial agencies a total saving of $24,000 has been effected.

1250 requests for teachers have been received by the Placement Service. Great difficulty has been experienced in finding teachers specifically trained for the positions vacant. That the Placement Service may function most effectively it is necessary that the registration list of teachers be large. Registration cards are provided by which active and prospective teachers may register. These may be had upon application to the Department of Public Instruction.

Many superintendents and supervisors are frequent visitors to the office of the Placement Service, and many teachers are using the office as a meeting place with school officials desiring teachers.

The Placement Service wishes to bring to the attention of teachers the advantages that will come from registering with the Placement Service and also of the advisability of school officials in need of teachers drawing upon the list of registrants on file in the Placement Service.

School officials are slowly gaining confidence in the work which the Placement Service is striving to do, namely, suggesting teachers specifically trained and properly certified for positions vacant. It will materially assist teachers if school officials and boards of education will notify the Placement Service of vacancies. By calling the attention of school officials to the service which the Placement Service stands ready to render and explaining briefly the desire of the Placement Service to become a clearing place for available teachers and existing vacancies, the schools of Pennsylvania and thereby the children of the state shall be materially assisted.

MUHLENBERG DOWNS GETTYSBURG ELEVEN IN HARD FOUGHT GAME

again used his toe. The ball was on the local's twenty-five yard line when they opened up and marched right through the Muhlenberg defence. A good fake play thru tackle was their mainstay. During the march they pulled off two forwards that netted them a gain of twenty-five yards. Smith and Slaughter both made substantial gains on line plunging and Britch got thru once for a twenty-yard gain. This brought the ball on Muhlenberg's three yard line and Brenneman paying his first game for Gettysburg was called on to carry the ball over. Emmanuel scored the goal.

Gilliland kicked off to Muhlenberg and the Cardinal and Gray were forced to punt. Crum's punt was a little too hot for Britch who fumbled it on the thirty-yard line. Daniels recovered the fumble as the whistle blew for the end of the quarter. As the second period opened the Cardinal and Gray started a rapid fire attack on the Gettysburg line and made two successive first downs. Crum then carried the ball around the left end for a touchdown. Fulcher's toe proved true. The ball was see-sawed back and forth on the field several times with Gettysburg making a few first downs on line plunges and Muhlenberg getting away with four forwards. The gains on both sides were so scattered that neither scored. Muhlenberg was held for downs and Crum got away with a quick kick from the twenty yard line. The ball was fumbled by Britch when Reese tackled him and Daniels recovered the fumble behind the goal line. Fucher again kicked the goal.

The second half opened with Gettysburg on the defence and Muhlenberg making gain after gain by way of the aerial route. But these gains could not be bunched in such a way as to call for scoring until in the last few minutes of the third period Muhlenberg got the ball on Gettysburg's twenty yard line and Fulcher pulled off a pretty drop kick from very near the boundary of the field. The ball sailed midway between the goal posts and Muhlenberg advanced to a four point lead.

In the last quarter Gettysburg opened up a ferocious attack which it seemed was going to bring them a score. But the Cardinal and Gray warriors just bided their chance and when they got the ball on downs far into their own territory a succession of line bucks and three completed forwards sort of evened things up a little. The playing in this period was most spectacular. Time and again the Gettysburg lineup would carry the ball into Muhlenberg territory only to be foiled and frequently thrown for losses. Three attempted end runs were nipped before the runner could get away from his backfield position. Crum and Gebhart were responsible for most of Muhlenberg's gain and the stellar defence which Gebhart played kept the Gettysburg team from going through for big gains.

The game as played was most remarkable. Substitutions were rare. Gettysburg having four to Muhlenberg's two. Each team was penalized but once and that for off side play and talking. In the first half Gettysburg had eleven first downs to Muhlenberg's four, and a total of six completed forwards for gains of eighty yards to Muhlenberg's eight completed forwards for gains of a hundred ten yards. In the second half the breaks were about even with Muhlenberg one beautiful drop kick to its advantage.

six per cent. of the students live on two meals or less a day. Many have but one meal a day." W. J. Rose reported, "At Vilna not over 5 per cent. have sufficient funds for the purposes of study. The rest must earn while trying to keep up their university study. All this means that the best hours of the day are gone. With them goes the energy of the student."

Secondly, it is intended to contribute $150.00 toward the education of a native Japanese missionary student. This has been done for several years. No other means will be as effective as this one in breaking down the barrier of racial differences which now hinders the rapid progress of Christianity in the Far East.

One hundred dollars will be set aside for membership in the city "Y". Dalton Schwartz of the city "Y" explained to the Student Body on Wednesday the many advantages to be gained by such membership; viz., the use of the Swimming Pool, the Gym and the pool tables. He welcomed every student to take advantage of every facility the Y. M. C. A. building offered.

The remainder of the nine hundred dollars will be used as follows: $100 for socials; $45 for the "M" Book; $60 for speakers; $15 for religious books; $20 for office expenses including stamps and stationary; $20 for International Membership dues; $40 for State membership dues; and $100 to partly cover the expenses of delegates to conferences.

the purpose, and solicitation for the successful conclusion of the Washington Conference. Thus the Intercollegiate conference should be both educational and practical in its results. "How far are armies to be reduced?" "What is to be left for policing the world?" are some of the questions which fortunately the Princeton gathering will not be under necessity of answering. That is the business of the Washington Conference. But there are several principles that are perfectly simple and about which the undergraduate delegates may with propriety express themselves with no uncertain sound. One of these is what the Princetonian calls "the general theory of disarmament."

It was recently learned that speakers of the occasion would be Franklin D'Olier, Princeton, class of '98 and Major General John F. O'Ryan.

CEDAR CREST CHATTER

If anyone had visited Cedar Crest during the past week they will have noticed a general hubbub and great excitement. Why? Well, we will endeavor to tell you all about it.

Ever since the beginning of the semester we have been waiting for a certain something to happen, and that certain something happened last Friday evening. Dr. and Mrs. Curtis are here at last after a long and weary wait for them to arrive. Many were the bright smiles that shone through real tears of joy, when finally the car stopped in front of the "Old Dorm" and brought them to the Crest once more. And those smiles will continue for the rest of the year too.

This past week end the Swannee Club entertained the rest of the College girls by giving a dance. It surely was a huge success and everyone seemed to have more than a good time. The Swannee Club consists of all the girls from below the Mason-Dixon Line. A mighty "peppy" bunch who do know how to liven things up.

The Recreation Room was very becomingly decorated in pink and blue. Old Black Joe's well in one of the corners was just bubbling over with the most delicious cider. The music was furnished by the trio from "Dew Drop Inn." It was so bewitching that no one could keep their feet still.

Men? Just loads of them. Some of the best looking ones you would ever care to see. Only for that one evening though, for the next morning they were again attired in their womanly garments. It was rather late though for you see everyone just had to have oodles of sleep after such a wonderful affair.

FACULTY NOTES.

"A Recent History of Muhlenberg College," by Prof. Robert C. Horn, appears in last week's issue of the LUTHERAN. It outlines concisely the changes in the faculty made since the appearance of a similar history a number of years ago, and refers to the various advances made by the college curriculum.

Dr. Haas contributed to the AMERICAN LUTHERAN SURVEY a paper on the question, "Are We Ready for a University?" which appeared in the October number. Dr. Haas suggests that the name "University" has often been misapplied, and gives a number of reasons why the Lutheran church has nothing to gain at present by attempting to establish a university.

Professor Horn announces that all students are required to file a copy of their schedules with him immediately.

CAMPUS JOTTINGS

The Board of Ministerial Aid met at the college on Friday and Saturday of last week and interviewed the men who are preparing to enter the Seminary.

an occasion when a group of Christian believers were rising from a meal which satisfied their own hunger, calls firmly and gently to loving service,—saving through service. "Lovest thou me?" "Feed my sheep."

European Christian Churches lost membership rapidly during the war as statistics for 1919 show. Lutheran relief work helped to renew faith. Statistics show larger membership in 1920 than in 1919, but the congregations over there are not yet in position to keep gaining without further help. Present funds will all be spent by January 1st, 1922, and the co-operation must then cease unless the National Lutheran Council's appeal receives response throughout its constituencies. $1,250,000 is needed besides tons of clothes.

is now worse off than in 1918. They do not yet have enough to live on, and they are selling furniture, doing without clothes, eating too little to keep fit, and using their reserve savings. Aid to this class is almost entirely through their churches. They are the chief mainstay of the Church.

There is as yet no agency in Europe capable of continuing what the National Lutheran Council has been doing. Several sections can do with less, but new appeals are still coming, and they are real.

SCISSORS AND PASTE

A dozen or so of the gang were in their usual places in the "college box" at the Lyric Friday evening from which elevated position we saw a road company's version of "The Bat."

It was a good road company.

Hanks had seen the show and he told John G. (the elder of the Finck proteges from Hay Market) that "if you take a girl to that show she'll hold your hand all night."

John G. was evidently considering the matter seriously coming over from the chow house that evening.

But we handed him the following bit of high finance:

"You can see the show from the coop for four bits and a jitney." John G. admitted that.

"If you drag a skirt, it'll cost you five bucks and a half." The Virginia globe trotter became thoughtful.

"Now, the difference between the actual value of the show and the price of the show plus the hand holding party is exactly four dollars and ninety-five cents. Who wants to shell out four ninety five for the sensation of having a girl hold his hand?"

So the coast to coast tourist went stag with the rest of us.

Speaking of "The Bat"—it is a great show if you have steady nerves but in a couple of places the girl in front of us held the brass rail that runs around the front of the gallery with such a death like grip that we were really alarmed for fear that she would break it.

Candles that sputter and go out, a hunt for hidden treasure, a shot in the dark, a corpse on the floor, a bare arm reaching through a broken window—gooseflesh and gruesome mystery—that is "The Bat," but with enough of Mary Roberts Rinehart's wit to eliminate the necessity of having ambulances at the door to carry away victims of heart failure and apoplexy.

We were just thinking (yes, we do think occasionally). Wouldn't it be great to read "Treasure Island" by Robert Louis Stevenson and Mary Roberts Rhinehart?

The detective who is trying to fathom the mystery turns suddenly to the mistress of the house with the question, "Where were you when this occurred?"

"I was in my room, sleeping."

"And you?" turning to the terrified maid.

"I was in my room, combing the mistress' hair."

And as for the mystery of "Who is the bat?"—there was one thing we were sure of after two acts of "the bat's" terrorizing activity. The man that was killed in the first act was not the bat, we were sure of that, but we couldn't get anybody to take any bets on it.

DR. HAAS ADDRESSES STUDENTS IN CHAPEL

Eloquently Entreats Men to Choose Subjects Worth While.

On Wednesday President Dr. Haas addressed the student body in chapel and used as his subject MUSH AND MEAT.

In an allegorical manner he said that mush is soft and does not require any effort on the part of the eater to chew it. It is given as a food to those people who have poor teeth and are not strong. It is also given to old people, and to those who are unable to eat a food that is coarser. Meat on the other hand requires a set of good strong teeth to crush it and prepare it for the stomach. It is a food for those who are strong and energetic.

He then continued and began to explain his parable by saying that the mush represented those students who come to college and are afraid to take Greek and Mathematics, because they are difficult and require a great deal of time to acquire. They take those branches that are soft, and follow the line of least resistance. The meat represents those students who come to college and are anxious to acquire an education and are willing to take the courses that require brains and determination.

COLLEGE MEN FAVOR HALT ON ARMAMENTS

Muhlenberg Represented at Princeton Conference—Resolutions Adopted.

Giving expression to student opinion of America, 100 delegates, among them Muhlenberg's representative, assembled at an intercollegiate conference at Princeton University last Wednesday and urged immediate disarmament for all the nations of the world.

President John G. Hibben of Princeton welcomed the delegates, pledging his support to any resolutions that might be passed. He also read a message from President Harding embodying the President's earnest wishes that the conference express some sentiment on the question of disarmament. The message read: "My very cordial greeting to the college conference meeting at Princeton to discuss the problem incident to the international agreement on the limitation of armaments. Knowing as I do the sincerity of our American purpose, free from every phase of national selfishness, it is most gratifying to know the college thought of the republic is being exercised helpfully to commit the sentiment of our country and the world to real achievements. A great service to this generation may prove vastly greater to generations yet to come."

Hughes welcomes aid.

A message from Secretary of State read: "The State Department welcomes the aid of public-spirited citizens in furthering the objects of the Conference on Limitations of Armaments and keenly desires to facilitate all who are engaged in the effort to give accurate information and to develop sound opinion." Telegrams and letters of greeting were also received from Frederick C. Libby, executive secretary of the National Limitation

1922 CALENDAR TO BE BETTER THAN EVER

The 1922 Calendar, which is being published by the Sophomore Class, promises to be one of the best ever put out at Muhlenberg. The staff has been hard at work for the past two months and are very enthusiastic over the product of their efforts. The engravings have been completed and the printer is starting on his part of the job. The calendars will be placed on sale not later than December 1st. The twenty-seven pictures which the calendar will contain have been chosen from hundreds of snap-shots, as the most interesting and valuable reminders of the past year. Many of them represent ideas never used before in a Muhlenberg calendar. In fact, this year's calendar contains many new ideas, all of which add to its artistic value. It will be an ornament good enough to hang on any wall, and will make a valuable gift, because it will give a good impression of our school.

The staff is as follows: Clarence E. Beerweiler, editor; Alvin Rogers, assistant editor; Percy F. Rex, business manager; Paul H. Hildebrand, assistant business manager.

STUDENT BODY HOLDS MEETING IN CHAPEL

At a lively student body meeting, held on Friday morning, October twenty-eighth in the college chapel, final plans were made for the parade and smoker that was held in the evening. Gebert assured the members that all would be in for a good time, and announced that our old friend "Pop" Reese would be with us to give us one of his peppy talks.

An amendment to the constitution was adopted at this meeting, which provides that the cheer leader ask for volunteers from the Sophomore class

Muhlenberg Defense Surprises Onlookers. Touchdown and Goal by Fulcher Result in 7-6 Victory.

Coach Johnny Spiegel's aggregation wrote another page in football history last Saturday when they handed Swarthmore a 7-6 defeat on Muhlenberg Field, in the game that opened sporting relations with the Little Quakers. For Muhlenberg it was a fitting introduction, for Coach Mercer's eleven has been playing a brand of football that ranks the garnet institution among the best. It was the same scrappy Cardinal and Gray outfit that brought home the pigskin from Gettysburg last Saturday, fighting for dear life the crew that outplayed Penn and held Coach Heinsman's men to a 7-7 tie. The game was the most thrilling and sensational game ever played on Muhlenberg Field, the officials of the game comparing it with the Lafayette-Pitt game with the edge lying toward Muhlenberg. It was remarkable for the faultless playing and the fine sportsmanship shown by the members of both teams.

Allentown went football mad Saturday evening when the final outcome of the game was learned downtown. The impossible had been accomplished.

X COUNTRY MEET WITH LEHIGH WED.

The Muhlenberg cross-country team opens its season tomorrow afternoon when it will run the Lehigh squad in a dual meet. A stiff course of about six miles and a half has been mapped out, difficult enough for a good race. The start will be made on the Liberty Street highway near the grand stand and the runners will go down the pike, over to Cedar Crest, back to the pike again, through Dorney's Park, across to the Dorneyville pike, down the Penn highway to a point straight across from the college, and then over to the campus, where they will finish. The entire squads of both schools will enter, but only the first five men of each team to finish will be counted. The Cardinal and Grey boys are going to "Beat Lehigh," according to present indications.

Although the men who are out running every afternoon lack the confidence of the student body, some good material has been showing up. Arthur Webb, acting captain and coach, and Earl Druckenmiller won their letter on last year's team. Yehl, Hildebrand, Roth, Oxenrider, Kleinginn, Skidmore, Taylor, Winn, Greene, Eidam, Chermansky, and Christman are among the other promising candidates.

APPEAL FOR CHRISTIAN MISSIONARIES HEARD

Rev. Curran Tells Of Lutheran Foothold In Africa.

"Africa is in great need of Christian Missionaries, will you accept the challenge?" This was the straightforward appeal of Rev. J. D. Curran, who for 11 years has been a missionary of the Lutheran Church in the State of Liberia, Africa.

Rev. Curran addressed the student body on Thursday morning. He said that first of all it is necessary to get the proper standpoint of the foreign mission field, and the correct conviction of the missionary world. He compared, foreign mission fields in relation to the church, with foreign service in the army during the late war. He compared the home work in the church with home duty in the army. "Consider foreign service with the same patriotism, whether in war or for the church" was his advice.

Rev. Curran went on to say that Africa should be kept in mind because it has been neglected, but is no more the dark continent that it once was. "It is true," he continued, "there are more attractions in India, because India has been developed, but that is why Africa needs help. Think of the place where the need is greater and the help is less."

He said that the health conditions in Africa were better than in India, and that the only real difficult hard-

14 COLLEGE PAPERS CONFER AT BUCKNELL

Founder of I. N. A. Gives Address—Albright Admitted To Membership.

Better collegiate journalism was the theme of the conference of the Inter-collegiate Newspaper Association of the Middle Atlantic States, held at Bucknell University, Lewisburg, on Friday and Saturday. The Editor and the Business Manager of the Muhlenberg WEEKLY were among the representatives of the 14 schools answering present to the roll call at the business session Saturday morning.

Drew Pearson, who was responsible for the formation of the I. N. A. at Swarthmore recounted some of the ideals he had in mind for improving college papers. He said, "As an athletic team from one college meets that of another, to their mutual improvement, so should the work of the college editors be compared and contrasted, with consequent advancement of accuracy in news and careful thinking in editorials."

The workings of the Associated Press, and how the principles of the A. P. might be used by the college editors was explained by Walter Roos, a Bucknell alumnus who is connected with the Harrisburg Patriot.

Each of the delegates gave a report of the progress of his paper, and suggestions flew thick and fast. General business included the admission of the Albright bi-weekly news magazine to membership, and the selection of Delaware University, Newark, Del., as the place for the May meeting.

Friday evening was given over to a smoker at the Delta Sigma house, where the delegates "talked shop" informally, and picked up valuable impressions and suggestions.

Bucknell proved amply equal to the occasion and provided the finest kind of entertainment. The guests were treated to seats at the Catholic University game Saturday afternoon which ended with 41 points to the credit of Bucknell, and a dance at the Woman's College of the University was arranged for Saturday evenings.

The colleges and universities represented included Bucknell, Haverford, Lafayette, Muhlenberg, Gettysburg, Rutgers, Stevens Institute, Swarthmore, Ursinus, Delaware, Franklin and Marshall, Thiel, Susquehanna, and Albright.

'Y' CAMPAIGN IS RAPIDLY NEARING GOAL

The "Y" Christian Service Campaign has been quite successful. To date one third of the student body has been canvassed and about one third of the total budget has been subscribed. The remainder of the student body will be canvassed during the coming week, and the Cabinet hopes that the response will be as enthusiastic and as liberal as the beginning has been.

Here's a real chance for service, fellows! The spirit of co-operation on our campus is noted—here's a bigger opportunity for helping others, not only on the campus, but beyond.

So when you are approached—don't duck, do your best. With the same untiring Muhlenberg determination that won the Swarthmore game, the demands for broader Christian service must be faced.

LET'S GO!

Editorial Comment

The railway strike, which threatened to tie up the arteries of transportation of the entire country and which would have occasioned endless inconvenience and suffering to all our people, has been called off. "We cannot fight the government" declared one of the leaders speaking for the big five service brotherhoods. "We would be fighting the government and it is not and never has been our purpose to do this," he continued.

There is a salient lesson even to us young, egotistical and unsophisticated (adjectives used advisedly) college students in this wise decision of the union heads not to consider themselves or their organizations above constituted authority. We cannot fight the government. There are times when we fellows thoughtlessly feel that we are greater and wiser than those in authority and that we are justified to rebel against parental discipline or those to whose care we are entrusted at college. We feel that the "governor" is narrow minded; that he cannot or does not think in terms of our years and the present day; that he simply does not understand, and we feel the apparent hurt and resent it. The same holds true in individual cases here at college, possibly more so at any other college than Muhlenberg—we may be pardoned at least for so hoping. Well anyways, the strike leaders said and very wisely so, "We cannot fight the government." Let's just stop and meditate and realize when such sinister thoughts as being intentionally hurt by those in authority are entertained that ninety-nine times out of a hundred their mature years, wisdom and experience serve us best when heeded. Let us appreciate that we cannot fight the "government" and we shall ever realize that it was to our benefit and welfare not to attempt to do so.

F. W. W. '23

Last year, when Muhlenberg won the Intercollegiate Oratorical contest at Ursinus, the Collegeville school was negotiating for a debate with the Cardinal and Grey. The only possible reply at that time was that no such thing as a Muhlenberg debating team existed.

There seems to be nothing to prevent Muhlenberg from turning out debaters ready to meet the best that any other college has to offer. A number of of underclassmen have experience in High School debates, and a public speaking department as strong as Muhlenberg's should be able to make collegiate debaters out of them in short order.

Bucknell, Ursinus, Gettysburg, and Swarthmore would be glad to debate with Muhlenberg. With a bit of extra effort, a team could be developed that would be as effective on the platform as another team has been on the gridiron.

Getting Swarthmore on our schedule was a good move. After a game like Saturday's, the Swarthmore-Muhlenberg battle ought to be a football feature each year.

The "Little Quakers" lived up to their reputation for clean playing and real sportsmanship. Swarthmore in one game has won a place in the hearts of Allentonians, who are looking forward to many more opportunities of seeing Swarthmore teams in years to come.

Can it be said that there may be something symbolic about the Juniors and Seniors occupying the same section in chapel? Let us hope that the closer association of the two classes may work for better upper-class harmony, and that affairs such as the commencement week activities and the like which require Junior-Senior co-operation may be more successfully conducted than ever before. Petty class antagonism may remain for the Freshmen and the Sophomores to enjoy, but after two years of constant association the endeavour of the older class to make the next lower group behave should have been successful enough to come to an end.

FRESHMAN MADE HAPPY AT A. T. O. SMOKER

The members of the local chapter of A. T. O. entertained a number of Freshmen at their home on S. 14th St. last Monday evening with a smoker that was typically Alpha Tau as to entertainment, refreshments and the enjoyment had by all present.

The principle musical entertainment was given by "Bones" O'Brien who played in the style for which he is widely known. The pool table was surrounded throughout the evening with those who wield a wicked cue, and the followers of the spotted pasteboards were happy at the card tables.

There was a gab fest in every corner, the chief subject of conversation being football at Muhlenberg—past, present and future. After the A. T. O. spread had been served and given a chance to settle a bit, the freshmen were led back to their dens in the dorms, each with a happy heart and a full stomach.

PARADE AND SMOKER PRECEDE BIG GAME

All who were at the Swarthmore Smoker last Friday night heartily agree with Prof. Fasig when he said "This is the greatest Pep Smoker that Muhlenberg or Allentown has ever seen." Prof Fasig acted as chairman of the affair and called upon John Sefing, who in his own humorous way started the spirit a-humming when he said that Muhlenberg should fight hard and clean, but should always fight to win. John's presence was a great help to the Pep content of the meeting for he certainly was brimming with it in all his wit and throughout his entire speech.

A parade down to Center Square, headed by the Marine band, for a public demonstration at 7 o'clock to invite the townspeople to the smoker was the innovation responsible for much the success of the evening.

The program in the commons included selections by the Marine band, and the Imperial Quartette, and boxing bouts between Kid Perry and Young Uhl, and Jakie Max and Fighting Bob, f Allentown.

Among the speakers called on by Prof. Fasig were lawyer Hyman Rockmaker, U. S. Commissioner Orrin Boyle, Dr. Noble, John Henry Leh, the famous stroke on last Year's Princeton crew, Dr. Haas and Coach Spiegel, and Prof. Wm. Reese, of Temple University.

With such speeches, and the hearty singing and cheering, dense clouds of smoke continually arose, and every one there pronounced it the "Best Ever." The committee in charge consisting of Herbert Gebert and Ted Seip deserves a vote of appreciation for their successful efforts, which were perfect from the formation of the parade up to the singing of the Alma Mater.

each year, to scrub for the position of cheer leader, and that the leader then be elected at the following election. It also includes that the work of the cheer leader be recognized by awarding him a megaphone with a large "M." This amendment was drawn up by Gebert.

Lantz announced that the eleven o'clock period on Tuesday had been set aside, and that Dr. Haas had consented to give a talk on disarmament, and Prof. Simpson, a talk on the economic aspect of disarmament at that time. He himself, as Muhlenberg's representative to the Princeton Conference, which was held on Wednesday October twenty-sixth, will give a report on the activities and developments of that conference.

A desire to have a band at the Swarthmore game was manifested, and it was decided to secure the Good Shepherd's Home band for the occasion. Walter Koch and Cal. Knauss were appointed as a committee to take charge of the transportation of the band.

The election of Press Club members was postponed until the next meeting.

After the meeting cheer leaders Knauss and Heller introduced some spicy yells, to be used at Saturday's game.

MUHLENBERG HUMBLER SWARTHMORE IN MOST THRILLING GAME

ed! And that by a bunch of boys who are playing together for the first season. The townspeople realized that they had been backing up a team that is willing to do and die for its Alma Mater if necessary and bear themselves nobly in the case of victory. They learned that the little man who made such a marvelous record in football for himself was also capable of leading a team to the highest and brightest light in the gridiron world. Politics, strikes, peace treaties, and murder scandals were minor topics of minor importance in the discussions last Saturday night wherever men gathered to talk. The only worthy topic was Muhlenberg victorious. It was the reincarnation of this country's greatest college sport in Allentown, and even the most pessimistic fans are looking forward with great hope for success the rest of the season.

Breaks Ran Even

Muhlenberg won that game! And it was no easy victory for the Cardinal and Grey. Swarthmore came with a determination to win and Coach Spiegel's boys were just as determined to keep that old oval right on Muhlenberg campus. Dogged tenacity inspired by that unconquerable Muhlenberg spirit won the game with every man in the combination ready to die in the attempt to stem off defeat. The breaks of the game were about even. But when it came to tightening up the screws, the Cardinal and Grey representatives showed their ability as mechanics. Twice Swarthmore carried the ball to within a few feet of scoring and twice did Muhlenberg hold them for downs. A few minutes before the closing whistle blew the Garnet team had the ball within two yards of the goal and with two chances to go a yard for a first down. The first down was made and they tried to make the yard that would give the Little Quakers victory but all four attempts failed with the result that the ball was handed to Muhlenberg within six inches of the goal.

First Half

When the opening whistle blew at 2:50 o'clock Swarthmore won the toss for the kick and Cornell booted the ball to Demoling. The ball was received on the fifteen yard line and carried to the twenty-five yard line. Then Swarthmore was given its first reception when Gebhart hit the line for a fifteen yard gain. On the first down the locals were penalized for holding and after unsuccessful attempts at rushing the ball around end Crum punted. The ball rolled to the goal and was brought back to the visitors' ball and with beautiful interference made fifteen yards on an end run. He again carried the ball through tackle for a first down. Geiges completed a long forward and ran for Swarthmore's touchdown. Earp failed to kick the goal.

Gebhart received the kickoff and carried the ball fifteen yards before Baxter nailed him to the turf. A forward pass, Gebhart to Holstrom gained thirty yards for the Cardinal and Grey. Crum fell back and tossed the ball to Fulcher who succeeded in evading Geiges' tackle and ran for a touchdown. His toe proved true and Muhlenberg made the score that won the game. After the first quarter neither side scored although the Garnet aggregation was favored with several excellent opportunities.

During the entire second quarter the teams played almost to a standstill. Once Asplundt carried the ball to Muhlenberg's twenty yard line but the locals held for downs and a punting duel ensued with the breaks slightly in favor of the visitors. Owing to the fact that Crum was wearing an injured knee, Demoling was called upon to punt for the Cardinal and Gray. After a first down for Muhlenberg, Swarthmore gained about ten yards through Asplundt's superior ability as a punter. The quarter ended with a tally of four first downs for each team.

Second Half

When the second half of the game opened Swarthmore got the ball in midfield and succeeded in rushing it around left end to Muhlenberg's eight yard line. But here they were stopped. Weston and Hartman worked together in smearing the two attempts at an off tackle play. An attempted end run was nipped by Weston with the visitors ball still in the same place. The last attempt failed when Baxter dropped a forward behind the locals goal line. Demoling punted and the ball was advanced into enemy territory. Asplundt got a first down when he ran around right end after White had carried the ball through tackle for five yards. Muhlenberg then held and a punting duel ensued. Muhlenberg made several notable advances through line bucks but each time the ground was lost when Asplundt sailed the ball through the air for punts of from fifty to sixty yards. The period ended with Muhlenberg having lead of two first downs over the Little Quakers.

When the last period opened Rusty Yarnall was admitted to the field to take the place of Earp. He was to win the game for Swarthmore and he had full intention of doing so. It was Swarthmore's second down and the ball was passed to this shining light of the Garnet team. He demonstrated his ability by hitting through tackle and running through Muhlenberg's backfield to Muhlenberg's eleven yard line. Here he met his Waterloo when Weston made a shoe-string which floored Yarnall, the terrible.

The real struggle of the game began right here. Knapp was sent in to take White's place and he succeeded in making five yards. Three more were added by Yarnall. Two more attempts gave the visitors a first down with only one yard to make on four attempts. The first attempt was a plunge through center which was stopped about six inches from Muhlenberg's goal line. The head linesman measured the distance and play commenced again. Hartman threw himself against the mighty Asplundt and the ball was sent back a few inches. On the fourth down Swarthmore lost the ball when Weston smeared Yarnall a full yard behind the line of scrimmage. Muhlenberg punted immediately and Demoling's punt fell short. Geiges signalled for a fair catch and the Swarthmore eleven tried for the second time a kick from placement. Yarnall's toe was slightly amiss and the ball was returned to Muhlenberg's twenty yard line. While the second was being called the referee's whistle blew. The lineup:

CEDAR CREST CHATTER

On Saturday, October 29, the Faculty of Cedar Crest gave the College a party which they will hardly ever forget. All day long they were busy and kept everyone out of the Recreation Room. It was disclosed to all that evening when they beheld the wonders which had been done in decorating that room. Never before had the room looked so attractive. There were plenty of "spooky" corners and many a scream came from the "Chamber of Horrors." Even the gypsy fortune teller made some of the girls look into the future with much more hope.

The sight was a pleasant one, for all were dressed in some kind of a costume. Ghosts were about everywhere and they even appeared that night in dreamland. The prize for the most original costume was awarded to Miss Helen Kennedy, who had on a fancy costume all made of newspaper. It was really a hard task to judge which one to select for there were so many good ones to choose from.

While the refreshments were being enjoyed, a skeleton appeared and scared the girls so much that they gargled the root beer. The party broke up quite late and everyone declared that the Faculty surely could give wonderful parties.

of Armaments; Professor L. S. Rowe director general of the Pan-American Union, and Philip L. Green, international president of the Pan-American League. Word was also brought to the convention by Robert Wilberforce from the Rt. Hon. H. A. L. Fisher, president of the English Board of Education and a member of the British Cabinet, assuring the delegates of the heartiest sympathy from the college students of Great Britain.

Program for Washington Conference Suggested.

A series of resolutions, making general recommendations to the conference on limitation of armament to be conducted at Washington within the next few weeks, were adopted by the delegates without a dissenting vote at a banquet following the business session in the afternoon. More than forty colleges and universities were represented at the conference, which is the first of its kind to discuss an important national topic ever held in America.

The program outlined by the Princeton convention in its resolutions to the United States Government called for: First. A settlement of the Far Eastern question based upon the principles which will make practicable the reduction of naval armaments.

Second. An agreement to suspend all present programs for naval construction and to undertake no further expansion.

Third. An agreement to reduce substantially the present naval strength of the nation concerned.

Such recommendations were based upon the opinion expressed by the various delegates in an open discussion of the question at the afternoon session.

Colleges Represented.

Delegates from the following colleges and universities were present at the Conference:

Princeton, University of Pennsylvania, Harvard, Yale, Lafayette, Lehigh, Muhlenberg, Penn State, Swarthmore, Syracuse, Carnegie Tech, Allegheny, Haverford, John Hopkins, St. Stephens, College of the City of New York, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Virginia, Cornell, Stevens Institute of Technology, New York University, Tufts, Wesleyan, Manhattan, Trinity, Rutgers, Brown, Amherst, Dartmouth, Bucknell, Williams, Union, Bowdoin, Columbia, Hartford Theological Seminary, General Theological Seminary, Delaware College and Rhode Island State College.

ships that have to be undergone, are those of social, intellectual, and spiritual nature, and not so much in the physical nature, but that these difficulties could be overcome by plenty of work.

Another interesting fact which he brought out was, that Liberia is the only place in Africa where the Lutheran church has a foot-hold, and that its Mission is the only recognized Mission working inland from the coast.

Civilization extends only from 10 to 20 miles inland, yet the Mission extends as far as 150 miles.

He said that there were distinct opportunities for progress in this field. The language forms the greatest drawback, there not being sufficient native words to preach the gospel, or even to translate the Lord's Prayer.

Rev. Curran appealed not only for ordained ministers but also for all kinds of laymen, urging any of the college students who might have a desire for missionary work, or might be interested in it, to consider carefully the African field.

The address in the chapel of Muhlenberg is one of the series of talks given by prominent men to the student body, each week.

"Do you think you could learn to love me, Christopher?"

"Well, I passed Calculus."—Jack-O-Lantern.

SCISSORS AND PASTE

It sure was some game, wasn't it?

There was only one regrettable instance in it, to us.

When the ball was down there about a sixteenth of an inch from the goal, apparently, we forgot we were wearing our best Sunday-go-to-meeting pipe and as we opened our oral orifice to shout encouragement to the team to hold that line the pipe dropped down out of sight under the grandstand and hasn't been seen since, in spite of a thorough search.

Come to think of it maybe we didn't lose it after all. We might have swallowed it. We were kindo' dizzy at the time.

We were all kindo' abnormal after that game. One frosh started downtown and when he had gotten as far as Thirteenth and Hamilton, discovered that he was wearing a smoking jacket.

We were reading a Sunday paper (it was either a New York or Philly paper, we're not sure which) the other day, and ran across the following:

It's a Fact.

That some fellow said, "The advantage of having only one suit is that you always have your lead pencil with you," and we guess he is right, but we know a lot of fellows who have more lead pencils than suits, because every time they have any writing to do they ask us for our lead pencil, and walk off as though we were handing out lead pencils for advertising purposes.

That there are all kinds of lead pencils just as there are all kinds of people: some of 'em are sharp and others dull.

That Canny fellow who can get a soft pencil sharpened can also light his cigar with one of those trick Swedish matches.

MUHLENBERG WINS FROM LEHIGH, 14-13

Scores Twice in Final Period for First Victory Over Brown and White Team.

New York Times

Bethlehem, Pa., Nov. 5.—****There came out of the West today, meaning Allentown, a certain young man by the name Crum. He had with him a band of eleven young huskies from Muhlenberg versed in the rudiments of the great gridiron game, and they carried with them a bagful of tricks, and for the first time in history of gridiron contests between the two teams downed a Lehigh eleven. The score was 14 to 13.—New York Times.

Populace Celebrates First Victory of Muhlenberg Over Lehigh

Allentown, Nov. 5.—Shouting, surging crowds of joyful Allentown people are tonight celebrating the first football victory ever won by Muhlenberg over Lehigh. Staid business men, dignified professors and stiff-necked professional men joined in the jubilee. A parade headed by a band started from the college and marched through the city, followed by the student body and townspeople, carrying torches, Roman candles and megaphones. For 10 years Muhlenberg has played annually on the Lehigh field, and each year was licked until today. It took Coach Johnny Spiegel to develop a Muhlenberg football machine to turn the trick.

Mayor Gross, who is in Philadelphia, wired his regrets, and instructed the chief of police that Allentown be tonight wide open for all the celebration the football fans cared to indulge in.—Philadelphia Record.

Muhlenberg, for First Time In History, Beats Lehigh 14-13

Crum is Big Ace in Coach Spiegel's Sensational Last-Period Victory

North American

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Nov. 5.—Allentown tonight was willing to sell the whole city to Spiegel and his warriors, for a Lehigh victory spells a season's success for the team.

Muhlenberg deserved to win, for its men were the more versatile. Crum stands out as the shining star, and it is doubtful if such a bewildering array of forward passing has ever been seen on Lehigh field. For the first period Muhlenberg easily outplayed Lehigh and had three good chances to score, two by way of the drop-kick and the other on straight football. All this time Lehigh did not have a chance.

The scoring started in the third period. Several exchanges of punts gave the ball to Lehigh and for the first time in the game the brown & white lads woke up. Bessemer, Hardy and Greer on straight football rushed the ball down the field to the 8-yard line, where Hardy executed a clever end run for a score, but failed to kick the goal.

In the fourth period, after an exchange of punts, the ball was Lehigh's in the middle of the field. The locals took the ball down to the

Daniels' Sixty-five Yard Run Scores First Touchdown For Muhlenberg

"Lehigh Will Shine Tonight" was torn out of the Brown and White song books last night. There was not a bright spot to be found in Bethlehem last night. In fact, Muhlenberg's victory over the Steel City University squad left the town dark, dreary, dismal and gloomy. The only thing that had a shine was the boot-black — and he was dark. Year after year the Cardinal and Grey followers journeyed to Bethlehem, always hopeful that some day Muhlenberg would win. Yesterday was that day. Apparently subdued by the Lehigh team, Muhlenberg, in the last five minutes of play overcame a two touchdown lead, winning the game by a score of 14 to 13.

Coach Johnny Spiegel and his 1921 football eleven will always hold a high place in the Muhlenberg college athletic hall of fame.

On Saturday, for the first time in the history of their athletic relations, a Muhlenberg eleven defeated Lehigh. It was only by the narrow margin of one point that the Cardinal and Grey team won after probably the most spectacular gridiron battle ever staged on Taylor field. The score was 14 to 13.

Muhlenberg outplayed the Brown and White team in three of the four periods, but was only able to score in the final quarter. The victory was made the sweeter by the fact that when Muhlenberg did start to tally the team was trailing 13 to 0. So sure did Coach Glick, of Lehigh, feel of victory that he made substitutions by the wholesale after his charges had made their second touchdown in the early minutes of the fourth period, and for this he is being panned right and left by the supporters of the Bethlehem institution. But so bewildering and perfectly executed was the offensive, mostly aerial that Spiegel's crew launched in the final period that it is an open question if the Lehigh regulars had been left in whether they would be able to stop the onward rush of the Allentown collegians, for the same regulars were completely outplayed in the first two periods. Old Lady Luck had a big share in keeping the Brown and White goal line from being crossed several times in the first half.

The third period was a bad one for the Muhlenberg well wishers in the north stand for Bessemer, Hardy and Greer ripped big holes in the line, the onward march ended in touchdown when Hardy raced around Muhlenberg's right end. The try at the goal was missed. In the first few minutes of the fourth period, Lehigh intercepted a forward pass and a moment later Hardy took a forward from Stover and went across the line for the second score. This time he kicked the goal. Muhlenberg's chances looked slim, but things began to happen quickly after Glick sent in his relief players.

After a few plays, Crum shot a forward pass to Daniels and the latter eluded several would-be tacklers and ran 65 yards for a touchdown. When the goal was kicked, Lehigh elected to let Muhlenberg kick off again. Then one of the prettiest plays of the game was pulled. In stead of booting the ball up the field, Demoling sent a perfect onside kick to Daniels, racing up along the sidelines, and the right end registered a nifty gain. Lehigh braced and Crum tried a long forward pass on the fourth down. Two Lehigh men jostled Holstrom out of the way, the Muhlenberg man landing on his back in the field. Both Lehigh men were so eager to get the ball that they interfered with each other, and a great shout went up from the Muhlenberg stand when it was seen that the pigskin had landed on Holstrom's chest as he lay on the ground and he had clutched it tightly in his arms. A short pass took the ball to the Lehigh one yard line for the fourth down. Then Lehigh was penalized a half yard for offside play. It meant a first down for Muhlenberg. This sapped the fast-declining morale of the defenders and Fulcher pushed his way through the goal that put his team in the lead.

The Muhlenberg crowd went wild with delight, but their enthusiasm was chilled a moment or two later when Rote shot a forward pass to Lingle who reached the eight yard line before he was downed. An attempt at a field goal looked to be in order, but the try was never made, though Glick was sending substitute after substitute in, each, in all likelihood, carrying a message of desperation. There was a sigh of relief in the Muhlenberg section when Lehigh was held for downs. Two or three plays later, the whistle blew ending the game and that meant the first victory for Muhlenberg in the ten years that teams have gone to Bethlehem to play Lehigh.

The whole Muhlenberg team played like a well oiled machine with Crum, Fulcher, Demoling, Gebhardt and Daniels the shining lights on the offensive, while Weston, pitted against Springsteen, the Lehigh star tackle, more than held his own with his Brown and White opponent, and was in practically every play.

The line-up:
Lehigh: Read, Springstein, Hoffman, Roth, Arnold, Harms, Adams, Hardy, Bessemer, Storer, Greer.
Muhlenberg: L. E. Holstrom, L. T. Whiteknight, L. G. Brewer, C. Rees, R. G. Hartman, R. T. Weston, R. E. Daniels, Q. B. Crum, L. H. B. Fulcher, R. H. B. Gebhardt, F. B. Demoling.

Score by periods:
Muhlenberg: 0 0 0 14—14
Lehigh: 0 0 6 7—13

Touchdowns: Hardy, Adams, Daniels, Fulcher.

Goals from touchdown: Hardy, 1; Fulcher, 2.

First downs: Muhlenberg 10; Lehigh 10.

Substitutions: Muhlenberg, Johnson for Whiteknight; Schweimler for Demoling; Demoling for Schweimler.

Lehigh: McCarthy for Arnold; Hendershot for Springsteen; Sanford for Adams; Cousins for Greer; Harper for Bessemer; Rote for Hardy; Moorehouse for Harms; Lingle for Storer; Welker for Read.

Referee, Morice, Penn; Umpire, Williams, Penn; Head Linesman, Ryan, Michigan. Time of periods, 15 minutes.

Bethlehem, Pa. Nov. 5.—****Muhlenberg deserved to win, for her men were the more versatile. Crum stands out as the shining star, and it is doubtful if ever such a bewildering array of forward passing has ever been seen on a Lehigh field. In the first period Muhlenberg outplayed Lehigh and had three good chances to score—two by the way of the drop kick and the other on straight football. All this time Lehigh did not have a chance. The Brown and White did not, by any means, play the sterling game she did in winning from West Virginia last week.

Score.

In the opening meet of the season, Wednesday, Nov. 2, Muhlenberg's X-country team was defeated by Lehigh's fast squad by the score of 38-17. Although defeated they were not defeated badly when one considers the handicaps under which the team ran. In the first place they had no coach and whatever training they got was self-imposed. Secondly they lacked the confidence of the student body which would have spurred them on.

The course was stiff and long. As stated in last week's issue, the race started on Liberty Street near the grandstand, down the pike, over to

Bethlehem Eleven Catches Tartar in Muhlenberg,

Philadelphia Inquirer

Lehigh caught a tartar today and when the sun set over the Lehigh Mountains that tower over Taylor Field, Muhlenberg's doughty warriors were on the topside of a 14 to 13 score, for the first time in the athletic history of the two ancient rivals of the Lehigh Valley. One missed goal from touchdown spelled defeat for Lehigh and just that closely were the two elevens matched.

Muhlenberg well deserved her victory, for in the entire first half she had the Brown and White on the defensive. It was unheard of for a Muhlenberg team to outplay Lehigh and the big aggregation of rooters from Allentown who had come over to cheer for the Muhlenberg team made the most of it.

Forward passes were the only medium by which either team could gain. Repeated smashes at the line yielded little for either eleven and end runs were smothered before they were well under way.

It was a complete reversal of form and nobody was so much surprised as the undergraduates of Lehigh, who had spent the last few days placarding Bethlehem and Allentown, with such ironic and sarcastic slogans as "Muhlenberg never can beat Lehigh."

It was a gallant, uphill fight that Muhlenberg waged for in the first period of the second half the Brown and White scored 13 points leading the Allentown eleven by that much when the final quarter started. It was a forlorn hope, apparently that Captain Gebhardt led into the final period of play. Lehigh, the traditional victor of the annual clash between the two colleges, was leading by two touchdowns and lacked only the goal from touchdown to make it 14 points.

Fighting with their backs to the wall they uncovered a series of forward passes, which seldom failed, and worked the ball to within the shadow of the Lehigh goal line.

The Brown and White made a brave stand and held the Muhlenberg outfit on its own eight-yard line for three downs with a gain of only two yards.

Then Daniels took a double pass which worked to perfection and dashed over the Lehigh

Editorial Comment

We have just passed through that season of the college year when the first round of the battle is over and the casualties are enumerated. There was much wailing and gnashing of teeth when the wounded were carried out, but, now that wound stripes have been awarded, the consciences of the delinquents are somewhat relieved.

In former years, the first and foremost culprits were the freshmen but this present list included a fair proportion of sophomores and upperclassmen. What is the meaning of this deficiency? Does it mean that the professors have tightened down the screws or that the students do not have the usual pep and ambition of former years?

Well, fellows, we've been here about seven weeks now and we should have our mental machinery thoroughly cleaned and oiled by this time. Let's get busy and show the faculty that we have the goods and that we are not afraid to work for what we get.

Fellows, it is our duty to do the best we can during the four years of our college course. We owe it (1) to our school, in order to be able to go out and show the world what Muhlenberg training means; (2) to our parents or those who are helping us financially or otherwise, so that they may get a good return on their investment; and (3) to ourselves, because we are some of the few who are privileged to enjoy the advantages of a very liberal education and should aim for personal success just as much as for greater service to our communities.—H. S. M.

Pledge cards for the "Y" campaign are coming in every day, but too slowly according to the "Y" committee. This campaign was scheduled for one week, and it is now nearly three since the ball was started rolling, and a great many men are still to be seen or heard from. This either shows a lack of interest on the part of the "Y" teams, or just plain indifference by some members of the student body.

Where is your school spirit, fellows? The "Y" needs our support just as any other organization of the school. We have one of the greatest football teams that ever represented Muhlenberg, and we are giving and doing our best to support that team. There isn't a fellow in the student body that wouldn't go the limit for our team. Why can't we show the same spirit in putting this campaign across?

We think nothing of paying out four or five "bucks" to take our best girl to the football game or perhaps to the Lyric. We do that several times every month. But when we are asked to give to a cause that is really truly worth while, and with five months to pay, we grumble and tell how hard up we are. Now isn't that so? I think every fellow will admit it. What we need is a little more school spirit in giving to such causes as these. When it comes to a game we never stop to think of the price. Let us be a little more like that when we are asked to give for a worthy cause.

The "Y" has asked for $900 as a budget to cover everything for the year, which means that you will not be asked to give again. So far 121 cards have been handed in with a total of $541. That means we still have $359 to raise. Can we do it? Surely we can fellows, with your support. Let's open our pocketbooks, show what we're made of, and show some of our school spirit by giving to a real cause.

MUHLENBERG, FOR FIRST TIME IN HISTORY BEATS LEHIGH, 14-13.

Lehigh's goal. Here occurred a great play. It was fourth down for Muhlenberg. In desperation Crum shot a long forward pass down the field. Two Lehigh men touched the ball, but it caromed off their bodies and right into the arms of Holstrom who lay on the ground on Lehigh's 8-yard line.

A short pass, Crum to Demoling, took the ball to the 1-foot line, and a penalty against Lehigh reduced the distance six inches. On the next play Fulcher crashed through tackle for a score and he also won the game with a perfect goal.

There were still a few minutes to play and Lehigh took the kick of Crum, with her back to the wall and full of the determination to win, and nearly did so. Rote, who had been substituted for Hardy, shot a forward pass to Lingle, and he snaked his way to Muhlenberg's 8-yard line. Here Muhlenberg held firm and a forward pass over the goal line was grounded just before the final whistle blew.—NORTH AMERICAN.

line for the first touchdown. Fulcher kicked the goal and the score was 13 to 7.

Still Lehigh did not see the menace of Muhlenberg's attack and second string men who were put in when the game seemed safely stowed away were allowed to remain.

After the first touchdown, Muhlenberg kicked off, and Demoling, fullback recovered. That started Muhlenberg on her way to the second touchdown, and with Fulcher successfully kicking the goal, the Allentown eleven won by the margin of one point.

This is Coach Spiegel's first year at Muhlenberg, and he accomplished wonders. Next year Muhlenberg need take nobody's dust on her schedule.

SOPHS UNPREPARED FOR FROSH BANQUET

Victory Over Lehigh Disclosed Secret to Sophs.

At the Hotel Allen on Saturday evening at six thirty, the freshmen held their annual banquet. What excitement among the freshman resulted when they learned that the football dinner was to be held there at nearly the same time! Secrecy was impossible. The Sophs are wise and although the Juniors and Seniors may be regular fellows, the Sophomores, who were there certainly seized a golden opportunity to redecorate the freshman rooms, notifying their classmates by telephone of the fortunate state of affairs.

There were books on the floor and tables lying like the man who tried to hold the lamp post up. The carpets looked like the haberdasher's window after an automobile had gone thru it, and the bedrooms looked like the result of a cyclone. My what ingenuity the Sophomores used when they tried to make a padded cell out of one of the showers, and how much the windows resembled those on the Bowery on washday with the pillows hanging out! Certainly it was a thorough "re-decoration," in the terms of a sophomore.

Meanwhile at the hotel after a splendidly planned banquet had been served and the programs signed by those present, Mr. Winkleman, the class president, introduced Professor Fasig who spoke of the great future ahead for Muhlenberg. He said the class of '25 were indeed fortunate to be freshmen at this time when a new era for the college had just begun. He told them that they must be true to themselves in doing their college work so that they might stay at Muhlenberg as her loyal and worthy sons.

Professor Simpson, the freshman guardian, and incidentally their English professor, was then introduced. He pleaded for a greater Muhlenberg and expressed the hope that the new library and science buildings would be finished before they left and that the class of 1925 would be one that Muhlenberg would be proud to call her own. He asked them to create for themselves high ideals and then live them. He also warned them to not attempt the time worn custom of trying to fool the professors. After this Professor Simpson wanted to sit down but none of those present would permit him to do so until he had given them some examples of his ready wit and humor which are always so well appreciated.

Coach Spiegel was then presented and with true spirit said that he wanted to thank the college men for the hearty support and that he expected to defeat Lehigh next year by even a better score than this season.

After this address, one of the freshmen, Mr. Long spoke briefly but forcefully on the value of school spirit. Then with one accord, at the suggestion of Professor Fasig, all present crowded around the Coach and wished him a long term of service with a victorious Muhlenberg. After the parade the freshmen hurried back to college to find out what beautiful decorative effects the Sophs had devised and used in refinishing their rooms.

DR. NATHAN R. MELHORN TO SPEAK ON COLLEGE NIGHT.

Dr. Nathan R. Melhorn, Managing Editor of the Lutheran, Philadelphia, will be the special preacher at St. John's church on next Sunday evening in the observance of College Night. Dr. Melhorn is well and favorably known among our student body as one of the most effective and popular speakers of the Lutheran Church. His exposition is always clear and pointed and his handling of practical themes shows a sense of ease and familiarity that indicates an understanding and mastery of the live issues of the day. All students and our college community are heartily invited.

DR. HAAS MAKES PLEA LIMITATION OF ARMAMENTS

Lantz Reports Resolutions Adopted at Princeton Conference.

The report of the Princeton Conference on Disarmament, was given in Chapel on Wednesday morning, by Thomas Lantz, '22, Muhlenberg's representative.

Mr. Lantz prefaced his report by the mentioning of certain routine work, after which he read a telegram which was sent to the conference by Pres. Harding and also one from Sec. of State, Charles E. Hughes.

He then said that the spirit of the conference was not to dictate to the Washington Conference on Disarmament, but to arouse intelligent public opinion. The delegates were charged with the duty of giving the spirit to the student body of their home college, who in turn should disseminate intelligent thought to the outside world.

The addresses of the Conference were given by eminent Economists, among whom were, Capt. Norman Mackey, who uttered the basic principle that the Conference at Washington should not be held behind open doors.

Prof. E. W. Kemmerer, another speaker, emphasized his remarks, by the use of charts, on which were the following figures, concerning the expenses of the United States in 1920: one per cent for public welfare; 3 per cent. for public works; three and eight-tenths per cent for government expenses; ninety two and eight-tenths per cent. for armaments.

The late war cost the United States $1,000,000 an hour, and the total deaths of all combatants numbered 7,502,000.

Maj. M. Smith of the 42nd Division then spoke, relating many pathetic incidents of the war, and impressed the idea, that student opinion will do more than any other thing to influence the Washington Conference.

Mr. Lantz read the program outlined by the Princeton Conference as reported in the WEEKLY.

Immediately following Mr. Lantz's report, the question of disarmament was forcefully discussed by Dr. Haas, who said,

"If we spend 92.8% of our money for armaments, we are totally out of proportion to the actual needs of civic life. It costs more to build one battleship, than would be required for educational facilities for 3 states. If armaments are not limited, competition will become so great that in time nations will break down financially."

Dr. Haas went on to say that progress must cease if taxes are not soon lowered, and that a nation deserves to die if it does not lower the taxes.

He appealed to all college men to speak openly concerning the horribleness of war as it has increased from the days of the cave man, to the present post-war chemical developments, which are so horrible that they cannot be published.

"That war takes the best manhood of a nation," continued Dr. Haas, "is a fact, with the result intellectual and moral standards are lowered and this creates new problems of health, morals and spiritual life."

Dr. Haas next brought out the fact that the quicker a nation is to arm, the quicker is its desire to fight. Speaking of the causes of war, he said, that the commercial interests were a big factor, as well as insidious propaganda, which commits people to the idea of fighting. Gradations of rank are an outgrowth of the military system and if we must save democracy, we must abolish this autocratic custom, and must reduce armament.

"As for the Eastern question" continued Dr. Haas, "we must look at it from a standpoint of a religious attitude, and produce a new humanity of righteousness, which can only be done through Christianity."

He declared that college men must declare themselves idealists, as there is no greater issue on trial before the Almighty.

"If the Washington Conference is not open, let America rise up in indignation and demand an open meeting, and thus make America and the world a happier and better place to live in," was the final sentiment, which Dr. Haas gave to the students.

GLEE CLUB WILL HAVE A DRAMATIC PROGRAM

First Rehearsal Forecasts A Very Successful Season.

The best Glee Club that Muhlenberg ever had held their first rehearsal in the College Chapel on Tuesday. Professor Marks was well pleased with the singing and hopes to produce a Glee Club that will place Muhlenberg high in musical circles. The Club expects to make one of its best numbers: "When our dreams come true" by Bishop. Bishop has written some of the best concert waltzes on the market today. This number promises to be one of the biggest hits of the season.

Another feature will be "The Bell-man" written by Forsyth, in commemoration of the death of Shakespeare, April 23, 1616. The scene of the story lies in an English light house. "The Bell-Man" is discovered at a window scanning the storm clouded sea. He is heard to say: "Past three o'clock—Past three o'clock—No moon—And a Stormy night."

He says that he watches and prays for all who are awake or who sleep.

The clock strikes four—"The Bell-man's" voice is heard faintly in the distance: "Past four o'clock—Past four o'clock—No moon—and a stormy night." The staging details are being followed, and this selection should be a decided success.

"My Homeland," by Speaks, "A Song of the Pirate," W. Rhys-Herbert, "Dreams of what might have been" Francis. "Ole Uncle Moon" Scott. "Go to Father," Jenks. "On the Sea," Bucks. "Dreaming," Murchison. "Ain't you coming out Malindy?" "Chorus of Departing Pilgrims," taken from "Tannhauser" by Wagner.

The Dramatic Department of the Glee Club will come together for the first tryouts of the clever one act farce entitled "When a Man Marries," written by W. Bruce MacIntosh '19, on Tuesday the 8th. Mr. MacIntosh is the well known comedian of the "Oh, oh, Cindy" company. He has been connected with several theatrical companies, and has produced a number of successful farces, the most noted being "Prexy By Proxy." The casting and directing of the play will be under the supervision of The Rev. Professor J. D. M. Brown.

Phi Kappa Tau Entertains Freshman

A large number of the freshman class were present at a stag given by the Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity on Thursday, Nov. 3. The evening was spent in cards, pool, and various other games. Tasty refreshments were served. Faculty members present included Dr. Wright, Prof. Shankweiler and Dr. Ettinger, and Prof. Simpson.

The annual Hallowe'en Dance of the Delta Theta Fraternity was held last Tuesday evening at Howel Hall, in Northampton.

The hall was neatly decorated with pumpkins, leaves and cornstalks amidst fraternity and college banners. Cozy corners were placed in different places throughout the hall for those who wished to take a rest from the light fantastic.

The music was furnished by the Melody Boys Orchestra of Allentown. A special number was rendered by the orchestra, which made a big hit.

Many Delta Alumni were present, including Dr. and Mrs. Noble as chaperones. The active chapter served a light lunch during the intermission to the alumni. The dance was a big success.

FACULTY NOTES

Prof. Fritsch addressed an Audience of 600 at Sellersville on Tuesday evening at the Luther League Institute of Chester, Montgomery, and Bucks Co. On Thursday of this week he will address the same Institute at Hatfield. Dean Ettinger gave the Rally Day address, Sunday October 23 at Rev. J. W. Bittner's Church at Kutztown. In the afternoon he spoke on "Christian Education" at Bern Church, Berks County.

In the evening he gave a reformation address at Kutztown, the subject was "The Lutheran phase of the Protestant Reformation."

Prof. Fritsch held the vesper services of the Y. W. C. A., last Sunday.

Dr. Ettinger delivered the Rally Day address on Oct. 30th at the Lutheran church, South Perkaskie, Rev. Curtis A. Miller, pastor.

On Tuesday, October 25 the Dean spoke before the Ladies of Muhlenberg College at the residence of J. K. Mosser, Trexlertown. The subject of his address was "The Story of Our Fathers," a history of the Pennsylvania Germans.

Prof. Bailey lectured during the past week before the Edwin G. Martin Masonic Body of Allentown. The Women's Club, of Catasauqua, and the Emanuel Reformed Congregation, of Allentown. His subject was "The Great Dismal Swamp."

Dr. Haas spoke at the one-hundredth anniversary services of Christ Church of Schuylkill Haven, Pa., on Sunday.

Professor Bailey spoke on the protection and propagation of birds before the Brotherhood of the Bridge Street Presbyterian Church of Catasauqua on Tuesday last.

PHI KAPPA TAU HOLDS

HALLOWEEN PARTY

The Phi Kappa Tau fraternity men and lady friends journeyed to Shantz's barn on Tuesday night, Nov. 1st, and there amid the rustic decoration, made merry. The masqueraders after a grand march unmasked themselves, and then dancing began. Numerous games interspersed the dancing. The party were treated to the regular Halloween feast of apples, and cider.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA HOLDS HALLOWEEN PARTIES

Alpha Tau Omega celebrated Halloween by holding two parties, one on Monday night for the seniors and the other on Tuesday evening for the juniors and sophomores. New men were guests at each of the parties. The fraternity was rustically decorated with corn husks, leaves, pumpkins, etc. The fellows and their lady friends spent the evening in dancing, cards, and pool. The music was furnished by several members of the Fantasy Six, everyone that dances knows the kind of music that was played. Cider and pumpkin custard were among the refreshments that were served. The rate that the cider disappeared reminded one of the days before prohibition. All present enjoyed themselves and look forward to more parties of the same kind.

EXTENSION DIVISION GROWING RAPIDLY

That the Extension Division of Muhlenberg ranks high in circles of education, is the general opinion, not only of those enrolled in the school, but also of outsiders.

Under the able leadership of Director Dr. Isaac Miles Wright, the school has not only grown by leaps and bounds in numbers, but also in quality and efficiency, as can easily be seen by the personnel of those enrolled.

Muhlenberg College has gained the recognition by the State Educational authorities, as being one of the foremost schools of Pedagogy in the State of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Wright spent Wednesday, October 26, in consultation with the U. S. Commissioner of Education, Dr. Tigert, at Easton, Pa.

BONFIRE AND CELEBRATION MARK BURIAL OF LEHIGH JINX

City Joins With College In Burning Effigy of Lehigh

COACH SPIEGEL STARTS
MEMORABLE BLAZE

Monday, November 7th, was Muhlenberg Day in Allentown. The townspeople joined with the students in rejoicing that our ancient rivals from Bethlehem had at last been vanquished. The defeat of Lehigh was the one big topic everywhere. Preparations for the celebration were started early in the morning. After a short pep meeting in the chapel, the student-body was divided into squads and sent off to gather wood for the bonfire. Five big poles were set up in the vacant field opposite the campus, just across Chew street. Then eight trucks with a band of willing workers on each, began to scour the city for anything and everything that would burn. Late in the afternoon the last load was thrown on the pile and the immense mass of wood, as big as a house, was ready to burn.

Hostilities started in the evening with a parade down town. Preceded by the Marine Band, which played funeral dirges, the coffin was followed by the grief-stricken father and mother, and a host of other mourners, as well as the deceased's pet goat. The sorrowful wailing of the sad procession moved many of the onlookers to tears. Upon reaching the Orpheum, the mourners filed into the theater and took their places in the front rows. The football squad was the guest of the manager in the boxes, which were decorated with banners and pennants. As soon as the curtain, with its gay hangings of Cardinal and Gray, went up, the last remains of Lehigh were solemnly borne on the stage to the tune of Chopin's funeral march, followed by John Sefing, who wore the clerical garb with a grave demeanor which well befitted the occasion. His funeral oration was a eulogy which stirred the hearers to the depths of their hearts. Then came the regular Orpheum program, with all of the actors receiving such a welcome as they have probably never had before, mainly because they seized the opportunity to pull off some good jokes at the expense of the football players, who had to rise and acknowledge the applause of the audience. Not the least part of the performance was the dragging of Lehigh's goat across the stage. Everyone present voted it the best Muhlenberg night ever pulled off at the Orpheum.

After the show the procession marched through the crowded streets to the monument, where the funeral services were held with Deacon Mattson and a large choir officiating. The entire Center Square was packed with people, who fully appreciated the clever oration and services.

The procession then wended its way back to the campus, followed by thousands of sympathizing townsfolk. Amid loud shouts of applause, Coach Spiegel set a match to the pile of wood and a blaze sprang up which was plainly seen as far away as Fullerton and the dormitories at Lehigh. The effigy of Lehigh, strung up at the summit of the pile, could not stand the heat, but quickly succumbed, to the great delight of the crowd. The crowd joined in cheering the football players and in singing the songs of victory.

Afterwards, the student body and football squad were the guests of Dr and Mrs. Haas at the Commons, where the day was fittingly topped off with mighty good eats.

The hearty thanks of the Faculty and Student Body of Muhlenberg are extended to the Fire and Police Departments of Allentown for their splendid co-operation throughout the evening.

AZTECS HOLD SMOKER

Many freshmen and upper-classmen were gathered at 819 Turner St., on Thursday night, when they were entertained by the Aztecs. The smoker was a jolly affair with lots of "pep."

During the course of the evening games of all kinds were played, including pool, Haas en Pepper, and numerous others. Everybody engaged in them and thoroughly enjoyed the evening. The program included speeches from Dr. Kleckner, and Professors Simpson and Mueller, and violin selections by Preuss of the Freshman class. Then followed a round of story-telling in which everyone joined.

The atmosphere was cleared when the refreshments were served under the able stewardship of "Jack" Berger. Knowing that Friday was to be a holiday, the fellows were better able to enjoy themselves and, the party broke up with a great deal of regret on the part of all those present.

CAMPUS JOTTINGS

One of the Freshmen asked to report for work for the WEEKLY thought he would be sent down town to sell the paper on the street corner. It might not be such a bad idea at that! Since the green tags have disappeared, the Freshmen have the appearance of having arrived instead of being "on the way."

The force of painters who have been "saving the surface" of the dormitories have completed their decorations on the dorms, and are now working on the President's residence.

The Thanksgiving Issue of the WEEKLY will appear next Tuesday with special decorations, and eight pages instead of the usual four. A resume of the football season, and other timely features are being arranged for by Fred Weiler, '23, who will have complete charge of the issue. Similar holiday editions will be issued December 13 by Robert K. Miller, and April 11 by Horace Mann.

WILMER AND VINCENT GIVE CUP TO TEAM

A fine silver loving cup was presented to the Muhlenberg team last night at a performance of "Two Minutes to Go" at the Colonial Theatre, at which the members of the team were guests.

John Maloy, local manager for the Wilmer and Vincent theatrical interests offered the cup to the team winning the Fordham-Muhlenberg game, and when Muhlenberg made good he threw in a box party as a further expression of his pleasure in the victory.

John Sefing made the presentation speech, and Graduate Manager Guernsey Afflerbach responded. The cup is on display in one of the shop windows down town, previous to being placed in the college Trophy Room.

COLLEGES ORGANIZE TO AID STUDENTS OF EUROPE

The schools and colleges of the Atlantic coast States are the first to organize in a nation wide campaign for the relief of more than 100,000 European students struggling for an education against post war conditions. Representatives are being appointed to organize the student body in each school.

Last year the students of the schools and colleges of the United States contributed $580,000 for European relief through the American Relief Administration campaign. At the request of Herbert Hoover relief work among the students was carried on by the World's Student Christian Federation. To continue this work the students of the United States have undertaken this Student Friendship Fund campaign for $500,000.

A recent dispatch from Geneva, Switzerland from Frank A. Vanderlip urges the immediate need of sufficient funds to continue European student relief. Mr. Vanderlip has made a study of the student crisis. The desperate shortage of professional men in the countries of central and eastern Europe makes this relief work necessary not so much to overcome the physical suffering these students are enduring but to safe guard the life and efficiency of this generation of future leaders of Europe.

ANNOUNCEMENT

On Monday, Nov. 21, at 6:30 P. M. in the chapel, Prof. Bailey will give his annual lecture on SEX HYGIENE. All the freshmen must attend and the whole student body is invited.

The Y. M. C. A. Christian Service drive is practically over and it looks as though we shall approach our goal if not attain it entirely. There is still a little work to do. Let's do it as soon as possible. The Cabinet realizes that the successful football season has turned our minds from all else, but now for a quick finish.

The calendar also reminds us that the date of the first payment of the pledges is also here. It is November 15. Let's come across promptly and not let the matter drag. We might as well show a little "pep" along these lines now. LET'S GET BUSY!

Palmerton Men Attend Game.

Fifty members of the Brotherhood of Palmerton Holy Trinity Lutheran Church treated themselves to an outing on Saturday, when they attended the Fordham game in a body, and adjourned to Guthsville for a chicken and waffle supper.

Dr. Haas and Field Secretary Afflerbach were guests at the supper, and gave short talks about Muhlenberg past and future.

Senior Speaks at Summit Lawn

Titus V. Druckenmiller, '22, was the speaker at a Father and Son service of the Summit Lawn Mission on Sunday evening. His talk was well received by the congregation.

Witt Breaks Through The Line
For Both Of The Touchdowns

SCORE OF 12-7 HELD
AFTER SECOND QUARTER

Fordham became the fourth successive victim of Coach Johnny Spiegel's Cardinal and Gray eleven last Saturday when the warriors of our Alma Mater ploughed through mud and the giant Maroon team for two touchdowns. As usual the Muhlenberg organization did not get started before their opponents had scored a touchdown. The game was played in the midst of a continuous drizzle, the aftermath of a hard night and morning rain. In the stands over a thousand Muhlenberg supporters followed the game whenever the teams emerged for the sake of air or got into shallow territory. Time and again both teams submerged but generally the ball was brought up in the hands of a Muhlenberg man. Fumbles were frequent but neither side was unfortunate enough to lose out on gains made by fumbles. The local collegians managed to keep the ball in enemy territory most of the time and after the first period the Muhlenberg goal was never in any serious danger. The condition of the field slowed up the game considerably, both teams sticking to straight football after several attempts at crafty football had failed.

Witt was easily the shining light of the Cardinal and Gray eleven, scoring both touchdowns on off tackle plays after Crum and Holstrom had advanced the ball to within striking distance of the goal. The line showed up a wonderful defence and Fordham's only score was made on a quick end run from the thirty yard line.

The visitors started off after sliding and slipping around in midfield for the first ten minutes of play. With the ball on Muhlenberg's thirty yard line and four downs to go, Mahoney took the ball and faked an off tackle play, running around left end for Fordham's only tally. Strand kicked the goal. For the rest of the period neither side made any gains, the ball being in midfield when the referee's whistle blew. Fordham got the only first down in the quarter.

In the second quarter Muhlenberg opened up. Witt and Crum carried the ball through the line for two first downs. A pass from Crum to Holstrom netted the home team fourteen yards and Witt was again called to go through the Fordham line. Nothing could stop him. He broke through the Maroon line and dodged around the secondary defence for the touchdown that started the Muhlenberg scoring. Fulcher's kick went wild and the score stood 7-6 in favor of the visitors. Before the half was over Witt had again crossed the enemy goal line on an off tackle play. An exchange of punts after the kickoff netted a substantial gain for the Cardinal and Gray eleven and two forwards, Crum and Daniels, and Crum for Holstrom, brought the ball close enough for Witt to take it over. Fulcher's kick bounded back from the goal post and Muhlenberg made the last score of the game.

After the first half the breaks went more or less against the local team. Four times they were within scoring distance but lacked the necessary punch to carry the ball over. But the second half was the most spectacular part of the game. Fordham's

Editorial Comment

For the first time in many years Allentown has been forcibly reminded that it is a college town. The sensation of the defeating Lehigh, and the spectacular celebration leading up to the climax of the bonfire awakened all but the last few of the 83,607 inhabitants of the city to the fact Muhlenberg is more than a sign on a street car.

With the full support of the Allentownians, who pride themselves on their achievements in civic progress, Muhlenberg has prospects of a future continually increasing in brilliancy, not merely in the sports but from every possible standpoint.

Some of our friends have trouble in deciding whether we are a "berg" or a "burg." There is enough difference between a hill and a castle to make the distinction important. According to "true etymology," our name denotes a hill of windmills. Fordham and Lehigh played the part of Sancho Panza in attacking the windmill, as did he Gettysburgians who seem to have the most trouble in spelling Muhlenberg with an "e."

That the Lutheran Church is not ready to establish a University is the contention of Dr. Haas in a recent contribution to the AMERICAN LUTHERAN SURVEY. We believe that it would not be going too far to ask: "Is the Lutheran Church doing its full duty toward the institutions it already has?"

Speaking only for Muhlenberg college and her Lutheran supporters, we would be forced to answer in the negative. Last year a half million dollar campaign was projected, the need for which no one questioned, and of the three hundred thousand dollars asked of congregations outside of Allentown, only a bit over two-thirds was subscribed. On the other hand, the business men of the city, together with the local Lutherans, oversubscribed their quota of two hundred thousand dollars within a few days after the opening of the campaign.

Improvements are imperative now, if Muhlenberg is to continue the conservative and solid progress which has characterized her history. The chemical laboratory needs attention first of all; the librarian is exceedingly cramped; the room used for daily chapel services is inadequate; — to mention only necessary changes in existing facilities.

We who are enjoying the advantages provided at Muhlenberg are conscious of our debt to those who have supported our college and brought her to her present high standard, and we have no desire to "look a gift horse in the mouth." Our only purpose in referring to these facts is to point out some of the ways in which the resources of the church can be applied more effectively than in setting up a third or fourth rate "University."

When the chastising parent wielding a slipper says, "this is hurting me as much as it is hurting you," the statement may be a vaudeville joke. When one nation is trying to coerce another by means of military operations, it is no longer a joke, but a ghastly truth. In fact, the victor may suffer more than the vanquished, and history records the rapid rise of many defeated nations and the downfall of the conquerors.

Kaiser Wilhelm sought to abolish war by making the German Empire a master of the world. His extremely humane purpose was thwarted by the armies of France and Belgium, and of the other nations who became allied with them.

A less drastic peace measure is the proposed curtailment of naval and military equipments, which the powers of the world are seeking to accomplish in the Washington Disarmament Conference called by President Harding. For the first time in history, diplomacy is working in the open, with the United States giving a memorable example of the American method of getting at a problem.

Reduction of military expenditures may not prevent all wars, but it will be fully worth while if it does nothing more than reduce taxes in the "piping times of peace."

line held just a little too well to suit our quarterback so he uncorked a series of his short snappy passes and made good ground with them. On the twenty-five yard line Fulcher attempted drop kick but it fell short and was put down on Fordham's ten yard line. Meyers punted to safe territory and after Muhlenberg failed to gain through the line received Demoling's punt and ran it back to the forty-five yard line. Two end runs netted the visitors a first down and immediately Thornton made another by driving through center. Demoling intercepted a forward and Muhlenberg again carried the ball by the aerial route to the danger zone. Crum heaved a long pass to Fulcher and on several line bucks the ball was brought to the enemy's ten yard line. On the fourth down Crum tried another pass but it was grounded and Fordham got the ball on their twenty yard line. All attempts at scoring hereafter were vain and the game ended in a hard scrimmage in midfield with Muhlenberg in possession of the ball and a 12-7 victory.

WEEKLY UNITES ALUMNI WITH COLLEGE

Some of the replies that reach the Circulation Manager in response to his letters are interesting to read. One of the bills came back with a check, and a note, "This is the 39th annual payment I make, and I am proud of the record. Rev. A. M. Weber."

Characteristic of the Muhlenberg Spirit is the following letter from the pastor of the Lutheran Church of St. Luke, Farmingdale, New York.

The Muhlenberg Weekly, Allentown, Pa.

Dear Sirs:—

Am enclosing check for $1.75 for a year's subscription for the WEEKLY. My very best wishes for the success of the WEEKLY go with the subscription.

About the only familiar names in the WEEKLY, besides the names of a few professors, are the old stand-by business names appearing in the "ads." Here and there a familiar name crops up in the name of a father's son. Otherwise the news is about strangers to me. And yet the old spirit lives on—the Muhlenberg spirit. I believe it is the calling of that spirit which prompts me to subscribe.

Sincerely yours,

William H. Steinbricker

'74—On Sunday evening October 23, memorial services were held in St. John's Lutheran Church, Allentown, Pa., for the late Judge Milton Henninger, who at the time of his death, was the superintendent of the Sunday School. Among the principal speakers were Hon. Clinton J. Groman, President Judge of the Courts of Lehigh County, Dr. John A. W. Haas, President of Muhlenberg College, and Rev. William C. Schaeffer, Jr., the pastor of the congregation. All paid the highest tribute to the memory of Judge Henninger as a worthy citizen, a just and able jurist and, above all, as a Christian gentleman.

'82—One of the most popular lecturers at the New York Chautauqua, during the last season, was Samuel C. Schmucker, Ph. D. Sc. D., the head of the Biological Department of the West Chester, Pa., Normal School.

'83—At the recent commencement of Thiel College, at Greenville, Pa., Rev. William A. Sadtler, Ph. D., of Brunswick, Georgia, was honored with the degree of Doctor of Divinity.

'90—Evan B. Lewis, of the class of 1890, was a candidate for District Attorney of Philadelphia on the American and Charter Party tickets.

'18—Fred J. Fiedler, of Scranton, is being sent out as a missionary to India, according to a recent number of the FOREIGN MISSIONARY. The article says:

"Rev. Mr. Fiedler, of Scranton, Pa., is a graduate of Muhlenberg College and the Philadelphia Lutheran Theological Seminary. He was ordained at the last meeting of the Ministerium of Pennsylvania. He married Sarah Rhoads Mayberry of Pottstown, Pa., who taught one year in the Spring City High School and five years in the Pottstown High School. They are being supported by Emmanuel church, Pottstown, Pa. Rev. I. B. Kurtz, D.D., pastor."

'18—Harold W. Helfrich is the president of the Allentown High School Alumni Association which was recently brought to life by a group of interested High School Graduates. He presided at a meeting held in the High School Auditorium on November 7, at which time Supt. of Schools H. W. Dodd spoke to the assembled alumni.

FACULTY NOTES

Prof. Brown delivered the Reformation address at St. Peters Lutheran Church, Rittersville, on Sunday, October 30.

SCISSORS AND PASTE

That sure was a "he" celebration that we had after the Lehigh game wasn't it?

The goat that was borrowed for the occasion was apparently not used to such long walks because when we got about down to Fourteenth street it was all tired out and only hitting on about three cylinders.

That's why we boosted it up on top of the casket.

Did you notice what a good crowd was at the Fordham game in spite of the rain?

The town sure is with us now, isn't it? The "psychology of a winning team" is more than a theory.

Personally we weren't much in favor of the "Cedar Crest Chatter" column in this paper but not long ago we received a beautifully illustrated catalogue from a manufacturer of middy suits and blouses, etc.

We're not in the market for ladies gymnasium suits but just the same we appreciate any works of art which may come in our mail.

In the directions for taking measurements there are a few items we can't understand.

One of the directions is "Actual Waist Measure. Make no allowance."
This is too deep for us.

We wonder if the waist measure should be taken before or after meals.

If a girl ate at our commons it wouldn't make much difference, would it?

And it calls for two hip measurements, one 6 inches below the waist and the other 8 inches below the waist.

After observing the styles of the last couple years we wonder how to determine just where the waist is.

The average woman's waist seems to be about as reliable as the weather.

Here is some stuff in a more serious vein:

Mrs. Worweth — When Johnson
asked you if you liked "Omar Khayyam" you shouldn't have said you never drank it.

Mr. Worweth—Why not?

Mrs. Worweth—Why, because it's not a drink—it's a cheese!—Young Folks.

Fair Co-ed (to football star): "Were you ever penalized for holding?"

Football Star: "Er—well—I had my face slapped once."—Thielensian.

One of the Co-Eds.

Customer: "Are you sure that this milk is clean?"

Waiter: "As clear as a Co-ed's mind."

Customer: "Give me a cup of coffee.—The Susquehanna.

Why Not?

He: "Why don't you make the bread like my mother used to bake?"

She: "Why don't you make the dough like my father used to make?"

Virginia: "Am I the only girl you really love?"

"Red" Updegraff: "Oh! my yes. All the rest are women now."—Susquehanna.

The time is bound to come when not a little of the joy of life will be provided by that rare faculty which God has given to bless old age, the memory. And so many an incident valued lightly now may be a gem in future years. It will be well to lay by for future good some things that may be thrown aside as valueless today. Especially is this true of current numbers of the college paper.

Carefully file your "Weekly."

Cop: "Hey! Where are you going?
Don't you know this is a one-way

President Lincoln's Proclamation in 1863

"The year that is drawing to its close has been filled with the blessings of fruitful fields and healthful skies. To these bounties, which are so constantly enjoyed that we are prone to forget the source from which they come, others have been added, which are of so extraordinary a nature that cannot fail to penetrate and soften even the heart which is habitually insensible to the ever-watchful providence of Almighty God.

"In the midst of a civil war of unequalled magnitude and severity, which has sometimes seemed to foreign states to invite and to provoke their aggression, peace has been preserved with all nations, order has been maintained, the laws have been respected and obeyed, and harmony has prevailed everywhere, except in the theater of military conflict, while that theater has been greatly contracted by the advancing armies and navies of the Union.

"Needful diversions of wealth and of strength from the fields of peaceful industry to the national defence have not arrested the plow, the shuttle, or the ship; the ax has enlarged the borders of our settlements, and the mines, as well of iron and coal as of the precious metals, have increased notwithstanding the waste that has been made in the camp, the siege and the battlefield, and the country, rejoicing in the consciousness of augmented strength and vigor, is permitted to expect continuance of years with large increase of freedom.

"No human counsel hath devised nor hath any mortal hand worked out these great things. They are the gracious gifts of the most High God, who, while dealing with us in anger for our sins, hath nevertheless remembered mercy.

"It has seemed to me fit and proper that they should be solemnly, reverently, and gratefully acknowledged, as with one heart and one voice, by the whole American people. I do therefore invite my fellow-citizens in every part of the United States, and also, with humble penitence, for our national perverseness and disobedience, commend to His tender care all those who have become widows, orphans, mourners, or sufferers in the lamentable civil strife in which we are unavoidably engaged, and fervently implore the interposition of the Almighty Hand to heal the wounds of the nation and to restore it, as soon as may be consistent with the divine purposes, to the full enjoyment of peace, harmony, tranquillity, and union.

"In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the city of Washington, this third day of October, A. D. 1863, and of the Independence of the United States the eighty-eighth."

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

By the President:—
William H. Seward, Secretary of State.

MUHLENBERG ADDS ALBRIGHT TO STRING OF VICTORIES

Albright Surprises Fans With Stiff Battle—Large Delegation of Rooters Accompany Team.

Coach Spiegel took his Cardinal and Gray squad to Meyerstown last Saturday to play the second last game of the season and incidentally bring home the fifth consecutive victory for the Cardinal and Gray eleven. In a sultry atmosphere and on a soggy field the Cardinal and Gray battled until the whistle sounded victory for the visitors by a score of 15-7. Benfer's aggregation showed up a wonderful scrap, but lacked the punch to go through the Muhlenberg lines for more than one touchdown. The Cardinal and Gray eleven put up the poorest exhibition of football of the season, but whenever the situation became critical the team settled down and showed the same class that has delighted Muhlenberg fans throughout the season.

The only thrills of the game were when Johnson recovered a fumble and ran sixty yards, only to be tackled by the more fleet-footed Miller, within six yards of the goal line, and when Reese intercepted a forward pass and made thirty yard gain. Reed was at his best in the punting and his beautiful kicks served as great ground gainers for the Cardinal and Gray. The Albright eleven clung to straight football throughout the game and made many substantial gains, but lacked the necessary punch to put the

FANS LOOK FOR EASY VICTORY ON THURSDAY

Ursinus With Ten Day Rest Will Have Hard Fight on Local Field.

The Thanksgiving Day game this year will not be the hotly contested battle that has taken place for the last few seasons. If comparative scores are to be trusted, the Cardinal and Gray team should walk thru Ursinus aggregation for at least five touchdowns. Ursinus was shut out in her games with Rutgers, Villanova, Georgetown, Gettysburg, P. M. C., and F. & M. The only team that the Collegevillians have beaten this year was Dickinson. They had no game scheduled for last Saturday and have been training hard in order to make good against the team which beat Lehigh and Swarthmore. This game will give some of our second team men the chance that they have been waiting for eagerly all season. And it will be the sixth consecutive victory for Spiegel's cohorts.

A recent editorial in the Ursinus Weekly stated that their team had had better coaching, equipment, etc. than ever before. Considering that and the fact that they have had nearly two weeks to prepare for this biggest game of their season, they should be able to put up enough fight to make the game interesting.

President Harding's Thanksgiving Proclamation

"That season has come when, alike well to pledge in humanity and all in pursuance of a devout people's time-honored custom and in grateful recognition of favoring national fortunes, it is proper that the president should summon the nation to a day of devotion, of thanksgiving for blessings bestowed and of prayer for guidance in modes of life that may deserve continuance of divine favor.

"Foremost among our blessings is the return of peace, and the approach of normal ways again. The year has brought us again into relations of amity with all nations after a long period of struggle and turbulence. In thankfulness therefore, we well may unite in the hope that Providence will vouchsafe approval to the things we have done, the aims that have guided us, and the inspirations that have inspired us. We have prospered as we deserved prosperity, seeking not alone for material things but those of the spirit as well; only trying to help others, asking before all else, the privilege of service. As we render thanks anew for the exaltation which came to us, we may fittingly petition that moderation and wisdom shall be granted to rest upon all who are in authority, in the tasks they must discharge. Their hands will be steadied, their purposes strengthened, in answer to our prayers.

"Ours has been a favored nation in the bounty which God has bestowed upon it. The great trial of humanity, though indeed we bore our part as well as we were able, left us comparatively little scarred. It is for us to recognize that we have been thus favored, and when we are gathered at our altars to offer up thanks, we will do sincerely, our purpose to prove deserving. We have been raised up and pre-eminence in national power and consequence, as part of a plan whose wisdom we can not question. Thus believing we can do no less than hold our nation the willing instrument of the providence which has so wonderfully favored us. Opportunity for very great service awaits us if we shall prove equal to it. Let our prayers be raised for direction in the right paths. Under God, our responsibility is great; to our own first, to all men afterward; to all mankind in God's own justice.

"Now, therefore, I, Warren G. Harding, president of the United States, hereby designate Thursday, the twenty-fourth day of November, to be observed by the people as a day of thanksgiving, devotion and prayer; urging that at their hearth-sides and their altars they will give thanks for all that has been rendered unto them and will pray for a continuance of the divine fortune, which has been showered so generously upon this nation.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the seal of the U. S. of America.

"Done at the capital of the United States, this 31st day of October in the year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and twenty-one and of the independence of the United States, the one hundred and forty-sixth.

(signed "Warren G. Harding.

"By the President,
Charles E. Hughes,
"Secretary of State."

THE "Y" BUDGET AGAIN!

The campaign to raise $900.00 to cover the entire program of Y. M. C. A. activities during the present college year and to put the "Y" organization on a working basis for the next year was started on October 19th. Within a week every man at school had been interviewed and acquainted with the aims and purposes of the campaign. Pledges and cash subscriptions were secured from most men promptly and readily. Combining various Christian campaigns of former years into a Budget met with popular approval on all sides. Most of the men have come across in fine style. Results show reports from 188 men for a total of $765.00. This leaves eighty men unaccounted for and the campaign almost $200.00 short of its objective.

This campaign cannot be extended throughout the year. At this late date, a part of the subscription should be cash, for the Y. M. C. A. obligations are coming due. The amount pledged to the European Relief Fund should be paid the first week in December. Therefore, every man who has not subscribed is asked to do so at once and accompany his subscription with enough cash to help cover the payment to European Student Relief. Mr. Berze, the treasurer, also asks that the pledges for Nov. 15 be paid promptly.

Being Again Approved

Muhlenberg College has been notified that it has again been placed in the list of approved colleges in the Middle Atlantic states. It has met the advanced requirements in respect to endowment, teaching force and equipment, and standing in the universities of its graduates.

Why We Ought to be Thankful

The approach of Thanksgiving reminds us that we ought to take account of all the things for which we should be grateful. It is so easy to enumerate difficulties that we often fail to recognize advantages auspiciously, and that we have so large a student body enrolled.

It is a matter for gratitude that we have been able to record in many respects an advance in student sentiment that makes for higher student standards. The Student Council is taking hold of a number of problems in our inner government deserves congratulation for its work. We are grateful that there is such progress in student spirit and student morale.

We certainly dare not forget that we have had the most remarkable football season in our whole history, and that the name of Muhlenberg has been carried from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the borders of Canada to Florida. It will soon be no longer necessary for any man to explain where he goes to college when he mentions Muhlenberg.

We are grateful for the earnestness and the successful teaching of our professors, whose courses are more excellent than ever and whose work is receiving recognition in the excellence and ability which our graduate students display in the various professional schools and universities in which they are enrolled.

We are grateful that our debts have not grown any larger than heretofore, and while we still need very much, we have not gone backward as a college, but we have advanced our resources.

We are grateful that through the liberality of friends we have added so valuable a collection of birds, birds' eggs, and relics to the department of Biology. We desire also to recognize the increasing equipment which is to be given to the Chemical Department and the continued growth of our library. We are looking forward to the day close at hand when we want to begin putting up our library, our science building, and our gymnasium.

As Americans, we are grateful that Secretary Hughes has announced so large a program for disarmament, and that American diplomacy has made the greatest step forward in the problems of world peace that have ever been registered. We have every reason to thank God for the outlook of our diplomats who are keeping true to the best traditions of the idealism of American life.

As Christians, we are grateful for health and strength, for advantages of many kinds and for success, and for the enumerable gifts of God. We ought to accept them humbly, and use them rightly so that we may help the coming of the Kingdom in this great world of ours.

JOHN A. W. HAAS,
President of Muhlenberg

NOV. 28 DATE OF BIG FOOTBALL BANQUET

First in Five Years—A. A. Expects All Students To Be Present.

As a fitting close to the most successful football season that a Muhlenberg team has attained, a big banquet in honor of the squad and coach will be held next Monday evening, November 28, at the Hotel Allen. The Athletic Association is making the plans for the affair, and they are making a special price of $1.50 to students, with the expectation that the great majority of the students will attend. Members of the A. A., alumni, and fans will be accommodated for the price of $2.00 a plate.

The last previous football banquet at Muhlenberg was held back in the days of Coach Price, whose 1916 team held Lehigh to 9 points, and made a remarkable record throughout the season. With all the enthusiasm that has been raised by the successive victories of this year, the banquet will have "pep" of a kind that smokers and banquets of the past could not equal.

Coach Spiegel will leave for his home in Detroit after the banquet, in order to return to his Real Estate business by the first of December. Muhlenberg will again have his services as coach of football next year. Other guests of prominence in the football world are being invited to Monday night's spread by the A. A. banquet committee.

Everybody out on Thursday. It's going to be a game worth while seeing—especially to friends of Muhlenberg.

DR. HAAS TO ADDRESS SATURDAY SCHOOL

Due to the Thanksgiving recess of Muhlenberg College, there will be no sessions of the Extension Division on Saturday, Nov. 26, 1921.

The Students of the Extension Division will be given a treat on Saturday morning Dec. 10, when Dr. Haas will give an address in the chapel on "Democracy and Education." Classes will be excused at 11 o'clock, so that all may be able to hear Dr. Haas speak.

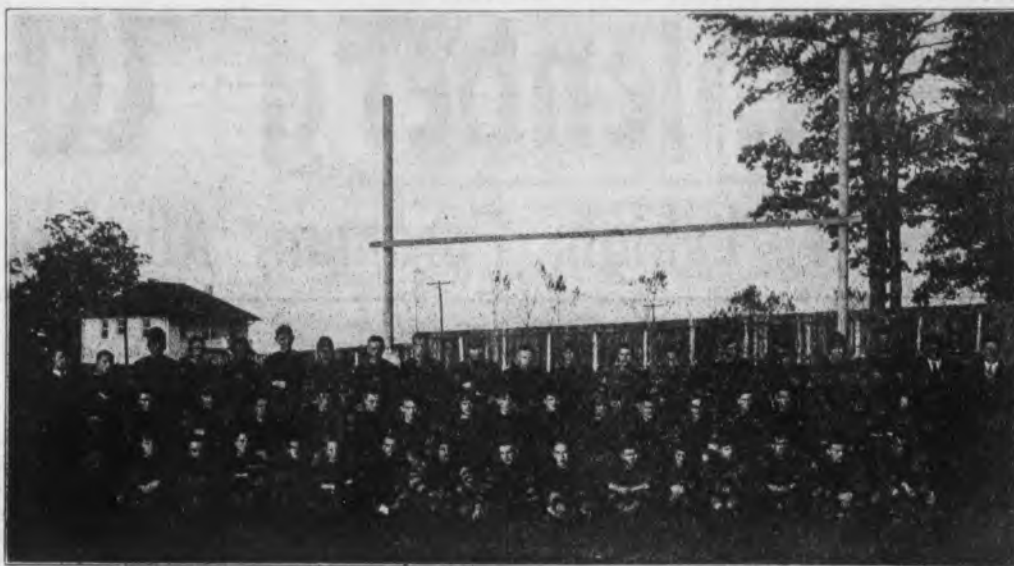

Many of the students having heard of Dr. Haas' reputation, have never had the pleasure of hearing Dr. Haas speak, and therefore will make the most of this opportunity.

Get that "cheer gang" in trim, for there will be plenty of occasion for cheering on Thursday.

BUILDING CAMPAIGN

Ever since Muhlenberg's football team defeated Lehigh, all Allentown and especially the campus was flooded with rumors to the effect that Muhlenberg would now be the recipient of either a stadium or a modern gymnasium from some vitally interested alumnus or friend. All these rumors, as far as can be ascertained are merely rumors, and there the theme of the story ends. After some investigation, it has been determined that the college authorities know nothing of any such elaborate gifts to the college. However, the entire student body, as well as the faculty, is earnestly hoping that some kind friend will endear himself into the hearts of all Muhlenberg undergraduates and alumni by some day making it possible to have his or her name, the name of Muhlenberg Gymnasium building, stadium, or any other sorely needed building on the campus. Let us fondly hope that the time is not so far distant when Muhlenberg will have a stadium, or gymnasium which will be called ..... Field, or ..... Gymnasium, as is the case at other colleges and universities throughout the country.

Ursinus next—on Thursday.

FOOTBALL SEASON IN BLAZE OF GLORY DRAWS TO A CLOSE

Work of Coach Spiegel and Squad to be Commended

The twilight of the football season is drawing nigh. On Thursday next, Muhlenberg will play its last game and the greatest team that ever represented the small college in the east will be disbanded. In previous years, stars of all sorts were developed at Muhlenberg; some of the greatest men in football being among those who received their preliminary training under Cardinal and Gray colors. But never before in the history of the college has there been a team like Coach Spiegel's first Cardinal and Gray aggregation. Who can say that any individual on the team starred? Out there on the field on the days the games were played some of the players stood out more than others. Great work was done by these players, but how about those men who made it possible for these particular individuals to shine. Coach Spiegel has a squad of over fifty fighters, and each individual has contributed his little to make the season a success. There are scrubs on the field who perhaps were never even given a cheer, but without those scrubs, would there have been even a second rate varsity team.

On September First, a little man came from Detroit and brought with him two slogans, one for the team and the other for himself. On the very first day of practice the men who came from all four corners of the country were told "A team that won't be beaten, can't be beaten." That was their slogan for the season. "I am responsible if Muhlenberg Fails" was sufficient inspiration for the coach to put his entire heart and soul into his work.

At the same time about thirty men were shaking hands with each other for the first time in their lives. They had come in response to the Coach's call to registrants and students for material with which to build a football team. They accepted the coach as a man who knew whereof he spoke and by the time the first practice on the First of September was over, Johnny Spiegel was the man by which every man on the gridiron swore. Defeat at the hands of Lafayette, however bad it was, was taken as an advantage. Instead of losing faith, everybody worked just that much harder to prevent a recurrence of any such thing. As a result Delaware was beaten the following Saturday. That game gave the coach a chance to look his men over. He made frequent substitutions and followed each individual player to see how the men worked together. Some combinations were successful, others less successful, but none were absolute failures. Bucknell came to Allentown with intentions of running up a big score. The powerful Bowser was stopped dead in his tracks many times. The game was played in rain and what the score might have been if the field had been dry is hard to predict, but a 14-0 score against us was certainly a good record. That game was the turning point of the season. It was the start of a winning streak that has not yet been broken. Lebanon Valley came to Allentown with high hopes and in the first few minutes of play Muhlenberg went through them for touchdowns. After that the entire game was so shady that the least said about it the better. It went on record as a 21-21 tie, but none of the spectators were satisfied with the official decisions. Suffice it to say that the Cardinal and Gray team, justified itself before the Central Board and cleared its slate of the heinous offence which certain backbiters and unprincipled scandal-mongers attributed to it, and got down to business in preparation for Gettysburg game. On October 22 that team came back and gave the public on Gettysburg's Field an exhibition of one of the cleanest games of football ever played by any team. Coming from behind a 13-0 score, the Cardinal and Gray battled its way to a one point lead in the third period, and then clinched the victory with a field goal from the toe of Fulcher. Swarthmore was the most gruelling contest of the season. Several times they reached striking distance of the goal, only to lose the ball. Once again of a single foot would have netted a touchdown, but the Cardinal and Gray line held for downs and carried the ball to safe territory. That game was an exhibition of the fight that a team can have. Lehigh was the third successive victim of Muhlenberg fight and strategy. A thirteen point lead was maintained by the Brown and White until the last eight minutes of play. Then the most bewildering forward passing attack that was ever seen on Taylor Field was begun. Every last man fought for dear life and nothing could stop the Cardinal and Gray team from going over Lehigh's goal line. With three minutes to play Crum made an on side kick which Daniels carried for a substantial gain. Several other completed forwards brought the ball to the one yard line and it was finally pushed over. Fulcher kicked the goal that beat the Brown and White.

The first victory over Lehigh ever registered by a Muhlenberg team was accomplished by a new coach and a new team. Johnny Spiegel rightfully became the hero of every football fan in Allentown. His superior knowledge of organization and his playing resourcefulness was directly responsible for victory. The team deserves the credit for the game, but certainly the coach is responsible for the team. Allentown paraded on Saturday night in honor of the victory, and on Monday evening the city turned out to see the obsequies of the Brown and White effigy. A monster bonfire was lighted by Coach Spiegel when the procession returned from the Square where the final ceremonies were held.

Although a victory over Lehigh was the highest possible achievement that we could attain, yet it was not the final honor which was bestowed upon the Cardinal and Gray. Fordham played a scrappy game in the rain on November 12, but the cup which Mr. Malloy of the Wilmer and Vincent interests in this city offered the victor, was formally presented to the Muhlenberg team in the Colonial Theater on the following Monday night as a result of a 12-7 victory. At the time the team occupied the boxes of the theater as Mr. Malloy's guests.

Eleven men, each working for the common good is certainly a wonderful spectacle to see, and eleven superior men working together for the honor of Muhlenberg College is what the football fans of Allentown have been seeing this season. Newspapers have rightfully applauded the work of Crum, Daniels, Holstrom, Weston, Fulcher, Hartman and others, but rather than call any of them stars, we would prefer to say that there is a giant star on the western horizon of Allentown, made up of highly organized units, to the number of forty, which is shining more brightly than ever before, and will continue to shine for many years to come.

ball across the Muhlenberg line more than once. Long passes and several short snappy passes over center were Muhlenberg's best bets, both touchdowns being due directly to the aerial route.

Albright won the toss and kicked into Muhlenberg territory. Daniels started uphill with the ball but was taken on the thirty yard line. After failure to gain on line plunges, Crum punted. Then Albright started to plough through the Cardinal and Gray defense. After three successive first downs the Meyerstown aggregation lost the ball. Near the end of the first quarter Crum's kick fell short and after carrying the ball through the line for substantial gains, Miller unhooked a forward that Knecht stretched into a touchdown by running fifteen yards after completing it. Miller kicked the goal and ended the scoring in so far as Benfer's squad was concerned.

From the kick-off the Muhlenberg team came out of its trance and immediately carried the ball up the field by a series of line plunges and forwards. Short passes over center were and got a good start toward Albright's goal. Again the fleetfooted Miller made the tackle. On the fourth down Fulcher tried a drop-kick from the thirty yard line and missed. But for the rest of the game the ball was kept out of Muhlenberg territory. With only a few minutes to play, the Al-

bright team started a forward passing game from within a few yards of their own goal line. As is often the case, this dangerous practice resulted in a score. Kingsley fell back to heave a long forward on open formation but dropped the ball. He recovered it in time to have Taggart and Johnson throw him over his own line for a safety. The ball was then placed on the thirty yard line and Albright started a forward passing game which netted them only one slight gain before the whistle blew. The line-up:

in form and served as the best ground gainers. The quarter ended with Muhlenberg in possession of the ball and a foot to go for a touchdown. Fulcher banged his way through tackle and after the touchdown kicked the goal that tied the score. And so it remained for the rest of the period. The ball was see-sawed back and forth with Muhlenberg slightly in advantage on account of the long punts by Crum. When the half ended the ball was in Muhlenberg's possession on Albright's twenty-five yard line.

In the early part of the second half, Johnson ran down a punt and as soon as the Albright back fumbled, scooped it up and ran down the field only to be nailed within six yards of a touchdown. A forward pass, Crum to Witt, brought the second score for Muhlenberg. Fulcher missed the goal. A hard fight ensued both teams hitting the line and running ends alternately. Several attempted forwards were grounded. Finally Miller got away around left end and carried the ball twenty-five yards before Crum pinned him to the turf. Finally by straight football the Albright aggregation carried the ball to Muhlenberg's ten yard line only to lose it on the fourth down with four yards to go.

Early in the fourth quarter Muhlenberg uncorked several passes and advanced the ball for two successive first downs. After losing the ball on downs, Reese intercepted a forward

Editorial Comment

By official proclamation, followed annually since the first instrument of its kind issued by President Lincoln in 1863, President Harding has designated Thursday, November 24th,—“to be observed by the people as a day of Thanksgiving, devotion and prayer, urging that at their hearthstones and their altars they will give thanks for all that has been rendered unto them and will pray for a continuance of the divine fortune, which has been showered so generously upon this nation.”

When President Lincoln issued the first national Thanksgiving proclamation our country was torn with a gigantic civil war, and there was great suffering on all sides. Yet in the midst of it all, President Lincoln found many things to be thankful for. In his proclamation the President said: “The year that is drawing to a close has been filled with the blessings of fruitful fields and healthful skies. To these bounties, which are so constantly enjoyed that we are prone to forget the source from which they come, others have been added which are of so extraordinary a nature that they cannot fail to penetrate and soften even the heart which is habitually insensible to the ever-watchful providence of Almighty God. No human counsel hath devised nor hath any mortal hand worked out these great things. They are the gracious gifts of the Most High God, who, while dealing with us in anger for our sins, hath nevertheless remembered mercy.”

President Harding in his proclamation says:—“Foremost among all our blessings is the return of peace, and the approach to normal ways again, the year has brought us again into relations of amity with all nations after a long period of struggle and turbulence. In thankfulness therefore, we well may unite in the hope that Providence will vouchsafe approval to the things we have done, the aims that have guided us, and the inspirations that have inspired us. We have prospered as we deserved prosperity, seeking not alone for material things, but those of the spirit as well; only trying to help others, asking before all else, the privilege of service.”

Truly of all nations of the earth, our country has many reasons for sincere gratitude and thanksgiving, yea even rejoicing. Let us celebrate Thanksgiving Day with a light heart and a clear conscience; help others, particularly those who have less to be thankful for than we ourselves, to rejoice with us. Blessings shared are doubled. Our harvests have been plenteous and there is national prosperity. Let us be grateful for our health and capacity for work; for our many friendships; for our homes; for all things pleasant and righteous. Let Thanksgiving Day be a day of optimism. Let the day find us in an exceptionally fit and happy mood to celebrate it. Let us not lose the significance of the day and forget the conditions under which the holiday was initiated. This year particularly when many of us are prone to find fault with world conditions, with the powers that be and with things in general, we should draw a comparison between our Thanksgiving Day now and the first Thanksgiving Day on that bleak New England coast. There is none of us so lowly, none so beset by misfortune, but that he has something special to be thankful for. Aside from the blessings on every side of us we should be filled with the deepest gratitude that the worries and sufferings of a war period are over and that we are no longer a prey to the horrors of a world catastrophe. Let us utter our sincerest thanks to the Divine Being who inspired the leaders of the world's greatest nations to meet in history-making conference at this time in our nation's capital to discuss and devise ways and means of putting all end to possibility of war for “there never was a good war nor a bad peace.”

Of all the peoples of the earth, we have the most profound reasons to thank Almighty God for all his goodness toward us.

Let our gratitude be sincere and issue from the heart, so that God's bounties and blessings may be fully deserved and fully appreciated.

In many modern schools, a subject like Analytical Geometry is taken intensively for a month or eight weeks, after which something else takes its place. At Muhlenberg, Football, Basketball, Track, and Baseball are the only branches treated in that way.

In spite of many arguments pro and contra, football has been established as a valuable addition to the scholastic curriculum. Wilbur Abbott, in the November ATLANTIC, shows definitely that the results desired by parents in sending their sons to college are achieved in athletics and “activities” more effectually than in the classroom. In a school with no more students than Muhlenberg, there is something for every man to do, some activity in which he can find a place. Unless he “goes out for” one thing at least each year, his education is defective. The man working his way through is getting “activities” enough in his toil, but he is the only exception.

With the growth of the student body, additional interests will develop. Baseball will return this year as a Muhlenberg sport. Swimming will be taken up, if satisfactory arrangements can be made for the use of the Y. M. C. A. pool. Debating will become important as a competitive activity within a short time. Beyond these are unlimited possibilities.

The whole purpose of college is that a man shall cease to be merely “among those present” in his group. One who is a mere “wall flower” at college has not the least probability of ever bringing forth fruit.

At the last several football games, the cheer leaders were said to be laying down on the job. Looking over the possible number of yells in the “M” annual you will find four. With the addition of the “Locomotive Yell” there are five that are used consistently.

What impression does it make on supporters of the team, not taking the opponents into consideration, to be yelling these five yells through the entire game, each about five times. What we need is some new yells and we need them quick. Some of you fellows who have the talent make use of it and dope out four or five yells. They may not all be good, but out of that number at least one should be good enough to use.

You know all the cheer leaders give them a little consideration and when you come back from your Thanksgiving vacation hand in all your yells at once, they'll do the rest.

J. R. H. '24.

Everybody out on Thursday. It's going to be a game worth while seeing—especially to friends of Muhlenberg.

No urging should be needed to have the whole student body “take in” the football banquet next Monday evening. The Lehigh victory was the occasion of a big mid-season celebration, which was an outlet for much of the jubilation that the victory caused. We have had victories since then that were worth while. One big final evening of jollification and good old-time spirit is promised in the banquet, and those who argue that three movies equal one banquet will be sorry boys when they realize what they have missed by staying away.

Now then let's take the “sin” out of Ursinus.

Why We Should be Thankful

At this thanksgiving time, we have reason to render thanks that we are alive, unless we happen to be dead. Altho no Volstead violator has succeeded in convincing us that this earth is the best of all possible worlds, neither have specialists in gloom showed us that this is the world labeled: “All hope abandon, ye who enter here.”

In the words of Emerson, “Life is a series of surprises. We do not guess today the mood, the pleasure, the power of tomorrow, when we are building up our being.” Just as truly, we do not guess the mood, the pleasure, the power of today, but rather take for granted delights, and chafe at difficulties.

It is sane and profitable business to think of pleasures unappreciated and benefits forgot, which after all far outnumber the little unpleasant things we so often magnify.

HAROLD P. KNAUSS,
 President of the Student Body

Now then let's take the “sin” out of Ursinus.

WHARTON SCHOOL ABOLISHES “EXAMS”

U. of P. Authorities Upset Tradition With New Ruling.

Abolition of the usual mid-year and final examinations by the Wharton School faculty upsets the traditions of the conventional educational means of ascertaining the qualifications of a student for advancement. Over twenty years ago it was observed at our larger universities that a student who had neglected his work throughout the year, who had loafed while others studied, could go to a tutor or purchase a set of printed notes on the work covered by the course, and then cram his head full of enough answers to customary questions to pass the examination, often with flying colors, while the student who had done regular, honest work in the course would fall down on these catch questions in the excitement of the examination hour.

In large universities where there are thousands of students the professor or the examiner who reads the papers has no means of detecting and discriminating between a faker, one who shirks his work to the last stretch, and the really serious student who may blunder in phrasing the answers to questions, and yet know infinitely more than his rival who has been primed by intensive chicanery. The results have frequently been far from happy, and the collegiate circles have discussed the matter pro and con for a number of years.

It is now pointed out that doing away with the usual examination period will give the students two extra weeks for continuing class work in each semester, making a month more of daily study, heretofore given up to review. This saving of time is an important item, and it should also be admitted that the evil psychological effects of examinations, tending to keep the overconscientious student full of fears and doubts about final tests and away from the calm grasp of daily application to the subject, will be removed. Students are conscious of examination time and nervous types are placed at an unfair disadvantage by being unable to show their ability within a tense hour or so of brain pressure, while a complacent loafer, full of natural assurance, can outshine others in making the most of his opportunity to retrieve his reputation.

It may be held that the removal of examinations will help to make what are known as “snap” courses all the more common. But on the other hand, these same “snap” courses were the very ones which were most largely attended by the youth who could afford to rely upon the help of a professional coach at examination time. And nothing will help to show up this college joyrider more than to have him test by his daily amount of application and concentration.—Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

Get that “cheer gang” in trim, for there will be plenty of occasion for cheering on Thursday.

Mrs. S. K. Butz Outlines Work in Chapel Talk.

On Thursday Mrs. S. K. Butz, chair-lady of the Allentown Chapter of the Red Cross addressed the student body in behalf of the drive for members for the coming year. She very impressively outlined the work that the Red Cross is now doing among 26,000 disabled service men of our late war, and among the thousands of orphan children of Poland. She also spoke about the noble service of the organization among the 11,000 sick soldiers and sailors, who are at present in the service of their country. She made a strong plea urging the men to help support the organization that goes wherever the Stars and Stripes go, by giving a dollar to the men who have been appointed as solicitors by the college committee.

CITIZENSHIP IS THEME OF U. S. COMMISSIONER

Orrin E. Boyle Speaks to Students in Chapel.

“We are living in momentous times,” were the startling words of Orrin Boyle, a former student of Muhlenberg, and now State Commissioner, in his practical talk on present day conditions to the student body on Tuesday morning. He outlined the achievements of mankind during the ancient, mediaeval and modern periods, but stressed the fact that the events that are now taking place are the greatest that have ever existed.

“Upon us rests the high duty of citizenship, of casting our ballots so that we may have a voice in the government that shall rule us and our children. For this privilege our forefathers have fought and died, and it is therefore our duty as American citizens to make use of the ballot so that their blood may not have been shed in vain. Any man who does not take any interest in voting is not a fit subject for citizenship.”

JUNIOR CLASS REPORTS PROGRESS ON CIARLA

The CIARLA staff reports good progress in all departments. Several brand new features will be introduced in this year's CIARLA; the annual will probably exceed last year's in its total number of pages. The photographic work among the individual members of the Junior Class is already well advanced. Campus club members are urged to elect their officers and complete their organizations at once in order that the CIARLA staff may be able to take pictures and reserve adequate space for this important department. The class of '23 feels its responsibility in being favored with the opportunity of placing on permanent record the events and impressions of perhaps the most successful year in the history of its Alma Mater.

Alumni

'18—James T. McGovern, of the class of 1918, is teaching physical education in the High School at Elizabeth, N. J.

'21—T. K. Miller, last year's cheer leader, is teaching Spanish, English and History in Greensburg High School.

'84—For the first time in many years Rev. Herman C. Fox, D.D., of Scranton, Pa., visited Muhlenberg College on the occasion of College Day. He looks as young and natural as he did in the balmy days of '84 on the old campus at Fourth and Walnut Streets.

'84—One of the most enthusiastic football fans on Muhlenberg Field is Ira Wise. In his own quiet way, as a member of the Athletic Committee, he has helped the cause by assisting very materially in building the fence around the athletic field. In the words of Horace, he is taking his "otium cum dignitate" in Allentown, Pa.

'86—Rev. John F. Nicholas, D. D., of Woodstock, New York, who delivered so eloquent an address at our recent College Day, was the principal speaker at the Dante Celebration of the Kingston High School, and received an extended notice in "The Kingston Daily Freeman."

'86—Elmer O. Reyer, Esq., of Northampton, Pa., is the President of the Cement National Bank of Siegfried, Pa.

'87—Reuben J. Butz, Esq., President of the Board of Trustees of Muhlenberg College, President of Allentown National Bank and senior member of the prominent law-firm of Butz and Rupp, to the great regret of many of the best citizens of Lehigh County, felt obliged to decline the appointment to the vacancy in the Judgeship caused by the death of Judge Milton C. Henninger. The position was offered to him by Governor Sprout of Pennsylvania.

'88—At the commencement last June, Thiel College conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity upon Rev. Edward F. Ritter, who is the energetic Field Secretary of Thiel and, since the resignation of President Henry W. Elson, has served as the acting President of the college.

'91—Henry H. Hower, of Danielsville, Pa., father of Frank B. Hower, of our senior class, is cashier of the Danielsville National Bank.

'95—From "The Bethlehem Times" of recent date we clip the following editorial:

A Deserved Tribute

The caption beginning with the above words in The Times last night expressed the sentiments of the many friends of the Rev. Luther D. Lazarus, pastor of Holy Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, of this city.

The tribute he received came from his brethren in Allentown Lutheran Conference, representing 110 churches. It was a distinguished honor in the first place for Mr. Lazarus to receive the confidence of his brethren that his leadership would be profitable to them, and it is a more distinguished and deserved honor for him to receive such a tribute of acknowledgement of the capable manner in which he has conducted the affairs of the Conference as its presiding officer. Mr. Lazarus is only the third minister in the Bethlehem Lutheran churches to hold such a distinguished honor. In the first place, his conduct and ability as a member of the Conference must have won the admiration of his brethren, else he had never been exalted to such a distinguished position; in the second place, his administration of the office of president of the Conference must have been eminently satisfactory, else the expression of acknowledgement of such had not been forwarded to his church officers.

We heartily congratulate Mr. Lazarus on his splendid work for his Conference and upon its merited approval, which has won the encomium contained in The Times of last night.

We are always glad when any outstanding service of any kind is rendered by a member of our community. It reflects credit upon us all.

Mr. Lazarus has been for many years in Bethlehem, and has done a splendid work here. He was on the South Side and justified his right to be called to a larger, more promising work on the West Side after a few years. He would not have been called from one church to another in the same city, except his good work commended itself to the people who were seeking a hustling pastor.

Mr. Lazarus took up the work on the West Side with commendable energy and faith, and there sprang up on Third Avenue the handsomest and most imposing church building, with its modern appurtenances for carrying on the religious, education and social work, in the city.

The church stands as a monument to the indefatigable energy of Mr. Lazarus and to faith and confidence of his co-workers. His work has commended itself to the members of his church. If they had not believed in his wisdom, ability and energy, they would not have concurred in the erection of such a handsome and commodious church. We know that his genial manner has drawn to him many friends. He is an able preacher of the Gospel, one who is not given to fads. His ability and scholarship are readily recognized by those who know him. He is a good neighbor to the clergy of sister denominations. His work is arduous. His congregation is worthy of congratulation in sharing unselfishly some of his service for the good of the denomination at large. It shows their good sense. There is no reason why a congregation, which does not desire to express all its religious life and activities through its pastor, cannot release him part time for a larger work.

The fact that Mr. Lazarus is president of his conference is a tacit testimony to the good sense and Christian work of the congregation to which he ministers.

Mr. Lazarus is willing to co-operate in every good work for the city's good. He is a good citizen, a devoted worker, a staunch advocate of what he believes to be right, and a good friend.

We are glad to bear this testimony to what we know of the Rev. Luther D. Lazarus. We congratulate him and his church on the deserved tribute paid him by the Allentown Conference. We wish him many more years of efficient service in Bethlehem.

'97—Rev. Franklin K. Fretz, Ph. D., of Easton, Pa., has declined the Presidency of Thiel College at Greenville, Pa.

'97—Prof. George E. Kramlich, after teaching for many years in Galveston, Texas, now is the very efficient head of the Latin Department in the Boys' High School in Reading, Pa. We recently received from him a beautifully illustrated and printed twelve-page pamphlet entitled "PRO LATINARUM LINGUAM MAGNOPERE AESTIMANT ET QUIBUS HAECLINQUA FUIT MAGNO BENEFICIS."

The pamphlet is a great credit to the instructor and students of the Latin Department, who are responsible for the Latin composition, the appropriate quotations from leading Latin authors and the attractive and well-selected illustrations. We also wish to compliment the Department of Practical Arts of the Reading High School which is responsible for the mechanical make-up of the booklet. The paper, the type and the format are worthy of the best traditions of the days of Aldus and of Elzevir. We sincerely hope that this publication may appear regularly, and become of increasing value to the cause of classical education.

'97—Rev. Henry K. Lantz, of Shiremanston, Pa., father of Thomas W. Lantz, of the senior class, maintained the oratorical tradition of the Lantz family by delivering an earnest and thoughtful address at the exercises of College Day.

'98—Prof. George S. Kressley, Litt. D., head of the Department of Ancient and Modern Languages in the Allentown High School, is a member of the committee of leading educators of the State appointed to prepare a syllabus for teaching Latin in the Public Schools of Pennsylvania.

'00—Rev. Charles K. Fegley, pastor of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, Palmerton, Pa., is also the director of Americanization Schools of that place. He likewise contributes a weekly "Sermon out of church" to the local newspaper.

'02—Clinton Zerweck is a very successful teacher in the Newark, New Jersey, High School.

'07—At the recent annual meeting of the Pennsylvania German Society held in Zion Reformed Church, Allentown, Rev. Charles F. Dapp, Ph. D., of Philadelphia read an illuminating paper on early Pennsylvania-German History.

'09—Frederick A. Marcks is the highly successful Principal of the Nazareth, Pa., High School.

Everybody out on Thursday. It's going to be a game worth while seeing—especially to friends of Muhlenberg.

SOPHS TO CHECK UP ON RULE-BREAKING FROSH

A great many freshmen are taking advantage of the fact that all hazing is forbidden, by breaking rules at their will. Frosh rules were originated for the benefit of the school and whoever violates them is a menace to the peace and welfare of the institution. A mock trial or other gentle warning has always been the traditional manner of bringing a man to his senses. Since this method of enforcing the Frosh regulations is prohibited, the Sophomores have determined to bring before Student Council every freshman who does not live up to the time-honored customs of old Muhlenberg. The most important of these rules relate to wearing the regulation cap, a plain green necktie, and black socks; cutting the front campus, carrying matches, no smoking on the campus; and absence from the dormitories after eight o'clock in the evenings of the first four days of the week, unless accompanied by an upperclassman.

A. P. S. SHOWS NEW SPORT ENTHUSIASM

The flashy Purple and White team lost its first game of the season on Saturday, when they played their old rivals the strong Blair eleven, at Blairstown. The game thruout was featured with spectacular playing, and Prep. held them to a 13-0 score. Almost the entire student body accompanied the team, by auto truck.

Allentown Prep School has a fine dispenser of football dope, in the person of Coach Witwer, this year. He is a graduate of F. & M., and comes to Prep School after three years experience as a football coach at Tome. The first three victories of the Prep team, speaks well as to his abilities as a coach.

Athletics at Prep School have taken on a new meaning. "Athletics for everybody," is the slogan, and to this end, coach Witwer has organized two athletic clubs, known as, The Pythians and the Olympians. Each student is a member of one of these clubs, and in this way has a chance to "play the game."

The rivalry between the two athletic clubs, at Prep School is keen, as could be seen on Friday from the support that each team got, when the Olympians played the Pythians in a game of amateur football. Each team was evenly matched, as was seen in the 21-21 score.

That the Purple and White eleven is putting the pep in Prep, is seen from the fact that they have three decisive victories to their credit. The victory that made alumnae sit up and take notice, was the one over Peddie, where they succeeded in winning by a 13-7 score. They beat the Mechanical and Mining Institute of Freeland by 39-0, and Schuylkill Seminary by a 26-6 score.

Faculty Notes

Prof. Brown will address the Luther League of Rev. Bauer's congregation at Tatamy on Wednesday evening, December 7th.

Prof. Fritsch spoke to 500 people on the book of Exodus, at Quakertown, on Thursday evening. The meeting was under the auspices of the district Luther League.

Dr. Haas addressed the Teachers Institute which met at Stroudsburg, Monroe county, last Tuesday and Wednesday. This Tuesday he will speak at the men's meeting at Trinity church in Philadelphia.

Last Wednesday evening, Dean Ettinger addressed the men of St. James' Reformed church and their ladies at Cedar Crest College. He spoke on "Life's Perspective."

If there is a demand on the part of the local pastors who have no Greek, and are desirous of getting enough so that they will be able to study the New Testament in that language, Prof. Horn will offer such a course. To date no reply has been received to this communication which appeared in the local papers.

Tell everyone you chance to meet:—
"I'll see you at the game on Thursday."

A FOOTBALL TEAM AS A CITY ADVERTISEMENT

Advertising a city is the constant aim of the people, the progressive ones at least, who live therein. So keen is this desire to grow and to advance that the leaders of business in all municipalities form Chambers of Commerce for the advancement of the cities' interests and for the advertising of their merits.

Western cities, with much of bombast and trumpeting, are supposed to have attained the top rank in this subject of city boosting and to have given the idea pretty well to the entire country that if you want your horn blown and your praises heard you have to blow it yourself.

There are some other ways of advertising a city and Mayor Malcolm W. Gross in his address to the Kiwanis Club on Thursday noted one very important one and one that this city can at this very time avail itself of. It is the promotion of athletics and the mayor urged the promotion of the athletics at Muhlenberg College this season. In particular he urged support and encouragement for the football team that Coach John Spiegel is developing out at the college.

A great deal depends upon this community in respect to the football team now representing the cardinal and grey. It is going to nerve the boys who wear the Muhlenberg uniform to know that so great and fine a city as Allentown is back of it to the last man, woman and child. Support will give them an increased idea of their own importance in the contests to be waged. It is going to bring about in the team that desire for harmony and loyalty which Coach Spiegel emphasized as necessary to success if the members of the team know that there is unanimity in this city in the wish that they may acquit themselves creditably and loyalty of support to them through thick and thin.

A great football team at Muhlenberg will be a splendid feather in Allentown's cap. A great football team will secure that wide advertising of the city and school that we know will be desirable. Make Allentown much and well talked of and it will bring about those results which city advertising are designed to accomplish.

Support Muhlenberg and its team, for by so doing you are supporting the city.

Everybody out on Thursday. It's going to be a game worth while seeing—especially to friends of Muhlenberg.

RARE SPECIMENS ADDED TO MUSEUM

Prof. Bailey Secures Indian Relics, Birds and Birds'
Eggs

The College was very fortunate in having secured for the Science department through Prof. H. D. Bailey, a wonderful collection of Indian relics and birds eggs, and also a collection of mounted birds.

The 5,000 Indian relics together with the 1,000 sets of birds eggs are the collection of the late Harry Simons, of Lancaster, Pa. The relics, mainly collected in Pennsylvania, include hammers, belts, millstones, mortars, scalping knives, polishing stones, digging tools, ceremonial weapons, tanning articles, beads, shells, pottery, pipes, arrow heads, daggers, scrapers, spear heads, and turtle backs.

The 1,000 sets of birds eggs include the eggs of all native birds, the birds of prey, the ocean birds, Arctic birds, and the principal birds of Europe. The collection also contains the eggs of the passenger pigeons which has been extinct for twenty years, and the eggs of birds which are nearly extinct, such as the snowy egret, great white heron, whooping crane, trumpeter, swan, golden plover, woodcock, knot, willen, dowitcher, upland plover, and pectoral sandpiper.

The mounted birds, 500 in number are the collection of the late John Meisky, Washington Borough, Pa. This collection also contains all our native birds including perfectly mounted specimens of unusual birds such as the roseate spoonbill, snoy heron, woodcock, carolina parakeet, magpie, famings, water turkey, cormorant, turnstone, Shrike, wheater, toncor and Gallinule.

The Caroline parakeet is now regarded as extinct. A century ago it was an abundant bird occurring throughout the south, and frequently migrating as far northward as the Hudson Valley. Ten years ago but ten specimens were known to be alive, these were observed in the jungles of Florida. Since then no living specimen has been seen. The parakeet is a parrot and is gorgeously plumed with gay shades of green, yellow, and red. These perfect specimens are in the Meisky collections.

The Simon collection has been presented to Muhlenberg College by a friend of the Institution living in Lancaster. The Meisky collection was purchased last week by Prof. H. D. Bailey, of the department of Biology, at Muhlenberg, from the heirs of John Meisky for the sum of $350.00.

The Department of Biology wishes to acknowledge the services of Bruce W. MacIntosh, '19, and E. N. Kroninger, who furnished trucks for the transportation of the additions to the Biological museum.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the college contributed half of the purchase price of the Meisky collection of birds, the other half being taken care of by individual donations.

Do you know that a single pair of birds is worth $1000? Yes, but only rare birds, such as are found in collections such as the Meisky collection, which was lately acquired by Muhlenberg College.

The Meisky collection consists of 450 birds, which were mounted by Mr. John Meisky, of Washington Borough, Lancaster County, Pa., and was secured through the efforts of Prof. H. D. Bailey, head of the department of biology, at Muhlenberg College.

In the collection are a series of native land and water birds, all of which are properly listed and catalogued. It is also noted that all of the birds listed are threatened by extinction, including several wild specimens, such as the Whooping Crane, Trumpeter Swan, and the American Flamingo, which were last seen in 1919 in Saskatchewan, Canada.

Three very rare specimens of the Carolina Parakeet, which at one time covered the Carolinas, are in the collection. They are green and yellow, about the size of a robin, and have been destroyed by bird killers or have been kept alive in Museums. There are only six live specimens remaining in captivity. The Cincinnati Zoological Garden has three, the Washington Zoo, two, and the New York Zoo, has one. None of these birds will breed and will therefore be exterminated in a few years.

In addition to the valuable Meisky bird collection, Muhlenberg College has secured the Simon Collection of 5000 Indian relics, from the state of Pennsylvania.

From these relics, which are all properly numbered and catalogued, a study of wild Indian life in America is being made, and Prof. Bailey, is preparing an interesting lecture, based on these relics, on the Life of the Indians in Lehigh County.

Muhlenberg therefore considers itself very fortunate, to have been able to secure such rare and valuable additions to its growing museum.

BASEBALL WILL BE VARSITY SPORT IN '22

For the first time since 1914 Muhlenberg will be represented on the baseball diamond. The intense interest caused by the inter-class games during the past year has roused the A. A., to a realization of the fact that Muhlenberg has lots of splendid material, which with a little training can easily develop into a winning team.

Although a final schedule has not yet been arranged, the baseball manager has formed a tentative one, with a few exceptions, probably presents the list of our rivals for 1922 honors. They are, Lafayette, Lehigh, Swarthmore, U. of P., Gettysburg, Moravian, Haverford, Villanova, Albright, and Ursinus.

With the former inter-class teams as a nucleus, and with whatever material the present football squad can offer, Muhlenberg may look forward to a very successful season.

BASKETBALL ACTIVITIES

Within the next three weeks Muhlenberg will meet Ursinus twice for supremacy in football and basketball. On November 24, Thanksgiving Day, we meet Ursinus in football and on December 9, Muhlenberg opens the basketball season with the same college. The game will be played in Allentown.

Manager Gebert is arranging a hard schedule. Games have been arranged with such teams as the Army, College of the City of New York, Carnegie Tech., Swarthmore, Gettysburg, Bucknell, Lehigh and Lafayette.

Three letter men remain from last year's squad. They are Butz, Taggart and Schantz. Three other men of last year's crew, deserving of mention are Benner, Weiss and Neubling. Besides this nucleus, Manager Gebert finds a wealth of new material.

Practice will start immediately after the Thanksgiving recess. The season closes with Lafayette on March 8.

Get that "cheer gang" in trim, for there will be plenty of occasion for cheering on Thursday.

IT IS RUMORED THAT

Several Cedar Crest students are making a collection of notices that appear on our bulletin board.

The college has again become co-educational. At least Freyberger, Katzman, and others can testify that it was last Monday night!

A certain downtown girl thinks Dicky's mustache is troublesome.

Now then let's take the "sin" out of Ursinus.

"Where did you get these El Cabigios, George?"

"Harry sent them up from Havana."

"He sure knows the ropes down there, doesn't he?"—Puppet.

CEDAR CREST CHATTER

Prep Carnival

Wednesday afternoon, our Administration Building was the scene of many and varied activities. The cause was the much talked of Carnival, given by the Preps. Everything our Preps ever give is the peppiest, liveliest thing you can imagine, and this Carnival certainly proved no exception to the rule.

There was a Post Office where you could get the nicest letters from your best buds. (If you had signed up the day before, saying you wanted a letter, better home made candy you never saw, and such cakes and sand which—why, they were like hot cakes, and the booths where they sold fireworks and rummy dolls, and ice cream were very attractive and popular, too.

At four-thirty, three short shows began, and they certainly would put the productions of any New York company to shame. The acting and dancing were extremely clever, and the Turkish dancer, in the "Broken Fetters," especially, made a big hit. The plays were: "Vacuum," a Roman problem play in original Latin; "Pas de Trois," a Fantasy; "Broken Fetters," an opera.

The girls took in $125, with which they are going to buy trees for the Campus. They have decided to have a regular planting day, when the whole college will take part in the planting. So we can enjoy the result of the Carnival for a long time, as well as having enjoyed the Carnival, itself, Wednesday afternoon.

FOUND—In a package of laundry; powder puff, stick chewing gum, assortment of hair nets, garters, powder, face cream, and other articles too numerous to mention. Owners can have same by applying to editor of WEEKLY and identifying articles.

What would you say if you were to open your bundle of laundry, just received from home, and find therein the strangest collection of articles that the eyes of a mere man ever gazed upon? There were things in that bundle which made us drop our lower jaw and stare! (See Lost and Found column.)

Tonight a few of us are jointly propitiating the gods to the end that the mail man might again reverse his signals and deliver a Cedar Crest bundle at our Arcade. We believe we could gather a lot of "miscellaneous and sundry articles" which would match up splendidly with the "exhibit" which for the present remains in state upon the mantelpiece of our room in the dorms—Muhlenberg Student.

October 17, 1921. Very important date: Just one year ago today Eddie met buck. Ye Muhlenberg.

Question: Why oh why are there so many mice in suite 217?

Answer: Because there are so many sweet things around.

NO WEEKLY NEXT TUESDAY

On account of the Thanksgiving recess, there will be no WEEKLY published next week. Number 11 will appear two weeks from today, on December 6. The big Christmas Number will be issued the week following, on Dec. 14, under the supervision of Robert K. Miller.

For Those who Can Read

Nearly 33,000,000 newspapers are sold in the United States daily. That's five papers for every 16 people.

Scientists say man has lived on earth hundreds of thousands of years. Yet, up to less than a century ago, it took months to learn what was going on at the other side of the world. Now you get the news in a few minutes or hours.

CHINESE AND GREEK MAKE ODD CHOP SUEY

Chinese students in an American University, organized under a Greek name.

Possibly the first time that the English language served as a medium between Chinese students and a Greek letter fraternity, occurred some time ago when a band of the former consulted the offices of a prominent manufacturing fraternity, Jeweler of Detroit, and asked that their club name, "Chinese Students' Club," be only translated into Greek, and the letters, C. S. C. used on an official fraternity badge.

It was explained to the committee that such a title would have little meaning, and that it was customary to use the initials of specific Greek words in forming a Greek name. How to translate "Chinese Students' Club" in Greek, however, was not easily solved. The words "student" and "club" were easily changed to the Greek equivalents, but not so the "Chinese."

Search was made in the public library for the Greek word for "Chinese" but without success. In desperation, Gus, the restaurant man down the street, was consulted but his modern Greek could not rise to the occasion and he admitted reluctantly that he knew no suitable equivalent for "Chinese" in his native tongue.

A final appeal was made to the language department of a Detroit college. The head of the Greek department was pressed into service and asked to help in finding the missing word for the new Greek letter fraternity. He declared at the outset that there apparently was no word for "Chinese" in classic Greek since the ancient Hellenes apparently had no definite knowledge of China. However, it was found, reference was made in their literature to "the people of the far East" and for this group, the professor could furnish a Greek name.

Of course, the word was immediately adopted for the first American Chinese Greek letter fraternity.

Tell all your friends about the game on Thursday. We want a big crowd to see us close the season with a rousing victory.

The Riddle.

In slimy, prehistoric mud
Did personality first bud,

Evolving from beneath the sea,
To blink at light formed chemically,

The lower first, the higher then,
And finally, the race of men?

Am I part of this vast whole,
Upreared by cosmoical control

From Archaic age until
The moment which I now fulfill?

The awful eons steady flight,
Beginning in the primal night,

Such thing I CANNOT comprehend.
And ending,—will it never end!

Get that "cheer gang" in trim, for there will be plenty of occasion for cheering on Thursday.

PHI KAPPA TAU INSTALLS XI CHAPTER AT F. AND M.

The Marshall Club, of Franklin and Marshall College, at Lancaster, Penna. will be installed as the XI chapter of Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity during the week of November 21. This will be the second chapter of Phi Kappa Tau in Pennsylvania. The Marshall Club rated high in athletics as well as in scholarship.

A number of men from Eta will participate in the installation and still more will be present at a dinner-dance to be given on Thanksgiving evening.

Tell all your friends about the game on Thursday. We want a big crowd to see us close the season with a rousing victory.

SCISSORS AND PASTE

The editor spoke to us Friday and told us of this big special eight page Thanksgiving number and said, "You can spread yourself this week, Babe."

So it behooves us to write something in a happy, holiday Thanksgiving style, but now that we have the opportunity to "spread ourselves" we are woefully devoid of sunshine.

If we were looking forward to going home to a warm welcome and a hot time and a turkey dinner, it wouldn't be hard to write something cheerful.

But lacking the wherewithal to go home we are wondering how to live while the commons is closed.

Reckon we'll have to get a meal ticket on tick.

About the only time that the germ of homesickness has a chance at us is when the rest of the gang is packing up to go home over vacation.

We're beginning to sympathize with ourself. It's a bad sign. It means "Dangerous curve ahead."

The muse just fluttered down and lit gently on our left shoulder. We feel some verse coming on. We knew there was trouble ahead when we began the sympathy stuff.

Oh, the gang is all so happy,
Each man's step is light and snappy,
And they're packing up their duds
And going home.

Oh, they'll be few lights a-burning.
In the dorms, and I'll be yearning
For the place the sob-stuff boys
Call "Home Sweet Home."

While the gang's home eating turkey.
And I'm in a "quick and dirty"
Where the grub is cheap but good
I'll not be sore.

For on this glad Thanksgiving
I'll be thankful to be living
And to have a home to be
So homesick for.

One comfort is that not so very many of the gang will be eating turkey because nowadays about the only people that eat turkey are bloated plutocrats and Dr. Wackernagle.

We call the attention of the Frosh particularly to the following bit of literature. It contains more sense than nonsense:

I'm just a young freshman,
But I'm a pretty wise guy—
All day

I lean against the stairway
And kid the girls.

I like it—I'm good at it.
They hang around
And hold my hand and

Hand me, sweet nothings,
One day I met little Nell.

She fell for me, right off.
Nell liked my black greasy,
Glossy, slick-hair.

Told all the girls I was Cute. They all thought so
Too. They envied her.

Nell always looked proud
When I was with her.
I raised her stock a lot.

One day she met a bird
With a Ford
He slipped her a pin

And they got married.
But I've always noticed
That she still has a

Covetous way of looking At me.
But I can't bother about

Nell.
I'm a good man. And I'm
A pretty wise guy.

I lean against the stairway
And kid the girls
They hang around—

And hand me sweet nothings.—The Butler Collegian.

GEARY WILL COACH BASKETBALL TEAM

Prospects are Bright Although Schedule is Hard.

Basketball at Muhlenberg this year, promises to take the same successful trend as football. This was assured on Friday, when about fifty candidates answered the call of Coach Roy Geary, Muhlenberg's new basketball coach. Mr. Geary, an Allentown man comes to Muhlenberg with an excellent reputation, being a star Eastern League player himself, and having coached Lehigh's teams for two years. It was he who developed Lehigh's whirlwind basketball team of 1917.

The nucleus of last year's team, Butz, Taggart, Weiss, Schanz, and Benner, were among those who reported, as well as, Kinnsey of Perkiomen School, Freed and Weston of Allentown High School, and Crum, Holstrom, Demoling, Felcher, Brewer, Campbell, and E. Johnson.

The schedule, already arranged, calls for games with some of the fastest teams in the east, including the University of Pennsylvania, the Army and Navy, Carnegie Tech., Temple, Bucknell and Swarthmore. The complete schedule follows:

- Dec. 9—Ursinus, at Allentown.
- Dec. 10—University of Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia.
- Dec. 14—Lafayette, at Easton.
- Dec. 17—Navy, at Annapolis.
- Jan. 7—Lehigh, at Bethlehem.
- Jan. 11—Ursinus, at Collegeville.
- Jan. 14—College of City of New York, at New York.
- Jan. 18—Army, at West Point.
- Jan. 19—Crescent A. C., at New York.
- Jan. 21—Gettysburg, at Allentown.
- Jan. 28—Moravian, at Bethlehem.
- Feb. 3—Carnegie Tech., at Allentown.
- Feb. 10—Bucknell, at Allentown.
- Feb. 11—P. M. C., at Chester.
- Feb. 15—Temple, at Philadelphia.
- Feb. 21—Delaware, at Newark.
- Feb. 24—Swarthmore, at Allentown.
- March 3—Haverford, at Haverford.
- March 8—Lafayette, at Allentown.

Christian Mills, '23, was initiated into Delta Theta on Tuesday night.

MISS SAGE WILL GIVE READING OF ROMANCE

On the evening of December 16th, Miss Grace Sage will give a Reading of Sheldon's "Romance" under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Muhlenberg College. The Reading will be given in the High School Auditorium. The hearty support of all students is requested. See Voight, Bennyhoff, Shoemaker or Long for tickets.

DR. HAAS EXPLAINS EINSTEIN THEORY

"Kindergarden" Talk on Relativity Enlightens Students.

"Most people walk thru the world blind. At least they have their eyes shut to the reality of things". With this quotation, Dr. J. A. W. Haas, president of Muhlenberg College, opened his address to the students in Chapel, on Friday morning.

"America glorifies the man who does something, but in order to accomplish something, thought is necessary" continued Dr. Haas. "The Law of Gravitation has generally been accepted, with the exception of a few mathematicians who have doubted it, and among them is a great scientist by the name of Einstein".

Dr. Haas then went on to explain Einstein's theory of Relativity. He said that a ray of light was supposed to come in a wave of motion, but really the propagation is due to ether. "Einstein says" continued Dr. Haas, "If I stand here and a ray of light comes to me, its velocity is at the rate of 186,300 miles per second. If I were moving in the same direction, it would only shorten the distance and the rate would still be 186,300 miles per second".

He explained that the old theory was that the rate would shorten, but that Einstein claims that there are

COLLEGES WILL WORK FOR LIMITATION OF ARMAMENTS

A National Committee Is Organized to Rouse Interest.

"In order to stimulate among college students an interest in the issues confronting the Washington conference and in order to mobilize and make articulate student sentiment relative thereto" the National Convention of Universities and Colleges on International Relations has authorized the organization of "The National Student Committee for the Limitation of Armaments."

This committee will be represented by a student in each institution and these student chairmen will elect state chairmen. The state chairmen elect regional chairmen who in turn elect a national chairman. Thus the organization will be prepared for active and intensive work.

The Committee will furnish speakers on disarmament to the colleges, encourage meetings for study and discussion, conduct straw votes, and will

BIPLANE ACCIDENTALLY LANDS ON CAMPUS.

Muhlenberg's first air visitors took off from the baseball field last Saturday morning. Both the pilot, H. M. Crank, of New York City, and the owner of the airplane, Basil Gordon of Washington, D. C., are students at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

They were flying from Baltimore, where they had just bought the plane, to Philadelphia, but lost their way in the fog and landed in a field in front of the campus a week ago. They will stop over at New York City, and then fly on to Boston.

FROSH PRESENT TURKEY IN BABEL OF TONGUES

"It is a fine thing for young men to remember the old men" said Dr. Wackernagel, Muhlenberg's Grand Old Man, to the members of the freshmen class as he expressed his thankfulness and appreciation for the turkey which his class presented to him in the chapel on the day before Thanksgiving.

This presentation which has taken place for many previous years has become one of the traditions at Muhlenberg. And even tho Dr. Wackernagel is no longer in our midst, this tradition still remains and will until the end, for the students even tho they have not had the pleasure of meeting him, yet they seem to feel his presence as they hear the stories told by other members of the student body.

Dr. Wackernagel, after an explanation of how the turkey got its name, spoke on "What We Have To Be Thankful For". He said that above all we should be thankful for being a student or an alumnus of Muhlenberg, for having the privilege of attending a school which has such a noble purpose. "Muhlenberg means service to God and man. It is a distinction to be a member of such an institution, and we should make ourselves worthy to be called sons of Muhlenberg." Dr. Wackernagel also gave a brief history of the college and of the man from whom the college received its name, Henry Melchior Muhlenberg.

After the regular chapel exercises, thirteen members of the freshmen class, lead by Campbell carrying the noble bird decorated with the class colors, marched to the platform where Dr. Wackernagel was seated, and as has been the custom, each man made his presentation in a different language.

DELTA THETA FRATERNITY GIVES PRE-HOLIDAY DANCE

The annual Fall Dance of the Delta Theta Fraternity was held at the Hotel Traylor on Friday night Dec. 2. The dance was a most enjoyable affair. Many freshmen and upper classmen were the guests of the Deltas. About sixty couple attended the affair. The roof was artistically decorated with the banners of the fraternity in purple and gold amidst numerous Cardinal and Grey banners of the college. The lights were decorated with small shades of purple and gold.

The music was furnished by the Fantasy Six. During the evening refreshments were served. The committee in charge of arrangements consisted of, Roy H. Hoffman, Carl D. Neubling and Jack Wright. The chaperones were Prof. and Mrs. Harry D. Bailey, Dr. and Mrs. John W. Noble, and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Worthington.

Several novelties were introduced at frequent intervals, they serving to make the dance all the more delightful. A very enjoyable evening was had by all those that attended the affair.

68-0 SCORE ENDS VICTORIOUS SEASON

Ursinus is Outclassed by Muhlenberg on Muddy Field.

Rain, fog and mud featured the annual struggle between Ursinus and Muhlenberg on the local gridiron. The Thanksgiving day game was truly one of thanksgiving for the many alumni who braved the rain and saw the game. The Collegeville aggregation showed some fight at first but after the first score, they seemed to lose heart and only regained courage in the third quarter when the Muhlenberg "subs" gave them three first downs.

The game was a few minutes old, when the scoreboard showed a 7 behind Muhlenberg, and a goose egg behind Ursinus. This touchdown was made by Witt, who slipped through the Ursinus crew and ran fifty-five yards for a touchdown. A few minutes afterward, Holstrom crossed the line after receiving a forward from Crum. The third local score came when Crum, whose wonderful playing seemed to take the heart out of the Ursinus outfit, took the ball around left end for another touchdown. The score was 21-0, end of first quarter.

Witt and Crum each scored a touchdown in the second quarter, when they broke through their opponents' line time and time again. Coach Spiegel then began withdrawing the regulars until the entire Muhlenberg second string men were on the field. Ursinus then began advancing, but found the scrubs willing and ready. The ball was advanced to the Muhlenberg one yard line on two different occasions, but the seconds held them each time. The only Muhlenberg touchdown in that period was made by Campbell, subbing for Daniels.

From then on, Ursinus was again hopelessly outclassed. Twenty-six points were added to the already large score of Muhlenberg before the final whistle blew. Sensation followed sensation, even in the last few minutes of play, when Crum took the ball on the kickoff and ran from the Muh-

Spiegel's Three-Year Contract Bring Enthusiasm To A Climax

MAYOR GROSS IS AMONG PROMINENT SPEAKERS

Having as their guests the victorious 1921 Football Squad, about two hundred students, alumni, and friends of Muhlenberg College gathered around the festive board at the Hotel Allen on Monday evening, November twenty-eighth, to celebrate "the most wonderful football season that Muhlenberg has ever had."

The Hotel Allen manager, Mr. Elmer Heimbach, treated the football team and friends to a wonderful meal of boiled spring chicken and all the side dishes, ending up with the filthy weed.

Soon after the cigars had been lit, the Toastmaster, Mr. Lawrence H. Rupp, arose and in well chosen introductory remarks, touched off the spark to the round of speech making and hilarity which was to follow. He told how he had waited a long time for Muhlenberg to hold the position she now holds in the athletic world and expressed the opinion that she would keep and advance that standing in future years. He then introduced Hon. Malcolm W. Gross, mayor of Allentown, and a member of the Athletic Board in the past, by relating how the mayor and a few other Muhlenberg rooters celebrated after the Lehigh game.

Mayor Gross glowingly described how the alumni of Ursinus, Franklin and Marshall, and Lehigh used to tell him that Muhlenberg would never defeat their teams. He voiced the opinion that Muhlenberg would never demonstrate wonderful seasons in years to come.

Mr. Hary I. Koch was then called upon, and as President of the Chamber of Commerce of Allentown, told how a victorious season such as Muhlenberg has just held was appreciated by the city because it served to place the city of Allentown in a class above that which it held according to its size. He stated that this season had done more to cement the citizens with the college than any other thing. He described the playing of the team as a wonderful example of the spirit of co-operation, and stated in conclusion that he was confident that because of that spirit displayed at college, it would pervade the entire city.

After Mr. Koch's fine speech, the banquetters were treated to a most agreeable surprise. Mr. Rupp introduced a man not known about the college, but who seemed to have the Muhlenberg fiery spirit. The man was Mr. Edward F. Treves, Princeton tackle on the team of '93 that defeated Yale on the Polo Grounds, and who

We are again asking the all-important question, "Has civilization been of any benefit to the present world and age?" We, the present nations of the world, have inherited the accumulations and developments of 6,000 years but are we using it for good or for evil? Has the moral and intellectual development of the nations been as great as their material development?

Wilson with his League of Nations tried to check wars and insure a world peace. He was partially successful. The European nations have entered into an agreement among themselves but those outside of the pact are not likely to receive any recognition, if an international dispute should arise.

Today in Washington there is meeting a conference of the greatest nations of the world in order to insure peace by taking away the weapons of war. It has been called "the overflow conference from the League of Nations." It is more than that: It is a conference which wishes to base international peace on action now and not on mere written agreements.

The United States, through Secretary of State Hughes, has taken the initial step in proposing a solution to the problem. Great Britain is still in the balances but will undoubtedly agree with the American plan. Japan is the one of the "big three" that does not wish to give in so easily. Every nation is trying to get as much as possible for itself without considering the other nations.

But the deliberations should not be behind closed doors. The Congress of Versailles failed because it was secret. The people of the world have a right to be informed regarding the proceedings of the present conference. Of course if public opinion is opposed to anything, it can cause a great deal of confusion in the country. But why should it be opposed?

The students of the colleges and universities have united in an effort to create a sentiment in favor of a limitation of armaments. This action is worthy and we are sure it will be approved by the President and Secretary of State. It yet remains for the students as individuals to further the cause in every way possible.

Now is the time for every citizen of the United States to put his shoulder to the wheel and save future generations from such slaughter and devastation as was visited upon mankind during the last war. The decision rests with you, as students. Will you do your bit to save posterity or will you shirk your duty now and let others suffer?

The nations of the world MUST lose their selfishness and distrust in order to have a perfect peace and the people of those nations will be relieved from that oppressive taxation that is necessary for large armies and navies.

NOW is the time to get busy!

H. S. M.'23.

It is to be expected that the present generation of Allentown's citizens will never forget the 1921 football season. Allentown Prep. had a victorious team, the High School cleaned up to the tune of 298 to 39, and Muhlenberg beat Lehigh.

Two bonfires were required to properly celebrate, first Muhlenberg's defeat of Lehigh, and then High School's victory over Bethlehem High.

Football has become a live issue. Never were there so many fans in Allentown. With Coach Spiegel back for three more years, the support of the city may be counted on, as Muhlenberg goes after game bigger than Lehigh.

In order to place the staff of the WEEKLY on a basis that has been found best by the most successful college newspaper, the following changes are proposed for the Student Body Constitution.

Article V, Section 2, clause b. is to read:

"The editor shall have complete supervision over and responsibility for the contents of the WEEKLY. He shall subdivide his staff and assign all work as he sees it, and may appoint as reporters such members of the Sophomore class as have scrubbed to his satisfaction, not to exceed six in number."

Clause d. of the same Article and section is to be worded thus: "Elections to the Weekly staff shall be held at the last regular meeting in April, the new staff to take charge of the second issue in May."

The effect of the first of these changes will be to put more lower class men at work on the paper, thus providing trained men from which to elect a staff. The other will make it possible for each new staff to get a fine start while their predecessors are at hand to answer questions and offer suggestions.

The vote on these amendments will be taken at the next regular student body meeting.

FROSH ARE ARRANGING BASKETBALL SCHEDULE

H. T. Christman, newly elected Freshman basketball manager, assures us that prospects for the Freshman team are very bright.

Some very promising High School material has reported; among them Maglin, Orr, Riggs, DiLeo and Tursi.

The first game will be played with Northampton High at Northampton, on Saturday evening, December tenth.

A complete schedule is being arranged at this time with some of the fast High and Prep. School teams of the valley.

SPIEGEL SELECTS ALL STAR TEAM

Coach Choses Holstrom as Left End of All-Americans.

With the practice of picking All-American Football eleven quite the thing at the present time, Coach Spiegel comes forward with a selection which he claims would make him extremely happy, were he to become suddenly possessed of the players named:

Holstrom . . . . . L. E. . . .	Muhlenberg
Williams . . . . . L. T. . . .	Lafayette
Schwab . . . . . L. G. . . .	Lafayette
Stein . . . . . C. . . . .	Pittsburgh
Ellis . . . . . R. G. . . .	Detroit
Slater . . . . . R. G. . . .	Detroit
Swanson . . . . . R. E. . . .	Nebraska
Killinger . . . . . B. . . . .	Penn State
McMillan . . . . . B. . . . .	Centre
Kaw . . . . . B. . . . .	Cornell
Elliot . . . . . B. . . . .	Lafayette

This looks like a good combination to our coach, who thinks it would be hard to select a better one.

do anything further the cause of international disarmament.

The Convention at Chicago on Nov. 12, 13, and 14, 1921 also sent resolutions to the President of the United States, and the Secretary of State to show the student appreciation of the Washington conference. The colleges said that they hope that the conference may be able to accomplish its mission and they also promise their moral support.

MUHLENBERG FOOTBALL FAME SPREADS AFAR.

Muhlenberg football fame has travelled into the west as is evidenced by a letter from one of the class of '91. Congratulations are coming in to the Coach from all sides and this is but an example:

Dear Mr. Spiegel:—

Proud of Old Muhlenberg? Well, I should say so! So feels Allentown; and the Student Body; and every Alumnus who loves his Alma Mater.

Surely a Napoleon is leading our forces! You have created a confidence and an assurance among your men that will enable them to WIN ALL GAMES. Nothing is reasonably impossible to your students! Soon they will all be Crums and nothing within or even above their class will be able to withstand them.

Well may the MUHLENBERG WEEKLY appear in Red! It is proudly displayed above my desk. Even the eye of our church is upon you and wishes you well in your laudable progress. You and your men show the stuff of which missionaries and heroes are made!

Go on! From strength to strength! We are with you! I am sure that we will receive some more thrills.

Ever your Friend,

MILTON J. BIEBER, '91

guage. Thus the turkey was presented in thirteen languages. Not every turkey has such an honor handed to him, and the way he behaved seemed to show that he was well aware of the fact. If he had known what was in store for him an hour later, perhaps he would not have been so arrogant.

The following are the men of the freshmen class who took part and the language they used in the presentation: Campbell, English; Reyes, Spanish; Tursi, Italian; Folk, German; Eidam, Latin; Markowitz, Hebrew; Kramer, Yiddish; Wagner, Greek; Seltzer, Pennsylvania German; Long, Chinese; Chernansky, Slovak; Kelchner, French.

HOLSTROM ELECTED CAPTAIN AT PEPPY FOOTBALL BANQUET

represents the American Educational Society. In glowing terms he paid tribute to the wonderful spirit of Co-operation that is developed thru the game of football, and expressed the opinion that its fundamentals were the fundamentals of life. He said he believed that the strength and manhood of the country were being developed best in the small colleges, and declared that the finest thing the students were getting out of their course at Muhlenberg was the spirit of co-operation.

Before calling on Coach Johnny Spiegel, and thereby making him the most uncomfortable man in the banquet room, Mr. Rupp announced and exhibited a shiny black bear head, the gift of Mr. Samuel N. Potteiger, of Reading, as a trophy to the splendid work of the 1921 football squad. Thereupon, he also, in fitting tribute to the splendid work of the most wonderful coach Muhlenberg has ever had presented Johnny Spiegel with a fine gold watch, the gift of the student body, alumni and friends of the college with the hope that Spiegel would guide the athletic destinies of Muhlenberg for many and many a year to come.

The coach was so surprised that he hardly knew what to say. Naturally, he in his characteristic manner, disclaimed all credit for the wonderful year, and proceeded to tell all about the team, of whom he said:—"That is the greatest squad that was ever together. I certainly appreciate everything they have done."

Dr. Haas followed the coach, and discounted all Johnny had said about himself by saying that certainly the reflection of the spirit of the team is in the coach. He paid glowing tribute to the work of all who were in any way concerned with the work of the season. He warned that unless gambling, and some of the other evils attending college football would cease, it would be the ruin of the game. He pleaded that American college sport be clean. He further declared that Muhlenberg was only at the beginning of her development and announced that in 1924 Muhlenberg must have a new library, science and gymnasium. "And we're going to have it," he concluded.

Rev. "Pete" Wohlsen was then called upon, and related how the alumni are working and have gained great things for Muhlenberg in Wilkes Barre.

Dr. Howard S. Seip, known and loved by all Muhlenberg students, was the next speaker, and he certainly had a pleasant duty to perform. At the very beginning of his speech he set loose a tumult of overflowing enthusiasm when he announced that Coach Spiegel had signed a contract for three years. Never was the Allen banquet room in such a state of uproar. Old alumni danced about in glee, and students and professors slammed each other on the back with all their might, and the Fantasy Six, which had furnished the music during the meal, pounded on the bass drum with anything they could lay their hands on.

After the tumult had subsided, Dr. Seip presented the coveted "M" and a sweater to the following men:—Brewer, Crum, Daniels, Demoling, Freed, Felcher, Gebhard, Hartman, Holstrom, K. Johnson, O'Connor, Rees, Skean, Taggart, Weston, Whitenight and Witt. He also announced that a gold football will be given to every man who completed his course.

The scrub "M" was also awarded and the highest praise given to the following men for their consistent work: Beck, Backert, Campbell, Finck, Grimmett, Hineline, Imschweiler, E. Johnson, Kline, Kroninger, McNeil, Koch, Miller, Messinger, Nagle, Nuebling, Reinartz, Reinbold, Shweimler, Shook Tursi, Utz, Voigt, Wagner, Weiss, and Zartman. During this time, the cheerleaders were kept busy leading a cheer for each man.

While the "M" men retired to elect a captain for next year, Congressman, Fred B. Gerner was called upon. He related how the Congressmen at Washington were especially interested in the Muhlenberg—Fordham game, and and of the intense interest of a large group of Congressmen in the Muhlenberg athletics.

At the suggestion of Dr. Haas, the entire group paid silent tribute to the memory of Raymond "Doughnuts" Snyder, captain-elect of the 1921 squad who was killed in an automobile accident during the summer.

Upon the return of the squad, it was announced that George Holstrom, of Superior, Wisconsin, was elected captain for 1922. Thereupon there followed another burst of cheering and applause. He responded with a short speech in which he placed the credit for the year upon the coaching ability of Johnny Spiegel, and told of the spirit that Spiegel had taught his men: "The Team that can't be Beaten, Won't be Beaten."

Gurney Afflerbach then related how he was always wishing that Muhlenberg would beat Lehigh, and now that this was accomplished in so short a time, he was ready to help do greater things for our dear old college.

Dr. George T. Ettinger told of the students he had in days gone by, and the spirit that was instilled in them and is still being put into the students, which is showing itself in the action of the team this year.

The entire group then arose and sang the Alma Mater. With the singing of the song so dear to the hearts of all Muhlenberg men, ended the Football Banquet of 1921, held to commemorate the Spirit and accomplishments of the victorious football squad and Coach.

Faculty Notes

Dr. Haas gave an address to the alumni of Allentown High School on "Modern Poetry" on Friday evening, November 25.

Professor Corbiere spent the Thanksgiving holidays in Washington, D. C., as the guest of Representative Miller.

Professor Simpson gave a talk to the men's club of St. John's Lutheran Church on Monday evening.

Before an audience of 650 people of the Telford Lutheran Church, Professor Fritsch delivered a lecture on the Book of Exodus.

Dr. Haas is giving a series of ten lectures on "The Religious Foundations of Democracy" Tuesday noons at the Y. M. C. A. Two of the series have already been given.

Dr. Ettinger had charge of the evening services of the English Lutheran Church of which Rev. W. C. Schaeffer, Jr., is pastor on Sunday, November 27.

Professor Fritsch gave an address at the teachers commencement at Kulpville on "The Reward of the Teacher" on Sunday, Nov. 27.

Dr. Ettinger recently addressed the Brotherhood of the Lutheran Congregation of Emaus.

Dr. Haas, on Tuesday, Nov. 29, addressed the Ladies Auxilliary on "What is Relativity?"

On Wednesday, Dec. 1, Coach Spiegel and family left for Detroit, where Mr. Spiegel is engaged in the real estate business.

Dear Alumnus:

The subscriptions to the Muhlenberg Club are now due. This plan of raising money for our new buildings is meeting with great success. It is a pleasure to say that fifty per cent of our alumni are contributing annually. If you have not joined The Club up to this time, we hope that you will do so now.

All money obtained in this way will be credited to you in our next campaign, which will come not later than 1924, when we will start our new buildings. This money, now being collected, will go toward these new buildings.

Your 1921 subscription is now due.

Sincerely yours,
GURNEY F. AFFLERBACH,
Field Secretary.

REV. CROLL BRINGS MESSAGE TO STUDENTS.

On Monday, November 21, Rev. Croll addressed the student body and tried to impress upon the students that they are a rare and a privileged class of individuals, upon whom the coming generation will place the great problems and look to them to guide and to direct their thoughts.

Rev. Croll is a member of the General Synod Lutheran Church, and was born and raised in Lehigh County. He said that he was watching Muhlenberg College in all its activities and was very much pleased with the progress the institution was making.

He said in part:

"You, young men left your homes and your communities to come to this splendid institution of learning to prepare yourself for some vocation or profession. Ninety eight per cent do not have this privilege. You belong to the two per cent group, and therefore, you are a selected group of individuals. Young men because of this fact there rests upon you a great responsibility. Realize the greatness of your responsibility and put your whole heart and soul into your work so that you will be of the greatest service first to your God and secondly to your fellow men."

Penalty after penalty was imposed on Muhlenberg for offside plays. Muhlenberg was penalized a total of 115 yards as against 30 for the visitors. That Ursinus was completely outclassed is evidenced by the fact that Muhlenberg registered 23 first downs against 3 which the victors could credit for themselves.

PHI KAPPA TAU HOLDS THANKSGIVING DANCE

The Hotel Traylor Roof Garden was the scene of a well arranged and very pretty Thanksgiving Dance given by the Eta Chapter of the Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity on Wednesday evening, November 30th.

About sixty couples enjoyed a tuneless Dance program played by O'Brien's Metropolitan Orchestra of Lehigh, who are at the present time playing for the Victor Talking Machine Company.

During the intermission delightful and tasty refreshments were served while the gathering watched Baby Leonard give a most graceful exhibition of toe-dancing.

The chaperons for the affair were: Prof. and Mrs. H. D. Bailey, Dr. and Mrs. I. M. Wright, and Prof. and Mrs. J. Shankweiler. The committee in charge of the dance consisted of: Gomer Rees, Walter Koch, Clarence Beerweiler, Roland Heller, and Paul Hildebrand.

DR. HAAS EXPLAINS EINSTEIN THEORY

two different types of measurement, citing the example of the measurements made on the attraction by the sun in an Eclipse in 1919, when the old formula of fixed relations failed.

He said that Einstein calculated on a different kind of attraction on a different formula, that of relativity to movement.

Dr. Haas then gave the following illustrations: "Take a railroad train and a man standing on the bank. The train is moving. But in the train a man is walking in the same direction, he is going faster than the man on the bank and the train. All distances are different and different standards must have different types of measurements."

"Suppose the clock strikes eleven. In one hour it will strike twelve at the same place, but in one hour it would only be heard 70,000 miles away."

He then stated that there is no such a thing as an absolute standard, and that every point of space has a point of time (events) with it. Standing still is only relative. While time is a moving thing, and measurements must be on a law of moving things in relation to the points of time.

Dr. Haas continued by saying that Einstein's theory is that the world or universe is measured by curves or eclipses, which makes it finite, and for which he has worked out a mathematical formula for measurement.

Dr. Haas then said "From this I draw three deductions. First: It creates a doubt in the claims of scientists as to absolute facts and formulas, which are only relative to the observer. Second: If things are relative, they are:

1. Relative to each other.
2. Relative to the observer.

This is Einstein's theory, being the way that the mind interprets things. Third: If the universe is finite, mind is necessary. But the Infinite is greater, and it is simply a proposition of science declaring the theories of old philosophies right after all!

DELTS ENTERTAIN FROSH AND ALUMNI AT SMOKERS

On Thursday night, November 24, 1921, the active chapter of Delta Theta entertained their Alumni at a smoker in the fraternity house. About thirty alumni were present at the affair. It was a get together meeting of all the older Delts. Football was the main subject of the speakers of the night. Lunch was served to the alumni, after which the smoker broke up with regret on the part of all those that attended.

On Monday evening, November 20, the active chapter of the Delta Fraternity entertained many freshmen and upper-classmen at a smoker held at 731 Turner St. During the course of the evening many varieties of entertainment were enjoyed. The clink of the ivory balls could be heard thru the strains of music furnished by Stroup and Ritter.

The favorite game of "Pinochle" was played by most of the men present. The games were halted about 10 o'clock when a very neat lunch was served under the guidance of the committee in charge of affairs. Doctor John W. Noble entertained with several vocal selections. The smoker was a delightful affair, and was enjoyed by all.

The Muhlenberg Weekly

Volume XL

Muhlenberg College, Allentown, Pa., December 13, 1921.

Number 12

When wise men saw the eastern star
They sought the new-born Child,
And came to worship and adore
That King so meek and mild.

These men of rank and station high
Were humble in His sight.
Before Him they forgot their wealth
---Their worldly power and might.

God grant that we may thus forget
Our petty worldly pow'r
---Be humble and devout as they
In this glad Christmas Hour.

Editorial Comment

DOWN TOWN

I see the crowd with mind intent on shopping rushing along the damp dull pavement in December.

* * * * *

Behind long counters, heaped high with stocks of goods laid out expressly for the "Christmas trade" stand patient clerks, too tired far to care about the hectic pawing of fingers on the goods.
 The fingers lift and spurn; they know not what they want, save that by force of custom a present of some sort must speed its way to other busy fingers pawing things on long counters.
 Can someone tell me, is this forgetting or remembering that the Prince of Peace came earthward as a helpless babe, cradled in a manger?

H. P. K. '22.

Muhlenberg has proven the victor on the athletic field. Her name is better known in the college world than a year ago. She has taken a prominent position among the smaller colleges of our country.

Can she maintain the position achieved?

Already the interested are planning a year in advance and picture the victories yet to be won.

What will be the achievements in other lines?

Thirty men have made a name for the college in the Athletic world.
 What record will be made by the two hundred and twenty others at college?

May we hope that the remainder of the college year will mean the hardest kind of study and the determination to win along the many varied lines of our aspirations.

The name of Muhlenberg is well known throughout the scholastic world but there greater achievements wanted from Muhlenberg men along the lines of literature, science, religion and art.

The same determination that resulted in victory on the field is wanted now to go forward and grasp the prizes awaiting during the college year and thereafter.

It is a wonderful playground, this future ahead. It means hard play and long.

Muhlenberg men will lead in the world's work.

Now for the best work ever.

M.

What there is about a new calendar on the wall that begets resolutions is hard to explain definitely. Year after year a verdant crop of New Year Resolutions, springs up, over night, and in the course of a few cold January days disappears to complete oblivion until it is time for the next ephemeral crop.

The only way to form a new habit is to begin. The effective method of getting rid of a bad habit is to stop, and replace it with something definitely better. If the thought of un-spotted pages makes it any easier to change from the careless scribbling of the past to a more flawless writing, well and good; and New Year's day ought to come oftener than once in twelve months.

Words spoken lightly and fluently;
 "A Merry Christmas and a Happy
 New Year." Many a time a strong, living wish lies behind the time-worn phrase. A merry christmas day is a pleasure from sun to sun. A happy new year lasts for three hundred odd days, and might be called a large order.

Happiness, like light, is reflected.
 Those who radiate a cheery smile and a friendly word are sure to have equally bright smiles and sunny greetings returned to them. It may be difficult at times to produce the smile, but it pays to make the effort.

To the readers of the WEEKLY who have imagination and a sense for humor, we repeat simply the familiar phrase, a Merry Christmas, and a Happy New Year. Our wish is sincere and strong. Be glad on Christmas day, and get the habit of happiness that will carry you triumphantly thru nineteen twenty-two and all the other years to come.

POOR LUTHERANS ARE AIDING EUROPEAN STUDENTS

by Dr. Hugo C. M. Wendel
 New York University

The war affected all classes of society. It is safe to say that there is not a country in Europe in which there is not a shifting of the social strata. A few men have become wealthy. The great majority, however, are suffering from poverty. To the latter belong the students.

Released from the task of fighting for the homeland, and following a natural bent, the student has returned to the hall of learning to resume the task of preparing to hand on the torch of civilization. But what a change! The buildings, it is true, are intact. The libraries are still performing their functions. The professors, with their ante-bellum devotion to art and science, are lecturing in the class rooms, although their salaries are inadequate to enable them to live according to old standards.
 The students, too, are there in large numbers, eager to begin the process of social and intellectual reclamation.

And yet, conditions have changed.
 The destruction of wealth, the decline in the purchasing power of money, unemployment, have reduced below the subsistence limit the income of those families whose sons and daughters attend the higher institutions of learning. This has obliged these sons and daughters to add from other sources to the inadequate financial assistance obtained from home. So meagre is the monthly allowance from home that it is often less than the weekly wage of a workingman.

Humane individuals, however, are making an effort to ameliorate conditions. The money which the National Lutheran Council has given to needy students in Europe has been well applied, for there is no class more worthy of help. It is gratifying to know that in the present campaign
 Lutheran students in America are giving, in some cases very generously, for the aid of their fellow students in Europe. The World Christian Student Movement is giving substantial assistance. Through their funds dining rooms have been established where nourishing food can be procured at nominal prices. Tailoring and shoe shops also have been set up for their benefit.

In Germany the impoverished condition of the student has influenced the trade union leaders to agree to admit students, either during or after the semester, to occupations otherwise restricted to trade unionists.
 This will enable them to supplement their meagre allowance from home.

The students abroad deserve our support. It is humane, it is Christian to help them. They have a definite function to perform. They are the bulwark of democracy against the onslaught of communism. They must preserve to posterity the great principles of the Renaissance and of the Reformation,—the liberty of the individual.

CONCERNING THE MUHLEN- BERG HEART

There came to our sanctum the other day a little ditty which seemed to come from the heart of one of our fair correspondents. We know not who she is, but we will give her credit for being fair.

Fickle is the Muhlenberg heart
 When they from the girl depart.
 Like a sailor at sea,
 Wherever they be,
 They always have a sweetheart.

Having assumed, of course, that our correspondent is fair-minded as well as fair, we ask her to consider in detail our viewpoint of the sweetheart situation.

When it comes to affairs of the heart,
 The girls from the boys steal a start.

When they see a man twice
 They think: "Oh, how nice
 To have gained an eternal sweetheart."

STUDENT VOLUNTEERS MEET AT PRINCETON

Four Delegates Attend From
Muhlenberg

"Princeton has many conferences, but this conference is unique in two ways: in the first place, because so many young men and women have gathered together for a common purpose—to evangelize the world; secondly, because so many universities and colleges are here represented." With these words Rev. Beach of the First Presbyterian Church of Princeton welcomed the Seventeenth Annual Conference of the Eastern Union of Student Volunteers, held at Princeton from Dec. 2 to Dec. 4. Muhlenberg College was represented at the conference by Russel Werkheiser, Russell Stine, Myron Kistler, Harold Strause and Sterling F. Bashore.

The first two members of the Muhlenberg delegation left Allentown for Princeton on Friday morning and arrived in time for the opening session. The remainder of the delegation left Allentown at 3:03 P. M. but did not arrive in Princeton until 7:50 owing to their missing connections at Phillipsburg. The station man at the latter place informed them that a local was due in about 5 minutes, which usually stops at every single house once, at every double twice, and if the cows have not been milked, it is customary for the trainmen to get off and milk them. Any one of the delegates can assure you that the station man did not exaggerate when he made this statement.

Arriving at Princeton, the delegates, after a long tramp thru a drizzling rain, succeeded in finding the Seminary Gymnasium, where the conference delegations were registered. After registration, the group retraced their steps to the First Presbyterian Church at which place a varied and interesting program was rendered by several Seminary students. Some of the numbers were: a poem "Father's Whippings Hurt"; a negro sermon on "The Apple"; an American speech by an Irishman; and a skit. After the program, ice cream and cake were served to the delegates.

Saturday morning a business session for Student Volunteers only was held. It was decided to hold the next conference at Drew Seminary, no definite date being fixed. It was also decided that, since Philadelphia, a member of the Eastern Conference, usually sends two delegates, the conference as a whole would send only one delegate to the National Conference. Immediately after the business session, the morning session opened. Rev. A. W. Moore, formerly a missionary to India told how his name had stood him in good stead. In India the name, Moore, means peacock, a symbol of high caste. On the other hand his wife's single name, Keats, proved to be a great hindrance. In the Indian language, Keats is the word for mud. He told his audience that the majority of the converts were added to the church by mass movements. This is due to the arrangement of society, common to India, known as the caste system. There are four main castes: the priests; the merchants, the warriors and the farmers. He likened the caste system to a pyramid. Each layer receives the burden and reproach of every overlying layer. The Pungi or outcasts are the lower class of society. It is among them that the greatest mission work is being done. They are practically the sewers of India. For compensation they do not receive money but scraps of food from their masters' table. They number about 50,000,000 and dwell in a separate section of the villages, usually in mud huts. Since pigs and chickens are considered abominations to the religious East Indian, only the Pungi, who are considered to be without souls, are allowed to raise them. The favorite scripture lesson is the story of the Prodigal Son, because of its narration concerning swine-raising.

DR. HAAS ADDRESSES EXTENSION DIVISION

Vocationalism Subject of Interesting Talk

The students of the Extension Division of Muhlenberg College were given the privilege of listening to a most inspiring address by Dr. J. A. W. Haas, in the College Chapel, on Saturday morning, December 10.

Dr. Haas took for his subject: Vocationalism. "There is no activity which must not stand in some relation and be coordinated with some democratic activity today" were his opening words.

He then pointed out the fact that the activities in school life must further the cause of democracy, which must increase the rights of every individual, emphasizing the idea that human beings have rights, and that democracy is not a dead issue, like the equality of figures in a sum.

"There is" continued Dr. Haas, "an irrational something which is called individuality. There must be an understanding of the human capacities and personal needs, in domestic teaching."

He then brought out the idea, that, first: If something is new, it is therefore of value, and second: that children are given vocational training without differentiation.

Continuing, Dr. Haas stated that the foundation of democracy must not be separated from the human being, and that the purpose of the school will always fail if it does not keep the of making men and women out of the boys and girls who attend the schools.

"Vocationalism," continued Dr. Haas, "means the fitting of the children to take their places in some specific kind of work. It has certain advantages. Do people really know what is good for them? Education has certain fashions just as styles do. It is therefore the business of the philosophy of education to except nothing until a complete examination has been made."

He then went on to enumerate some of the points of value in a vocational education: "First: Men and women, to be made complete, must be trained in an occupation as well as books. In a community of commerce, labor, or industry, the men and women are expected to contribute something to its support.

Second: As the world wide occupations are an industrial problem, some regard to these conditions must be had in the school.

Third: Industry is not accidental, and it is necessary to have scientific management, which as a result introduced intelligence to machine-like operations.

Fourth: As science is becoming more and more experimental, the laboratory method is necessary, which

ALL COLLEGE DANCE AT MEALEY'S DEC. 28

Lehigh-Northampton County
Club of Penn State
Will Be Host

A hearty invitation is extended to all Muhlenberg men to attend an All-College Dance planned by the Lehigh-Northampton County Club of Penn State College on the night of Wednesday, December 28th, at Mealey's Auditorium. The Fantasy Six will provide the music, and the subscription has been set at two dollars.

In view of the cordial relations that exist between Muhlenberg and Penn State, and the numerous friendships between students of the two institutions whose homes are in or near Allentown, the club hopes to have Muhlenberg well represented at the dance.

L. L. Ramsay, Allentown High '18, and State '22, is President of the Lehigh-Northampton County Club of Penn State College, and to his initiative largely must be credited the carrying out of the all-collegiate dance project for this vicinity, thru which the college men of the community, both students and alumni, should be drawn into more intimate friendship.

GRAND SECRETARY BOWERS VISITS PHI KAPPA TAU

Ralph K. Bowers, of Alliance, Ohio, Grand Secretary of the Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity last week visited Eta chapter, bringing to the local Phi Taus the greetings of the Inter-fraternity Conference which met at New York City during the Thanksgiving season.

The strides made by Muhlenberg in athletics were the subject of favorable comment on the part of Mr. Bowers, who did not hesitate to call Muhlenberg the best small college in the east.

After a thoro inspection of the local chapter, Secretary Bowers expressed his confidence in the men of Eta, and in an inspiring little address prophesied that the energy displayed by the local men in climbing to their present position in a short period of three years since the granting of the national charter will continue to serve the best interests of Muhlenberg and of the fraternity.

PRIZE AWARD ANNOUNCE- MENT

The story, "Before Dawn," by William B. Butz, '25, was awarded the prize of two dollars offered by the editors of the Christmas Weekly for the best Christmas story or essay. Professors Simpson and Mueller, together with the Editor in chief of the WEEKLY served as judges. Honorable mention is made of the essay, "The Spirit of Christmas," by Ira Fritz, '23.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL TEAMS OF THE EASTERN SEC- TION AS RANKED FOR THE 1921 SEASON BY THE NEW YORK TIMES

We reprint herewith the New York TIMES classification of college football teams. The lineup has been getting favorable notice in many sections. We quote from a letter of W. Chester Hill, '20, who speaks for the men at Mt. Airy Seminary in Philadelphia. "I think it would be good to put this in the WEEKLY. We gave the list some consideration and discussion here and we decided that it was pretty fair; yet we hand it to the N. Y. TIMES for placing us so far up, which is a lot more than any Philadelphia paper would do."

GLEE CLUB WILL ASSIST MISS SAGE

On Friday, the 16th, the Glee Club will make its first appearance before the public. They will render several selections at the High School in conjunction with the reading by Miss Sage. The boys are confident that their first appearance will be up to the standard set by previous clubs that have represented Muhlenberg.

Mr. Raymond V. Thomas, '23, has been selected as the vocal soloist. The Club has been fortunate in securing Mr. Thomas in that he has had much experience in concert work and possesses a rich baritone voice and a personality that will rank him above the rest of the soloists of other Glee Clubs this season.

The first tenor section of the Club has been strengthened by the appearance of Daniels '24. Mr. Daniels was the star end of the football team this year. He joins the Club highly recommended.

Mr. Bennyhoff will be the instrumental soloist. He is a talented pianist and his numbers will be well received by his audience. Mr. Bennyhoff is the leader of the Club.

Professor Brown, the Dramatic Director, has been very busy turning out his boys in the skit. He has selected a clever cast. Mr. Lantz will be the senior, known as Jimmie; Mr. Steltz as Mike; Mr. Sowers as Joseph; Mr. Koch as John; Mr. Mosser as Archie; Mr. Trexler as Dr. Essinger; and Mr. Mattson will portray Jimmie's uncle, a crabby old financier from South America. The situation and incidents are extremely funny and well worked out.

Jimmie, a senior at Muhlenberg, has been notified that his uncle from South America is to visit him. He uses Mike, his room mate, to assist him in his difficulty. The uncle arrives and everything is well until a certain moment. Mr. MacIntosh, the author of the skit, can be highly commended on his production. It is the funniest and the best skit that has ever been on the concert boards of the Club. Professor Brown is well pleased and he guarantees that there will be a laugh every minute.

Manager Reese is very busy making out the itinerary for this season's concerts. Immediately following the Christmas vacation the club will produce its first complete concert.

A. T. O. DANCE HELD IN HONOR OF NEW INITIATES

Last evening the Alpha Iota Chapter of Alpha Tau Omega held a Christmas rushing dance at the Hotel Traylor in honor of the newly initiated men, Crum, Holstrom, Ernie Johnson, Gebbard, and Grimmett.

There was a very fine crowd in attendance, all of the active chapter, a number of the freshman, and quite a few of the younger alumni. The dance was a huge success, and especially as far as the music was concerned. It was furnished by Mickley's Famous Fantasy Six. They fairly outdid themselves in their efforts to please.

During the intermission a club luncheon was served, and immediately afterwards Mickley and Seitz, of the orchestra, presented a short skit without words, but with lots of music. The dance lasted until midnight, and then the happy couples turned homeward greatly enlivened by the evening's entertainment.

The dance was chaperoned by Professor and Mrs. A. C. H. Fasig and Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Merkle.

MUHLENBERG DEFEATS URSINUS IN FIRST GAME

29-24 Score Secure Only When Whistle Blows

Muhlenberg opened its basketball season last Friday evening by coming out on the long end of a 29-24 score, in a game that was won only when the final whistle blew. The game was played in the Prep School Gymnasium and witnessed by a large crowd of Muhlenberg fans.

It was an excellent showing for a team that is entirely new and only working together since last Monday. Most of the men are composed of last season's famous gridiron squad and all indications point toward an exhibition in basketball equally as worthy. The big feature of the game was the excellent teamwork and the fast passing of the local cage five and after Coach Geary gets his team organized properly great things can be expected.

Muhlenberg got the first score when Holstrom tossed a foul into the basket. But the Collegeville tossers soon came back with a pretty field goal from the side by Evans, a freshman at that institution. From that time on the game was closely contested and the first half ended with Muhlenberg in the lead. The score was 14-10.

The Ursinus defence was superior to that of Muhlenberg, but the locals put it all over them when it came to scoring. Coach Geary's boys took advantage of every break in the five man defence of the Ursinus team and seldom missed an opportunity to score. Holstrom and Schanz each had four field goals apiece. Crum threw a scare into the Ursinus team when he made two field goals from difficult angles. Rahn kept his team in the race by tossing twelve out of thirteen fouls. Frutchey and Evans starred in floor work and goal shooting for the visitors.

The lineup:
Muhlenberg Ursinus
Holstrom F. Frutchey
Crum F. Howells
Kintzing C. Rahn
Weston G. Wilson
Campbell G. Evans

Muhlenberg substitutions—Schanz for Kintzing; Taggart for Weston; Freed for Taggart. Ursinus substitutions—Kengle for Wilson. Field goals—Holstrom, 4; Crum, 2; Campbell, 1; Schanz, 4; Frutchey, 4; Evans, 2. Foul goals—Rahn, 12; Schanz, 1; Holstrom, 4; Crum, 1; Kintzing, 1. Time of halves—20 minutes. Referee "Pop" Mitchell.

STUDENT COUNCIL TO ENTERTAIN ON THURSDAY

On Thursday, December 15 at 10:40 A. M. in the Chapel the Student Council on behalf of the Student Body will entertain about forty-five boys and girls from the Good Shepherd Home at a Christmas party. Santa Claus will be there to distribute gifts of candy and fruit and a Christmas tree will be trimmed. Word has been received from Santa Claus Land that St. Nicholas will bring a bagful of games which are to be placed in the recreation rooms for the use of all the boys and girls. An Entertainment Committee will provide for a program of real fun for the children: Lantz, President of the Student Council will tell the story of the first Christmas; Bashore will give a reading of the children's favorite, "The Night Before Christmas"; Preuss and Bennyhoff will present an instrumental duet; and "Zip" Thomas will sing Christmas songs in his inimitable way.

The following members of the Student Council have been appointed to serve as committeemen: Transportation: De Turk and Rupp; Toys: Druckemiller and Balmer; Tree: Benze, Zartman, and Gresh; Entertainment: Werkheiser, Fritz, and Rex. The committees wish to acknowledge a gift of candy through the courtesy of George B. Balmer.

BEFORE DAWN

First Prize Contest Story

THROUGH the stillness of the night came a stealthy creak—the grating noise of a key in a foreign lock. Silence. Then the sound of a door being pushed cautiously ajar.

"Careful," came in a low whisper from the darkness. "Careful, you don't make a noise."

"Don't worry. I'm right here behind you."

A bright circle of light shot through the darkness, flashed for a moment over an unpolished floor and narrow stairway.

"This way," came a low confident voice. "The room's off here to the right. We'll be all right in another minute."

Once more darkness. From the street came the distant tinkle of passing sleigh bells and the sound of crunching snow.

"Close this door, Vin. and I'll turn on the lights. Watch out," in sharp tones, "or the draught will bang it shut."

"Shall I shut the street door?"

"No. It's not worth our while. Is it closed? Good, now for the lights."

There was a little click. A flood of light fell from an overhanging chandelier.

It was a small room in which the two found themselves, small but comfortably furnished. Vincent Horton drew a long breath.

"Well," he declared emphatically, "the only thing I have to say is that if you do this every Christmas eve you have a nerve racking job on your hands."

"Sorry you came?"

"Of course not; only I never dreamt when you asked me to stay with you for the holidays that we'd break into houses and trudge through alleys with a five hundred pound load on our backs at four o'clock in the morning."

"Well, old chap," Hugh Leighton rested his hand on his friend's arm, "we'll at least have the satisfaction of knowing that we made some little kiddies happy, anyway. There's a little lame fellow living here with an old uncle, who's a second Scrooge; and the Christmases I have made for the little fellow are the only ones he has ever known. Besides," he had turned his face toward the window, "it would make Laverne happy to know that you were doing this tonight."

Vincent Horton laughed without mirth. "As if it could make any difference with her now."

"One never knows. I always think of Emerson's line:

Love, and you shall be loved."

"Do you know, Hugh," exclaimed Vincent suddenly, "I've often thought that you and Laverne could have been rather congenial together."

Leighton crossed hastily to the fireplace and with his back toward his friend busied himself with a bulky parcel.

"Laverne was too splendid a girl for me," he said carefully after a moment. "She belonged to one like you, Vin."

From far down the street came the voices of pedestrians early abroad. They grew louder as they neared the house, then slowly they faded into the night.

The man before the fireplace aroused himself with an effort. "Come on, Vin," he said slowly, "let's get to work. It's about—why, what luck," he broke off suddenly. "Our friend Scrooge has placed a tree back of the fireplace. I guess he must have had palpitation of the heart."

"It needs balls," criticized Vincent as he stepped to his friend's side—"it looks more like an old woman's tree than one for a kid."

"Never mind that. Shall we fasten this big red ornament to the top?" "I'll put it in this empty space here to the right."

"There," said Hugh a few minutes later, "the tree looks better. Now for that wooden horse. Where did I leave it, Vin?"

"I thought you left it on the porch," replied Vincent. "You put something down just before we came in."

"I'll go look; you stay here and scatter these toys under the tree. I'll be back in a minute."

In the shadow of the hall Hugh paused and glanced anxiously about him. Evidently he was disappointed for carefully he retraced his steps, circling around the glow of light that came from the open door of the room wherein Vincent was at work. Hugh paused for a brief second. His face was pale and strained but his lips were set in a determined line. Just for a moment he lingered, then hastily he made his way forward. Again his outstretched hand encountered only the blank wall. He turned with a match from his pocket. SS, ss—a little glow. Warily the man glanced about him. His eyes lit on the object of his search. He extinguished the match as he tiptoed to the opposite corner and carefully raised the dark bulk in his arms. As he passed the little glow of light on his way out he glanced within once more. His friend was still on his knees before the tree.

Hugh reached the opened door. Again he paused and leaned his head against the wall. His eyes followed the long stretch of drifted snow to the street before he lifted them hopelessly to the sky. A cold blast of wind swept over him, caught at some nearby draperies and flung them with a low swish against the wall.

Murmuring something inaudible to the stars, he raised his burden high above his head. As if bereft of will, his arms fell slowly to his side. Once more he tried.

There was a terrifying crash of breaking glass. Startled, Vincent leaped to his feet. What had happened? Where was his friend? Should he escape from the house or await Hugh's return? He decided to remain. Anyway, he reflected, it was probably just some slight noise that his overstrained nerves had—

He had turned toward the door. A woman stood framed in the doorway. In the same instant he knew her. It was Laverne.

The toy engine crashed from his hand to the floor. "Laverne," he cried, "Laverne."

She took a step forward. "Vin," he exclaimed. "Oh, Vin, why have you come here?"

Her eyes took in the tree, the toys, the candles and nuts.

"But there are no children," she cried. "Oh, Vin, how could you think I had married?"

"Married," he repeated stupidly. "Hugh said you weren't married."

"Hugh?" she gasped. "He brought you here? He—"

"Yes, yes, to masquerade as Santa Claus. Oh, Laverne if you only knew. Can't you forgive me once more?"

She smiled softly—the smile of a woman who has learned to forgive and to understand. Slowly she started to take one step forward, then hastily retreated to the doorway.

"Laverne!"

"Look," she commanded pointing toward the lintel.

Directly above her hung a tiny spray of mistletoe.

Hugh Leighton sat alone before his dying fire. Just three hours since he and his friend had left the apartment with their burden of toys. The flames had danced merrily then; now there was nothing more than a bed of coals—coals with the white ashes gathering fast. Once more he re-read Laverne's letter.

"Dear, dear Hugh, I know not how to begin this letter for I know not the end.

I would I could tell you "yes" without stipulation, with freedom. But I fear I cannot. I feel, Hugh, that if I should meet him unexpectedly I might not be able to resist the old bonds—not yet. Yet I realize well, that if you can wait—let us say two more years—I can come to you.

I believe I am at such a point where

CONCERNING CHRISTMAS

Honorable Mention Contest Story

AMONG other things, Christmas reminds me that this old world of ours is a pretty good place to live in after all. At Christmas time I am reminded that there are just two kinds of people walking about on this planet: first, the folks who find the highest satisfaction in making other people happy; second, those who are possessed with an inveterate passion for surfeiting their own puny lives with the good things of this world, leaving the crumbs which fall from the table for the other fellow.

And since, at Christmas time, I find so many of the first order of splendid, unselfish folks, and so few of the illusioned self-overs, I conclude that word isn't going to the "bow-wows" right away, at any event.

Again, I like to think of the Christmas season as the one time of the year when folks return to faith in the essential simplicity of right living.

The other day I read of a Buddhist "incarnation" which told how an old man was born with a white beard and wise speech. The child whose birthday we celebrate at Christmas began life in utter simplicity. "As a babe He knew no language but a cry." He grew up the playmate of other boys, he worked at the carpenter's bench, He wrote no book, He made no scientific discovery, He simply went about doing good. His entire life was ruled by quiet grandeur and simplicity.

Giving and receiving gifts are essentially simple, child-like acts. In one of the old miracle plays the three shepherds are represented as bringing a bob of cherries, a bird, and a ball, as gifts to the meagre cot of the Holy Child. The hearts of those simple-minded rustics were bound about by love as tightly as were the hearts of the wise and wealthy men who at a later time laid costlier gifts at the feet of the Christ child.

Actually, it doesn't cost much to make some one happy, for the true worth of a gift is a finer thing than its cost in dollars and cents. Nor, can any man accept a gift with more graciousness than does a child, who instinctively accepts it as an outward expression of the inward love and kindness of the giver.

This will be a happier Christmas all around if we give the heart the upper hand and school ourselves to think less of Christmas as a time for "exchanging presents" and think more of it as a season devoted to the simple, child-like overflow of the love which we have selfishly hoarded up all year.

Christmas, nineteen hundred years ago, was the birthday of Love brought down out of heaven to live among men. The good-will chorus which heralded its coming was intended for the ears of all men everywhere. Just as a gas tends to expand indefinitely, filling the vessel which contains it, in a like manner, love reaches out to the remotest areas of the space occupied by the human family. Giving gifts within the immediate circle of our relatives and friends is a great good; filling the stockings of the boys and girls, and the grown-ups in the great areas of want across the seas, whose names we do not know, but whose Christmas cheer must, of necessity, arise from our good-will and generosity, is a greater good. This greater good done, there will come to each of us the greatest good possible.

And it is this greatest good that I wish for you and bid you all—a very merry Christmas!

—Ira S. Fritz, '23.

not to see him will kill the love, to see him will quicken it to life. But to prove to you that I am keen to see you I shall come to my aunt for the holidays—you know the place well—and those days, if you wish it so, we can have together. Until then—Vale."

Slowly the man walked to the window, drew back the curtains and raised the shade. The first faint flush of the cold winter dawn was in the sky. Christmas morning had dawned.

—William B. Butz, '24.

ST. OLAF CHOIR TO SING IN ALLENTOWN

Great Musical Organization Will Give Concert in A. H. S. on January Nineteenth

Muhlenberg students are very much interested in the announcement of the coming to Allentown of the St. Olaf Choir, perhaps the most notable Lutheran musical organization in this country and the premier college choir in America.

The management has assigned the date of January Nineteenth for their local appearance; and Allentown will be the only city honored by their appearance between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

The choir is composed of sixty-four highly trained voices of young men and women who are bona fide students of St. Olaf Lutheran College in Northfield, Minnesota. They sing without accompaniment and without notes or words before them, selections from the most difficult classics. The particular interest of the Church in this choir's music is the extent to which congregational life over wide areas is influenced musically.

The program to be rendered by the choir on its visit here follows:

Part I.

- (a) The Spirit Also Helpeth Us.....
J. Sebastian Bach
Motet for Double Chorus
- (b) O Sacred Head .....
H. L. Hassler (1613)
- (c) How Fair the Church of Christ
Shall Stand .....
(Choral from Schumann's Gasangbuch, 1539)

Part II.

- (a) It is a Good Thing .....
George Schumann
- (b) Yea Tho Thru Death's Gloomy
Vale .....George Schumann
- (c) Lord, How Long .....
George Schumann
- (d) Motet for Advent Season .....
Gustav Schreck

Part III.

- (a) Praise The Lord, O My Soul ...

JAPANESE WILL SPEAK AT JAN. COLLEGE NIGHT

The next regular observance of College Night at St. John's Church will be on Sunday evening, January Fifteenth. At this time a young Japanese ordained minister of the Lutheran Church, the Rev. Hajime Inadomi will be the speaker.

Mr. Inadomi has been in this country as a student for nine years, having taken first honors at Roanoke College and after being graduated from the Southern Lutheran Seminary received a degree for special work at South Carolina University.

He has been prominent for many years as a speaker of exceptional fervor and ability before student bodies and church conventions. On Sunday night Mr. Inadomi will speak on the subject "If There Were No Christ." Later he will address the student body on the subject, "America and Japan" and on Monday evening he will be the guest of honor at the prospective students luncheon and will speak on the subject, "Why I Want To Be A Minister."

FROSH BASKETBALL

The freshmen lost their first game of basketball on Saturday night when they were beaten by Northampton H. S. by the score of 19-11. They put up a very good showing, considering the fact that they have only been practicing for several days while Northampton High has already played several games. At the end of the first half the Frosh were leading 9-6, but were able to score only one field goal during the second half. With a little more practice, the Frosh should have a very good team. A game is pending with Tamaqua High School next Friday evening. A schedule is being arranged by Mgr. Christmas for games to be played after the holidays. The score of the Northampton game follows:

N. H. S.	M. Frosh
Rector	F. Huber
Lane	F. Orr
Troxel	C. Skidmore
Miller	G. Messinger
Rechard	G. Riggs

Field goals—Lane 2, Miller 1, Rector, Troxell, Rechard, Huber, Orr, Riggs 2. Foul goals—Troxell 5 out of 9, Miller 2 out of 9, Orr 3 out of 7. Referee—Taggart.

FACULTY NOTES

Prof. Fritsch addressed the German Club of Lehigh University last Friday eve. His subject was the origin and derivation of certain proper names in the German Language.

Dr. Haas preached at Tower City on Sunday.

Prof. Bailey will speak to the Amalgamated Textile Workers of Allentown on Friday eve. He will speak on Venereal Diseases.

presupposes a certain amount of theory.

Fifth: Different men are fitted for different things. Some are definitely marked for certain work, and it is the business of the school to find this out and develop it.

Dr. Haas then went on to speak of the disadvantages and dangers which accompany this vocational training.

First: The child's surroundings should not be the only determining factor in its life work. Vocational training is too narrow in scope. The individual talents of the child must be recognized. Specific vocational training limits the field of expansion.

Second: Vocational training must not be put into the service of either Capital or Labor, as they have been. Capitalists have used it as a feeder to satisfy their demands, and Labor, especially the Unions, have used the school to furnish apprentices. The preparation for the economic situations must not be put in the schools, as democracy opposes the idea that we shall be controlled by the economic determinations of Capital or Labor.

Third: Vocational training limits the child in the development of broader knowledge. If we are to remain in sympathetic relationship with mankind, we must make knowledge broad so that intelligent franchise can be practiced.

Fourth: If we are to have liberty, individual choice must count. The creative power is not what it should be when such liberty is encroached upon. There is too little play for the latent possibilities.

Fifth: Unless vocational work is taught be the highest type of men, the standard is lowered, just as the standards of general knowledge are lowered by special work. When a demand increases, standards are lowered in order to accommodate these demands.

Sixth: It fosters a certain group consciousness, which retards progress.

Seventh: It neglects leadership, a factor which is of most importance in a democracy.

Eighth: It fosters the wrong philosophy of what is useful. Spiritual instincts are neglected. Money making is not the aim of the soul.

Dr. Haas in his closing remarks, brought out the idea that vocationalism is necessarily utilitarian, which naturally demands efficiency, which in turn is of an autocratic nature. He brought out the point that an autocracy was much more efficient than a democracy, in the utilitarian sense, but that we want a democracy instead.

His final appeal to the teachers was that they should do their own thinking, and not fall for every new fad which comes along.

ing. Rev. Moore said that it was necessary to educate the people at the very bottom; education and economic relief are the two greatest problems which the missionary has to face; the latter has been solved by scientific poultry raising. He closed his speech by a plea for more missionaries. Mr.
David Owen told how students in Europe were suffering from lack of food. Dr. Harry Farmer, formerly a missionary in the Philippines said that the demands on the missionary were numerous. The ideal missionary must be a carpenter, a printer, a singer, a doctor, and not the least, a preacher. He forcibly illustrated this statement by incidents from his own missionary life.

Saturday afternoon the conference was addressed by Mr. Loudenberg a native of Russia. He told how his government regarded the students in Russian schools with suspicion, how the students were compelled to sleep in cemeteries and Turkish bath rooms and to eat irregular meals because of unemployment. Dr. H. K. W. Kumm of the Africa Sudan mission gave an impressive parable of a Chinaman, who, having fallen into a well, was left to his fate by successive passers-by until one came who pulled him out, but sank into the well himself. By the passersby are meant the many religions of China, while the last passerby is Christ, the Savior or China.

A morning watch was celebrated on Sunday morning at 9:30 in the Seminary Chapel. Miss Crane, a Bible teacher, led in the devotional exercises. She took as her theme, the character of Paul. The outstanding feature of Paul was his purposefulness. He had not always possessed the purpose of propagating Christianity. It was the vision of Christ on the road to Damascus which proved to be the turning point. Paul's reaction from the vision can be found in his own words "Lord what wilt Thou have me do." Soon we find him going to Arabia to prepare himself for his future task. Paul was not slavishly submissive but lovingly faithful. Christianity, Miss Crane said, "was not hard to understand but hard to do; it serves to develop and not to limit; Christ tells us what we can do and then expects us to do it;
Christianity in all its aspects is not abstract, but intensely practical."

Mr. David Owen discussed the two types of Christians. The one group follows Christ as a model of Character; the other uses the Bible as a life program. "The missionary is a Christian of the latter type. He must be willing to do God's will, wherever that will may take him, whatever the cast. He must decide on the mission field as his life-work without any mental reservations whatever. A student volunteer is one who has indicated his intention of working on the foreign field. He does not pledge himself to any definite type of work, but shows his active willingness to do God's will. Whenever a feeling of inability comes to him he must remember the words of Christ "Thou shalt be called Peter." The next speaker was Dr. Dodd, a missionary to Persia. He told how the various races in Persia all respected the American flag and came to the American Mission for relief in time of anarchy and siege.

The afternoon session opened with some excellent musical selections by
D. J. Fleming of the Union Theological Seminary gave various views which men have taken concerning our relation to God. Some consider God as a storehouse of power, beauty, light and love; and man as a center of God's life and thought, or as a channel thru which God works, or as a field into which God may come, or as branches of a vine, the vine representing God himself. The glory of life is fruit-bearing. As we look on ourselves so we look on others. We seek to find God in others, manifesting himself in some form. Those who go out as missionaries must learn to recognize spotless character of Christ, the master. Several students from the Far East then pleaded very impressively China's and Japan's need of Christianity and democracy.

The speaker of the evening session was Dr. A. W. Moore who started out by stating that he hoped to sell the mission field in India to his auditors before he finished. He told about the many delicious fruits which were native to India; about the fast and accurate telegraphic service which linked up the newspapers of India with the West; and the many opportunities for service which his field presented.
He succeeded in his purpose for during service many delegates signed up as foreign missionaries.

It was at this session that two of the Muhlenberg delegation signed up as foreign missionaries; viz., Russell
Stine and Sterling F. Bashore.

A. A. FINALLY APPROVES 1922 FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

I. R. Thomas in Philadelphia Bulletin Places Muhlenberg Seventh in List of 169 Leading College Elevens.

Muhlenberg's football schedule for the 1922 season is the hardest that any Cardinal and Gray eleven has ever been called upon to play. Then games are on the list, five of which are at home and five away. Two of these contests are in nearby cities, which will give us a chance to see the team in action seven times.

The opening game will be played on September 30th, when the team journeys to Syracuse, N. Y., to meet the Syracuse University eleven. The season will be closed with the annual Turkey Day clash with Ursinus, on our field. Two new teams appear on the schedule, Villanova and Syracuse. These games take the place of Lebanon Valley and Albright.

In the January 2nd issue of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, I. R. Thomas, 2241 W. Broad Street, Philadelphia, explains his mathematical formula to solve the football ranking.

PREP SCHOOL HOLDS FOOTBALL BANQUET

Dr. I. M. Wright and Student Alumni at Muhlenberg Speak

With a wonderfully successful football season behind them, the members of the Allentown Preparatory School football team were honored at one of the biggest football banquets ever held at the school, on Wednesday, December 21. Over 150 persons filled the dining room where a delicious chicken dinner was served. The room was appropriately decorated in Purple and White, while candles encased in purple and white candlesticks, lighted the room.

Prof. Faber, instructor in Chemistry and physics served as toastmaster. Dr. Isaac Miles Wright was the principal speaker for the evening and kept the crowd in constant laughter by his jokes and amusing dreams that he is accustomed to get. He gave a forceful address on "Athletics" and emphasized the fact that a good football player must not necessarily be a robust fellow, but he must be determined to play the game clean and intelligently.

Raymond C. Miller, class of '19, spoke on behalf of the alumni association, and said that the Alumni of the school were interested in the athletic activities of their Alma Mater, and hoped that the team of 1922 would have even a brighter future than the team had in the last year.

Raymond Waller, class of '19, spoke on "Spirit and Loyalty."

One of the big features of the evening was Santa Claus. As Coach Witter called the names of the players, Santa presented each with an appropriate gift. They were also given their letters and gold footballs. Three beautiful silver loving cups were presented to the school, by Louis F. Neuweiler, Jacob Barnes, and Koch Brothers.

Among the alumni present who are now students at Muhlenberg are the following: Shankweiler, Kroninger, Nicholas, Koch, Rahn, Long, Diefenderfer, Miller and Waller.

ANNUAL XMAS STAG HELD BY PHI KAPPA TAU

A brotherly Christmas party was held by the men of Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity at their house, 1119 Linden Street, on the evening of December 15th, following the initiation of Carl W. Boyer, '23.

The exchanging of gifts was the feature of the evening, each gift being accompanied by a presentation speech, to make unmistakable the purpose of the present.

Preceding that part of the program, some lively chess battles, card contests, and pool engagements were in order.

Arrangements for the party were in the hands of a committee consisting of Luther F. Gerhart, Paul H. Hildebrand, J. Roland Heller, and J. Walter Koch. Their contribution to the merry-making included cigars and

DEAN GIVES TALK AT N. E. ALUMNI BANQUET

ANNUAL GATHERING AT WILKES-BARRE BRINGS OUT FINE SPIRIT

On Friday evening, December 30th, 1921, the members of the Northeastern Alumni Association of Muhlenberg College held their annual meeting and banquet at the Hotel Redington, Wilkes-Barre, Pa. After the very palatable menu prepared by the host had been duly attended to, the President for 1921, Prof. J. Richmond Merkel, acting as toastmaster, started the speech-making with some very timely and orthodox comments on the state of education in our day, after which he introduced Dr. George T. Ettinger, the Dean of Muhlenberg, and President of the General Alumni Association of the College, who in his own characteristic way described the chaotic condition of modern education, recalled incidents of "the good old days of Muhlenberg," and responded to the more formal toast, "What can the Alumni do for the College?" The development of personal character,

DEBATING TRYOUTS CALLED WEDNESDAY AT 4 P. M.

An elimination contest for debaters will be held in Sophronia Hall on Wednesday afternoon of this week, when each candidate will be expected to speak four minutes on either the affirmative or the negative of the question: "Resolved that the U. S. Government has done its full duty with the disabled veterans of the A. E. F."

The contest was originally called for last Friday, when ten candidates, members of all four classes, reported. Believing that a larger number of men would be able to come out on a Wednesday afternoon, the group present decided to postpone the contest.

The Student Body Committee in charge of debating arrangements wish it to be distinctly understood that all students, from Freshmen to Seniors, will have an equal opportunity in the try-outs.

No definite decision has been reached about the advisability of securing inter-collegiate debates for Muhlenberg this year.

REV. KINARD ADDRESSED STUDENTS IN CHAPEL

Rev. G. Harold Kinard, pastor at Christ Lutheran Church, 13th and Hamilton Street, delivered an interesting address in chapel this morning on "Man and the Measure of Man."

"The proper study of mankind is man," declared Rev. Kinard. "How are we to measure man? Men honor men because of their ancestry, their social prestige, their dress, their rating." The pastor reached the salient point of his address when he explained that contrary to these standards, set today for the measure of man was the criterion set by Christ to measure men by what they are and not by what they have.

Rev. Kinard succeeded Rev. Professor J. D. M. Brown as pastor of Christ Lutheran Church.

GOOD SHEPHERD HOME KIDDIES ENJOY TREAT

Student Body Presents Gifts at First Annual Xmas Party

One of the most enjoyable gatherings ever held in the College chapel took place on Thursday, December 15, when the students played Santa Claus to the children of the Good Shepherd Home. A beautiful Christmas tree brilliantly decorated stood in front of the platform, while the platform itself was covered with all sorts of toys, boxes of candy and oranges.

Titus Druckenmiller welcomed the boys and girls from the institution and in behalf of the student body wished them a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. Thomas Lantz, President of the student council held the youngsters spell bound as he very dramatically told them the story of the birth of Christ, and when he told them about the star that the wise men saw in the East, a real star appeared above the platform.

Santa Claus could not miss a good time and therefore he was present and distributed a box of candy and an orange to each child and teacher of the institution. It was indeed an impressive sight to see the crippled children mount the platform; many of them were unable to walk and had to be carried there. Each child was told to say his name as he received his present. This was rather amusing to the students because some of the smaller children were so astonished to see Santa Claus that they forgot their names when they were placed on the platform. A number of toys were donated to the children of the home by the students.

The Glee Club gave two selections, which were greatly appreciated by the children. The children returned the favor by singing "Holy Night, Silent Night."

Doctor Raker, who has charge of the Home responded with a neat speech in which he said that he in behalf of the Good Shepherd Home wanted to thank the students for their kindness, and hoped that the custom might be continued.

The Student Council was responsible for the affair both in arranging and financing the party.

STUDENT BODY MEETS

The first Student Body meeting after the Christmas vacation was held on Friday morning, January sixth, in the college chapel. Routine business was transacted.

STUDENT BODY HOLDS SUCCESSFUL DANCE

Odd Fellows Hall is Delightful Scene of Merry-Making

"Everybody Step." That's what they did last Friday evening at the Odd Fellows' Hall, when the student body with their lady friends enjoyed the first dance of the college year. Only a small percentage of the student body attended the hop, but the sixty couple who did come out had a most enjoyable evening, as the dance was the most successful that has ever been held.

The hall was appropriately decorated in Cardinal and Gray, and the music, well, it was the last word. Mickley and his celebrated Fantasy Six took the honors, and to say that they were fine would be putting it mildly. With their jazzy tunes, songs and funny maneuvers they seemed to captivate the dancers from start to finish. Encore after encore was given, and when it was time to say good night, there were still two dances to go.

Former student body dances were held at the Traylor, but a larger hall was found desirable. The committee in charge were, Hoffman, Chairman; Hodgins, Balmer, Bleiler and Cassone.

JAPANESE STUDENT TO SPEAK AT ST. JOHN'S

On next Sunday evening, January 15th, the Rev. Hijame Anadomi, one of the real leaders of thought from among the group of Japanese students in this country, will preach at the College Night service at St. John's.

Young Anadomi has been in this country for nine years, receiving degrees at Roanoke College, South Carolina University, and being graduated from the Southern Theological Seminary. He is now pursuing post-graduate work at Mt. Airy. For a number of years the Rev. Mr. Anadomi has been addressing student bodies and large assemblies throughout the country and he will doubtless be heard by the members of our college community with the same interest that has attended his appearance elsewhere. The subject for the sermon on Sunday night will be "If There Were No Christ." On Monday morning Mr. Anadomi will address the students in the chapel and on Monday evening he will be the honor guest at the luncheon for prospective theological students.

STUDENT CONFERENCE TO BE AT MUHLENBERG

Muhlenberg is indeed fortunate in having secured through the efforts of Prof. Brown, the second Lutheran Student Conference, the first of which was held a year ago at Mt. Airy Seminary. This Conference will be held at Muhlenberg, April 29th and 30th.

At a meeting of the Committee of the United Lutheran Church, for the work of Lutheran students in colleges and universities, held in Philadelphia in December, Prof. Brown was made a member of this committee.

The Conference will take up the work of Lutheran students in the colleges and universities of the east, and a delegation will attend from each school. There will be one hundred delegates attending from the Middle Atlantic States.

Dr. Haas has been asked to preach the conference sermon, and Prof. Brown to be the conference chaplain. Mr. T. Druckenmiller was appointed chairman of the local entertainment committee.

MUHLENBERG LOSES TO BROWN AND WHITE

Lehigh Wins in Fast Game by Score of 33-27

Maybe it was because Johnny Spiegel was not along with them, or possibly is because Lehigh has the better team, but at any rate the Muhlenberg basketball team failed to defeat Lehigh Saturday evening on the Taylor gym floor, the Bethlehem collegians winning over Coach Geary's Cardinal and Gray quintet by the score of 33 to 27.

Even though defeated, the local five put up a hard game against the fast Brown and White quintet. Crum, the diminutive quarterback who pulled Muhlenberg's football game out of the Lehigh fire, came near doing just that same thing in the basketball game Saturday night.

At the end of the first half the Brown and White five had a good lead on Geary's proteges. The score was 26 to 11. Then the second half opened, and three field goals in rapid succession by Crum brought the score up to more even terms. But Muhlenberg lacked the kick, and Lehigh's fast five worked their way out of danger.

The playing of Holstrom and Crum featured for the Muhlenberg team, while for the Lehigh five the playing of Leese, Coleman and Lingle featured. The lineup:

Lehigh	Muhlenberg
Coleman	F. Holstrom
Gallagher	F. Bachart
Harper	C. Freed
Leese	G. Crum
Hartung	G. Kintzing

Muhlenberg substitutions, Taggart. Lehigh substitutions, Snyder, Lingle, Degnan. Field goals, Coleman, 2; Harper, 1; Leese, 2; Lingle, 3; Holstrom, 3; Freed, 1; Kintzing, 1; Crum, 3. Foul goals, Lingle, 19; Kintzing 11. Referee, Miller. Time of halves, 20 minutes.

LAFAYETTE FIVE DOWNS MUHLENBERG

Cardinal and Gray Quintette on Short End of 33-10 Score

The Muhlenberg basketball team bumped against a stone wall on December 14th, when they clashed with the Lafayette quintet at Barricks Hall, Easton, and were beaten by the score of 33 to 10. The local collegians were able to get but two field goals.

From the outset, it was evident that the locals had not a single chance of overcoming the Maroon and White basketballers. And although outplayed and outclassed, Muhlenberg fought back hard every minute of play.

Lafayette guards played such a consistent game that every time a Muhlenberg forward got the ball, he was forced to shoot wildly. Lafayette's spectacular passing had the Muhlenberg five bewildered many times.

Muhlenberg drew first blood in the first half, when Frees shot a pretty field goal from the middle of the floor in the first few minutes of play. This was the locals only field goal in the first half.

The second period was a repetition of the first. Muhlenberg could do absolutely nothing with the ball, but although defeated, the Cardinal and Gray five played a fast game. Weston played his usual good game at guard. Freed also played a sterling game for the locals. Longacre and

Editorial Comment

This being the first of THE WEEKLY in 1922, we say to you as we said to all—HAPPY NEW YEAR.

There were no known casualties among the student body over the holidays, but then watch the next "casualty" list.

We are afraid that too many good resolutions will suffer premature death.

May our fondest hopes, our sincerest wishes, all our good intents, our every worthy aspiration be realized in 1922.

Everything looks bright for Muhlenberg, let's all be truly happy.

But if all that we hope for and wish for is to come true, we shall have to work like blazes.

This hoping and wishing, yes and even resolving is all very good, but a hope and a wish and a resolution without the complement effort is fleeting and filmy. Work and honest endeavor will bring many a hope and wish and resolve to a realization.

Well, fellows, the holidays are history. We have entered the portals of another year. Few if any of us witnessed the passing of another twelve months without some good resolve for the future, and we really intend or intended to make good on it. Some of us may have resolved to quit smoking or smoke less, to pay more attention to our books and less to the girls, to be more frugal with dad's allowance, to offer fewer excuses, to be less tardy, not to intentionally miss chapel exercises—all of which are worthy and commendable. However there is a resolve presenting itself in these days perhaps never before, that we would note. The world today, with all its many, many bright, happy and promising things and matters, is sorely vexed. The late war's reconstruction period embraces problems never before confronting world powers. This is a time when all—the governing and the governed—need to work in perfect harmony and toward that end which will assure to us a future of contentment and happiness. Yes, even we young fellows in Muhlenberg figure in this strenuous effort, and if we may recommend a New Year resolution it would be that we hereby earnestly resolve that we lend ourselves to a cooperative effort in making our community, our country, the world a better place to live in. We would be doing only our duty. We would be liquidating only a just obligation. We are preparing ourselves for world's work, far so than the mere matter of easing our paths for comfortable living in the days beyond the college years. Let us therefore resolve firmly to do something to make some one else feel more at ease, to attend to things that make for better living physically, mentally and spiritually, so that when we shall stand on the brink of eternity there shall be no thoughts of regret too late for amends.

Let us resolve to "learn the luxury of doing good." Let us resolve to GIVE OURSELVES TO OUR FELLOW MEN.

F. W. W. '22.

SMALL COLLEGES AS SPLENDID MAN FACTORIES

(Editorial in the Allentown Morning Call, December 10, 1921)

When Dr. Charles Aubrey Eaton was in this city on Monday night he impressed a large gathering who heard his address with the breadth and depth of his learning. The smaller groups who met him outside that meeting were even more impressed by his knowledge of men and affairs of the human heart and soul such as come only to persons of the rarest mental and moral endowments.

Yet Dr. Eaton, according to his story to the members of the Chamber of Commerce, is the product of a little college whose faculty had but four professors. It suggested to many men at the banquet table what President Haas and Dean Ettinger, of Muhlenberg College, have been telling Allentown these many years: "It is not the size of colleges in enrollment, faculties and buildings that counts. It is the men on these faculties and their influence upon young men that count."

The thought was thrown nationwide on Wednesday in New York when Dr. A. G. Christie, of Johns Hopkins University, called attention to the danger of "quantity production" in American colleges. He was speaking to the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and emphasized that this mass, this herd education in which students rarely come in contact with the great men on the faculties, gives very restricted opportunity for character-building.

It is a thought for men with sons who are to be sent away to school. Better a small school where men rub elbows with fellow-student and professor than a college with ten thousand, a faculty of many hundreds but only last year's graduate instructors known to the students.

SHOULD PROFESSORS OF OUR COLLEGES EAT

Under the caption "Should Professors of Our Colleges Eat?" the Allentown Morning Call one day last week ran an interesting article in its news columns tending to show that it has long been the popular attitude that college professors rank very low in the scale of earning ability. The article opens with a short episode of a happening in a Washington hotel where the elevator man made a college professor wait for service until he had taken an electrician working in the hotel down to the basement because "the electrician's time costs a lot."

The entire article is too long for these columns so we give just a few excerpts:

"But colleges are beginning to crusade for the rights of their instructors. They realize that a low salary scale for college professors is a boomerang that strikes back at the college in one or two ways. Either the college can obtain only inexperienced or inferior teachers, or else it holds the self-sacrificing experts who stay on and divide their energies between their classes and some outside work to make ends meet.

"Either way, the college with underpaid instructors is not getting efficient teaching.

"Lately several women's colleges have been campaigning to make it possible for their professors to earn suitable salaries.

"Some instructors write articles for newspapers and magazines. Numbers of them teach at summer schools in different parts of the country, when they need to be resting or studying for the next year's work.

"But even these devices do not always stretch a salary that was meager in 1913 over a 1921 expense account. Except where colleges have conducted drives and raised salaries, instructors have scarcely received any material increases in pay during the boom of salaries in most lines of work.

"It is figured now that the cost of living is still roughly 75 per cent higher than in 1913. It was 108 per cent higher in 1919, and it is still dropping a little. But the dollar will probably not reach the old 1913 level for some years again.

"The faculty member, too, in a modern college, has to be more than a learned recluse. The demands of practical education bring teachers into closer touch with the students. Most of their time is required. Yet the instructors can rarely afford to give themselves up wholly to their college work.

"Even if a professor manages to live on the salary paid by the college, he has to think of the future. The Carnegie Pensions offer some help. But they retire professors on only a little more than 50 per cent, of their pay. So the college teacher must save something for old age. Generally he does it by adding outside work to an already crowded program. The salary fund campaigns are not going to eliminate financial worry entirely from college teaching, but they are a step in the direction of that millennium.

FACULTY NOTES

Prof. Brown preached at Rev. Bauer's Church at North Bethlehem during the Christmas vacation, and on Christmas Day at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Easton.

Prof. Fritsch spoke to 300 people last Thursday eve at St. John's Lutheran Church, Quakertown. The lecture was the first of a series of ten on "The Life of Christ," and was given under the auspices of the Brotherhood.

Prof. Brown spoke to the students of Perkiomen Seminary in December. He has also been asked to be one of the speakers at the annual banquet of the Brotherhood of Rev. J. Leibensperger's Church, Bethlehem on Dec. 17th.

Prof. Bailey will lecture to the Brotherhood of St. Mathew's Lutheran Church, Bethlehem, on Tuesday eve. His topic will be "Out of Doors."

Prof. Horn delivered his address on "The Function of the College in Education" before the Lutheran Sunday School teachers of Reading, in Trinity Chapel on December 13th.

Dr. Isaac Miles Wright, Director of the Muhlenberg College Extension School, attended the convention of the Pennsylvania State Educational Association, at Altoona, Pa., during the week of the Christmas recess. He was elected Secretary and Treasurer of the Division of College Teachers of Education.

On Friday afternoon, January 6, Dr. Wright gave an address before the teachers of the Hellertown schools, where he gave an explanation of the new State requirements for public school teachers.

'86. Cards have been sent out by Dr. and Mrs. Rufus James Hyde announcing the marriage of their daughter Martha Harriet to Rev. John Frederick Nicholas, D.D., on Wednesday November 16th, 1921, at Chicago Illinois. Dr. Nicholas is a member of the class of 1886, and is now located at Woodstock, New York, where he is pastor of the Reformed congregation.

'11 Rev. Charles L. Grant, Pastor of Faith Evangelical Church of St. Paul, Minn. has the distinction of building up his congregation from 56 to over 1,000 in less than seven years. He has accomplished this chiefly by "advertising" his church by furnishing real, live "stories" to the local newspapers.

Among the out of town alumni who attended the annual Football Banquet are: Chester Rosenberger '16, P. N. Wohlson '05, William Fitzgerald '17 and Leon Schwenk '16.

Mr. Fitzgerald also gave a very interesting talk to the economics class on last Tuesday. The subject of the talk was "The Origin and Working of the Babson Statistical Organization".

'20. Franklin J. Butz, the successful principal and athletic coach of the Bristol (Pa.) High School is quoted by the Bristol Courier as follows:

"I am an enthusiastic believer in athletics for school girls. If athletics were more firmly insisted upon, (compulsory, if you will) for school girls, there would be, I am confident, fewer flappers, those decadent young females of the species who smoke cigarettes, roll down their stockings, wear indecorous clothing, assume too much freedom and familiarity with the opposite sex, and accordingly constitute a much condemned and deplored phase of present day life."

Ex '23 George Smythe, Muhlenberg quarter back in 1919, played full back for the Army team in the Army-Navy game.

Alumni members of the Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity located in Philadelphia and the vicinity gathered recently, at the Hotel Adelphia for the second Annual Banquet of the Philadelphia Alumni Association of Phi Kappa Tau.

Good fellowship, enthusiasm, and reminiscences prevailed as the typical Adelphian menu was attacked. Prominent in the gathering were the officers of the Association, and Ralph K. Bowers, Grand Secretary of the Fraternity.

Elwood V. Helfrich, '24, and Russell A. Werkheiser, '22, were the representatives of the undergraduates who attended the banquet. Among the alumni present were Messrs. Jentsch, Fry, M. Trexler, Nolde, Ettinger, G. H. Koch, F. Butz, MacIntosh, Boyer, Gates, and the officers: C. Russell Witmer, President; Steward H. Nase, Vice President, and Luther A. Krouse, Secretary-Treasurer.

A. A. FINALLY APPROVES 1922 FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

of 169 of the leading elevens of the country.

His scheme sounds extremely intricate but he insists that to any one familiar with figures it is simplicity itself. Some striking results have been obtained, such, for instance, as ranking Muhlenberg College in seventh place, above Center College, Notre Dame, Pittsburgh, Iowa, the Navy and Princeton.

"I have not seen a game for ten years," explained Thomas, "and tried this stunt merely out of curiosity to see how it would work out. Any accountant or bookkeeper can use it if he has the necessary data.

"The basic principle of my scheme is the assumption a team gains little prestige by beating a rival of lower ranking, but loses much by dropping a game to such an eleven—and conversely, that a team gains much by defeating an opponent of higher rating but loses little by being trimmed by a stronger combination.

"According to my system Lafayette, as mentioned before, tops the honor roll, Washington and Jefferson is second, Penn State is third, Yale fourth, Harvard fifth, Cornell sixth, Muhlenberg seventh, Center College eighth, Detroit ninth, and Georgetown tenth. "Notre Dame, Navy, Syracuse, Dartmouth, New Hampshire, Pitt, Chicago, Penn, Army, Iowa, Bucknell and Princeton follow in the order named.

"California is twenty-eighth, that team having met no worthy opponents so far. Swarthmore and Georgia Tech follow California in the order named. The high ranking of teams like Detroit, Georgetown, New Hampshire and Bucknell is due, to a considerable extent to lack of complete data.

Coach Spiegel will come back late in the summer to start to get the team in shape.

The complete schedule is as follows:

September 30th—Syracuse at Syracuse, N. Y.; October 7th—Delaware at Allentown; October 14th—Lafayette at Easton; October 21st—Gettysburg at Allentown; October 28th—Lehigh at South Bethlehem; November 4th, Bucknell at Lewisburg; November 11th—Villanova at Allentown; November 18th—Swarthmore at Swarthmore; November 25th—Fordham at Allentown; November 30th—Ursinus at Allentown.

satisfying refreshments.

A prettily decorated and illuminated Christmas tree was the center of the decorative scheme which served to emphasize the Christmas spirit.

Being skeptical about Santa Claus, the Phi Taus had made no display of Christmas socks, but received their gifts by the most direct route, in the blazing lights of the mazdas.

With no strangers present the presents exchanged were of the most valuable kind, all of them being intended to mend such shortcomings as had been displayed in the past history of the recipient.

Dean Ettinger and Mr. Lloyd Bellis, '19, were visitors for the occasion, which brought out a good representation of the local alumni of the chapter.

service to society, material help for the college, sending sons as students, securing others as friends of Muhlenberg, advertising the College wherever possible, were some of the ways indicated by the speaker. The hearty applause that greeted the speaker at the conclusion of his address showed the complete approval of all that had been said.

The next speaker, Prof. A. A. Killian, presented an excellent and suggestive paper on "What can the College do for the Alumni?", which caused the passing of a resolution to be presented to the General Alumni Association requesting the Board of Trustees to recognize the Alumni more fully and formally in the membership of the Board. Excerpts from this very thoughtful paper will be published in "The Muhlenberg", in the near future. The last speaker was Rev. P. N. Wohlson, who in responding to "Athletics at Muhlenberg", reviewed the season just ended and gave a report of the Foot-ball Banquet, which he and Messrs. Killian and Schwenk had attended as representatives of the Northeastern Alumni Association. After the discussion of various questions which all aimed at a greater and more enthusiastic support of the College, the following officers were elected for the coming year:

President, Prof. A. A. Killian,
Vice-President, Henry R. Pott,
Sec-Treasurer, Leland Brunner.

The spirit of the entire meeting was earnest and enthusiastic, and when the time to adjourn arrived, all left with renewed and increased loyalty to Muhlenberg College. Well may this gathering of the men of Muhlenberg be a model for the friends and Alumni in other sections of the country, so that old friendships may be renewed, old loyalty be renewed, and increased support be afforded.

CAGE TEAM WINS FROM URSINUS BY A 27-24 SCORE

Fast Playing On Both Sides
Features Second Game
With Rivals

EXTRA PERIOD OF FIVE MINUTES WINS THE GAME

Coach Geary's Cardinal and Grey tossers went into the Ursinus camp last Wednesday evening and despite the hardships which they had to undergo to get there dragged a 27-24 victory home through the worst blizzard of the winter. The game was hotly contested thruout, and when the final whistle blew the scorebook read 24-24. An extra period of five minutes was decided upon and in that time a foul shot by Kindzing put Muhlenberg in the lead and a minute later a beautiful basket from the side center by Crum clinched the game for the visitors.

Fast short passing was the feature of the game and in this department the Cardinal and Gray basketballers were superior to the Collegeville five. However the Ursinus aggregation put up a fine defensive game, the system of five men on the defense being used. Crum was easily the star of the game he having five goals to his credit. Taggart played a great defensive game at guard. The floor work and foul tossing of Rahn stood out as the best individual work of the Ursinus team.

The victory of last Wednesday evening was the second one from the Collegeville five this season, in the two game series which is annually scheduled between the rivals.

The lineup:
Muhlenberg Ursinus
Holstrom F. Hailey
Johnson F. Frutchey
Kindzing C. Rahn
Crum G. Rogschall
Taggart G. Kult
Substitutions: Freed for Johnson;
Kingle for Rahn, Rahn for Kingle.
Field Goals: Holstrom, 3; Kindzing, 1;
Crum, 5; Frutchey, 3; Rahn, 2; Rogschall, 2. Foul Goals: Kindzing, 3; Holstrom, 1; Rahn, 10. Time of halves: 20 minutes. Referee: Ewing.

GLEE CLUB SEASON OPENS THIS WEEK

New Novelty Act Will Be The Attraction of New Program

The Glee Club is all ready for its opening concert at the Rittersville Sanatorium on next Wednesday evening. The regular trips will begin with the concerts at Lansdale on February 1. Titus Druckenmiller is the new first tenor on the club and Clyde Summ takes the part of the girl in the skit.

The Club is now thoroughly organized. The quartet will consist of Stowell, first tenor; Trexler, second tenor; Winkleman, first bass; and Lantz, second bass. Bennyhoff will be the piano soloist and Winkleman the violin soloist.

A new novelty number, better than any before, is being arranged for. Mattson takes the part of the crafty uncle from South America; Trexler, as the Dean of — College, Sowers and Koch are the comedians; and Mosser is stuttering Archie.

Although the club is late in starting its trips, the season promises to be a very successful one.

Coach Roy Geary, who is successfully putting the basketball team through a hard schedule.

LOCAL FIVE BOWS TO FAST N. Y. TEAM

Cardinal and Gray Quintet
Holds Superior Team
To 31-22 Score

Last Saturday evening the College of the City of New York won its ninth straight game when it defeated the Cardinal and Gray cagemen by a score of 31-22. Roy Geary's basketballers threw a scare into the team that only a week before beat Princeton by a score of 34-17.

Muhlenberg was looked upon by the City College as an easy opponent, but when the Cardinal and Gray team stepped upon the floor Nate Holman's squad took notice and had a hard time keeping in the lead. The first period ended with the score standing at 15-12 in favor of the home team. Aside from the long shots by Klauber and the consistent foul shooting of Kindzing there was no great spectacular playing, but both teams exhibited remarkable teamwork. The fast short pass which is becoming popular in the basketball cage was used throughout the game and with such skill that at

DELTS ENTERTAIN

The active chapter of Delta Theta Fraternity was host to a large number of Freshman and upper-classmen at a smoker held at 731 Turner Street on Monday, January 9. The favorite game of "Pinochle" had its usual quota of devotees. Others cared more for the display of their "English" which they have acquired at Muhlenberg. The committee served lunch during the course of the evening. The members of the College Faculty present included Prof. H. D. Bailey and Prof. L. J. Deck. The evening passed quickly and when the time came for leaving it was regretted by all.

1923 CIARLA WILL BE BIGGER AND BETTER

Plans for the 1923 Ciarla are progressing rapidly. The whole staff is working with a will to put out a better book than was ever published before. Many new features are being added. The art department of the staff is trying to make the book as attractive as possible.

The book will reflect the glory of the successful football season in an adequate way. The staff appeals to the members of the class as well as to the student body for full cooperation in every way. We want a book of the college year and not distinctly of the Junior Class.

The Ciarla will come out about May 15. Watch for further announcements.

NO WEEKLY UNTIL JAN. 31

According to custom, no Weekly will be published during the week of mid-year examinations. The next number accordingly will be dated January 31, 1922.

FIFTY STUDENTS ARE GUESTS AT ALLEN

Rev. Wm. C. Schaeffer, Jr., Is Host To Ministerial Students At Dinner

"The ministry is the greatest game in the world; the minister helps to solve life problems of individuals, communities, and nations; in Christ we can solve all these." So spoke Rev. Hajime Inadomi, at a banquet of about fifty ministerial students at the Hotel Allen on Monday night as the guests of Rev. William C. Schaeffer, Jr., pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church.

Rev. Inadomi told his life story and how after many struggles he was led to enter the gospel ministry. He was born in Japan and about ten years ago he came to this country on his own expense to get an education. Here his troubles were many, but he overcame all obstacles. He finished high school and later Roanoke College and is now a student in the Mt. Airy Theological Seminary at Philadelphia.

It was not Mr. Inadomi's intention to study for the ministry when he came to this country but after a long time he became convinced that here was the greatest field for a life work. "Social service, teaching, or a political life," said he, "do much to benefit and lead mankind, but the ministry includes all these and more. The wonderful Gospel, the love of Jesus Christ, my own feeling of unfitness, and the hope that I might at least influence some one else for Christ led my decision. And it is that firm conviction that I wish every one would have tonight," he concluded.

Dr. Haas followed with an appeal to the men to look at the new problems of today. He spoke of the "New Possibility of the New Ministry". Briefly he outlined the problems as follows:

1. The church and the ministry are going to have a new hold on the bodily life of men.
2. The old Gospel as a message is going to be interpreted in a new way.
3. The church is going to be a power of healing the soul thru men who are gifted to receive the confidence of their fellows.
4. The Church of Christ is going to take hold of the social problems of the world.
5. It is not the business of the

From the Watertown, Wisconsin, "Times" of Saturday, Dec. 17, 1921, we clip the following, which we know will be of interest to the friends and the students of the early days of Muhlenberg as Dr. Notz was professor in Muhlenberg College from 1869 to 1872. And from personal acquaintance with the deceased we can heartily subscribe to all the kind words of appreciation of his great ability as a scholar and his sterling qualities as a man. We take this opportunity to extend to the bereaved family the sincere sympathy of all the friends and Alumni of Muhlenberg College whose good fortune it was to be acquainted

JAPANESE MINISTER GIVES CHAPEL TALK

Rev. Hajime Inadomi Tells of The Relations Between Japan and U. S.

"Japan is a changing country," said Rev. Hajime Inadomi of Kamamoto, Japan, who after four years at Roanoke College is now taking special work at the Mt. Airy Theological Seminary at Philadelphia.

In his chapel talk on Monday, Rev. Inadomi gave the Japanese viewpoint on the relations between Japan and the United States. He said that in Japan the idea of autocracy is dying out and the common people are awakening to the possibilities of government.

The consciousness of the laboring class has come through education. In Japan 90% of the people can now read and write and 98% of the children attend school. Women have not had much chance for an intellectual education although they were always cultured in useful arts. But now the movement for the education of women has also begun.

There has been a breaking down of the militaristic viewpoint. Consciously or unconsciously, American ideas are getting into the minds of the Japanese people. When a boy, Rev. Inadomi read the lives of the great American statesmen.

The Japanese are beginning to realize the failure of the so-called specialized education. There must be a change in the system of education to make men of character. Christian education will be of great value in this work.

Today the United States is very sympathetic with Japan, although some years ago this condition did not exist.

Rev. Inadomi concluded his talk by comparing the ideal life to a violin with its four strings. Desires are of the body, then of the heart, of the intellect, and of the spirit. Some men are playing on a violin with only one or two strings.

So it is in Japan. The nation is young; the world is full of troubles; the Japanese have not yet developed on every side. They will only come to their full duty and benefit to the world when the four sides have been developed.

PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHT FOR SUCCESSFUL SEASON

According to a recent announcement by Guernsey Afflerbach, graduate manager of athletics at Muhlenberg College, Adolph P. "Dank" Schneider, of this city was selected by the Muhlenberg College athletic board, to coach the baseball team for the coming season. This will be the first year since the war that baseball will be played by a Cardinal and Grey team as a varsity sport.

"Dank" is well known throughout the Lehigh Valley as a ball player, having played for a number of years on local semi-professional teams after graduating from Lafayette.

Schneider in the four years he was at college was a member of the Lafayette varsity base ball team in 1906, '07, '08 and '09, he having captained the team in 1909. He was a right-handed pitcher, and in 1907 his twirling helped the Maroon nine to be recognized as the eastern collegiate baseball champions, the Lafayette nine having scored victories over Princeton, Harvard, Yale and the other eastern college teams that season.

At the close of the 1909 college baseball season Schneider joined the Reading team in the old Tri-State League, and at the end of the season was leading the league in pitching, having won 12 of the 13 games he took part in.

In 1910 he went out to the Coast League on the Oakland (Calif.) team. That same year he came east again, bought by the Buffalo team of the

SIX SOPHOMORES NOW ON WEEKLY STAFF

Work Done in Scrubbing is Recognized by Appointments—Freshmen Wanted

In accordance with the amendment to the Student Body Constitution recently adopted, empowering the editor of the WEEKLY to appoint Sophomores as reporters, the following members of the class of 1924 have been selected on the basis of work done since last September.

Clarence E. Beerweiler
Carl D. Neubling
Raymond L. Waller
Eugene L. Stowell
Elwood V. Helfrich
Sterling F. Bashore

Each of these men has been given a variety of assignments, and the work done was found acceptable.

Coincidental with these appointments comes the call for members of the class of 1925 to scrub for positions on the WEEKLY staff. The editor to be elected in May will be able to appoint Freshmen up to the number of six as reporters, and those who begin reporting now will have a good chance of getting an appointment.

There is no limit to the number of men who may scrub for positions. At Swarthmore 25 Freshmen are competing for staff positions, and at Rutgers there are 50 candidates.

Upon application to the editor, a mimeographed "suggestion sheet" will be provided for all men wishing to come out for reporting.

We Thank You.

A few overdue acknowledgements are in order. For the decorations used in the Thanksgiving and Christmas issues we sincerely thank the Allentown Morning Call. For the cuts of football men which appeared during the season we are indebted to both the Allentown Chronicle and News, and the Allentown Morning Call. The poem gracing the first page of the Christmas number should have been credited to Robert S. Oberly, '22. Recognition is due Raymond C. Miller, '22, for his willing aid in reporting campus events.

Boost!

So much has been said about the undesirables who are in a college student body that we think it altogether fitting to look for the men who are desirable.

To classify them is somewhat difficult. No two men have the same qualifications, yet all have something in common. When a freshman comes to college, he must fall into certain habits. What these habits are determines his ranking as a desirable student. We will try to divide these desirable students into three types: (1) the man who stands for the college on the athletic field, (2) the man who boosts all the college activities, and (3) the man who raises and keeps up the scholastic standards of the college. These groups necessarily overlap to a certain extent.

The first type of man goes out and makes Muhlenberg rank seventh in football. That is one part of his work. He is also at Muhlenberg to get an education. There is no reason why he should stand low in his classes because he is playing football or basketball. On the other hand, it is the duty of his fellow-students to help and encourage him whenever it is possible.

Then there is a type of man who never shines in athletics, he never stands at the head of his class, but neither does he stand at the foot, his name does not appear in the newspapers, but he is a silent force working for his Alma Mater. When anything is to be done for the betterment of the college, he is always ready to put his shoulders to the wheel and he sticks to the last ditch. He in his silent way is doing just as much for the betterment of his fellow-students as any man in the student body.

Finally, there is a type of student who puts studies first. There are very few of this type, we are sorry to say.

This man also has duties to perform. He must be a scholastic leader, and can do much by helping the delinquents.

The second type is most important because the majority of desirable students are of that type. This type of man really gets something out of his college education and finishes his four-year course as a well-rounded man.

To which type do you belong? Whatever the answer is, be a BOOST-ER and not a KNOCKER!

H. S. M.

Look Pleasant, Please.

One of the plainest teachings of that rather misty science, Psychology, might be expressed in the maxim: "Treat 'em kindly." A gentlemanly attitude has a subtle reaction on both the one who is exerting himself to be friendly and the one who is being approached in that way. The self-respect of each is increased, and with it a determination to deserve good will. The would-be Napoleon who goes about with a scowl on his face, and haughty, domineering, superior bearing, destroys the better qualities of those whom he commands, and undermines his own character, and when a crisis comes, the spectators are all "thumbs down." The old fable about the sun and the wind trying to remove the cloak of the traveler holds more than a little truth. And the moral is, "Treat 'em kindly."

All Work and No Play?

"We see a world of pains taken and the best years of life spent in collecting a set of thoughts in a college for the conduct of life, and, after all, the man so qualified shall hesitate in a speech to a good suit of clothes, and want common sense before an agreeable woman." Thus wrote Richard Steele in his TATLER two hundred odd years ago. Perhaps it is because of "the vigilance, the anxiety, the tenderness," which Steele had for the good people of England that this fault is uncommon today.

Colleges today are more cosmopolitan than cloistered. So-called "activities" thrust the student into contact with realities, and make him a citizen of this world.

Here at Muhlenberg, we have room for more non-athletic activities. Although some of our friends on the faculty might think otherwise, student projects entered into with enthusiasm contribute more to building character than do recitations which awaken only a minimum of self-activity.

That is why we continue to think that intercollegiate debating would be a good thing to start, even tho the number of men interested at present is small.

If not debating, let us have a revival of interest in dramatics. Cheap movies have made the spoken play more of a rarity than it was ten years ago, and a live drama intelligently produced should receive sufficient support to make it financially attractive.

It may appear that faculty and students alike are suffering from overwork, and they are, especially the former. But isn't it wise, therefore, to arouse the play spirit, to do something for its own sake? The overplentiful work that now seems drudgery will itself take on a new aspect of interest, and become less burdensome.

For the man who is going into public service, especially, the man who will teach or preach, contact with his fellows is necessary to his future success. Students or members of the faculty who aim to start new things deserve to be encouraged.

Midyears Ahead

Beware, oh students, of the tenth day before the Kalends of February. I am the specter of the "Mid-years." Before me many have struggled, but have fallen. Beware.

Consult the oracle—look unto yourselves: examine yourselves with diligence. To him who has been faithful to himself, and honest in his endeavors, to him I say, I am easily appeased but beware, Oh you slackers, loafers, and numskulls. I am the ghost of your best selves, urging you on.

Grind, grind, grind, such is my sentence for the next two weeks. Redeem yourselves by the sweat of your brow and the blunting of your lead pencils. Stint not on paper.

I come to you from the shades of former victims—beware—when I wield my scythe, the slaughter will be bloody. Beware, Oh, students, I come on the tenth day before the Kalends of February, I am the Ghost of the "Mid-years."

FACULTY NOTES

Professors Brown and Fritsch heard Dr. Rose of Newark, N. J., discuss the interpretation of Kipling's poem "If" at the Hotel Traylor Saturday afternoon, January 7th—the seventh anniversary of the Athenaeum.

"A Night in the Forest" will be the subject of Professor Bailey's lecture at the Lutheran church of Emaus on the evening of the 17th.

At Mickley's, on the 15th of this month, the Deacon will address the Young People's Society of the Lutheran Church. The pastor there is Rev. Harry S. Sell.

Professor Fasig at the Asbury M. E. church last Monday talked to the Annual Men's Meeting on "Confidence between men and men, and nations and nations."

Practically all of the material for the new catalog has now been handed to Professor Horn. It will go to the printer shortly.

The death of one of his wife's relatives called Dr. Haas away last Wednesday. He returned Friday.

Prof. Brown will talk in the Palmerston Lutheran church Friday evening, February 20th, in the interest of Muhlenberg college. Mr. Afferbach and the quartet of the Glee Club will accompany him.

The Woman's Club of Allentown will hear Professor Brown's lecture on "Three French Novelists," January 23rd.

DR. KILLIAN PLANS FOR MORE SUPPORT

Alumni Will Be More Closely Connected With Their Alma Mater

At the recent banquet of the Northeastern Alumni Association of the Muhlenberg Alumni, Prof. A. A. Killian, of Forty Fort, Pa., read a very interesting and suggestive paper answering the question "What can Muhlenberg do for her Alumni?" As obviously the paper is too long for publication as a whole, we have selected the leading thoughts for the consideration of our readers.

The college ought to keep in closer touch with her alumni. The field agent or one in authority ought to visit various centers, call meetings, tell the needs and the plans of the institution and thus arouse greater interest and enthusiasm.

The institution, through its representatives, can keep an eye on its alumni and at times help them to promotion and better positions. It can also by means of printed circulars send out information concerning men available for different positions. This would be of special value when sent to the superintendents and authorities of our Public Schools. The field agent in meeting the Alumni will learn about them and thus be able to report about the men and thus enhance their standing at the college. The alumni that feel that the college helps them, are the most active in the support of their college.

There should be closer contact between the college and the alumni through the Muhlenberg Weekly, a subscription for which ought to be included in every man's alumni dues. Muhlenberg needs expansion and it will be easier to respond to the call when we have the necessary information. Muhlenberg also ought to recognize her teaching sons more fully, since teaching has become a real profession. Their industry and attainments deserve larger recognition by honorary degrees and otherwise. Such honors ought to be conferred solely on merit, without regard to any personal, social or fraternal affiliations.

As many of us come from Pennsylvania-German ancestry, the college ought to make special provision to remove the handicap of language.

Especially should the Alumni be more largely recognized in the management of the college by allowing the various Alumni Clubs, where regularly organized, or the General Alumni Association, to nominate or even elect members of the Board of Trustees and thus serve as formal Alumni Trustees.

Printers ink ought to be used more liberally in letting us know about the honors and the achievements of our fellow-Alumni. Pictures of the college buildings and the athletic field would be good advertising material. Let us advertise more, and let the world know what Muhlenberg College is and does. All of this is submitted in the most friendly and loyal spirit in the hope that there will result greater mutual good. "As the years roll by and the span of time from my student days to the present, becomes ever longer, and my opportunities to compare my training at Muhlenberg with that of others are constantly multiplying, I find more cause to respect her, to revere her, and to sing her praises at every opportunity, and if, with my age and consequent experience, I were to live my college days over, I would choose Muhlenberg. May she continue to grow in usefulness and in the fullness of time become what she should be, The University of Muhlenberg."

He who is surety for another goes in at the wide end of the horn and must come out of the narrow as he can.

He lives not long who quarrels with his dinner.

METERED TROUBLE

The subject of this column for this particular number is "Trouble."

We don't start off very cheerfully, do we?

But the editor said something about using a column or so and we are taking this opportunity to kill two stones with one bird.

We will comply with the request of the editor to add some of private brand of comment to the pages of the WEEKLY.

And we will help to ease various and sundry little troubles off our mind by getting some doggeral off our chest if you see what we mean.

There's nothing quite so comforting when something is troubling you, as to write doggeral about it.

Just try it some day.
 This is the way we are apt to react to trouble:

When things seem going best of all
 And life seems full and bright,
 Old trouble comes gumshoeing by
 And casts his chilling blight.

Lips always ready to break forth
 In laughter, quip or jest,
 —That parted easily in mirth
 Are grim and tightly pressed.

Grub doesn't taste the way it did
 Before Old Trouble came,
 And even that most faithful brier
 —The pipe is not the same.

We could go on and hammer off a lot more along the same line but that much is enough for the present purpose and besides that sort of thing has a depressing effect on the writer.

Now, Edgar A. Guest has a different way of looking at things. We learned this several years ago simply because it was attractive in its manner and matter so it will probably be quoted inaccurately:

Did you tackle that trouble that came your way
 With a resolute heart and cheerful
 Or hide your face from the light of day
 With a craven soul and fearful?

Oh, a trouble's a ton, or a trouble's an ounce,
 Or a trouble's what you make it
 And it isn't the fact that you're hurt that counts
 But only, how did you take it?

There's more of it, too, but that much is enough to illustrate the point.
 And this is our own personal idea of the matter:

When Trouble comes softly creeping on
 To cast his chilling blight,
 Don't let him get the best of you
 But show him you can fight.

There's nothing gained in letting trouble
 Make you want to die,
 So, shoulders back, throw out your chest
 And look him in the eye.

What if tobacco doesn't taste
 Just as, mayhap, it should?
 To mope and sympathize with self
 Will surely do no good.

Just smile, and sing and laugh a bit,
 Pretend that you're not blue.
 Just fool Old Trouble when he tries
 To get the best of you.

Peace Unto Men

OF ALL the things that are occupying the minds of men the question of peace at this time is foremost. Recent and present issues of a dynamic character have caused men to think deeply on this subject. The outcome of these issues is anxiously awaited.

Several hundred years before Christ, when men began to think subjectively, the conception of peace and concord was the idea of a perfect society. In the attainment of that perfect state men fell into error. They thought that the element of force could bring them that desired end. Peace then came to mean freedom from molestation, or freedom from interference with personal or group interests. If this be peace, then peace can be assured to the strongest or craftiest; hence the accumulation of weapons of destruction in rivalry. However, out of this rivalry grows hatred which destroys the very foundation of peace.

Then, too, men's avarice—the desire to have and to hold, is a stumbling block to peace and concord among fellowmen. The enjoyment of peace must find expression among fellowmen. Men are social beings. One of Christ's fundamental teachings is that salvation is obtained through the regard for fellowmen, as is shown by the parable of the Good Samaritan.

Today, after long and many attempts toward that ideal, men stand bewildered before each other, their swords, their hands, and the ground before them drenched in the blood of their fellowmen, and cry out "Was hat die Menschheit getan?" Men begin to see that they are as far as ever from their ideal and are therefore losing hope in humanity. They realize that their ideal is beyond their power of attainment. Men have forgotten that the key to the situation was offered to them nearly two thousand years ago but was rejected.

Out of boundless love the Creator of all in his wisdom conceived of a plan to help humanity to find that peace which "passeth all understanding." Out of love divine and ineffable He sent His Only Begotten Son into the world to bring that message of peace and to become the Paschal Lamb for all humanity. He came when least expected to be the companion of the innocent babe but without a cradle for His bed—only a manger and a loving mother's arms. He came from the right hand of God, the Father Almighty, in lowest humility, later to be revived, rejected, and crucified by men for whose peace he came. He could utter no speech save the infant cry, yet that heavenly host, in the strain of "Glory to God in the Highest, Peace on earth unto men of good-will" proclaimed His birth o'er all the world. Dormant nature seems to awake and rejoice and sing praise at the remembrance of His birth.

Notice the difference between God's and man's plan of peace. The one is that of love, sacrifice, benevolence, charity and good-will; the other that of jealousy, selfishness, avarice, and might. Yes, we understand why peace has not been obtained but we still despair of its possibilities. Is the plan of God too ideal? Is it so high that we cannot attain unto it? Shall we fold our hands in despair and pray that God in His infinite wisdom and power may transform the world in the twinkling of an eye? That is not God's plan.

Mankind is in a state of progress. God made the world perfect but He too made it capable of greater development. Peace among men and nations is only an external expression of the good-will of the inner life or soul. Of the vast periods of time that have elapsed, man has been reflective in his thinking for less than two thousand years. God's plan is that through the evolution of man's regard for his fellowman, the inner development of his life, the external relations may be one of harmony. So far economic pressure, avarice, and fear have been more powerful than good-will in the relations of mankind but it will not always be so. All the Peace Conferences and Leagues for Peace have convened in the last fifty years. Every attempt at a Hague Conference, a League of Nations, or a Washington Disarmament Conference is an expression of the progress of mankind. Whatever jealousies, economic interests, or financial pressure may be involved at the Washington Conference, it is true that the guiding principle is the message of the Christ Child working in the hearts of men.

Why should men bring the moulded form of an unknown hero to the land that gave him birth? Why should they lay him where only martyred Presidents have lain and be buried where only the honored may repose? Why should one hundred million people in unison cease from all toil and in bowed heads breathe a silent prayer that "these dead shall not have died in vain"? It is the awakening of men to the fact that a man is a man for all that. Slowly but steadily out of the ashes of crime and wickedness of the past there is arising a new race—a race that will bring peace and concord through love.

We have many reasons to be happy in the year 1922. Never before in the history of the world have men so turned to higher things. Prospects for the future are brighter. The clouds of war are dispersed and the sun of Hope is brighter than ever. More people than ever are hearing and rejoicing in the story of the Savior's birth.

Let us think of the blood of heroes as poured out in vain save where it urges us to a high resolve. Let us rather turn to that blood-stained cross of Him Who taught men the Way of Peace.

Mankind has seen a new light. May all men in this new year, on bended knee, in high resolve, their faces turned toward that Everlasting Light, answer in refrain that angelic choir "There Shall be Peace."

—George Sowers, '22.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION REPORT

Muhlenberg College Athletic Board at a meeting held in the office of Attorney Lawrence H. Rupp elected Charles Kline, an additional member. Organizing for the year the board re-elected these officers: President, Dr. H. S. Seip; Secretary, Ira Wise; Treasurer, Oscar F. Bernheim; Board of Directors, Rev. J. C. Rausch, Lawrence H. Rupp, Elwood S. Thomas, Dr. Martin S. Kleckner, Frederick Lanshe. In attendance and representing the Faculty of the College were A. C. H. Sarig, Graduate Manager, Guernsey F. Afflerbach; Student Representatives, Messrs. Balmer, Mills, Lazarus and Gebert. The selection of a baseball coach was left to Messrs. Fasig and Afflerbach. The football schedule was ratified.

STUDENTS LEARN REFRIGERATION PLAN

Class In Industrial Chemistry Visits Many Local Plants

An interesting and highly educating trip was made December second in connection with the new industrial chemistry course under Prof. Kistler to the plants of Arbogast & Bastian Co., wholesale meat packers, Horlacher's Brewery and Peters and Jacoby Co., makers of ice cream, to study the different refrigerating systems.

The first plant visited by the class was the plant of Arbogast & Bastian when we were shown the way in which the meat was stored. The meat after it comes from the butchering department is stored in rooms which have air passages in the walls, the walls being double with ammonia coils running in the passage thus made. The expansion of the ammonia absorbs heat from the air and thus the air in the storage room can be regulated to any temperature desired. The ammonia is being constantly kept moving by pumps which pump it to the top of the building to a condenser of the sprinkler type which cook the ammonia. Thus we have a continuous cycle. In addition we were shown the different operations of the plants just after they had butchered two hundred pigs, and we could easily see that not a thing was wasted, every part of the pig being utilized to advantage. In addition to our regular meat products, the skin is sold to the leather people who make pocket books, football covers, etc., the hair is baled and used to make brushes, the bones are ground into fertilizer, in fact no part of the pig goes to waste.

We next visited the plant of Peters and Jacoby where Mr. Schmely, Lafayette '09, gave us a very interesting talk upon the ice cream business in general as well as thoroughly explaining the refrigerating process in operation there. The refrigerating system of this plant is a system in which the ammonia is run thru coils to another set of coils containing brine. The two are of course kept separate. The ammonia cools the brine and the brine cools the ice cream. Another set of huge coils cool the "hardening" room. A feature of this plant is the sanitary condition which must exist, not a hand touching the ice cream in the process of making. Another and newer feature which will undoubtedly be on the market in a short time is the packing of the ice cream in cardboard containers of various sizes by the manufacturers themselves. Mr. Schmely also discussed with us the advantage the student has who has the ability to concentrate upon one thing even if his ability be ordinary.

Lastly, we visited the brewery where we were conducted through the plant by Mr. Horlacher. He showed us the method of making beer and also gave us an explanation of their refrigerating and artificial ice systems. The artificial ice is made in cakes of about 250 pounds apiece. They are formed in cans which are lowered into the brine. The brine is water saturated with calcium chloride. The brine in turn is cooled by the ammonia coils and the ammonia is condensed by a system of water-filled coils.

Mr. Kistler and the party were very much pleased and appreciate the interest and desire to please that was shown by the officials of these companies who extended a few samples of their products. This is the first inking that is heard of the new Industrial Chemistry Course, which is in the hands of Mr. Kistler, and by the interest and enthusiasm shown by the men in the course, promises to be a good one.

DEAN CLARK EXPOSES "THE COLLEGE LOAFER"

Eminent Professor Shows Keen Insight in Magazine Article

Dr. Thomas Arkle Clark, dean of the University of Illinois, writes an interesting and edifying article on "The College Loafer" in the December number of Current Opinion. Dr. Clark in his wide experience is said "to know loafers at colleges so intimately that he can detect them before they open their lazy lips to yawn idly in his face."

Among other things Dr. Clark says: "The college loafer is a passive, talkative being. He loves ease, leisure, sleep, cigarettes, chocolate and girls. He is a stroller, a hanger-on."

"The college loafer knows the last dance step, the later gossip, and he has seen the last performance at the vaudeville show. The college loafer would be entirely innocuous if he were not allowed to run at large. The trouble is that he infects the crowd."

"The college loafer in college is not always a boy who has been brought up in luxury; he not infrequently comes from very humble surroundings; but wherever he has been brought up he has never developed any love for work. When he enters college it is without ambition, without any definite purpose or object; he has little idea of what he wants to do, no love of books, no interest in study, no vision of the future. He does not know whether he wants to go north or south, whether he would like to study art or ceramic engineering, whether he would prefer to spend his life as a missionary or as a vaudeville star. Some of the other fellows were coming to college so he threw a few changes of clothing into a suitcase and came along, just as he might have joined a camping party or taken a hike into the country."

"Because he is interested in nothing but his senses and his emotions, a youth develops into a college loafer. A boy will seldom show more ambition in college than he has shown at home. If he has had no vision or purpose there, he will be unlikely to find one in college. "He either smokes because he puts in so much time loafing that he needs some recreation to keep him from getting lonesome, or he loafs because he has smoked so much that it has robbed him of the energy sufficient to do anything else."

"It is hard for a loafer to study. There are so many easier, subtler, cleverer ways to get by. He means to do it—tomorrow, Sunday, next week—but he is such an awfully popular fellow, he has so many friends to entertain, so many dates to keep, that he has little or no time to study. He borrows notes which he has been too lazy to take for himself and he never returns them until you hunt him up. He questions you about your outside reading and he tries to get the gist of its content, so that he may be spared the labor of doing it for himself."

'80. We have received several copies of the "Resurrection Herald," a neatly printed eight-page monthly, published by the Brotherhood of the English Lutheran Church of the Resurrection, 26th and Auer Ave., Milwaukee, Wis., of which Rev. James F. Beates, 2608 Auer Ave., is the energetic and popular pastor. From the December number we learn that on November 21st, the Brotherhood had a "Stag" meeting in honor of the pastor's birthday, for which Mrs. Beates and some of the ladies furnished a regular Bostonian banquet. We hope it is not too late to wish our "old chum Jim" many many more years of a very useful life, which hitherto has largely been spent in the service of others.

'83. We were very sorry to learn that Charles E. Keck, Esq., of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., was suffering very seriously from an attack of rheumatism. In spite of this attack, however, he attended the banquet of the Northeastern Alumni Association of Muhlenberg College on December 30, 1921.

'86. Rev. Edwin F. Keever, D. D., who since his return from service in France has had charge of student work at Harvard University, has accepted a call to St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Wilmington, North Carolina, where he becomes the successor to Rev. J. C. Seegers, D. D., who is now a member of the Faculty of the Theological Seminary at Mount Airy, Philadelphia.

'89. After a heavy siege of sickness, Rev. Elmer O. Leopold, of Allentown, Pa., again is able to attend to his pastoral duties.

'95. Rev. Fred C. Krapf now is the Pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Pittston, Pa.

'96. Rev. L. Domer Ulrich is Pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

FORMER MUHLENBERG PROFESSOR DIES

with the genial and the learned Dr. Notz, who ever stood for sound and accurate scholarship, sincere and lofty ideals of life, and the noblest and the best in American thought and action. His life and his labors were truly typical of that finest kind of German-American citizenship to which our country owes so much of its culture, character, conscience and Christianity.

Dr. F. W. A. Notz, noted educator and for nearly forty years a member of the faculty of the Northwestern college of this city, died Thursday afternoon at his home, 543 Murray avenue, Milwaukee. Dr. Notz retired from the Northwestern college ten years ago and had been in failing health for a number of years.

Frederick William Augustus Notz, was born in Lehen-teinsfeld, Wurttemberg, Germany, February 2, 1841, a son of Rev. Gottlieb and Louisa (Burger) Notz. He graduated from the Maulbronn seminary in 1859. Dr. Notz received his degree of doctor of philosophy from the University of Tubingen, Germany, in 1884, and received the "Honoris Causa" on the 50th anniversary of the institution in 1913.

After receiving his degree and until 1866 he was a private tutor in Germany. In 1866 he came to this country and became a private tutor in Georgia, where he remained for nearly two years. The chair of ancient languages in the Pennsylvania college was then tendered to him and was accepted. The following year he accepted a call to Muhlenberg college, where he remained until 1872, when he became professor of Greek and Latin at the Northwestern college in Watertown. He continued here until 1911 when he retired and removed to Milwaukee.

Dr. Notz was a man of great ability and his eminence was shown in many directions. He served as secretary of the German-American Press association in 1870 and was chosen president of the German-American Educational association in 1871. For some years he was secretary of the board of regents of Martin Luther college, at New Ulm, Minn.

In 1902 he received an appointment as a member of the board of visitors of the University of Wisconsin, and served until 1906. From 1914 to 1918 he was a member of the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin.

Dr. Notz was an author of note and was a frequent contributor to journals and magazines. A book written by him a number of years ago entitled, "Character and Qualifications of Lutheran Colleges," is one of the recognized authorities on the subject.

On his retirement from a chair in the Northwestern college he was designated Professor Emeritus of the institution.

The deceased was one whose brilliancy and talent for leadership corresponded with his exceptional strength of intellect. The greater part of his memorable career was devoted to the advancement of the Northwestern college and the success which came to him were indeed great. All of those who served with him on the faculty or in college work, praised his kindly nature, while extolling his wonderful ability and force of character.

Dr. Notz was united in marriage to Miss Julia Schultz at Watertown in 1875. He is survived by his widow, three daughters, one son and one grandchild.

times it took an expert to follow the ball.

During the second period the two combinations were fighting tooth and nail for supremacy but it was only in the last few minutes of play that the home team forged ahead with a beautiful goal by Klauber and a second one almost immediately afterward by Saultz. Johnson caged two shots from difficult angles and earned the applause of the spectators.

When the final whistle blew Nate Holman and his team congratulated the Muhlenberg coach and squad for the fine showing that it made against a team that has earned the reputation that City College has earned this year. The coach said it was one of the finest battles his team has had this year and hopes that athletic relations between the Muhlenberg and City College will continue in the future to have the interest which this initial game had.

The lineup:

Muhlenberg	N. Y. C. College
Johnson	F Etelstein
Holstrom	F Klauber
Kindzing	C Anderson
Crum	G Raskin
Taggart	G Fahrer

Substitutions, Campbell for Kindzing. Freed for Taggart. Saultz for Etelstein, Hahn for Fahrer. Field goals, Johnson 2, Holstrom 1, Crum 1, Etelstein 1, Klauber 4, Anderson 1, Raskin 1, Saultz 2. Foul goals, Kindzing 11, Holstrom 3, Fahrer 9. Referee, Ed Thorpe. Umpire, Ward Brennan. Time of halves, 20 minutes.

church to influence politics but the new ministry will do much to develop a Christian sentiment.

6. Personal evangelism is absolutely necessary.

"You future ministers," said Dr. Haas, "should look at these problems from the standpoint of the future and not from that of the past."

Rev. Schaeffer then clinched the matter with a direct challenge to every red-blooded young man to enter the ministry for a life of greatest good to his fellowmen.

"SCHOOL AND SOCIETY" ADDS TWO NEW EDITORS

Dr. J. McKeen Cattell, founder and editor of the weekly educational journal "School and Society," has announced that he has been joined in the editorship of the journal by W. Carson Ryan, Jr., Professor of Education at Swarthmore College, and Raymond Walters, Dean of Swarthmore College. Professor Ryan is a Harvard graduate formerly with the United States Bureau of Education and recently Educational Editor of the New York Evening Post. Dean Walters is a graduate of Lehigh and was formerly Registrar and Assistant Professor of English at Lehigh University. "School and Society" is said to share with the Educational Supplement of the London Times the foremost position in educational journalism in the world.

PI DELTA EPSILON OFFERS PRIZES

1921-22 Intercollegiate Editorial Contest Open to All Undergraduates in U. S.

(Special)—In order to arouse the active support of every male undergraduate in the United States and Canada to Liberal Arts courses, and to refute the popular claim that a four-year cultural course is time mis-spent, Pi Delta Epsilon, Honorary Collegiate Journalism Fraternity, has announced as the subject for its 1921-22 Intercollegiate Editorial Contest, "The Practical Value of a Cultural Education."

Thousands of editorials on this subject are expected, for the contest will this year, be open to every male undergraduate in every college and university of the United States and Canada. Because great interest in this subject has been manifested of late and because of the fact that Pi Delta Epsilon will award its coveted gold, silver and bronze medals to the prize-winners, as well as its Certificates of Merit to first-prize winners in each college and university represented, an exceptionally large number of entries is expected.

Harding to Make Awards

President Warren G. Harding, a member of Pi Delta Epsilon, and former editor and present owner of the Marion (Ohio), "Star", will represent the fraternity in the presentation of awards. Three prominent metropolitan newspaper editors will act as final judges.

Nation-wide publicity will be given the 1921-22 contest through the Associated Press and other news-gathering media, and the prize-winning editorials will be released in mimeographed form, simultaneously, to every college, university and daily metropolitan newspaper in this country and Canada, together with photographs of the winners.

Contest Double in Scope

This year, Pi Delta Epsilon's contest will be double in scope. A local contest will be conducted at every college and university, and each local first prize winner will receive the Certificate of Merit of the fraternity, and will be eligible to submit his editorial in the national contest. Three prize winners in the national contest will receive the Pi Delta Epsilon medals.

Name Local Committee

The following faculty representatives have been named by the Editorial Committee of Pi Delta Epsilon to supervise the contest at this institution: Prof. S. G. Simpson, Prof. J. D. M. Brown and Mr. A. S. Corbiere. They will act as a committee in selecting local judges, and will forward the winning editorial, by special delivery, to the fraternity's Contest Committee, care of P. C. Pack, 6415 Greenview Ave., Chicago, Ill. This editorial will, then, automatically identify the winner of a Certificate of Merit and will represent that particular institution in the Intercollegiate Contest.

Contest Rules

(1) Contest will open Dec. 3, 1921 and will close Feb. 15, 1922, at midnight; (2) Editorials submitted may not exceed 500 words; (3) Type, or write legibly on one side of sheet only; (4) Write an assumed name in upper left corner of each sheet; (5) On the face of an envelope, write this assumed name, enclosing a sheet of paper on which is written your own name, age, home city, class, and local address and telephone number, and seal envelope, pinning or clipping it to your editorial.

The local committee will number each editorial, upon receipt, as an additional check on the identity of its author.

Significance of Contest

Philip C. Pack, Grand Editor of the fraternity, in commenting on the contest, said, "We fully expect 5,000 entries. In the past, our chapters have conducted local editorial contests and we base this estimate upon the results those local contests obtained. It will be an event of national interest, especially among the nation's college men and women."

"DANK" SCHNEIDER WILL COACH MUHLENBERG BASEBALL TEAM

Eastern League. He set the Eastern League ablaze with his pitching and was purchased by the Phillies.

Here is where his big league baseball career ended. Schneider had graduated from Lafayette with his degree in electrical engineering. He had started with the Lehigh Valley Light and Power company in this city, and decided to stay here rather than embark on a major league baseball career.

Off and on, Schneider has been playing ball in this city, under the name of "Dank." For three years he played with the Catasauqua Majestic team. In 1916 he resigned his position with the power company and bought over the controlling stock of the Peters & Jacoby firm, of which he is now the president.

Coach Schneider expects to issue a call for candidates within a month or two for practice and indoor signal work. Among the candidates who have already signified their desire to make the team are Gebhart, Witt and Baker, pitchers; Crum and Flower, catchers; Weston, Shook, E. Johnson, Lazarus, Holstrom and Hoffman, infielders and outfielders.

The Cardinal and Grey schedule is not as yet complete, but it is expected that it will be made up of about twelve games, the home games to be played on Muhlenberg field on Saturday afternoons.

BASKETBALL TEAM

DEFEATS MORAVIAN, 17-8

Wonderful Passing Easily Overcomes Opponents' Defense

The Cardinal and Gray cage team, ploughed thru last Saturday night's blizzard to a decision victory at Bethlehem, when it defeated the strong Moravian aggregation on its own floor, to the tune of 17-8.

The Muhlenberg men displayed wonderful passing ability, and made it practically their best game of the season. It was an easy matter for them to break thru Moravian's strong defense; and this in spite of the fact that Moravian had defeated Gettysburg the previous evening.

Only nine fouls were called on the two teams, during the first half of the game, a fact worthy of notice, because it is a sign of clean, scientific basketball.

Muhlenberg was in the lead during the entire game, having seven field goals to her credit, while Moravian had but two; a sign that Muhlenberg is coming strong with its defense.

The lineup:
Muhlenberg Moravian
Holstrom F McCormick
Johnson F Helmick
Kintzing C Hughes
Taggart G Horne
Freed G Stocker

Field Goals: Muhlenberg; Johnson 2, Holstrom 1, Kintzing 3, Freed 1. Moravian; Helmick 1, Brubacker 1. Foul goals; Kintzing 3 out of 8; Helmick 2 out of 11, Hughes 1 out of 5, Stocker 1.

Substitutions: Muhlenberg; none; Moravian; Lucente for McCormick, Brubacker for Lucente, Heller for Helmick, Brubacker for Helmick, McCormick for Brubacker.

FRANKENFIELD '24

LAI D TO REST

Fourteen members of the Sophomore Class attended the funeral of Leonard D. Frankenfield, '24, which was held at his home at Butzville, Pa., on Tuesday afternoon, January 24th.

Mr. Frankenfield was injured in an automobile accident during the Christmas holidays. These injuries caused his death a few weeks later.

The funeral services were held by Rev. Klick at the Farmersville Lutheran Church. He was assisted by the Reformed Pastor of Butzville, and by Prof. Robert R. Fritsch, who represented the faculty. There were about 600 people in attendance, entirely filling the church.

FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

Nov. 18—Swarthmore at Swarthmore.

Nov. 25—Fordham at Home.

Nov. 30—Ursinus at Allentown.

FACULTY APPROVES NEW FRATERNITY

Former Aztecs Organization Now Becomes Phi Epsilon Fraternity

On Monday afternoon at the regular faculty meeting, permission was granted to the organization, formerly known as the Aztecs, to become a local Greek-letter fraternity. This organization will be known as the Phi Epsilon Fraternity.

With the recent increase in the number of students at Muhlenberg, and the expansion program which is now under way, the three fraternities have been unable to care for all the students at the institution. Therefore this step should be highly commended by every member of the student body.

FOOTBALL TEAM OPENS WITH NORMAL SCHOOL

East Stroudsburg Eleven Here On September 23

The Muhlenberg Football season will open in this city on the twenty-third of September, according to an announcement made yesterday afternoon by Graduate Manager Guernsey Afflerbach. The opponents of the Cardinal and Gray will be the East Stroudsburg Normal School eleven.

Due to the fact that the local team will open the home season of Syracuse University on the thirtieth of the month it was thought advisable to schedule a game at home in order to see the boys under fire before sending them against a team the calibre of the New York outfit.

This, according to a popular sporting editor, "is a move in the proper direction, and "Playing a team of the calibre of the Normal outfit a week prior to his hard contest, will give the coach a chance to look at the majority of his men in action and in this way he will be thoroughly familiar with his squad."

This news will no doubt meet with the approval of the football lovers of this city as it will add another home game to the schedule. The Cardinal and Gray have eleven games booked and six of these will be on the home grounds. The fans will have an opportunity to see the team in action on no less than eight occasions, six games at home and a game each with Lehigh and Lafayette.

Coach Johnny Spiegel will be in town and begin working with the boys the first week in September and will have them going a high clip by the time the season opens.

BOB OBERLY LEAVES FOR HOME

Bob Oberly, '22, Senior Associate Editor of the WEEKLY, has been called home on account of the illness of his father, Frank C. Oberly, '89. He expects to remain at home for the remainder of the term, and take up work at W. and J. Arrangements have been made to transfer his credits so that he can be graduated here with his class next June.

PROSPECTS FAVORABLE FOR TRACK SEASON

Reinartz and Webb To Form Nucleus of Team

According to present prospects, the track team which will represent Muhlenberg next spring will compare favorably with any of the former teams which have upheld our honor on the cinder path. There will be one or two men from last year's squad in practically every event. Webb, undoubtedly our best distance man, and Reinartz, who placed fifth in the 1921 pentathlon at U. of P. and who is a whole track team in himself, are the only two letter men who returned to school. A number of freshmen seem to have had good scholastic records and may be counted upon to strengthen the team, especially in the shorter runs and dashes.

In former years, success has always been hindered by the fact that only a handful of men considered it worthwhile to come out and jog around the track every afternoon. Now that track has become a major sport it may be more of an attraction to men who really have ability, but are either too lazy or too busy to go into training.

So let's start to talk track. Consider coming out for the team, and go into training now. At some other colleges, which are favored with indoor tracks, the men who will compete with us are practicing daily.

Manager Mills has arranged the following schedule:

April 15—Lehigh at Allentown.
April 28 & 29—Penn Relays.
May 6—Rutgers at New Brunswick.
May 13—Middle States meet at Lancaster.
May 20—B. P. I. at Brooklyn.
May 30—Conference meet at Harrisburg.
June 10—Gettysburg at Allentown.

Popular!

'08—A lot of prominent citizens of Ithaca want me to come back and live there.

'09—You really don't mean it.

'08—Yes, I get a communication from some of the leading merchants every so often saying that they would like to have me come back and settle.

—Cornell Widow.

GETTYSBURG AVENGES

FOOTBALL LOSS

Visitors' Long Shots Account For Most of the 30-18 Score

On Saturday January 31, the Gettysburg cage five came to Allentown hunting vengeance for last season's football defeat at the hands of Muhlenberg. And they got it. The game, played on the High School floor was fast and furious throughout, with the visiting team leading all the time until the final whistle told the score of 30-18.

All the breaks of the game were in favor of the Gettysburg tossers. Lucky shots from difficult angles were made by Immanuel and Weigle which totaled twelve points in favor of the visitors. The players themselves admitted that they had never such luck before. On the other hand Muhlenberg's shots from the floor could not find the hole in the basket. Many pretty shots bounced off the rim and were recovered by opponents.

In the first half the Gettysburg outfit ran away with things. Little passing was done, but many long shots were attempted, some of which ran up points for them. It must be admitted that the shots were spectacular and in spite of the score the game full of thrills. What is more it was a cleanly played game, only eleven fouls being called in the first half. The period ended with the visitors leading by a score of 22-8.

With the second half the Muhlenberg team steadied itself. Luck shots were fewer and both teams relied on split 50-50 each team being credited with four. The visitors fouled more frequently but Butz failed to toss the ball from the foul line.

The lineup:

Muhlenberg	Gettysburg
Butz	F	Immanuel
Holstrom	F	Bream
Kintzing	C	Weigle
Freed	G	Gingerich
Taggart	G	Fisher

Summary:

Field Goals: Muhlenberg, Butz 2, Holstrom 2, Schantz 2; Gettysburg, Immanuel 5, Bream 1, Weigle 4, Gingerich 2, Fisher 2, Foul goals; Kintzing 4 out of 6, Butz 2 out of 8, Fisher 3 out of 6.

Substitutions: Muhlenberg; Schantz for Kintzing, Johnson for Freed; Gettysburg; Ganz for Bream, Mahoffie for Fisher.

MUHELENBERG COLLEGE IN THE "WHITE LIST."

A "White List" of colleges in the Middle Atlantic States, prepared carefully by prominent educators after four years' work, was adopted after a stormy meeting at the thirty-fifth annual convention of the Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools of the Middle Atlantic States and Maryland. The Convention is in session at Swarthmore College.

The "White List" contains the names of fifty-nine colleges in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and the District of Columbia. There are three Lehigh Valley institutions, namely, Lafayette, Lehigh and Muhlenberg, on the approved list and a total of twenty-two colleges in this state which measure up to the educational standards on which the ratings were prepared.

Good things cost less than bad ones!

PROF. BARBA NEW HEAD OF GERMAN DE- PARTMENT

Prof. Fritsch Is Elected Profes- sor of Religion

Several changes were announced in the faculty for the coming scholastic year. Professor Robert Fritsch will become Professor of Religion. Professor Preston Albert Barba, was elected Professor of German. He is now Professor at Heidelberg University, Tiffin, Ohio.

Prof. Barba received his education at the Allentown High School and was graduated from Muhlenberg with the class of 1906. He received his Master of Arts degree at Yale in 1907. In 1911 he received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy at the University of Pennsylvania. He also was presented with a Research Fellowship and studied in these German universities, Göttingen, Heidelberg, and the University of Berlin. He was a lecturer in the University of Chicago, in 1912 assistant in German at the University of Pennsylvania, and professor of German in West Maryland College.

Prof. Barba has published a number of books, one on the "Emigration of Americans Reflected in German Fiction," "Life and Work of Frederick Strubberg," and he is now at work in preparing an anthology of German verse in collaboration with Professor Vos of the University of Indiana.

Prof. Barba is a teacher and scholar of the highest type. While at college he excelled in track, took leading roles in dramatic presentations, was pianist of the Glee Club, artist of the 1906 Ciarla, and Editor of the Muhlenberg.

JOHNSTOWN FRIEND DONATES MODERNOLA

To Be Placed in Reception Room

Dr. Haas was given a pleasant surprise last week when he received a letter from the Modernola Phonograph Company, of Johnstown, stating that a certain enthusiastic Lutheran of that city was desirous of donating a Modernola to Muhlenberg. This kind gentleman wished to remain incognito until he had heard whether or not it would be an acceptable gift. The letter went on to say that there was but one stipulation to the offer and that was to the effect that the machine must be placed that all of the students might enjoy listening to it.

Dr. Haas answered at once that Muhlenberg College would gladly accept the offer, and asked the company to convey to this kind friend our sincere appreciation of his generosity.

The phonograph came prepaid and may be heard at any time of the day sending out beautiful music in the reception room. The cabinet is of a cylindrical design, in dark mahogany. It is surmounted by an electric lamp, with a large pink and blue shade. In the shelves below, there are seven books in which to place records. It is valued at two hundred and twenty-five dollars.

The name of the donor has not yet been received.

Collegiate

Looking thru a double handful of exchanges has just given us an afternoon's sport. God created the world in six days, and he would have needed at least a baker's dozen to create something that the college newspapers would overlook.

Even the Holy Bible is quoted by one, and a technical school publication at that. College activities themselves cover quite a bit of ground, even invade the air, according to a report of a flying meet between Oxford and Cambridge. Honor systems, "blanket" taxes, and All-America football teams give the editors grave concern. We read a review of a famous novel of 1921 initiated by a Senior, a report of the disarmament conference by William Hard, popular science explained and exploded (no signature), and some "startling revelations" of the inability of teachers to mark papers, as revealed by a teacher of teachers. Free verse, almost as free jokes, and perfectly useless information add to the joy of life.

As a wholesome antidote for too much geometry or the like we recommend college publications. In them the lamb and the lion gambol side by side, and genius rubs elbows with witless dullness. Whether the bright things spring out of an over abundant joy in life or out of a last minute effort to turn in copy is hard to say. After all, who cares?

Academic "Bad Men"

We know of an English Prof. in a neighboring college who assigned as a topic for a theme: "The Fun of Being Good."

The professor had promised to take theme subjects that would not go beyond the experience of the members of his class. One of the students gave the Prof. a theme saying: "If there is any fun in being good, you're not having it, because you are assigning a subject so far from ordinary experience that your conscience must be troubling you." It was an "A" theme.

Whether or not "being good" is part of the typical student's joys, the student's naughtiness is usually exaggerated. We clip the following from the daily "Columbia Spectator."

For some reason or other, the college student must always be regarded by his publications as an inveterate rounder with an inexhaustible supply of risque jokes, moonshine, and addresses, and a natural reluctance toward study, books and lectures. Such an attitude tickles his vanity. He is warmed to the cockles of his heart when an enemy of the higher education attacks his morals and his self-complacency reaches no loftier heights than when his utter baseness is proclaimed to the outside world. "As a matter of fact, of course, the undergraduate is not half so bad as he is cracked up to be. It is true that the college man occasionally defies the Volstead Act or prefers a musical comedy to an hour in the study hall. It is also admitted that he has a wide acquaintance of attractive girls and is an excellent exponent of the latest dance-steps. But the college man does not pursue that sort of a career with the intensity that the academic reformer ascribes to him. The typical undergraduate samples the naughty life and then grossly exaggerates his vice so that he may rise to a virtuous position in the college community."

Jan. 28, 1922

To the Editor of Muhlenberg Weekly:
 Dear Sir:

During the past season great things have happened in this city. Take the football team that represented our college and let us see what they have done. When early in September I went around selling season tickets in the various business places I was asked, "How does the team look?" and in reply I said "Fine." On came our game with Lafayette at Easton and we were defeated by a one-sided score. When I went to town the following week the people stopped me and said, "What about that team? What was the matter down at Easton? I thought you said they had a wonder." But I would say the season is young yet, wait and see for yourselves. Then came the Delaware game and we won and things seemed to look brighter for me, as the people said, "How did they do it?" The Bucknell game was a dandy and the people were pleased with the showing the team made on a muddy field against a team such as represents the U. of Bucknell. The Lebanon Valley game came and such a game as it was. The official did not know the game or he did not wish to see our team win. Last season I sent an article to the WEEKLY that there ought to be a school or course for football officials and some folks laughed, but the Lebanon Valley game proved that I knew what I was talking about. Then came the other teams which our team defeated; Gettysburg, Swarthmore, Lehigh, Fordham, Albright and Ursinus. After our string of victories the people said my dope was right.

I think I know a good thing when I see it. I have followed the team for years and had missed but two games from the time the first game was played on Muhlenberg field up until the year of 1919 when I was in the U. S. N. Ordnance Department and could not get away.

If Muhlenberg played at Rutgers, New York U., Bucknell, Catholic U., Washington, D. C., or any other place I went along. There are very few who can boast of such a record.

At each place I met a number of graduates and never was there a Senator, Congressman or prominent person better received by any person or persons than I was received by the graduates of our College who knew that my heart and soul were with the team.

Our team was one of the greatest teams that ever represented Muhlenberg College. There were no individual stars; it was as one great machine and each man was a part of that machine. Some say this or that fellow was a star. It may be so, but you must stop to think that had not each man done his part there would have been no victories. The coach had drilled the men to work together as one, not as any single star. We can feel proud of our coach who has done more for the advancement of football at Muhlenberg than any other coach we have had and we have had good ones at college. Every time I saw that football team in action it reminded me of the great big Mack bull dog truck which is recognized as the most powerful and best constructed truck in the country.

Now that football season is past and we are represented in basketball let us back the team to a man and boost them whether they win or lose. May that spirit of college fellow-ship arouse each and every man to a better following of the basketball team of 1922.

ROY C. "SHORTY" EDWARDS.

FAMOUS CHILD STORY WELL HANDLED IN FILM

Frances Hodgson Burnett is dead, but her story, "Little Lord Fauntleroy," has come to life on the silver screen. The curlyheaded imp of mischief who has the world falling head over heels in love with him can be portrayed to perfection by the idiom of the screen.

Mary Pickford always was a success at being mischievous. With the assistance of the camera man she plays two roles, but there is no difficulty in straightening out the "Dearest Mrs. Douglas Mary Pickford Fairbanks Cedric Errol Little Lord Fauntleroy" tangle.

Adequate settings, good photography, a very capable supporting cast, and fidelity to the book make the picture rank high as a story of childhood, without a hint of the usual thing with the overworked S. W. A. K. fade-out. The film is showing at the Colonial all this week.

MODERN COLLEGE STUDENT'S SOLILOQUY

To pass, or not to pass; that is the question: Whether 'tis better for a man to study The arid pages of outrageous textbooks, Or to tempt "Luck" amidst the sea of "Doctors," And with much spouting bluff them? To pass; or flunk

The course; and by such deeds to say we get That sheepskin and the graduation gifts. That we'll be heir to; 'tis a consummation Hopefully to be wished: To graduate; To pass; and enter life; aye there's the rub; For in that course or life what storms may come

When we have passed away from Muhlenberg's doors, Must cause us thought. There's the respect That makes the parting of such double pain. For who would bear the scourge of chapel roll, The stress of gym classes and the Frosh stunts, The notebooks, themes, and dreaded book reports, Delinquent lists and then parental rows, The price of textbooks and the awful chow, When one can gently flunk and then depart From all this trouble? Who would burdens bear

To cram and burn the midnight oil But that the love of something more than these— Few petty faults—a spirit far more great Does govern us and cheer and spur us on, And makes us rather bear those ills we have Than tempt another course we know not of. Thus love doth make us content with our lot And though we toil we do not feel despair The Muhlenberg spirit strong doth bear us up. —'23.

170 COLLEGES CONFIRM CONFERENCE

Statement Sent to Sec. Hughes
by National Student Committee

The following statement was presented to Secretary Hughes by Mr. John Rothschild, Executive Chairman on the National Student Committee for the Limitation of Armaments in a private interview this afternoon, January 23rd:

To the American Delegation:

In this most important stage of the Washington Conference the National Student Committee for the Limitation of Armaments, numbering a membership of 170 collegiate student bodies, wishes to confirm to you through the undersigned of its State Chairman its genuine confidence, and its admiration for your honest efforts to eradicate the danger of imperialistic war in the Far East.

It having been broadly rumored that certain of the visiting delegates are averse to a definitive consideration of important items on the agenda; and it being also apparent that other visiting delegates are impatient for an ending of the Conference, we hasten to assure you that at least this section of the American public—the young men and women of 170 colleges and universities—share your evident determination and patience.

Being deeply concerned for the success of the Conference, we trust that it will not rest until settlements have been effected in the Far East, which will insure against eruptions there in the near future, and which will assure an eventual complete healing of that imperialistic sore.

The National Student Committee hopes that the results of the Conference may warrant its enthusiastic support. It frankly suggests, at this juncture, that its attitude towards certain of the pacts emerging from the Conference will—in all probability—be conditioned on the success of your present deliberations.

We hope that the visiting delegates will take cognizance that—insofar as American ratification is concerned—the fate of some of the earlier decisions of the Conference which seem distinctly favorable to them is undoubtedly dependent upon the generosity of their present decisions. We speak particularly of Shantung, which has come to have a symbolic meaning for the American people; and of the vexed questions of Siberia and Manchuria.

With deep respect and full confidence we subscribe ourselves:

Manson Lowe, Arkansas; Brainerd Dyer, California; W. R. Kierman, Connecticut; Horace B. Ward, Illinois; Vernon Hinshaw, Indiana; A. M. De Vaul, Iowa; Rufus Deering, Kansas; G. C. Engel, Maryland; Melville P. Baker, Massachusetts; Ralph E. Harris, Michigan; Roy G. Palmer, Minnesota; Guy C. Motley, Missouri; Thomas Q. Harrison, Nebraska; F. F. Horan, New Hampshire; Charles Denby, Jr., New Jersey; J. E. Flynn, New York; Alvin Blienden, Ohio; J. C. Mardis, Oklahoma; E. E. Overdorf, Pennsylvania; C. S. Newhard, Rhode Island; W. A. Nix, South Carolina; F. B. Haynes, Tennessee; Paul F. Rountree, Wisconsin.

Looking back on the football season, the backfield stands out as the shining constellation. Why not have a team made up altogether of backs? We propose the following candidates:

Backfield: Quarter back Half back
Full back
Way back
Ends: Full back
Come back
Guards: Switchback
Horseback
Tackles: Humpback
Flareback
Center: Razorback
Coach: Greenback
Water Boy: Waterback
Trainer: Doan's Kidney Pills.

FRENCHMAN TAKES WEIGHT OF KISSES

A French scientist has just completed an extensive investigation of kisses. It takes the French scientists to do that sort of thing.

The unique feature of his report is that he has evolved a standard of measures for the weight of kisses. He does not state whether or not he acted as his own scales.

However, he does go so far as to announce that the lip kiss is not the lightest kiss known to science.

The lips, he says, are not the most sensitive part of the face and they are chiefly used for kissing simply through force of habit and not because of their peculiar fitness.

For example, it takes a much harder kiss on the lips to put across the right sensation than it would if we kissed temples.

To excite an equally pleasant feeling you must impress a kiss of two milligrams in weight on the forehead or cheek, three milligrams on the lips and 15 milligrams on the fingers.

He fails to state whether, after weighing the kisses, you should wrap them up and take them with you or have them delivered.

It would seem, in view of the lightness of the cheek kiss, that it should be used chiefly on cousins and things, where it doesn't count anyhow.

The 15-milligram finger kiss is seldom practiced in this country, except on the stage, where it doesn't count anyhow.

The lip kiss, which is our favorite little five-milligram dose, is most popular, irrespective of weight. Possibly that's because you can always crowd on a few extra ounces without hurting any one's feelings.—Chicago Herald and Examiner.

Nicholas Vachel Lindsay, the Illinois poet, was given prominence. A brief outline of his interesting history was given, and then Mr. Simpson quoted some half dozen of his poems, giving all of them from memory. "The Congo", as a study of the negro race, "General William Booth Enters Into Heaven," received special comment.

Editorial Comment

We do not take mental inventories often enough.

Someone has pointed out that the world pays us best for doing the things we are not required to do.

The favorite pastime of most of us is figuring on the time when we won't have to study any more.

Success always means downright hard work.

Know and believe in yourself and what others think won't bother you.

Phi Epsilon

The organization of a new fraternity on the campus is a step that is entirely in keeping with the rapid strides made by the college in the last few years. Statistics from various institutions show that about fifty per cent of the students in the average college become fraternity men, and if too few organizations are available, new ones are formed. In every case, the result should be a higher standard for the existing fraternities. Governed as they are by the spirit of friendly competition, the fraternities will put forth their best efforts only when there is plenty of good persistent rivalry to spur them on. The WEEKLY congratulates the men of Phi Epsilon on obtaining faculty recognition, and wishes them a long and prosperous career.

Men, Women and Song

The annual barnstorming excursions of the Muhlenberg Glee Club have begun. For the next few months audiences in all corners of Eastern Pennsylvania will be sympathizing with the delights of college life and wondering whether students always wear evening dress after seven p. m. The young and fair of the community will experience a sudden and evanescent elation in being escorted by symmetrically starched Apollos with musical voices flowing with a facility acquired by long practice.

The Glee Club is a typically collegiate organization. The performances radiate pleasure, because the performers enjoy their tricks, and the audience can't avoid sharing the enjoyment. Carefully planned clashes of classical versus jazzical; melodrama of the most heart-rending and side-splitting properties; man-voices making melody: all these and more make up the ever popular entertainments of the Glee Club.

DEGREES AND THINGS

Muhlenberg's faculty is not a paper faculty. A mere addition of the degrees advertised in the faculty roster in the catalog would fall far short of the actual qualifications of the professors and instructors.

The election of Doctor Albert Barba to the chair of German adds one more Ph. D. to the faculty roll, and goes toward giving Muhlenberg the recognition she deserves as an unexcelled A. B. College. Coupled with the high academic achievement of Professor Barba is a personality that gets enthusiastic comment from all who know him. The Board of Trustees was fortunate in securing a man combining the many valuable qualifications possessed by Professor Barba.

BACK UP BASKETBALL

Is Muhlenberg a one sport school? The thin attendance at the last basketball game brings up the question. Even tho victories have been few, the student body should back up the team, and prove that victory is not the only aim, in athletics. To play the game hard and square should be the purpose of the team, and victories or defeats should be incidents to be enjoyed or accepted calmly as the scores of the games may require. Let's "get wise to ourselves," and support that team.

President Lowell, of Harvard University, in a recent statement given wide publicity, gave expression to an objection to the "excessive importance" given to inter-collegiate athletic contests, with the emphasis on football. Dr. Lowell referred to annual football games as "public spectacles", and declared it his opinion that the players during the football season paid entirely too much attention to keeping in condition at the expense of their studies. All of which no doubt is true in a measure but there is very little in this world, even in connection with the conduct of our institutions of learning, that does not permit of constructive criticism. We are constrained to believe however that even these "public spectacles", as Dr. Lowell chooses to call them, have a salient side. The public cannot manifest too much interest in our colleges and the football game does at least in part bring about added interest. We also believe that there is some merit in having a crew of young men, the football squad, getting into the best physical condition possible. You know, some one once said that there couldn't be a sound mind without a sound body. And it cannot be gainsaid that in a general, possibly almost universal way students whether prominent in athletics or not are obliged to keep up in studies. We feel that while Dr. Lowell is right in a measure, he is magnifying an "evil" and that the abolition of football and other inter-collegiate athletics, or their severe curtailing would do more harm than the continuance of even the present censorable condition. However any college will welcome the establishment of certain athletic standards and regulations for all higher institutions of learning.

Fellows, we are going to college, and our one big aim seems to be to pass our tests and exams successfully and in the end get a diploma. That's all very good. Our dads sent us here to study and our making good to them is largely reflected in the academic reports they receive from the college authorities. We know best whether these reports are really reflecting the whole truth or not. That is not the crux of this effort. What we do want you to appreciate is that the foundation for our future is being laid now, and as we make the foundation so shall the superstructure be. We are old enough to realize that it is far from all to be in college and pass the exams. We are without question preparing to take up the world's work of the future, and we do not want to become obsessed with the idea that it is useless or at least not necessary to give some thought right now to the future. Our dads are giving us the best they can afford. They want us to be equipped for life's work as well as, if not better than they were when they were in our years. Let's not fear that by the time we get out of college and are armed with a sheepskin that the big things have all been done, and that only the small and insignificant things are yet to be accomplished; that no special incentive remains; that no special training or effort is required now; that no great rewards are yet to be handed out; that the need for really big men has gone.

The affairs of the world in the next twenty years or so will require bigger, broader, better educated men, more efficient men than have been required the last one hundred years. The sons of our fathers will have to be better men than dad was to meet the bigger problems which dad was never called upon to face. To meet these changing and complex conditions we must study and improve ourselves at every opportunity and must educate and equip ourselves so that when bigger men are called for we shall be ready. Lincoln spent years training and equipping himself, little realizing the big things that were coming his way. It was only because he had laid the foundation for a bigger man that he succeeded with the task that later confronted him. We must not make the mistake of thinking that there will never be need of another Lincoln. Let us feel that the future holds need for another Lincoln and that the call will come and may come to any one of us. Let us remember that success lies within ourselves, our own brains, our own ambitions, our own courage and our own determination.

DUTY OF CHRISTIAN CHURCH WHERE HUMAN LAWS FAIL

in our modern development of science we have gained a new insight into the tremendous power of heredity. Therefore, men are more prone again to realize the power of heredity upon the human soul. The old fact comes out in a new light, that our natural tendency to give way in temptation and do wrong is universal. This is the great religious democratic fact. We can no longer with Wordsworth conceive of man as coming trailing 'clouds of glory'.

"In the nineteenth century man made such marvelous progress in discoveries and inventions that he became tremendously conscious of his power. The whole character of living was changed. On account of the fact of this great conquest of the world man became vain in the imaginations of his heart. He saw himself not only as powerful but as good. He thought he could lift himself to heaven by his own boot-straps. Meantime, there was still present the old jealousy, the old suspicion, the old greed, and the old selfishness. And so the beginning of the twentieth century came the great disillusionment. Ferrero, the Italian historian, made the statement that man was so thoroughly blinded by his belief in his genius and goodness, that he did not see the evil that was growing in society. But today we know that we have not leveled ourselves up by all the good that we did and the good that we claim. We have been thrown back to the common acknowledgement of the power of sin. If we really make use of this experience, then we shall have hope of a common advance. We shall know that no leagues of nations and no conferences will help us, unless we all acknowledge the old spirit that destroyed us, and seek to be leveled up to a new attitude not of suspicion or of dishonesty, but of openness, honesty, and fairness toward all the children of men.

"But there is in the fact of sin not only this leveling down which can be overcome if we turn to God, but there is also the power of leveling down to destruction where sin continues and remains among men. If it is true as it is, that democracy demands a higher virtue from all men in a democratic form of society, then it is also true that evil and sin in a democratic form of society have larger power because of the larger liberty of men. Usually we recognize this destructive evil when we see great crimes, such as murder or robbery. We react against them and we condemn them. The greatest danger to democracy is not, however, from the great criminals whom we reject and punish. The real danger is our shortsightedness through which we fail to note the conditions of modern life and society which enlarge temptations and open the way for criminals. To maintain a democracy it is necessary to give the most careful consideration to the state of society, to life in our big cities, to methods of dealing with each other, in order that we may find those influences which make sin easy. We have tremendous responsibility from which we cannot free ourselves to examine in all communities what is the actual moral condition and what are the temptations that make it possible for men to become criminal. Wherever a democracy fails to do this it is being leveled down and loses its power for happiness.

"There is, however, a more subtle power of sin than that which creates crimes that we acknowledge and punish. A democracy is constantly in danger through whole groups of men who could never be put into prison, and who, nevertheless, through their life and actions, are a destructive influence in the life society. Wherever business can be so handled that it comes within the letter of the law but is, immoral and wrongs thousands of men, there confidence is destroyed and the hate of men for each other is developed when they see how advantage has been taken of them through a shrewdness which all feel and know to be wrong but for which there is no punishment in the law of the land.

"Whenever any great revelation of wrong is made the middle class Pharisee stands aghast and gloats over the latest sensation, while he too, in some other way, may be devouring widow's houses. When men give way to lives of impurity and help in the maintenance of an awful evil they may put on externally the smiling faces of respectability, but they are in reality enemies of society. There are men and women who so interpret liberty as indulgence that they have no regard for the law of the land and openly boast of the way in which they can evade the expression of the will of the people. This spirit of lawbreaking by people who claim to be respectable is sowing the seeds of criminality. One of the great forces that is destroying democracy is the manner in which some people cannot amuse themselves without becoming riotous and drifting into wild life which infects the young people. These and similar conditions are the strongest forces which are today working against a happy democracy.

"To meet these destructive forces the Church of Jesus Christ must ask itself how it can unite and use the redemptive power which has been entrusted to it. Whatever may be our differences there are two possibilities of co-operation. The first is that by which all churches ought to seek what can be done through common action to bring the redemption of Jesus Christ to bear upon the conditions of society which are destroying it. It is an easy matter to invoke the power of the law, but it is our function to seek and save and to do in a manner that will meet the modern situation and in a spirit which is begotten of the living love of Christ. The second possibility is, to stand together in some common form of discipline by which those who are living lives that are hurtful to men shall not be recognized by any church unless they repent. Today it is possible for any member disciplined in one church for an unchristian life to be taken up by another, and so to save the claim of respectability. We need to arouse that common Christian sentiment and to institute the early Christian practice of which Christ speaks, when He counsels that if a man sin against us, we tell him first alone; if he does not hear we take one or two more to establish our word; and if the sinner neglects to hear them, we tell it to the Church, but if he neglects to hear the Church he is to be as a heathen man and a publican. (Math. 18; 15-17.) Surely the churches can agree on the fundamentals of righteousness and create an opinion against those evils which the law does not punish, an opinion which will tone up all society and overcome the destruction which is now being wrought by the sin that is condemned and the evil that is covered over."

Dr. Haas will deliver the final lecture in the series on Tuesday noon, February 14th, when his theme will be "The Universality and Democracy".

ARTICLE BY PROF. HORN IN CLASSICAL JOURNAL

An article of considerable interest to college students appears in the current issue of the Classical Journal. It should appeal especially to Muhlenberg students since it comes from the pen of Prof. Horn, and is on the subject "Homeric Reminiscences".

PROF. FRITSCH LECTURES AT QUAKERTOWN

On Wednesday evening, Feb. 1st., Prof. Fritsch delivered the fourth of a series of ten addresses on "The Life of Christ" before an audience of two hundred and fifty at t. John's Lutheran Church, Quakertown. This series of lectures is being held under the auspices of the Brotherhood of the church.

DEAN G. T. ETTINGER WILL WRITE FOR CALL

His "Life and Letters" To Be Permanent Feature of Sunday Edition

The Allentown Morning Call in its issue of Saturday, February 4th makes announcement as follows:

"A distinctly popular worthwhile feature of the Morning Call of several years back were the articles appearing under the caption 'Life and Letters', and written by Prof. Dr. George T. Ettinger, dean of the faculty of Muhlenberg College. Accordingly, Morning Call readers will be interested in the announcement that this series is to be recontinued in the Sunday edition and it to become a permanent feature of Allentown's only Sunday newspaper.

"The articles by Prof. Ettinger are of exceptional worth. His messages are delivered in a style that is highly cultured and compels interest. The subject of the first of the series which will appear in tomorrow's edition is 'Education', a subject which the writer is naturally fitted to discuss," was the wording of the Call's announcement.

DEAN G. T. ETTINGER

We culled a few sentences from Dr. Ettinger's first article on "Education" as follows:—"Nothing in this world is more universal, nothing more important than education.

"In its widest sense, education is the term that sums up all the efforts and the influences, whether conscious or unconscious, which train and develop a man for his life both here and hereafter.

"Man, the only being that admits of education, consists of an immortal soul, clothed in a material body, and is endowed with conscience, the knowledge of right and wrong, which thus makes him a responsible moral agent.

"Important as is the body, it is however, not nearly as important as the mind, which is the real person, the ego, the I as the psychologists call it. Through study we acquire knowledge and power. In mathematics we have rigid reasoning, in science we find the knowledge of the material universe, in history we learn to know the past, in poetry and fiction we have the pleasures of the imagination, in ethics we distinguish right and wrong, in religion we learn to know God.

"Whether we study by ourselves or in school, what we acquire and master largely depends upon our own self-activity.

"True education is much more than a mere preparation for acquiring and hoarding material riches, which last only as long as life lasts; it is, however, a preparation for the cultivation of those mental and spiritual riches, of culture, character, conscience and Christianity, which riches the immortal soul will take with it into the realms of another world.

"The final aim of education, then, ought to be, not mere knowledge, not mere money, not mere honor, not mere power, in short, not the material things of life, but the sum total of Christian virtues and graces embraced in the one word character,

LUCKY THIRTEEN

Muhlenberg's biggest year in athletics was 1921 (adding figures, the result is 13), when the now famous Johnny Spiegel (add the letters, the result is 13) turned out a team which scored 175 points (adding figures, equals 13). Practice started on 9-1-21 (adding, equals 13) and the first big victory came when Gettysburg was trimmed by a score of 17-13. Then Swarthmore was beaten 7-6 (adding, equals 13) and finally Lehigh was subdued by a score of 14-13. The score of the Albright game was 15-7 (adding, equals 13). And school started on September 13th.

Who can figure out any more occurrences of this lucky number?

DR. HAAS TO LECTURE IN REBUTTAL OF RUSSELISM

On Sunday, February 12th, President Dr. John A. W. Haas, will begin a course of lectures before the auditorium Bible class in St. John's Lutheran church in refutation, from the facts of the Bible of the claims of certain teachings that have been pressed lately in this community. The subjects to be treated during five successive Sundays are: First, "Can the End of the World Be Foretold?"; second, "Are We Annihilated?"; third, "Is Christ Everlasting?"; fourth, "Is There a Second Chance?"; fifth, "How Shall Christ Return?" These lectures will begin promptly at 11:15 every Sunday morning.

WRESTLING IS MADE INTER-CLASS SPORT

The wrestling managers of each class are to choose teams to represent their classes in the semi-finals. These names must be turned in to the Wrestling committee by February 24, 1922. Date of semi-finals will be announced later.

Each team shall consist of four men. One man for each of the following weight classes:

- (1) 135 lbs. or under.
- (2) 135 to 150 lbs.
- (3) 150 to 165 lbs.
- (4) 165 lbs. above.

Practices and elimination trials can be held in west gym, beginning Monday Feb. 8th. Clean mats have been procured.

Consult committee in charge for further details. The committee in charge of wrestling consists of Ira Zartman '23, and W. Theodore Benze '22.

DR. HARMS TO SPEAK AT ST. JOHN'S

The next regular observance of College Night at St. John's church will be held on Sunday evening, February 12th, with the Rev. Dr. J. Henry Harms of the Church of the Holy Communion, Philadelphia, as the preacher.

Dr. Harms has been heard before with great favor by the college community. He is a most popular speaker with young men, having been himself for a number of years the president of Newberry College in South Carolina. All the friends are cordially invited.

MOVIE MELODRAMA HAS WHOLESOME SENTIMENT

Hard liquor and the open saloon have left us, but the problems of the loving wife crying at home every night for the otherwise model husband who is always drunk, and of the lovable little girl with the "Father, dear father, come home with me now" habit make the lumps swell up in our throats again in the screen adaptation of "Ten Nights in a Barroom." The play and book of this same plot, which were quite the rage for several decades, made our mothers and grandmothers weep in sympathy for the suffering wife and child. Stories of this type undoubtedly paved the way for Prohibition, just as "Uncle Tom's Cabin" brought a crisis in the slavery issue.

Melodrama is to be expected. The two villains deservedly come to grief and meet horrible deaths. The suave gambler perishes in the flames which consume his den. The heartless saloonkeeper meets his fate in a "down the river to the falls" scene, which is somewhat like the climax of "Way Down East." The virile drunkard-hero sets out to kill the saloonkeeper because of the pathetic death of his daughter, but an apparition of the little girl prompts him to make a desperate but fruitless attempt to save the villain's life, as he goes over the falls. The little girl makes an appeal to your love-for-children feeling which is equaled by few child-actors.

The sentiment is wholesome and not over-played. The effect that it leaves in your mind is altogether different from that of the usual run of movies. It takes out of your mouth the bad taste which is left by this mushy, slapstick stuff. The homely, true-to-life sentiment of stories like this comes as a welcome relief. You will enjoy seeing "Ten Nights in a Barroom." The film is showing at the Rialto this week.

PROF. HORN ADDRESSES WOMEN'S AUXILIARY

DELTA THETA ALUMNI BANQUET

Last Friday evening the active chapter and alumni of Delta Theta Fraternity gathered in the Elks Hall on South Eighth Street in celebration of the founding of the fraternity, and enjoyed the twenty-third annual alumni banquet. It was one of those banquets for which the steward of the Elks Hall has gained just fame, Lehigh County turkey being the main course of the repast. The banquet hall was artistically decorated the table being in the form of a quadrangle, and the beautiful fountain of the Elks Club the centerpiece.

"Ben" Hubbard, '16, now an executive of King's Crown, Columbia University, acted as master of ceremonies. He first called on Attorney Russell Mauch of Hellertown to outline the history of Delta Theta since its founding. Leon H. Breidenbach of Boyertown, Pa. was the next speaker. The subject of his theme was "Fraternal Relations," in which he explained the duties of the fraternity man toward his fraternity brothers, toward his alma mater, and toward other fraternity men. Attorney Lawrence Rupp was then selected to talk of the future of Muhlenberg College and the place which Delta Theta must occupy as a representative of the college. The speakers from the active chapter were George Rupp '23, and Harry E. Sharkey '22.

Immediately after the banquet, a meeting of the Alumni Association was held in which private matters were discussed. Many of the Alumni spent the week end in town visiting old class mates and renewing former friendships with the faculty members of the college.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA ENGAGED FOR COLONIAL

Announcement was made yesterday that beginning this week a Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Lloyd Moll, well known in Allentown Musical circles, would play at both evening performances at the Colonial Theatre.

This additional attraction at no increase in prices will appeal to local movie fans as a step in the right direction. The feature picture for the week end is announced in the Wilmer & Vincent advertisement in another column.

I. O. U. Meetings Called

The annual meeting of the representatives of the Colleges of the Pennsylvania Inter-collegiate Oratorical Union will be held at Pennsylvania College, Gettysburg, on Saturday 11, at three o'clock.

Ira S. Fritz, '23, the Junior representative elected last spring will attend for Muhlenberg. The contest will be held at Gettysburg this spring. It is expected that several colleges of eastern Pennsylvania will apply for admission to the Union this year.

$10,000 GIFT TO F. AND M. FOR STADIUM

Lancaster, Pa., Feb. 3, (A. ## DR. HAAS DESCRIBES BIRTH OF TELEPHONE

Tells of Interview with Dr. Watson, Co-inventor of Telephone.

While attending the opening of the semester Secretarial Course at Boston University, Boston Mass., Rev. Dr. J. A. W. Haas, who spoke on the subject of "Is Life a Business or an Ideal", had the pleasure of hearing Dr. Thomas A. Watson address the gathering on "The Birth and Babyhood of the Telephone".

Dr. Haas was so greatly impressed with the simplicity and force of Dr. Watson's address that he decided to acquaint the students with the salient facts concerning the invention of this present day necessity by Alexander Graham Bell in connection with Dr. Watson.

Dr. Haas in his address, yesterday morning, in the chapel, gave excerpts of Dr. Watson's speech which follow:

"One day, while working in William's electrical shop, a tall, slender, quick-motioned man with pale face, black sides whiskers, and drooping mustache, big nose and high sloping forehead crowned with bushy, jet black hair, came rushing out of the office and over to my work bench. It was Alexander Graham Bell whom I saw then for the first time. He was bringing to me a piece of mechanism which I had made for him under instructions from the office. It had not been made as he had directed and he had broken down the rudimentary discipline of the shop in coming directly to me to get it altered. It was a receiver and transmitter of his 'Harmonic Telegraph' an invention of his with which he was then endeavoring to win fame and fortune. It was a simple affair by means of which utilizing the law of sympathetic vibration, he expected to send six or eight Morse messages on a single wire at the same time, without interference.

"The essential parts of both transmitter and receiver were an electromagnet and a flattened piece of steel clock spring. The spring was clamped by one end to one pole of the magnet and had its other end free to vibrate over the other pole. The transmitter had, besides this, make-and-break points like an ordinary vibrating bell which, when the current was on, kept the spring vibrating in a sort of nasal whine of pitch corresponding to the pitch of the spring. When the signalling key was closed, an electrical copy of that whine passed thru the wire and the distant receiver.

"Mr. Bell was very apt to do his experimenting at night, for he was busy during the day at the Boston University, where he was Professor of Vocal Physiology, especially teaching his father's system of visible speech, by which a deaf mute might learn to talk—quite significant of what Bell was soon to do in making mute metal talk. For this reason I would often remain at the shop during the evening to help him test some improvement he had had me make on the instruments.

"One evening when we were resting from our struggles with the apparatus, Bell said to me: 'Watson, I want to tell you of another idea I have, which I think will surprise you'. I listened, I suspect, somewhat languidly, for I must have been working that day about sixteen hours, with only a short nutritive interval, and Bell had already given me, during the weeks we had worked together, more new ideas on a great variety of subjects, including visible speech, elocution and flying machines, than my brain could assimilate, but when he went on to say that he had an idea by which he believed it would be possible to talk by telegraph, my nervous system got such a shock that the tired feeling vanished. I have never forgotten his exact words; they have run in my mind ever since like a mathematical formula. 'If' he said,

"I could make a current of electricity vary in intensity, precisely as the air varies in density during the production of a sound, I should be able to transmit speech telegraphically". He then sketched for me an instrument that he thought would do this, and we discussed the possibility of constructing one. I did not make it; it was altogether too costly, and the chances of its working too uncertain to impress his financial backers—Mr. Gardiner G. Hubbard and Mr. Thomas Sanders—who were insisting that the wisest thing for Bell to do was to perfect the harmonic telegraph; then he would have money and leisure enough to build air castles like the telephone.

GLEE CLUB OPENS SEASON AT LANSDALE

of credit, as the boys only had one rehearsal together. This was due to the fact that the club was organized only several days before the first concert. It was at first thought that a mandolin club would be impossible this season because of the lack of material, but two new men were secured namely, Hartman and Schweimler, and these additions made a club possible. They rendered some good jazzy selections that were well appreciated by the audience.

"When a Man Marries," the skit written by W. Bruce MacIntosh, was well received, and each character deserves an equal amount of praise. Mr. Summ as the beautiful but neglected wife, and Mr. Mattson as the crabbed old uncle from South America furnish most of the fun and excitement.

The club is fortunate in having three soloists this year; violin, Mr. Winkleman; piano, Mr. Bennyhoff, and vocal, Mr. Thomas. Each one is an artist, and that they pleased their hearers is shown by the fact that all were called back to give encores.

"Vaudeville on Trial," which is the novelty number of the program, is quite a diversion from the one of last year. Mr. Druckenmiller takes the part of the judge, and announces in a clever way the different acts which are to come before the audience for trial. Mr. Lieber sings an operatic selection; Messrs. Mattson and Koch present a bit of nonsense, and the mandolin club plays several numbers. Each one was received with a great deal of favor by the jury.

The singing of the club is exceptionally good this year, and the songs are above the average Glee Club numbers. The "Cardinal and Gray," the new Muhlenberg song, is used as an opener, and the Alma Mater as the closing number.

On Friday evening the Club gave their annual concert at Kutztown before a large audience. The Glee Club Concert is always looked forward to in that town, and we have proof of that. A certain one in the audience said that the coming of the Muhlenberg College Glee Club is one of the big events of the year in Kutztown, and that they are always sorry when the concert is over. The members of the Club were entertained at various homes before and after the concert, and returned to Allentown the following morning.

Prof. Brown and Prof. Marks have both worked hard to make the Club of this year the best that Muhlenberg has ever had, and judging by the first two concerts they have succeeded in doing so.

This week the Club will sing at Lebanon, Hershey, Lancaster, and Lititz. Mickley, Ritter, and O'Brien, three musicians who are well known to Muhlenberg students, will accompany the Club on their trip.

The remainder of the pre-lenten schedule follows:

February 16, Spring City
February 17, Pottstown.
February 18, Perkasio.
February 23, Reading.
February 24, Norristown.
February 25, Philadelphia.

probably would have had better luck, and got more bites.

Of course the movie man had to be on the job, and he was represented by no other than Mr. Oxenreider himself. He took many pretty scenes, and some of Allentown's famous skyscrapers. He was also at hand when Katzman gave an exhibition of his world renowned shadow boxing, and when Repass made love to Miss Reinbold.

Yes, there were programs for the occasion, and Miss Reinbold insisted that all the on-lookers or passers-by were provided with one. Some were very modest, and refused, but the young lady's winning way seemed to make a refusal almost impossible. There were soap box speeches too, by each of the four young men. Mr. Katzman held his audiences spell-bound when he spoke on "Why mid-year exams are unfair". He received a great ovation.

The event proved so great a success that it is likely the people of Allentown will have many more chances of seeing the frosh perform.

FOOTBALL SQUAD OF 1915 IN PERSONNEL REVIEW

RECALLING THE DAYS OF BERRY AND SEIDEL; TEAM CLOSE SECOND TO LAST SEASON'S WONDERFUL ELEVEN.

With the memory of the wonderfully successful football last fall still pleasingly haunting us, and with the promise and assurance of an even still more successful season the coming fall, we are constrained to recall that other thrilling season in the fall of 1915 when Coach Kelly's eleven swept the boards before then and Muhlenberg made football history.

It will be recalled that the team lost but two games, those played with Lehigh and Bucknell, but scored notable victories over Gettysburg, F. & M., Lebanon Valley, New York University and Albright, and held Lafayette to a 7-7 tie.

The average weight of the team was 175 pounds and the average height 5 ft., 10 3/4 inches. Two of the members of that wonderful eleven were destined to shine even beyond Muhlenberg days. We all recall Howard Berry and Fred Seidel.

We believe however that most if not all of us would like to know what became of the principal members of the 1915 squad. We are going to reproduce the team scores and follow with a review of the players, including their present whereabouts and the business engaged in.

The team record was as follows:—

Muhlenberg	7	Lafayette	.....	7
"	..54	N. Y. U.	.....	0
"	..20	Gettysburg	.....	6
"	..0	Lehigh	.....	7
"	..35	Leb. Valley	.....	0
"	..25	F. & M.	.....	0
"	..48	Indian Res.	.....	0
"	..6	Bucknell	.....	14
"	..29	Albright	.....	3

Totals ..224 Totals ..... 37

Each member of the squad is given below, with the name of the prep. or high school from which he graduated and what his occupation is at the present time:

Position	Prep School	Present Occupation
Captain "Buck" Skean	F. B. Pottstown H. S.	Business, N. Y.
"Fritz" Heuer	R. H. B. Phila. Central High	Teacher Swarthmore Prep.
Jas. R. Flexer	L. T. Allentown Prep.	Teacher Allentown Prep.
"Ben" Hubbard	L. E. Bethlehem Prep.	King's Crown Board of Governors, Col. Uni.
Claude Laudenslager	Q. B. Allentown H. S.	Mgr. Allentown Dairy
Walter L. Reisner	Q. B. Williamson Trade	Diamond Match Co., Barbertain, O.
D. Franklin Day	L. G. Phila. N. E. High	Real Estate Philadelphia
Louis J. Hayes	R. E. Phila. N. E. High	Brecht & Hayes Philadelphia
"Kidder" Caskey	L. H. B. Phila. N. E. High	Teacher Holmesburg, Pa.

Charles Copley	R. T. Conway Hall	Steel, Akron, O.
T. J. Brennan	F. B. Minersville H. S.	Teacher, Minersville H. S.
"Bill" Ritter	R. G. Allentown Prep	Physical Director Muhlenberg
"Pete" Henninger	R. H. B. Lock Haven Normal	Penna. R. R. Williamsport, Pa.
F. J. Detling	R. E. Allentown Prep.	Hersh & Bro., Allentown
Fred R. Seidel	L. G. Bellefonte Acad.	Asst. Coach Lafayette
W. H. Hollenbach	L. G. Minersville H. S.	Standard Oil Co., York
Carl A. Erickson	C. Bloomsburg N. S.	Teacher, Richfield Park H. S., N. J.

You probably remember them all. J. Howard Berry is listed there and his achievements after he left Muhlenberg and entered the University of Pennsylvania are part of the athletic history of the Red and Blue. He is at present the football coach of Hamilton College and a member of the New York Giants, the present World's Champions. Fred R. Seidel, left Muhlenberg and entered the University of Pittsburgh. He was one of the stars of the Pitt aggregation and upon completion of his athletic career, accepted and has been one of Jock Sutherland's assistants at Lafayette for the past three years. He will also fill the same position at the Easton college next season, in the meantime completing his dental course at the Smoky City University.

They drift along and settle here and there and sometimes you hear of them and sometimes you don't, so we figured it would be interesting to learn the whereabouts of one of the greatest aggregations of footballers we ever had. This was one of the best of them and was one which would run close to the past season's sensational outfit.

WHERE IGNORANCE IS BLISS

Syracuse University professors, who each year select the most original and oddest answers given by students in mid-year examination papers have released a list which would do credit to some of Thomas A. Edison's famous questions.

The list follows:

Milton's father was a notary public.

Dido means just the same; you writ it.

Stephen A. Douglas was a manufacturer of shoes. Also he was the author of the Century Handbook.

A periodic sentence is one in which the meaning is clear until the end is reached.

Marriage is a sacrament by which a priest unites man and woman in fatal union.

Alfred the Great was author of both the Apostles' Creed and the ten commandments.

GLEE CLUB MAKES ITS FIRST LONG TRIP A GREAT SUCCESS

Club Pleased Large Audiences In Lebanon, Lancaster, Hershey, and Lititz

JAZZLAND TRIO STARS IN VAUDEVILLE ACT

"Fine concert by Muhlenberg College Glee Club. Always popular here, the Club on Wednesday evening added greatly to its list of Lebanon admirers at a concert at the Academy of Music." This is a headline that appeared in the Lebanon Daily News Tuesday.

Vaudeville with an unusual amount of comedy was the feature of this concert and also the three following. Before an audience of nearly a thousand at Lebanon, the Club put on one of the best concerts that has ever been staged by the singing artists at Muhlenberg. Every number was greatly applauded, and encores were generously accorded.

The Singing selections were well up to their standard, but the real feature of the evening was the novelty act called "Vaudeville on Trial." The act is cleverly arranged and affords a great amount of fun. Mickley and his famous Jazzland Trio appeared in this act for the first time, and they lived up to their reputation in entertaining their audience. They appeared on the program twice, and each time had to respond with several encores.

There were a few changes made in the skit by Prof. Brown, which greatly improved it. Each character seemed to put his very best into it. Harry Sowers as the Sophomore, and Walter Koch as the freshman did exceedingly well, and put a touch of real college life into the act.

In the afternoon the Club sang at the home of the Hon. Mr. C. R. Lantz, who is an alumnus of the college, and who is also one of the board of trustees. Mr. Lantz congratulated the Club on having such a fine organization, and recalled his school days at Muhlenberg.

The club members were entertained at various homes following the concert, and left in the morning for

PENNA. I. O. U. MEETS AT GETTYSBURG

Ira S. Fritz, '23, is Elected President for the Coming Year

Delegates from the five colleges which are members of the Pennsylvania Inter-Collegiate Oratorical Union met at Gettysburg College on Saturday afternoon, February 11. Fritz '23, the Junior representative attended the conference as delegate from Muhlenberg. Swarthmore, Ursinus, Gettysburg and Franklin and Marshall were also represented at the conference.

The time of meeting for the annual intercollegiate contest was set for Saturday, April 8, 1922. The contest will be held at Gettysburg this year, the following year coming to Muhlenberg.

With the unanimous approval of the delegates invitations to join the Union will be sent to Bucknell and Dickinson. This year the presidency of the Union falls to Muhlenberg and Fritz '23 was accordingly installed as President of the P. I. O. U. for the current year.

Dr. William Wackernagel, Professor Emeritus, to whom the 1923 Ciarla is dedicated.

CIARLA STAFF IS PLANNING BIG BOOK

New Features Will Make This Book Eclipse Those Of Former Years

Large groups of students are wending their way to Lindenmuth's Studio each day; each student at college is being asked to furnish evidences of his present college life; Kistler is busy taking pictures; and the juniors are all working like beavers. What does it all mean?

Let me start at the beginning. It is the duty of the Junior Class to publish a year book each year. The present class naturally wants to publish a good one, and by the reports that are coming in this ambition will be realized.

The book is being dedicated to Professor Wackernagel as the first Professor Emeritus of Muhlenberg College in recognition of the wonderful work he has done for the school during his long years of service.

Then there is the big and successful football season with the Lehigh victory. All students and alumni will want an accurate record of that. The work is well under way and the book will contain more full page cuts than in former years. The feature section will contain some real fun and the editor of that section will consider anything handed to him by any student. To cap the climax, the book will be attractively bound and will make a beautiful gift for any friend. What more can be desired?

LEHIGH UNIVERSITY GETS NEW PRESIDENT

Charles Russ Richards, dean of the college of engineering at the University of Illinois, recently was elected president of Lehigh University by a vote of the board of trustees. He succeeds Dr. Henry S. Drinker who retired a year ago. Professor Richards is 51 years old and a graduate of Purdue University. He was on the faculty of the Colorado Agricultural College from 1891 to 1911 and was dean of the engineering college from 1907 to 1911. From 1911 to 1917 he was a member of the faculty of the University of Nebraska and since 1917 has been with the University of Illinois.

"Y" ENTERTAINS AT "STAG" PARTY

On Monday evening February 13, the Y. M. C. A. entertained a number of men at the Parish House of St. John's Lutheran Church. The evening was passed delightfully in music and games. It was a general get-together meeting and everyone enjoyed himself to the utmost. Rex and Flower, the committee in charge, topped off the evening with delicious refreshments.

COLLEGE STUDENTS HEAR REV. CHANNELL

Prominent Methodist Minister Tells Men How to Prepare For Success

"What would I do, if I were your age?" With this thought as his central theme, the Reverend Doctor Channell, pastor of Asbury Methodist Church, on Tuesday morning during Chapel time, took up in turn the various phases of college life and suggested, in a manner that was both convincing and forceful, a helpful and comprehensive code of action for the college student.

"If I were your age, I would take all the physical exercise I could get; for a strong body is the basis of a strong mind. I would develop my lungs to the utmost; for in these days a man, to be heard, must speak out loud. I would take more of the natural exercises; i.e., laughing, sneezing, walking, and the like. Laughter is the thunder of optimism. I know a man who laughs systematically—after breakfast, before dinner, and before supper. Nothing conduces so much to health as a hearty laugh.

"What is the difference between a stupid man and an intelligent man? The one man thinks, the other does not. The intelligent man gets to the very heart of things, while the stupid man barely scratches the surface. Socrates did not have a brain differing from another's; only he wore a thinking cap. Think into things and think out of things and then you will deserve to be called intelligent.

"If I were your age, I would hold to certain fundamental convictions concerning God, immortality, and truth. According to my observation, most men fail because of a lack of conviction. Such a man is like a door

FROSH CAGE TEAM BOWS TO MORAVIAN

On Saturday night the freshman played Moravian Preparatory School at Bethlehem, and were defeated in a closely contested game. The final score was 24-17. At the end of the first half the Frosh were leading 10-7. A return game will be played with them the latter part of March.

On Saturday afternoon the freshmen will play Allentown Prep. in the Prep. School gym. This will give Muhlenberg an opportunity to see the freshmen in action.

The lineup:
Muhlenberg Fresh. Moravian Prep.
Ash F. Howard
Maglin F. Bauchaupt
Skidmore C. Smullin
Riggs G. Shiner
Beck G. Hill
Tursi G.
Wilson F.

Field goals—Ash 2, Skidmore, Riggs, Tursi, Howard 4, Bauchaupt 2, Smullin. Foul goals—Ash 7 out of 15, Howard 10 out of 18. Referee Downey.

BUCKNELL CAGE TEAM DOWNED ON "Y" FLOOR

MUHLENBERG FIVE LOSES TO P. M. C.

Cadets Stage Comeback in Last Half and Win the Game

Following the brilliant victory over Bucknell last Friday evening Coach Geary's Cardinal and Gray squad took a slump at Chester and allowed P. M. C. to walk over them roughshod in the second period the score finally ending 31-24. Throughout the entire first period the Muhlenberg aggregation had the P. M. C. boys hustling to keep in the running. During the first period the team played a wonderful game and the score ended 20-10 in favor of the visitors.

In the second period the local team opened up an attack that was impossible to break up. Luck was with them and Worst made field goal after field goal. The pretty passing and basket shooting of the soldiers proved disastrous for the Muhlenberg team.

Muhlenberg was handicapped because of the fact that Kintzing the regular varsity center and foul shooter was sick in bed and there was no one to make the fouls good that the referee called on the soldiers.

The Lineup:
Muhlenberg P. M. C.
Holstrom F. G. Allen
Johnson F. Worst
Campbell C. Bryant
Taggart G. Crow
Freed G. R. Allen
Field Goals: Holstrom 7; Freed Johnson 2, Campbell; G. Allen, Worst 8, Crow, R. Allen 2. Foul Goals: Freed 2, Crow 7. Referee: Johnson. Time of halves 20 minutes.

ATHLETIC TEAMS ARE GETTING IN FORM

Programs For Inter-Class Contests Are Almost Completed

The program of inter-class athletic activities was started on Friday afternoon with the Soph-Senior basketball game. These activities will furnish something of interest and entertainment, at the close of the recitation rivalry, as well as develop varsity material.

Bill Ritter and John Shankweiler will referee the basketball games. The first half of the series, will be played in the Muhlenberg gymnasium, while the second half will be played in the Prep School gymnasium. The committee consisting of Rex, Fritz, and Lantz ex-officio, will decide the best all-around player, for the individual cup.

The schedule for the basket ball series is as follows:

Feb. 10. Srs. s. Sophs.
Feb. 14. Jrs. vs. Frosh.
Feb. 17. Jrs. vs. Sophs.
Feb. 21. Srs. vs. Frosh.
Feb. 24. Sophs. vs. Frosh.
Feb. 28. Srs. vs. Jrs.
Mar. 3. Srs. vs. Sophs.
Mar. 7. Jrs. vs. Frosh.
Mar. 10. Jrs. vs. Sophs.
Mar. 14. Srs. vs. Frosh.
Mar. 17. Sophs. vs. Frosh.

Large Crowd Witnessed 37-27 Victory in the Y. M. C. A. Gymnasium

HOLSTROM'S FAST WORK OVERCOMES OPPONENTS

The Muhlenberg cage five got working together last Friday evening and gave the 500 spectators at the Y. M. C. A. cage a basketball treat by running through the Bucknell tossers for a 39-27 victory. The team was at its best, showing remarkable field work and accuracy of passing.

Early in the first period Holstrom got warmed up and stayed hot throughout the game. His co-workers fed him consistently with the result that he had a total of ten baskets to his credit. Several of these were as pretty tosses as could be possible in the cage sport. The visitors showed much speed but depended a great deal on the dribbling of a few individuals to take the ball up the floor. It was by these tactics that they gained most of their points. Early in the game they realized the futility of trying to pass the ball through the cardinal and gray opposition.

In the first few minutes of play the visitors got a three point lead which they maintained until Holstrom got working. Then between his point gaining and Taggart's star guarding Muhlenberg took the lead and kept it throughout the game. Both teams had hard luck with shooting baskets, many very pretty and difficult shots rolling off the rim of the basket. The first period ended with the score standing 18-15 in favor of the local team.

Throughout the game Kintzing out-jumped the Bucknell center and in the early part of the second period managed to keep the Bucknell team on the defence until Muhlenberg had run up 26 points. A rally on the part of the visitors brought the score to

INTER-CLASS B. B. SCHEDULE OPENS

Seniors Win From Sophomores In Hotly Contested Game

East gymnasium was the center of attraction on Friday afternoon when the Seniors mauled, man-handled, trampled, and incidentally defeated the Sophomores in the opening game of the inter-class basketball season.

As a basketball game the contest didn't rate at all, flunking with an E, but it was quite the berries as an athletic "ausflug". In the midst of all the action Kirchner managed to drop four double-deckers through the net while Gebert stretched his lanky frame and let two roll off his arms into the basket. Towards the end of the contest Hoffman, the Olyite, dropped into the scoring column with a neat goal from under the basket. Reinhold, the ex-Freshman and female impersonator, was the Sophomores' only scorer, totaling two field goals and six fouls.

At times the Seniors showed flashes of form, advancing the ball down court with short, accurate passes but

Editorial Comment

Organize Your Time.

It is over two weeks since the results of the mid-year examinations were announced, but we still are thinking of some of the men who were asked to leave college at that time. There is also a large group of men with conditions and others who have barely escaped.

Were the men who were dropped men with the lowest degree of intelligence? Was their trouble an actual incapacity for work or were they troubled too much with outside engagements?

They were men of average intelligence according to the psychological examination given them at the beginning of the college year. There is a man at school at the present time who made an exceedingly low grade in his psychological examination, but he does not have one condition. What's the answer?

The men who failed have either been wasting their time or they were interested in too many outside activities. Outside activities are necessary to the life of the student and for the betterment of the college. College students should not be studying all the time. They should get busy on the campus in school and class affairs. And it is possible for both to be carried on successfully at the same time. About two years ago the highest honor man of the senior class was a man who had made a reputation in athletics. Last year one of the honor group was a track man, a member of the Glee Club, and an associate editor of the WEEKLY!

"How do they do it?" we ask. The answer is simple. These men knew how to organize their time. By organizing their time they did everything that was required of them and did these things well.

If the student would make a schedule of his study periods as well as of his classes, he would be able to do much. Of course, the schedule would have to be flexible enough to allow for the unexpected. There is no reason why the student should not keep far enough in advance in his work to be able to weather the storm when it comes.

This not only applies to freshmen but to the men of the upper classes as well. When some one asks them to do something for the good of their Alma Mater the answer is too often "No, I don't have the time."

If everybody would be willing to do a little work for the school, very much could be accomplished in a little time. Fellows, let's get busy so that when we graduate we can truly say that Muhlenberg has benefitted by our activities here. —H. S. M.

Back With Tradition!

It is a well-known fact that the traditions of a college do more than anything else to develop a strong school spirit within the student body. The college which forces its customs upon the freshman, taking away all of his self-importance and making him center his thoughts on his life at the college, is going to have spirited upperclassmen. The alumni of that college are going to have a great love for their Alma Mater, and they are going to support it more heartily. The student who must live up to the customs of a school, if he is the right kind of a fellow, is more likely to appreciate everything connected with that school.

The college which preserves no traditions can never hope to develop school spirit. It exists merely for learning, and the spare energy of its students, not being organized to any particular end, is going to be worked off in ways that will continually disturb the college authorities.

The S. A. T. C., with its leveling of the classes, turned the customs of Muhlenberg topsy-turvy. But, instead of trying to regain our old traditions, it seems as though we are letting them all slip away from us. Where are the derby and cane, or the other privileges of the upperclassman? The Frosh-Soph scraps and contests were tame affairs this year. The Ausflug is going out of style. The freshmen are encouraged to break every regulation. Every custom or tradition that Muhlenberg ever had, is more often sneered at than respected.

What kind of alumni will our present underclassmen become? If they have no respect for the college now, will they have any after graduation? To them it is merely a place to bone at studies, and to get away from as soon as possible. They are fully prepared to become a part of the little cliques into which we divide ourselves.

Our students cannot cooperate. Our publications, athletic teams, and other activities, are a partial failure because only a few men take an interest in them. The only activity in which we show any of that old "Muhlenberg fight", of which we have heard so much, is football, and even then there are a number of men here who have never seen one of our games. Instead of forming a strong community on the campus, we spend our spare time in the city.

One of the best methods of stirring up a little pep is the fostering of inter-class contests. The student council has taken a big step in the right direction by forming schedules for contests between the classes in basketball, wrestling, baseball, etc.

Fellows, let's come to life. Let each class enter heartily into its own activities, as a start. Let's hear more of that weekly song session. Get behind that basketball team. And above all, tighten up on some of these cocky freshmen, or the "Muhlenberg fight" is surely doomed to oblivion.

GLEE CLUB MAKES ITS FIRST LONG TRIP A GREAT SUCCESS

Hershey where they sang at the Central Theatre in the evening. The concert at Hershey was the first one that has been given in that town by the Muhlenberg organization. This fact, and the desire of appearing there another year, and also the fact that the Lebanon Valley Glee Club had been there a week before, inspired the boys to do their best. The auditorium was completely filled, and the concert was full of pep from start to finish. Every number was well received and before the club left, they were given a full assurance of an engagement for next year. The boys were also well received by the residents of Hershey.

Friday evening, the club sang in Lancaster at the Martin Auditorium before an audience of eight hundred. Because of not being able to secure a favorable date, the club was not engaged to sing at Lancaster last year. On account of this fact, the admirers of the Muhlenberg organization seemed all the more anxious to hear them, and the house was sold out the day after the seat sale began.

At Lancaster as well as at the two previous concerts, the club was well received and it was declared by many that the concert was the best that has ever been given by the Allentown aggregation. It was also stated that the Muhlenberg Club is far superior to the F. and M. Club which gave a concert in their home city only a short time previous.

Bruce MasIntosh, the author of the skit witnessed the performance, and also several other Muhlenberg men who went to Lancaster in order to see their class mates on the stage.

The last concert of this trip was given Saturday evening at Lititz, the town famous for its pretzels. The concert here was given under the auspices of the American Legion. It lacked a little of its former pep, due to the fact that Mickley and his Jazz-land Trio were unable to accompany the club, because they had to play at Allentown that evening. But the concert was good nevertheless, and was fully appreciated by the audience that filled the high school auditorium. At six o'clock not a seat could be had, and the S. R. O. sign had to be put into use. There were many that were willing to stand in order that they might hear the club, that had made such a reputation the year before.

The members of the G. A. R. were guests of the American Legion and occupied the front row of the auditorium. The boys were well entertained by the people of Lititz, and after the concert a party and dance was accorded them at the Legion headquarters. Some played cards, while others amused themselves to the lively tunes of king jazz. The club arrived in Allentown Sunday morning, tired out after their very successful trip.

The man who boasts that he forgot more than we ever knew reminds us of the vacant bookshelf. It also was once burdened with knowledge.

COLLEGE STUDENTS HEAR REV. CHANNEL

resting on its lower hinge. Luther crowned every emergency of his life with a great conviction. Therefore, have conviction.

"Fourthly, I would want to crowd into every twenty-four hours, at least one act of kindness. Kindness is the oil in the cogs of life's machinery; the green grass along life's path of pebbles, the touch of angels' hands. This old world is hungering for love and kindness.

"I would make a choice of a few friends older than I, and would profit by their counsel and reasoning. I would master the world's best books; particularly, the book divine. This I would do, by reading the gospels at least once a year.

"Align yourself with some great and far-reaching cause. Stand. Stand fast, firm, erect, alone, back to the past, face toward the future. Dare to differ, to dispute, to deny, to question. Say to yourself, 'I will not extenuate, I will not equivocate.' Do not fear to be on the side of an unpopular cause. Rather stand alone than compromise your convictions.

"Lastly, I would give the flower of my youth to Jesus Christ. I would make Him my hero, my ideal, my peerless one. I would make Him a partner in my life and share with Him life's sorrows and life's joy. I would enthrone Him in my heart as my Savior, my Friend, my God. He only can make life beautiful and strong. I would adopt the attitude of the Frenchman, who, maimed in battle and lying on a hospital cot, was asked whether he had lost an arm; and who answered with a smile, 'No, I gave it to France.' It is God alone who can help you to realize the dreams of your life for manhood and for usefulness."

COLONIAL PICTURE HAS UNUSUAL FEATURES

The movie fan who knows all the stars by the first names of their pet poodles will be quite shocked by the picture "Over the Hill," showing at the Colonial this week. Instead of a dazzling beauty to play the part of heroine, we have a care worn mother, who seems to appear unbeautiful even to her own children; at least they like her so little that after a short unoffending stay with each of her sons and daughters they let her go "over the hill to the poorhouse." The hero is the "wild Indian" Johnny who comes back from the West and puts his mother back in her own home.

Other points of difference, in addition to the homely hero and heroine, are found in the almost careless photography, the plainly worded "sub-titles," and the length of the picture, which requires about two and one-half hours to run.

As usual in plays and novels, the youngster who steals nickels from his mother's purse is the champion at quoting scriptures, and the virtuous but "rough-neck" brother has to remind him to "look up about hypocrites."

From the realism of the settings and the verity of the characters the impression comes that the picture must be typical of life in general. The petty meannesses are only too true; but fortunately not all fathers turn horse thieves, not all sons are ingrates, and not all mothers have to scrub floors in the poorhouse.

One of the big winter activities in most colleges of any size is debating. Many of these have already entered into their schedules and are in addition conducting inter class debates. Gettysburg and Lafayette are among our neighbors interested in this phase of college activity.

Dickinson college adds skiing to the list of winter sports. Sounds like the mountains of New England rather than our own dear little Pa.

LAFAYETTE DROPS FOOTBALL PLAYERS

Easton, Pa., Feb. 11.—Announcement was made today by Dean A. K. Heckel, of Lafayette College, that the faculty had permanently dropped Joseph Williams, captain elect of the 1922 football team, and Wallace K. Elliott, fullback, of the 1921 team, for "conduct unbecoming gentlemen and scholars." No other announcement was made. Both men were mentioned by sports writers throughout the country last fall in their selections for all-American and all-eastern football teams.

and over, has been added, which will equalize competition in the heavier classes. The entries should all be in by February 24th.

Volley-ball will take place and be played sometime between the indoor and outdoor activities. Some of the games will be played on the gymnasium floor, while some of them will be played on the outdoor court.

Some of the baseball games will be played before the varsity season, and just as soon after warm weather begins, as the student council sees that the field is put into order. The object of playing some games before the regular season, is to enable the coach to select new material.

The inter-class track meet will be held some time before the varsity has been selected. Everybody is eligible except those who have already received their letter in track.

Tennis will consist of singles and doubles. Each class will select its teams. No schedules have as yet been arranged for tennis, volley-ball or baseball.

Every class manager is urged to get into touch with the committee in charge of the various sports as soon as possible.

CEDAR CREST GLEE CLUB TO SING AT RIALTO

Of interest to the friends of Cedar Crest Glee Club of twenty-five voices has been engaged to sing at the Rialto Theatre during the last-half of the week.

Wilmer and Vincent are to be congratulated on securing an organization of this kind for the entertainment of their patrons. The club will sing at 7:30 and at 9:30 daily beginning tomorrow. The fine reputation for good singing maintained by the Cedar Crest Glee Clubs of past years is being kept up by the present organization.

Reports to the Association of American Colleges show that there has been an increase of 50% in the salaries of presidents and faculty members since 1913-1914.

Many of the exchanges reveal great interest in the Phi Delta Epsilon editorial contest discussed in a recent issue of the WEEKLY. We understand that some action in this matter has been taken at Muhlenberg. This is good stuff. The winning of this contest means a lot to the successful man and to the school he represents. Let's all get together our stray thoughts and take a shot at it ourselves. Nothing like trying.

seemed unable to ring in the counters. The Sophomores played a rather "hit or miss" game lacking team work and consistent goal tossing.

Nevertheless the spectators who crowded the gym were furnished with plenty of action and the inter-class series shows great promise, if the opening game can be taken as the criterion.

GLEE CLUB RETURNS FROM VERY SUCCESSFUL TRIP

Hearty Welcome in Spring City,
Pottstown, and Perkasie

UNDERSTUDIES MAKE FIRST APPEARANCE

After an interval of two years, the Glee Club appeared at Memorial Hall, Spring City on Thursday evening, before an audience that filled the auditorium. This was the beginning of a three day tour, which ended at Perkasie on Saturday evening.

Besides being crippled on account of leaving two of its members on the sick list, namely Thomas the soloist, and Mosser who takes the part of Archie in the skit, the Club seemed to have a jinx with them from the very start.

When it was time for the train to leave Allentown, and no sign of the manager, the Club members became alarmed as many hadn't enough of the filthy lucre to pay their way to Spring City. But the man with the long green arrived just in time to get the train on the jump. When the conductor counted heads, he had one ticket over, and after a complete search, it was found that little "Gladys, the beautiful but neglected wife" was missing. Well, what could a Club do without its beautiful soubrette? They did just what any other company would do, find an understudy. They found one in Preuss, little Gladys's room mate. But his afternoon labors were of no account, as the lost sheep returned to the flock in Spring City at 5:30.

With the exception of a few minor mistakes, the concert went off very

JUNIORS DEFEATED BY SOPH FIVE

Fast Game Ends with 29-17
Score

On Friday afternoon the rebuilt Sophomore basketball team upset the Junior combination 29-17. With the appearance of Demoling of football fame and Shover in the Sophomores' lineup, considerable strength was added to the team as this pair were responsible for nine field goals. Rheinbold played his usual consistent game and added three double-deckers and three fouls to the score.

Brodell kept the Juniors in the running by occasionally tossing in a two-pointer until he had six. Nagle came thru with another and Wagner added a foul.

The teams are beginning to work together better now and in a few weeks should show some form and speed. Interest in the games is increasing and larger squads are reporting for the teams while the attendance at the games is also becoming larger.

The Lineup:

Sophomores		Junior
Shover	F.	Miller
Rheinbold	F.	Brodell
Demoling	C.	Shuler
K. Johnson	G.	Wagner
Rogers	G.	Nagle
J. Wright	G.
	C.	Zartman
	C.	Alderfer

Field goals:—Shover 3, Rheinbold 3, Demoling 6, Rogers 1, Brodell 6, Nagle 1. Foul goals:—Rheinbold 3 out of 7, Brodell 2 out of 6, Wagner 1 out of 3. Referee: Ritter.

NEW FRESHMEN RULES ADOPTED ON CAMPUS

Strict Enforcement Intended by Sophs

At the regular weekly meeting of the Student Council, held on Tuesday, the fourteenth, a set of nine new Freshman regulations, whose adoption had been urged by the Class of 1924, were considered and unanimously approved. These rules had been submitted to the Student Council just after the mid-year examinations, but for some reason or other had not come up for approval.

The Sophomores are very enthusiastic about the new regulations, while the Frosh feel ill at ease concerning the future. They realize that the Sophomores are determined to carry out the rules to the letter and to create more life and loyalty among the new men. So great has this dread for the Sophomores become among the Freshmen that they have even appointed a special committee of versifiers to compose a number of songs to popular airs which they intend to use in times of defeat to inspire their shattered ranks and to rally their broken spirits.

Up to this time, the Freshmen were required to obey but few regulations. Among these might be mentioned the wearing of the regulation skull cap, green neckties, and black socks; the answering of the telephone in the Dorms; obedience to upper classmen; the carrying of matches; the use of the rear door to the Ad building; and the rule which forbids all Frosh to walk across the Campus.

Altho these rules were theoretically in force, violations were frequent and many a Frosh prided himself on his ability to 'get away with it.' The motto now seems to be: 'catch every

DELTA THETA HOST TO FACULTY

At Enjoyable Smoker Held Monday Evening

On Monday evening February 20, Delta Theta fraternity entertained their initiates and the faculty of the college at a smoker held in the home of the organization at 732 Turner Street.

Studies and care were forgotten while the active men of the fraternity entertained the faculty and the newly elected members of the fraternity at cards, music, and lunch. Goodfellowship abounded throughout the entire evening. Faculty members found occasion to kid each other over the pool and card tables, and nothing was left undone to make the affair enjoyable to one and all.

The Serenaders with Bud Ritter assisting with his violin furnished music and jazz for the occasion. Albert Erb '24 entertained with several violin selections and Dr. John Noble favored those present with the kind of vocal treats he used to furnish audiences when he was the tenor soloist on the Glee Club.

Among the Faculty members present were Dr. John A. W. Haas, Professors Bailey, Muehler, Fasig, Brown, Fritsch, Horn, Deck, Corbiere, Shankweiler, Ritter, and the Treasurer Mr. O. F. Bernheim and Field Secretary Afflerbach.

ORATORICAL CONTEST PRELIMINARIES ON MAR. 2

The preliminary contest for selecting a representative for the Intercollegiate Oratorical Contest will be held on Thursday, March 2, and the final contest for selecting this representative will be held either March 16 or 17. The Intercollegiate Oratorical Contest will be held at Gettysburg on April 8. Only Juniors and Seniors who have taken the regular course in Junior Oratory are eligible to compete in these contests.

INDOOR TRACK WORK BEGINS

Acting Coach Reinartz Heads Squad

Our track season started last Thursday when about fifteen men reported in the gym, under the direction of acting coach Reinartz. The men were given a light work-out. Among them were most of the members left from last year's squad, as well as a number of the new men.

The practice will be continued indoors until it is possible to use the track, or to do road work. The training is greatly handicapped by the lack of the proper apparatus, and the smallness of the gym. It is rather too soon to make any positive statement about the showing of the squad. Many of the men who say that they are coming out for track have not yet reported.

FOOTBALL KICK AFTER TOUCHDOWN DOOMED

New York, Feb. 16.—Abolishment of the present practice of kicking a goal after a touchdown was unanimously approved by collegiate football coaches, meeting here last night with members of the rules committee, which will consider changes in the present football code at its March meeting.

Major Charles Daly, of West Point, author of the proposal, suggested that instead of the goal after touchdown, the scoring team be allowed to put the ball on the 15-yard line. Then, with both teams lined up in scrimmage formation, the scoring team would have the option of scoring the additional point by either a run, a forward pass, or a place kick.

If a foul was committed by the defensive team, the one point score would be allowed. If the foul was committed by the offensive team, it would forfeit its chance to make the play and the ball would be taken to the center of the field for a new kick-off in the usual manner.

The coaches also urged that the present interpretation against "clippings from behind" be incorporated as a rule and that the rules committee should consider increasing the present penalty of 15 yards.

They also declared in favor of clarifying the present rule on "shift" plays.

MUHLENBERG SENIORS ELECTED OFFICERS

The Senior Class of Muhlenberg College elected these officers: President, Roy Hoffman; Vice President, Clifford Trexler; Secretary, Edgar Bleiler; Treasurer, Frank B. Hower; Monitor, Samuel Butz. These men will be permanent officers after graduation.

U. OF P. RELAY RACES TAKE PLACE IN APRIL

Teams from Italy, Canada, Cuba and England Are Expected

Pennsylvania's Twenty-eighth Annual Relay Carnival, which will be held on Franklin Field on Friday, April 28 and Saturday April 29, will bring together the most wonderful list of colleges and schools that have ever attended any athletic meet in the history of college sport. In 1914, Oxford University of England sent over a four mile relay team which defeated Pennsylvania by a scant six inches in one of the most remarkable races ever seen. Again in 1920, England sent over a combined team from Oxford and Cambridge which made a new world's record for the two mile relay race. Last year, the University of Paris was represented and though the French collegians did not win, their visit was most interesting. This year, a team from the Universities of Italy will be here. The Relay management is permitting the Italian Universities to bring over a combined college teams of this country. The Italian team should, therefore, be strong enough to furnish stiff competition for the American teams. The University of Havana has already sent word that they will be represented, while it is expected that two or three Canadian colleges will have men in the events. The Hamilton Collegiate Institute of Canada will bring down a team to compete for honors against the high schools of this country.

Though the invitations for the meeting have been out only a few days, already seventy colleges have sent word that they will be on hand. These include all the big colleges of

ALPHA TAU OMEGA INITIATION BANQUET

Excellent Speeches and Entertainment on Program

The Initiation Banquet of Alpha Tau Omega was held at the Hotel Allen last Saturday evening. The new initiates were the guests of the active chapter, with about thirty of the alumni in attendance. The affair was a distinct success. A delightful dinner was served, and the Fantasy Six furnished the music and entertainment. In this Mickley and Seitz starred in the rendition of "Which Hazel?"

Prof. Albert C. H. Fasig presided as Toastmaster, and first called upon Prof. Robert C. Horn who spoke for the faculty and scholastics. O. F. Bernheim spoke next, addressing himself mainly to the alumni, on the subject of "High Finance." Mr. George Drake, of Philadelphia, and a member of the High Council of the Fraternity brought the greetings of that body to the chapter. And lastly judge Claude T. Reno responded with an address on the history of the Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity and the work on the forthcoming volumes of that history, now under compilation.

Consistent Teamwork Brings Good Results

GAME CLOSE FROM START TO FINISH

Coach Geary's squad of tossers fell into line again last Wednesday evening when they went to Temple and brought home a victory by the score of 24-13. The game was spectacular only in the light of the consistent teamwork shown by both teams. It was a close game all the way through the first half but a shot from the foul line by Johnson and a field goal by Holstrom, put the Cardinal and Gray team in the lead and they kept it throughout the game. Lafferty the mainstay of the Temple aggregation was closely guarded by Taggart and as a result only got one field goal. The score at the end of the half stood 14-9 in favor of the Muhlenberg five.

In the second period the Cardinal and Gray tossers opened up and by a series of short passes caged four field goals to McCall's one. The forwards shared honors on taking the ball up the floor, with Bus Freed helping them out. Bus, the sturdy little guard, took advantage of his only two good chances for goals and made both good. Schantz went in for Holstrom when the latter was put out for personal fouls, and Nuebling substituted for Taggart for the same reason. This however did not stop the Cardinal and Gray streak for they continued to retain the ball and the few opportunities the Temple team did have of scoring, Nuebling and Freed spoiled. When the final whistle

FROSH FIVE SWAMPS JUNIORS

Final Score 35-13, After Hard
Fight

On the fourteenth at four o'clock, in the East Gymnasium of the Ad. building, the Frosh trimmed the Juniors roundly in an interesting game of basketball. Only the substitution of the Frosh second string for the first, kept the Junior from being completely snowed under.

This game, the second on the Interclass schedule, rates higher than the opening game. The Frosh showed good form in their passing and were well organized. Altho the Juniors made a desperate defense in the first half, their efforts were futile. Two of the Frosh, Orr and Ash, each succeeded in dropping three double deckers thru for a score, while Riggs found the basket twice and Skidmore once. In the second half Riggs repeated his score of the first half and was well assisted by Messinger who put six thru for a double score.

Brodell and Wagner were the chief scorers in the Junior aggregation. Brodell made one field goal and five fouls. 'Callie' placed a field goal and two fouls. The Juniors rallied at times, putting up a good defense, which reminded one of football days. In fact the indiscriminate passing of the ball from the Juniors to the Frosh resembled the cross-buck play. '23 is to be commended, however, for the clean game they played, committing but two fouls as compared with seventeen by the Frosh. The Juniors were out in goodly numbers to see the

The Modern College Man.

Two men of high academic standing have recently given their opinion of the modern college man. Dean Yeomens of Harvard thinks that the average college man of today is seriously preparing himself to take his place in the affairs of life, and that he has lost much of the foolishness of his forerunners of a generation ago.

On the other hand, Doctor Fitch, Dean of Yale, says "the average college man of today is nothing more or less than a complicated ass."

The actual college man, as we see him, lies somewhere between these two extremes. The average college man is to a great extent serious and has some definite plan for his future, but at the same time, he is very much human and not quite as serious-minded as Dean Yeomens would have us believe. Many an upper classman, after attending a midnight frolic with the freshmen, has returned to his books with a renewed inspiration for study. How many deep philosophical problems have been solved in this manner between the hours of twelve and two! No one can tell, but we believe that the relaxation furnished by this hour of diversion is responsible for the clear-thinking man produced by the colleges.

It would be the height of folly to deny that the college man is somewhat complicated. Who knows better than he how to play the woman game, and who is stung more often as a result of his knowledge? The college man will readily acknowledge his deep insight into the feminine character, but will deny vehemently that he has ever played a losing game for all his knowledge. And the affairs which take place in petty class politics would put to shame the trickery of a national party leader.

On the whole the college man is an opportunist, taking his fun as it comes, and his work in the same spirit. But in that respect he is no different than any other man of his years. He is neither a serious-minded plugger nor a complicated ass, but is made up of the characteristics of both.

—"Y and Z."

Books.

Hazlitt, the great essayist, once wrote: "I hate to read new books." His was a world of memory and speculation, a world apart from that of his contemporaries. In the words of a biographer, Hazlitt was "at odds with the world."

No college man can afford to be "at odds with the world," unless perhaps he hopes to overthrow the calculations of Einstein. If he aims to preach, or teach, or drug, or plead, or buy or sell, his victims or his customers in every case will be men and women. To his knowledge of ethics, or facts, or medicines, or laws, or commodities, he must add a knowledge of men.

Human emotions and ideas, as such, cannot be taken into a laboratory and dissected. They cannot be analyzed like materials into elements, they cannot be formulated like moral concepts into schemes and laws, nor can they be treated exhaustively in a textbook. Studying life from life is the only completely effective way.

The nearest approach to a study of man as man is a good novel. The better the novel, the more will the incidents make understandable the mysterious happenings of every day. The intuition of the novelist breathes into his semi-imaginary, wholly life-like characters the spirit of life. Thoughts, emotions, and the inmost motives and purposes are revealed with fundamental truth.

Where do the first inklings of new aims of the race appear? In novels, very often. Where is the changing pattern of contemporary life recorded? In our novels.

It is impossible for the English department of a small college to outline a course with "required readings" that will present the many-sided view of life that modern novels afford. The mission of the college must stop with making the up-to-date works of merit available. A word from the librarian will help the groping student to the books that he needs to fill out his experience.

The fiction shelves of the Muhlenberg library are in constant use. Could they not be made more useful? How many of our alumni buy a good book when it appears, and after reading it slip it into a shelf somewhere without ever referring to it again or passing it on to someone else? Why not send it in to the library, and make it available to a large number who will be able to enjoy and appreciate it?

Another question that seems unanswerable is this: why do not students buy more novels? Two or three "movies" equal one novel in cost, and the novel will entertain ten, twenty, or more people. The evident shortcomings of the screen in its present stage make the novel the king of interpretive artistic expression.

Whether the student acquires an aversion to books thru his contact with poor textbooks, or whether the unlimited possibilities of enjoyment in fiction of today and yesterday are unfamiliar to the student is not for us to decide. Whatever the reason, we come to the conclusion that the treasures that are in books are not fully appreciated, even by college men, who should, as a class, be most familiar with the best products of the human race.

THE FLAPPER

Kipling wrote that woman was merely "a rag, a bone and a hank of hair". Shorten the rag, expose as much of the bone as the law will allow, bob the hair, and the result is the modern flapper. To make the product and coloring matter, which can be purchased in any drug store.

The flapper's one boast is that she will do anything to be a "good sport". She smokes, she drinks, she swears, she dances, and she is perfectly willing to hold osculation parties with any chance acquaintances. In fact, she would be greatly disappointed if the male individual with whom she had spent the evening did not press her to his manly bosom and remove from her lips the rouge she dabbed on a few hours previously. Lest this criticism of the flapper seem too harsh, it must be admitted that there is one thing which she will not do. She will not chew tobacco, probably because she does not possess enough common sense to know that the juice must not be swallowed.

The dance hall is the flapper's real sphere of action. It is her arena, where she exercises all her ingenuity against her natural enemy, man. She glides into his amorous embrace, secures a half-nelson, and presses close to him so that he can feel her heart throbbing thru the two silken garments she wears. Then the bodies writhe and twist and sway to the slow strains of barbaric music palpitant with passionate desire. After a quarter hour of this her partner is a changed man. His face is flushed, the pupils of his eyes are dilated, his hands tremble, he is wracked by all the exquisite tortures of sensuous delight. He struggles for mastery with a desire to utter a savage yell and drag her out by the hair.

The flapper, on the other hand, is cool and collected, most collected. She smiles prettily, and from some almost inconceivable hiding-place she produces the powder puff which she carries as religiously as a man carries a handkerchief.

It is difficult to state just what can be the game of the flapper. She is virtuous until she flits too close to the brink, misses her step and goes over headfirst. Then the sons of Adam are calumniated and painted as demons from the abyss. She says that she wants to be treated rough. Perhaps it might be advisable for each man to equip himself with a blackjack and a pair of brass knuckles and go prepared to administer the treatment she craves.

No one has ever been so base and ill-bred as to accuse the flapper of having brains. She simply doesn't have them, and what's more she doesn't want any. There is a whole world for her to look at but her innocent gaze never extends beyond meals at swell restaurants, dances, taxicabs, and admiration. Cajole her, flatter her, adore her, but never try to concentrate her puny intellect upon a serious question. If you do, she will smile provocatively over her little white shoulder and leave you flat.

NEW FRESHMAN RULES ADOPTED ON CAMPUS

slacker.' The new rules will be much easier to enforce than the old; consequently violations will be few in number and less frequent.

Altho this is true, it will probably take a week or more before the Freshmen become reconciled to their new lot. Certain it is, that they will evade the rules whenever possible; and just as certain, that the Sophs are determined to catch them when they least expect it.

The regulations, as passed by the Student Council, are as follows:

1. The Freshman Class President shall keep postage stamps and sell them to any students who call for them.

2. The two front walks,—the one past Dr. Haas' home and the one running diagonally across the campus shall be forbidden to Freshmen at all times.

3. At the command "Button" from a Sophomore, Junior, or Senior, a Freshman shall immediately place his right hand on the button of his cap. This applies on the campus.

4. Freshmen shall keep their hands out of their pockets.

5. Freshmen shall use the street in traveling from the campus to the car.

6. Freshmen shall be compelled to have green button or tassel on their caps. Those who do not shall procure a piece of green felt from the Sophomore class committee.

7. That any Frosh shall show socks or hand over matches on command.

8. That those caught wearing other than the regulation socks be obliged to wear the trousers above the garters for a period of one day while on the campus.

9. That those caught without matches be required to wear the cover of a match-box on their coat lapel.

NOTE: Violations of above regulations will incur a fine of One Dollar for each offence, said fine to be paid to Student Council.

To Prof. Simpson

Sincere regrets are tendered to Prof. Stephen G. Simpson on the death of his daughter Cynthia.

GLEE CLUB RETURNS FROM SUCCESSFUL TRIP

well, and was well appreciated by the audience. A great deal of credit must be given Mr. Mattson who played the piano in the Mandolin Club, because of the absence of Thomas. He did this besides playing a part in the skit, and taking part in the vaudeville act. It required some lightning changes to accomplish this. Hollenbach who is Mosser's understudy did exceptionally well as Archie, and deserves a like amount of credit.

Friday morning the Club left for Pottstown. The jinx was still on the job. Six men got the train on the fly, while two others, namely, the dear little Gladys again, and his sidekick Preuss, were nowhere to be seen. It was suggested that the Club buy an alarm clock for them, and also hire a valet, so that they will be able to travel with the rest of the Club, and not always trail on behind like the proverbial old cow's tail. But they managed to get to Pottstown before the concert started, and it went off without a hitch.

"Muhlenberg Glee Club better than ever". That is what the "Pottstown News" said about the concert, and if one can judge by the amount of applause that was given, and the continuous laughter, the paper was not far out of the way. An audience of over a thousand saw the boys perform their best and went away perfectly satisfied with the entertainment.

The Jazzland Trio which took the place of the Mandolin Club in this concert, made as big a hit as ever. Mickley, with his ear muffs, straw hat, and antics kept the audience laughing from start to finish.

Mr. Rees rendered the vocal solo, during the absence of Mr. Thomas with pleasing affect. He sang "Where My Caravan has rested" and "Macushla" as an encore. He also sang the solo in the Pirate song. The quartette lacked nothing to make their singing appreciated. They rendered their selections in perfect harmony, and were called back several times responding with several good numbers. Among these are, "I Ain't Nobody's Darling" and "Tuck Me To Sleep".

The Club left Pottstown at 12:45 Saturday noon bound for Perkassie. A stopover was necessary and this was made at Norristown. The main reason for the layover was connections with the limited, but the boys didn't complain. Instead they went to the restaurants, had lunch and rambled around the town. At 3:30 the club left Norristown and arrived in Perkassie at about 5 o'clock. They were met by J. B. Derr and assigned to various homes. At 8 o'clock the concert began. It was one of the snappiest on the tour. The people were very appreciative, enjoyed every moment, applauded finely and said that it was the best concert that Muhlenberg ever produced. After the concert the majority of the boys went to the station to wait. Some were fortunate in making acquaintances, while others thought that a minute was as long as an hour. Finally the car came, the boys piled in and settled down but were soon aroused by a jazz orchestra which played until the car arrived in Allentown. The boys worked hard, every one of them, but they were happy. First because of the successful concerts and secondly that Muhlenberg was being strengthened by their appearance as a live organization.

On Thursday the Club will go to Reading; Friday night in Norristown, and Saturday night will appear at the Scottish Rites Hall, Philadelphia. The Club remains at home during the Lenten season.

A BALLAD

By J. F. Wright

There was a college in the land
Which last year rose to fame
And marked upon the drifting sand
A name which rose to fame.

This college came up from the rear
Like voices in the night,
And seemed to place a dreadful fear
Because of her great might.

A football team I speak of now,
As all of you must know
That this young team did show you how
To bury rivals low.

And now its fame is spreading far
And if you have not heard
About this eastern shining star,
Our dear old Muhlenberg.

This school is now known east and west,
From one sea to the other.
And next year we expect to strew
This fame even farther.

U. of P. RELAY RACES TAKE PLACE IN APRIL

the East with a sprinkling from the West and a larger number from the South than usual. When all the college entries are in, it is expected that even a larger number will send teams than did last year when 112 colleges were represented. The school invitations are just going out but judging by the scores of inquiries already received, there will be close to 400 school teams at the Carnival. The real problem of the management is to arrange the events so that they may be run off in the two days given for the meeting.

The championship events that are listed for the Carnival are in part as follows:

- (1) One-quarter mile college relay
championship of America.
- (2) One half mile college relay
championship of America.
- (3) One mile college relay championship of America.
- (4) Two mile college relay championship of America.
- (5) Four mile college relay championship of America.
- (6) One mile Freshman college relay championship of America.
- (7) One mile Class B college relay
championship of America.
- (8) Sprint medley college relay
championship of America.
- (9) Distance medley college relay
championship of America.

There will be the usual large number of relay races for colleges, preparatory schools, high schools, grammar and parochial schools, the latter two being limited to Philadelphia Schools. The twenty-five championships listed above would make a wonderful meet of themselves, but the groups relay races are in many cases local or divisional championships and are keenly contested for by the teams entered.

In addition to the above, the following special events open to all college athletes regularly enrolled are given:
100 yards dash, 120 yards high hurdles, 440 yards low hurdles, high jump, broad jump, pole vault, shot put, hammer throw, javelin, discus, hop step and jump and two mile international. These events are so high class that the Relay Management ask that colleges enter only their best men. Each year, new records are made in these events or the existing records closely approached. Wonderful performances are expected in all of these events as the best athletes of the country will be entered. The two mile International will probably see representatives from one or more
European countries in the event.

Muhlenberg has taken place in this carnival for a number of years and has always stood high. Last year
"Corp" Reinartz won the fifth place in the Pentathlon. It is hoped that this year will see more wonderful achievements for Muhlenberg.

CAPT. REINARTZ NAMED STUDENT COACH IN TRACK ATHLETICS

Contender for Pentathlon Championship Hopes for Big Showing by Muhlenberg Squad

With only two more basketball games to be played, Haverford at Haverford on March 3, and Lafayette at Allentown March 8, athletic interest is turning from basketball to track and baseball. As far as track is concerned Muhlenberg has always been in the limelight. Last year Muhlenberg won every one of its track meets, and in addition, had the honor of having Corp. Reinartz, its track star, score fifth at the Pentathlon at Penn. The matter of selecting a track coach this season was not an easy one, since Dr. Kleckner, who was our successful coach last year, is unable to take charge.

The Allentown Leader, concerning last year's track season, and coach declares that: "The very successful track coach last year was Dr. Martin Kleckner, who is a record holder both at Muhlenberg and at Penn. By dint of hard work Dr. Kleckner last spring developed the most successful of all Muhlenberg track teams, serving without compensation as a graduate coach, except that he got oceans of thanks and a silver loving cup. He was asked to take charge again this year but his practise is growing to such an extent that he was compelled to refuse. Then the man turned to was John Paul Jones, the world's champion runner of his day, at Corn-

MUHLENBERG DEFEATS DELAWARE QUINTET

In Up-Hill Game We Score a 22 to 19 Win

Coach Geary's squad of basketballers came home with the bacon on the trip to Delaware. Although Muhlenberg was trailing on the short end of the 17 to 13 score at the end of the first half, they rallied in the final period and beat out the Delaware State boys by the score of 22 to 19. It was a close game all the way through the first half, when Cole, the star forward of Delaware quintet, tossed in two pretty field goals from near the fifteen foot line. Muhlenberg played an all around good game, but seemed rather weak on the foul line.

The big feature of the game was the shutting out of Delaware from the field goal column in the final half of the game. The work of Taggart, who was put out of the game for personal fouls, was brilliant inasmuch as his man got but one goal from the field. Freed played his usual stellar game and succeeded in caging two pretty field goals. Holstrom was the high scorer for the Muhlenberg team making three two pointers. Kintzing was off his usual form on

PROF. HORN LECTURES ON THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE

Prof. Horn addressed the members and friends of the Brotherhood of St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Bethlehem, on last Tuesday night on the subject "The History of Our Language." Rev. Leibensperger, the pastor, is very much interested in the college, and Prof. Horn's lecture has caused the men of this church to take a more active interest in Muhlenberg affairs.

WEEKLY STAFF PLANS "WIT NUMBER" FOR MAY

Staff Proposes New Features for Further Improving Future Issues

The WEEKLY staff held its first meeting of the year at the Phi Kappa Tau house last evening. Praise and adverse criticism flowed freely out of the same gargyle. The big feature of the meeting cropped out when the staff unanimously decided to publish a "wit issue" as the crowning event of the WEEKLY'S most successful staff. The issue is to appear on May 2nd.

Two other good suggestions will appear in later issues. A feature article on our next football season, including the schedules of all teams that will meet our stellar aggregation next season, will appear in the Easter number. A track history of Muhlenberg will appear in subsequent issues. Elwood Helfrich, '24, is arranging the football article, and Ray Waller, '24, is taking care of the track story.

A sumptuous luncheon concluded the talk fest.

Prof. Fritsch At Quakertown

Over two hundred and fifty people heard Prof. Fritsch give the seventh of a series of ten lectures on 'The Life of Christ' in the Lutheran church at Quakertown on Thursday evening, February 24th.

BLIND STUDENT GETS "A" IN EVERY COURSE

Frank A. Schrepfer, of Chicago, a student of landscape architecture, though blind in both eyes and minus one arm, left on the battlefield of France, has attained the remarkable record of receiving the grade of "A" in every one of his courses in his work this year.

Schrepfer lost his arm in the Argonne offensive when a shell from a boche gun hit the earth within a foot of him and tore off his arm. Some sixty pieces of shrapnel lodged in his body, his jaw was broken, his teeth knocked down his throat and his sight destroyed.

"THE ATTENTIVE EAR" THEME OF CHAPEL TALK

Dr. W. F. Curtis Says We Should Talk Less and Listen More

Dr. William F. Curtis, President of Cedar Crest College, addressed the students in chapel this morning. He chose as his subject, "The Attentive Ear." Dr. Curtis declared that too few people take the part of the listener in their religious life. In prayer they do all the talking when in reality they should act as listeners. In meeting our friends we would not think of doing all the talking, yet in prayer we do just that very thing. Continuing he said:

"We usually forget the function of the ear in our religious experience. We recognize the use of the tongue but forget the value of the ear. In this age especially the tendency is toward action and the attentive ear has been neglected in society, in business and even in the church. He who makes the most noise is looked upon as being strong while the one who listens is not recognized a positive force in shaping life. And yet when history shows a man of real value to society an analysis of his training will reveal that fact that he took a course in the university of silence, where he disciplined his ear to listen to the call of life and to the call of God."

SWARTHMORE NO MATCH FOR OUR BASKETEERS

Go Down for 29 to 12 Defeat On "Y" Floor

Playing in great form our basketball team had little trouble in winning over the Swarthmore College quintet Friday evening on the Y. M. C. A. floor, the Cardinal and Grey five winning by a 29 to 12 score before a big crowd.

The splendid team work and passing game of our team was the outstanding feature. Close followers of the Muhlenberg team agreed that the local team played better in this game than in any home game they had played in this season.

At the outset of the game our team scored first, rolling up five points before Swarthmore got started. Muhlenberg's lead kept growing as the game progressed and at the end of the first half Coach Geary's boys were leading by a 13 to 7 score.

The second half was repetition of the first. Muhlenberg outclassed the visitors on the floor, and at foul shooting the Swarthmore team was again second to our team.

Holstrom, the Cardinal and Grey football star, was the outstanding feature on the Muhlenberg team, getting eight goals from the field. One of these, made in the second half of the game, was as pretty as any ever made on the "Y" floor. Receiving a pass from Taggart less than a dozen steps from the Swarthmore basket, Holstrom held it for an instant measuring, then let it go up three quarters the length of the floor. The ball could not have dropped through the ring nicer had it been slipped in from directly over the basket. Even the Swarthmore players applauded the shot.

"Buss" Freed, the former Allentown High football and basketball star also played a great game for the Muhlen-

PHILADELPHIA ALUMNI ACT AS HOSTS TO GLEE CLUB MEMBERS

PROF. BAILEY HAS A BUSY LECTURE WEEK

The past week has been one of the busiest weeks for Prof. Bailey in quite some time, for besides all the class work at college, Cedar Crest, and evening classes in Allentown, he has lectured at the Y. W. C. A. on two different occasions, before Jordan Lodge, No. 673, F. and A. M. and to the Boy Scouts of Christ Lutheran Church.

On Monday evening he spoke to Troop No. 8, Boy Scouts of America, Bruce MacIntosh '19, Scoutmaster, at Christ Lutheran church on "Outdoor Tramping." "The Penetration of Dismal Swamp" was the subject of the address before Jordan Lodge on Tuesday evening. On Wednesday evening at the Y. W. C. A. he talked on "Native Wild Flowers, and on Thursday evening at the same place he had as his subject 'Native Birds'.

GLEE CLUB CLOSING PRE-LENTEN SEASON

"Nothing To Do 'Til After Easter"! Declare Happy Members

"Nothing to do until after Easter!" That is what certain members of the Glee Club said after their return from their final pre-Lenten trip to Reading, Norristown, and Philadelphia. Of course what they really meant, was that their usual week end tours were over for six weeks, and not that their school work would cease, for now comes the busy time for the club members, when they will have to make up what they previously lost. They have had their play and now work is paramount. And they are all happy too, for appearing before the footlights is not as much fun as some may think, especially when one is unprepared for the following week's work.

This trip is considered one of the biggest of the season, as in all three places Muhlenberg is well known, and the people turn out in large numbers to hear its popular singing organization. In each town the club played before exceptionally large audiences.

Thursday evening the club sang at the Women's Club, Reading. Former concerts were held at the Rajah Theatre, but as this building burned down during the past year, and is not as yet rebuilt, it was necessary to get other accommodations. The Women's Club only seats about five hundred, but it was filled to its capacity. Reading always looks forward to the Muhlenberg concert, and this year it was said here, as in other places where the club appeared, that this year's club is better than ever.

After the concert the chairs were pushed aside, and a real jazz orchestra appeared upon the scene. Then the boys enjoyed a treat that is not accorded them after every concert, and for an hour and a half, they stepped around the floor with the fair Glee Club fans to the tune of "Which

PROF. BROWN ADDRESSES LADIES AUXILIARY

This afternoon, Prof. John D. M. Brown addressed the Women's Auxiliary of Muhlenberg College at St. John's Church. Prof. Brown chose as his subject, "Ten Great Pictures."

Dr. Haas in Stirring Address Outlines Plans for Muhlenberg Building Program in 1924

A large group of Philadelphia alumni were hosts to the college Glee Club at States Restaurant, 12th and Chestnut Streets, Philadelphia, on Saturday evening. After the dinner had been cleared away, and cigars lighted, Dr. John A. W. Haas, was introduced by Rev. A. C. Schenck, the toastmaster, as "the chief exponent of Greater Muhlenberg." Dr. Haas, with his characteristic forcefulness and vision outlined the building plan for 1924 as including a library, science building, and gymnasium, and showed the necessity for the united support of the "sons of Muhlenberg." He further gave the alumni an understanding of what Muhlenberg is trying to do by telling of the increase of the student body in both the regular and extension departments. He spoke of the wonderful collection of birds which the college recently acquired; the changes in the departments of Religion and German, and of the advance plans for a Model school for Boys. Dr. Haas showed the alumni that Muhlenberg has the

FROSH CAGE MEN HAD SATISFACTORY WEEK

Score Two Wins; Lose Third Game by Close Margin

The Frosh enjoyed a rather successful week of basketball, losing a closely contested game to Norristown High School 23-20, winning from Kutztown Normal School, 21-14, and trouncing the Sophs, 29 to 10.

The game at Norristown was played on Wednesday evening. The half ended with the score standing at 9-9. In the second half the score was tie for a long time. Norristown High defeated Reading High and other big high schools by decisive scores. They have not lost a game on their own floor this year.

STUDENTS HEAR EDITOR IN SCHOLARLY ADDRESS

A number of students, on Tuesday evening, heard Mr. Carl Van Doren, Literary Editor of "The Nation" speak in the chapel of Christ Lutheran church, 13th and Hamilton streets. Mr. Van Doren spoke on "The Modern American Novel." The noted editor was secured through the efforts of the Contemporary Club of Allentown. The Contemporary Club includes among its members President Dr. John A. W. Haas, Dean Dr. George T. Ettinger, Prof. John D. M. Brown, and Prof. Robert C. Horn.

Editorial Comment

President Hibben of Princeton University, has received hundreds of letters from all over the country applauding his action in addressing communications to the parents of Princeton undergraduates urging them to refrain from giving their sons automobiles while they are still at college. Dr. Hibben's letter has stirred up wide interest not only among former and present college men but from men and women in all walks of life. The automobile in itself has its proper place in the business and professional world today and even among college men may often prove quite a convenience. But that was not the target Dr. Hibben aimed at. It was the undeniable fact that the automobile offered in itself too many temptations not merely for ease and comfort but for the waste of many hours that might and should be employed to far greater advantage, to say nothing about the many hours spent in a manner that reflects no credit to the owner of the automobile or the institution he may attend. Walking is the best exercise after all, and joy rides never have been a profitable addendum to college activities. If your father is kind and considerate enough to provide you with the convenience of an automobile, appreciate the thing as a convenience only and employ it only as an inspiration to better and greater effort in the many other advantages dad wants you to enjoy.

We said in these columns several weeks ago that there are too many men in college today who have in the main but one objective and that is to get a diploma, and who fail in that bigger thing—of getting every possible benefit out of their educational advantages. These seem to think that it is the diploma alone that counts and not the amount of knowledge and mental training acquired. As noted in the announcement by the Wharton School faculty, the present day number of students over against the number when the honor system was adopted played an important part in the system being subject to violation. Years ago college curriculums were more rigid. There were far fewer elective courses, many of which, it must be admitted, permit a student to secure a diploma without at least painful effort.

"You get out of college life just what you put into it. You may be able to get that diploma without much effort, but it is the honest student, applying himself studiously, taking every advantage offered, that gets the most out of college life. The student who cheats does so at his own expense and cannot possibly expect to be glorified by his fellows. No one cares to be a policeman in the exam. room and see to it that everybody else aside from himself is honest. From many "pleasant" personal experiences we are of the opinion that we all have our hands full during exams. without being called upon to watch our neighbor with the ulterior motive of making a cheater out of him, and then tell on him. By the very law of averages the cheater will eventually reap what he sows. We still believe that if any policing is to be done in the exam. room it ought to be done by that staid and dignified "outsider"—the professor.

—F. W. W. '23.

Last week we celebrated another birthday anniversary of George Washington, the founder of our country. Once again in written and spoken word were Washington's glorious achievements recounted. His unselfish labors in behalf of the cause of liberty were once more referred to. His military work and his statesmanship were again the favorite themes of writers and orators. Washington stood for whatever is lofty, fair, and patriotic in public conduct. He was a patriot; his integrity was pure and his justice the most flexible. As a soldier, statesman, and patriot he shines resplendent. He was a man of war, not for war's sake, but in the interest of human rights. There was no more peace-loving citizen in the land than George Washington. He gave to the world an impetus and impressed upon it a character that will live forever.

There are so many out-standing virtues exhibited by Washington that any one of them might serve as a splendid theme, but there was another side to the character of Washington, that seldom has been referred to, and that was his devotion to the cause of education. Of all the public men of the early days of the republic none was more devoted to the cause of education than Washington. He made this very evident in many of his writings and public addresses. In substantiation of our statement we quote a few extracts.

In an address to Congress on January 8, 1790, Washington said, "Knowledge is in every country the surest basis of public happiness." In his Farewell Address, he said, "Promote, then, as an object of primary importance, institutions for the general diffusion of knowledge. In proportion as the structure of a government gives force to public opinion, it is essential that public opinion should be enlightened.

In a letter written at Mount Vernon, dated April 25, 1788, he said:

"In a country like this, where equal liberty is enjoyed, where every man may reap his own harvest, and where there is so ample a field for every mercantile and mechanical exertion, if there cannot be money found to answer the common purposes of education, it is evident, that there is something amiss in the ruling political power, which requires a steady regulating and energetic hand to correct and control it."

"It (education) contributes to the security of a free constitution in various ways: By convincing those who are intrusted with the public administration that every valuable end of government is best answered by the enlightened confidence of the people, and by teaching the people themselves to know and value their own rights; to discern and provide against invasions of them; to distinguish between oppression and the necessary exercise of lawful authority, between burdens proceeding from a disregard to their conveniences and those resulting from the inevitable exigencies of society; to discriminate the spirit of liberty from that of licentiousness, cherishing the first, avoiding the last; and uniting a speedy but temperate vigilance against encroachments with an inviolable respect to law."

Relative to the establishment of a college in the city of Washington, he is to have said:—"A plan for the establishment of a university in the Federal city has been the subject of conversation; but in what manner it is proposed to commence this important institution, on how extensive a scale, the means by which it is to be supported, or what progress is made in it, are matters altogether unknown to me. I have greatly wished to see a plan adopted by which the arts, sciences and belles-lettres could be taught in their fullest extent; and by assembling the youth from the different parts of the rising Republic, contributing from their intercourse and interchange of information to the removal of prejudices, which might perhaps sometimes arise from local circumstances. The Federal city, from its centrality and the advantages which in other respects it must have over other places in the United States, ought to be preferred as a proper site for such a university."

American history contains many heroic characters whose lives will ever serve as inspirations for ambitious American youth, but among these characters Washington surely stands out resplendent. None better understood the philosophy of government; none had cleaner ideas of the importance of education, intelligent citizenship and morality as powerful factors in the nation's growth.

We read with interest an announcement by the authorities of the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania whereby the faculty upon recommendation of its committee on examinations and the honor system, has voted to temporarily suspend the honor system, at the same time authorizing the dean to provide for the reintroduction of the system in such ways as may seem advisable.

The action is taken, it was announced, because the faculty was obliged to recognize that the conditions which prevailed when the honor system was adopted, and for years thereafter, have changed.

"The honor code can be effective only when those subject to the code will report violations. For two years students have not reported violations, and this is undoubtedly due to the fact that the student body has become so numerous that the members of the several classes have but slight acquaintance with each other. . . . The enforcement under present conditions is not impossible, but as the honor system is now organized it is not working as to justify the faculty in continuing the system without modification. In every large group of men whether in college or elsewhere, there is quite certain to be a limited number who will not observe the community code unless forced to do so by public sentiment or by the enforcement of the community code."

UNIVERSITY LENDS MONEY TO STUDENTS

College Never Lost Cent Through Failure of Borrowers to Pay

For more than a quarter of a century, the University of Michigan has been lending money to needy students, and has never lost a cent through wilful failure of the borrower to repay.

Several funds are available under the plan of the class of 1894, which established a fund from which the income was "to be used as a loan fund for the benefit of needy and worthy undergraduates in the literary department." Afterwards, surpluses from various class treasuries were diverted to the fund, and although in general, the privilege was limited to students of the literary college, a good portion of the money has been made available to students in other branches of the university.

The money is disbursed by the treasurer of the university, and the collective fund approximates $2,000. All loans are subject to approval by the dean of the college in which the student is enrolled, and by the president of the university.

The recommendation of the deans, it is explained, are based principally upon scholarship, and the degree of need. As a general rule, it is stated, students obtaining loans are earning the greater part of their expenses by outside work.

The maximum loan which a student may make at one time is $100, and in general, payment is expected to be made within a year after graduation, with interest at five per cent. In cases where such action is deemed advisable, however, the interest is waived.

FACULTY'S BUSINESS TO PROTECT STUDENTS

Under the caption, "Faculty's Business to Safeguard Its Students," an editorial in the Allentown Morning Call, Sunday, says as follows:

"Action by the Lafayette College faculty against the conduct of dances and other social events in the life of the college which have brought discredit upon the institution and that have been harmful to the students, will certainly be discussed from many angles, but certain it is that sound, sensible opinion will accord the faculty highest praise for its act.

"Talk of students leaving the college because the faculty has forbidden dances that have become orgies will not alarm any one nor be accepted with anything but amusement. Men of a type who would quit school because a faculty is insisting upon surrounding them with clean influences are the men who are sent to school and have little or no voice in the selection of the institution in which they are to study. Back home where the highest and fondest hopes are entertained for the boy or girl at school, there will be approval rather than condemnation that watch is being kept upon the influences surrounding the student in the institution.

"In all likelihood the favorite stalking horse proverb will be trotted out of the stable now and the college faculty will be held up to public anger thru that proverb which suggests that "it is an ill bird that befouls its own nest." It is the favorite proverb used by influence for evil against the reformer who attacks an evil from within and being resisted by subtle intrigue, while carrying on the attack quietly, determines to carry the fight into the open.

"The Lafayette faculty did the decent thing by the students and their liberties, permitting the functions under reasonable restrictions. When the agreement was violated the faculty did the proper thing—ordered elimination of the functions.

"Far from losing students, a college whose faculty has the courage and the determination to carry out its ideas for the best of the students will attract students. That is the kind of place to which parents wish their boys and girls to go; certainly not to places where events of an immoral and dangerous nature can be conducted either because those who should prevent are too blind to see or too cowardly to prevent."

DR. KINLEY REVIEWS COLLEGE ATHLETICS

Declares Gambling and Possible Dishonesty Among Gravest Dangers

"The greatest danger intercollegiate athletics, especially football, faces today, is the gambling and possible dishonesty caused by the large amounts of money handled and the demoralization this brings about. So far as intercollegiate athletics are a distraction from studies, they are only part of the trouble," declared Dr. David Kinley, President of the University of Illinois, the other day.

Continuing, Dr. Kinley said: "I doubt whether, taken all together, the distractions of modern college life are any larger in volume than those twenty years ago, although they are different in character and more in evidence. The remedy lies not in finding fault with the situation, or in trying simply by direct action to repress athletics. It lies, rather, in the direction of utilizing physical training as part of the education of the students and so ordering it as to increase the interest in recreational and intramural athletics, while at the same time making educational requirements more rigid.

"Whatever there is of low standards and lack of intellectual ambition among university students is due, largely, in my opinion, to the failure of the faculty, on the one hand, to enthrone students with the intellectual life, and on the other hand to appreciate and utilize more largely in their educational methods the college activities which most interest students.

"It is true that something must be done in the interest of athletics, as well as for other reasons, to suppress gambling, the expenditure of undue amounts of money and time by students on intercollegiate games, and the use of students and their games by self-seeking outsiders in spectacular and other demoralizing ways. But we can only remedy this, not by repression, but by substituting other motives.

"It is the unusual that is news. This in my opinion, is why so much importance was attached to the breaking of amateur rules by members of the football squad at the University of Illinois. Of nineteen football men belonging to the regular squad and entitled to wear the T, only four broke the rule. The University might have dropped four students for some kind of moral delinquency and the country would have heard nothing of it.

"The fairness of the present amateur rules has no bearing on the university's action. Whether the rules are wise or not, having been duly adopted and made known to the players, they must be obeyed."

the foul line, and was replaced by Campbell who held the opponents' center in the latter half of the game.

Delaware was on the long end of the score until the last few minutes of play, when Holstrom shot in a pretty field goal from near the center of the floor. Kintzing was again substituted for Campbell, and the latter shifted to guard in Taggart's place.

The lineup:

Muhlenberg		Delaware
Holstrom	F.	Cole
Johnson	F.	Williams
Kintzing	C.	Lovell
Taggart	G.	Wills
Freed	G.	Jackson

Score Muhlenberg: Field goals; Holstrom 3, Freed 2, Kintzing 1; foul goals, Freed 5, Fintzing 5.

Score Delaware: Field goals, Cole 2, Williams 1; Foul goals, Lovell 13.

Substitutions: Campbell for Kintzing; Schantz for Taggart; Kintzing for Campbell. Kieth for Cole; Robinson for Kieth.

GLEE CLUB CLOSES PRE-LENTEN SEASON

Hazel" and other popular jazz numbers.

The Norristown concert the next evening was as big and successful as ever. There is one disadvantage in this place namely, that the singers are too near the audience, but there is an advantage too, for the boys are inspired to do their best when greeted with the smiles of the fair sex who usually occupy the first few rows at every concert. Maybe a dress suit has certain charms, but whatever it is, they are to be found right up in front. The large Sunday School room was completely filled, and the club responded with encores to each number, which speaks for itself.

The big concert of the trip was at Philadelphia Saturday evening. This year the concert was held at the usual place, Scottish Rite Hall on N. Broad Street. Last year the Young People's Auxiliary of The Lutheran Orphan's Home, under whose auspices the concert has always been given, was unable to secure this hall, and the concert was given at Mercantile Hall, which is considerably smaller.

At five o'clock the boys enjoyed a banquet which was given them by the Philadelphia Alumnae at State's Restaurant. After the dinner several speeches were made including one by Dr. Haas, and then the boys went directly to the hall, where they dressed for the concert.

Perhaps there never was a concert that went off with such smoothness and perfectness as did this concert. Whether it was due to the fact that Prof. Marks was present or whether it was because of the presence of so many alumnae, we can't say, but every member worked exceedingly hard and put the concert across with all the vim that was stored up within him. And the large audience appreciated their efforts too, for the house fairly rang with their applause, and encore after encore was given.

After the concert, some of the boys caught the limited for Allentown, while others wandered out to the Seminary for the night, and returned Sunday. In each town the club was well received and entertained in various homes.

Oh! We almost forgot. We said the Philadelphia concert was the last one before Easter, but that was a prevarication or rather a little unthoughtfulness on our part. Last night the club went to Catasauqua to make their annual appearance at the high school.

DR. I. M. WRIGHT SPENDS BUSY LECTURE WEEK

Dr. I. M. Wright has just passed through a harrowing week of lecture work. On Saturday afternoon he delivered an interesting address before the members of St. John's Reformed Sunday School, on the "Habits of Jesus." At Wilkes-Barre he delivered two addresses before the city institute, one on "Oral and Silent Reading" and the other on "Measures in Education." On Tuesday morning at Cedar Crest he spoke on the "Habits of Jesus."

LAFAYETTE STUDENTS WALK OUT OF CHAPEL

The entire student body of Lafayette College to a man, walked from Colton Memorial chapel one day last week after Dean Albert K. Heckel had announced that Junior Week and its fraternity house parties had been abolished by a unanimous vote of the faculty. "In the present abnormal state of society with its spirit of revolt and disregard of social standards and conventions, the faculty has found it difficult to secure the proper co-operation of the students, the chaperones and their guests in the maintenance of decorum."

The dean stated that the students had violated their agreement made with the faculty and the faculty voted unanimously to discontinue such festivities further because of the manner in which they were conducted. The dean further charged that some of the students brought girls of doubtful reputation to those affairs.

At a meeting of students held later in the day, it was voted unanimously to ask for student self-government. The student body thus hopes to regain privilege for Junior week festivities.

BUSINESS MEN HONOR PRESIDENT DR. HAAS

Show Appreciation of Lectures in Presentation of Purse

At the close of the tenth and final lecture by Rev. Dr. J. A. W. Haas at the series of Tuesday luncheon sessions at the Y. M. C. A. recently Judge Frank M. Trexler presented him with a check for $305, a tribute from the men who have enjoyed and profited by the splendid lectures. Judge Trexler said that it represented the spirit of friendship that prevailed among those who had been the eager auditors for the last ten weeks. It was a hopeful sign, Judge Trexler said when a company of men such as was represented there could be assembled regularly for weeks and have evidenced among them such an intense interest in the vital topics of life that have marked Dr. Haas' discourses.

Dr. Haas expressed feelingly his appreciation of the gift only to have further tokens of esteem showered upon him by various of the assemblage who arose at the invitation of Secretary H. C. Lilly. Dr. Lilly said the whole thing had been in the nature of an experiment and prophesied more courses of a similar nature in the future.

The subject of the final lecture was the universality of Christianity and democracy, Dr. Haas said in part:

"Universality is one of the great claims of Christianity. It stands among the world religions as the one faith which in every direction is able to satisfy the need of the human soul and to fulfill the deepest longing of the human heart after communion with God.

"It is this universality which fits it as an inspiration to the great human movement of democracy. Because Christianity is as wide as humanity, therefore it can help democracy which is also as wide as humanity. Democracy is not simply a political theory, and does not simply exist in one land. It is one of the universal hopes of men which they are laboring to realize more and more. In this realization Christianity is the greatest aid and support.

Christianity is also universal because it knows no difference between sex and age. In Christ Jesus there is neither male nor female. The religion of Christ not only has a place for the adult, but it says specifically, "Suffer the little children to come unto me for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven." The promises of Christianity and its gifts have no limitations and pertain equally to man and woman, to the grownup person and to the child. It is this fundamental equality of Christianity which must be considered in democracy. Our age has begun to be more democratic because it has discovered the child to which Christianity called attention long ago.

STUDENT BODY LOOKS FOR RECORD CONTRIBUTION

How many students can give five or ten cents to the fund for Modernola records? Put this question before the entire student body and the answer will be, "Everybody."

Put up a box where every student has the opportunity to "give his bit" and the answer will not be unanimous. The students were very fortunate in having a Modernola donated to them for their use. The question of furnishing records now confronts us. Student Council authorized a committee to put up a box wherein students could drop some loose change from time to time. With a student body of 250 and each man contributing ten cents, $25.00 could be raised to buy records. To date only $1.75 has been contributed. This does now show 100% cooperation in the student body. Come on, MEN, let each and every one do his bit and the recreation room will be able to offer some recreation. Remember, you only get out of a thing what you put into it.

PRIZES OFFERED FOR MOST ORIGINAL SONG

Weekly Wants Short Song That College Men Can Sing

During the period of the war we were wise enough to introduce mass singing as a means of creating a spirit of solid community and national patriotic feeling. The thing worked splendidly. Mass singing came to be one of the institutions of war time, and every one worked harder and with a better will on account of it.

Now that the war is over we have forgotten most of the fine enthusiasms, and life seems like a page of prose. The other day someone conceived the idea that Muhlenberg college men ought to take up mass singing. The idea took shape in the minds of several of the fellows and as a first step a committee was appointed by the President of the Student Council. The WEEKLY was approached and the idea sounded so good to the newspaper men that they said the WEEKLY would offer a prize of five dollars in cash to the man who wrote the best original song, two dollars cash for the second best original song and one dollar cash for the third best original song. The only requirement is that the song be the sort that a college can sing and appreciate; as one of the fellows put it, "the prize winning song must be 'collegiate.'" For the sake of versatility, the WEEKLY said that two dollars cash would be awarded to the student who writes the best original cheer.

Contestants must have their manuscript in the hands of the Committee Chairman, Zartman '23, not later than March 11. A committee of judges from the faculty and student body will award the prizes.

Almost every student on the campus can write the kind of song that the Committee has in mind; smart, racy, tripping lines which will fit the music of some popular air. Let's go!

REINARTZ TO COMPETE IN RELAY CARNIVAL

A very interesting item of news concerning the Relay Carnival to be held at Philadelphia this coming spring was found in a recent issue of the St. Louis Post. "Three of America's star all-around athletes will compete in the college pentathlon championship at the University of Pennsylvania Relay Carnival, April 28 and 29. They are: Legendre of Georgetown University, Hamilton, University of Missouri, and REINARTZ, MUHLENBERG. Legendre and Hamilton have met twice in this event, each having scored a victory."

CAPT. REINARTZ NAMED STUDENT COACH IN TRACK ATHLETICS

ell. John Paul Jones is now in business in Allentown and is very busy, and he too, begged off."

So Corp. Reinartz has been selected to take charge of the squad as student coach, in addition to being the captain, and contender for the Pentathlon Championship. Corp's winning personality and stellar athletic ability have won for himself a true regard and admiration from all the students, and he is assured the co-operation of all in the coming track season. Coach Reinartz has already started his squad of about thirty candidates in the gymnasium. Every one is urged to come out and try for a place on the team.

Among the most promising men are Webb, Begel, Ash and Orr, runners; Rex and Waller, hurdlers; Neubling, pole vault; Sowers and Weston discus; and Sowers and Skean, shot put. It can be easily seen that there is plenty of room at the top for all those who come out and train consistently.

DODGE WILD WOMEN PHYSICAL REQUISITE

Man, would you be an Adonis? Then heed the advice of a University of Pennsylvania freshman, who, in answer to a question in a recent hygiene examination, wrote:

"Dodge wild women and you will be a physically perfect man."

That was one of many amusing answers Prof. Seneca Egbert received in a health questionnaire for freshmen. The first-year men seem to possess their own secret formula for health and their own ideas on medical and hygiene questions.

Said one: "People should not eat after they are full. Many people think this is a joke, but I have known this to be an actual fact."

Another advises: "Don't eat from a cracked dish."

Several of the questions referring to drinking impure water drew strange responses.

"Drink water that has been examined by chemical action," wrote one freshman. "Medicines would not have their full power of remedy, as some water is used to make medicine. For instance, impure water can be compared to putting of turpentine into a motor when it needs gasoline instead. Impure water also does not keep kidneys running properly."

Another freshman replied to a health question:

"Keep your body clean, because dirty bodies create disease and, besides, dirt shuts up the 'pours.'"

Examples of other statements made by the freshmen are:

"One becomes easily perceptible to disease."

"Don't eat too much; it causes pyorrhea."

"Systematic physical education helps one to develop his muscles and build up his health, thereby not giving vermin or insects a chance when they enter the body."

Dr. Seneca Egbert, professor of hygiene, is organizing among freshmen a voluntary class on personal health. He says there is need for such a course.

STUDENTS KNOW MORE HISTORY THAN BASEBALL

Supposedly national heroes of the diamond, the gridiron and the silver sheet do not stand so high as might be supposed with the high school and college students. This was learned when the institute for public service made some results of a national current history test taken by more than 200,000 pupils.

Twenty thousand of the students averaged only 46 per cent. on ten questions about baseball, football and the movies. Of 500 seniors more of them know about de Valera, Lloyd George, Briand and General Wood than about which team won the world's series or what shininglight of the screen is starred in current popular pictures. Five hundred girl seniors know more about Sinn Feiners than about Mlle. Lenglen and Ruth Law.

One of the most interesting results being analyzed are the answers of sixty-one New York seniors. Forty-three of them could not identify Charles G. Dawes, national budget director; thirty-eight had no idea as to Myron T. Herrick's identity; twenty were all at sea as concerns the identity of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon; ten were unable to identify a photograph of Elihu Root, and twenty-one missed Henry Ford. Some of them thought Mlle. Lenglen was a French chemist, and others identified her as Japan's representative at the armament conference.

Thirty Years Ago

Rev. G. G. Kunkle, who was graduated from Muhlenberg college in 1873, accepted a call to St. Mark's Lutheran church at Williamsport.

COLLEGE ATHLETICS PART OF CURRICULUM

Responsibility for professionalism in intercollegiate sport is placed squarely upon the shoulders of university officials by Dr. Fred W. Marvel, director of athletics at Brown University.

Dr. Marvel declares that heads of college athletic departments are forced to commercialize major sports in order to obtain money to run ultra-mural and non-paying games and support their gymnasiums.

Dr. Marvel asserts that athletics in college are as much a part of the curriculum as any study, and that universities should assume all responsibility, including financial. This course, he declares, is the only constructive policy which will eliminate the menace of professionalism among amateur games.

"At the present time our athletic directors and team managers have to make their associations pay, and in order to do so are obliged to raise money by gate receipts," he asserts. "We are told by college officials that we must conduct our games along amateur lines, but we must finance them along lines that are purely commercial and professional," he continues.

Amateur sports will never be on a proper basis, Dr. Marvel said, "until the university assumes all responsibility, including financial."

WRESTLING SLOWLY GETTING UNDER WAY

The time limit for entries of wrestling teams by the various classes has been extended to March 4th. The various teams will be able to hold practices every day or evening in the West Gymnasium. The new mats have arrived and are ready for use. There are quite a number of men at Muhlenberg interested in wrestling and here will be an opportunity to have some interesting competition. A new weight class has been added making a total of five classes; as follows:

- 135 lbs. and under
- 136 to 150 lbs.
- 151 to 165 lbs.
- 166 to 180 lbs.
- 181 lbs. and above.

The various class wrestling managers are requested to hand their lists of entries to Zartman '23, or Benze '22, not later than Saturday, March 4th, so that the schedule for the semifinals may be arranged.

HARDING FAVORS STUDENTS POLITICAL ORGANIZATION

President Harding looks with favor and respect upon the organized movement of under-graduate students in this country to take a part in national affairs.

He expressed this view to the representatives of 250 universities who visited him recently and presented resolutions urging prompt ratification of the conference treaties.

The deputation was headed by Charles Denby, Jr., of Princeton, a nephew of Secretary of Navy Denby.

BRIEF STUDENT BODY MEETING IN CHAPEL

A brief meeting of the Student Body was held in the college Chapel on the 24th. Only two matters of importance were brought up in the meeting. The president stated that he had gotten in touch with the local manager of the Bell Telephone Company relative to placing a pay station in the Dormitories. The manager told him that the company at present lacked the proper facilities to take care of the pay station; but that it hoped to be able to install one during the coming year. Balmer read an amendment to the constitution proposing a revision in the membership of Student Council. The amendment provides for a council of thirteen: five non-fraternity men and eight fraternity men (two from each frat.). The amendment was not voted upon or discussed and action was deferred until the third of March. This change was necessitated by the recent appearance of a new fraternity at Muhlenberg, namely Phi Epsilon.

ALLENTOWN PREP FIVE DEFEAT FORDHAMITES

A field goal by Dell in the last moment of play enabled Coach Witter's Prep school basketball team to nose out Fordham College Freshmen by a 34-32 score in the A. P. S. cage Saturday night.

The game was one of the fastest seen on the Purple and White floor this season. Both teams guarded rather closely in the first half which ended with the Maroon yearling leading 15-14. The teams battled through the last half without any advantage for either side and with one minute to play the score was deadlocked at 32-32. Dell, who had been the main offensive strength of the team throughout the fray, received the ball on a short pass in a scrimmage and tossed it through the meshes just as the final whistle sounded. The line-ups:

A. P. S.	Fordham Fresh
Mendell	F. Landry
Goldthorpe	F. Seagrave
Dell	C. Leddy
Dorang	G. O'Connell
Dankle	G. Driscoll

Field goals: Dell 8, Beyer 1, Mendell 2, Landry 2, Seagrave 1, O'Connell 2. Fouls, Dell 13, Leddy 5. Time of periods, 20 minutes. Scoring, I. Shalter. Referee, Haas, Bicknell.

A New Fraternity

Chicago reports the formulation of a new Greek letter fraternity among the male (or, perhaps, it would be better to say the "he") students of Northwestern University. These earnest youngsters call themselves anti-feminists, and since the cigarette has become so much a feminine prerogative, or usurpation, the chief requisite for membership is the adjurgation of the "fag." Each member must provide himself with a pipe. There are other rules, si xin all, dealing with sartorial matters and others things calculated to stamp one as effeminate. It is announced that the members wish to be known as "he-men." This overworked locution is probably a better designation for these youths than "male students," for though there may be no question of their masculinity, nothing is said in any of this six rules to indicate that any premium at all is put upon proficiency in classwork. Yet if these "he-men" are not careful another appellation, imported from another institution further South, may come to be applied to them. At the University of Texas, undergraduates of both sexes who give themselves up to frivolities rather than to study are known as "Flossies."—Philadelphia Record.

'94. David A. Miller, having laid aside the care of publishing the "Allentown Morning Call," is now enjoying an extended trip through the "Sunny South," together with his better half.

COLLEGE WOMEN ARE GOOD HOME MAKERS

"Probably fifteen years from today, some one will assert that women college graduates do not marry or become good home-makers," Miss Ellen Fitz Pendleton, president of Wellesley College said.

"In my travels over the country, however, I find the most charming homes are presided over by college graduates. The criticism often made of colleges is that they do not combine education and charm, but we feel our students do obtain an unconsciousness, an appreciation of friends that is very valuable.

"A fair criticism of both men's and women's colleges, which the college is trying to overcome, is that the graduate finds it hard to adjust himself to outside conditions, especially to home circles.

"College graduates must learn the most important work in the world is carried on by those who never have seen the inside of a university, and the college student must not forget the debt he owes them."

MORAVIAN SEMINARY PRESIDENT DIES

Rev. Dr. John H. Clewell, Ph.D., President of the Moravian Seminary and College for Women, died at the Rush Hospital, Philadelphia, Tuesday, following a general breakdown due to subcercular trouble.

Dr. Clewell was one of the most prominent educators of the Northern Province of the Moravian Church. He was born at Salem, N. C., sixty-six years ago. From 1888 to 1909 he was principal of the Moravian Academy at Winston-Salem, N. C. He succeeded the Rev. Dr. J. Max Hark as President of the Moravian Seminary and College for Women in Bethlehem in 1909, since which time he developed the old institution along the most modern lines in educational thought. He leaves his widow and four sons.

educational leadership in Allentown and the surrounding country and that every advance made by their alma mater bettered their position and increased the value of their diploma.

Under the inspiration of such an address, the alumni present decided to form a permanent organization immediately. Dr. William Reese, now of Temple University, spoke of the value of such an organization in renewing old friendships, fostering a continued loyalty to the small college under church influence, "whose day" he said, "is now dawning."

Dr. Ohl, '71, "the oldest, young, alumnus," present spoke of the former attempts at organization of the alumni of the vicinity and expressed a strong desire to see an active alumni body. It was Dr. Ohl who made the motion that a committee be appointed to arrange for subsequent meetings.

Guerney Afflerbach, Muhlenberg's active Field Secretary, told of his work for the college. He spoke of the interest shown by alumni groups already formed at Wilkes-Barre and Nazareth, and still others in the process of formation at Reading and Lebanon. The business manager of THE MUHLENBERG WEEKLY, Luther F. Gerhart brought the greeting of that organization, whose main function it is to link the alumni with the college by telling them the campus news.

The spirit of the meeting ran high. The singing of old Muhlenberg songs, from prepared song sheets, lead by the glee club gave evidence that the enthusiasm and loyalty for Old Muhlenberg were only awaiting opportunity for self expression thru an active organization of this kind. Following the banquet all present attended the Glee Club Concert in Scottish Rites Hall.

The alumni present at the banquet as hosts to the Glee Club follow:

J. F. Ahl, D.D., '71, foremost musician of the Lutheran Church; E. E. Johnson, M.D., '85; John W. Richards, D.D., '87, Pastor St. Luke's Lutheran Church; Henry F. Pfluger, M.D., '90; Rev. Chas. J. Gable, '93, Pastor St. John's Lutheran Church, Melrose; Rev. A. C. Schenck, '97, Pastor Bethlehem Lutheran Church; Rev. Francis Miller, '97, Pastor Salem Lutheran Church; Rev. Henry F. Hale, '98, Pastor Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd; Rev. Frank S. Kuntz, '00, Pastor Apostles' Lutheran Church; Rev. Frank M. Ulrich, '02, Pastor Trinity Lutheran Church; Rev. John C. Fisher, '04, Pastor Nativity Lutheran Church; Rev. D. I. Sultzbach, '04, Pastor Resurrection Lutheran Church; Dallas H. Bastian, '05; Rev. Arthur T. Michler, '07, Pastor Redeemer Lutheran Church; Rev. W. H. C. Lauer, '07; Rev. Henry M. Wertz, '12; Rev. Wm. L. Katz, '13, Pastor Immanuel Lutheran Church; Rev. John I. Meek, '13, Pastor Prince of Peace Lutheran Church; Mat Richards, '13; Rev. Henry A. Wacker, Pastor Grace Lutheran Church; Dr. William Reese, '14, Temple University; Rev. T. K. Fink, '15; Rev. H. Moehling, '16, Pastor Gethsemane Lutheran Church; Guerney Afflerbach, '16, Field Secretary; Rev. Bella Shetlock, '17; Richard R. Gates, '20, Hahnemann Medical School; Amos A. Ettinger, '21, Graduate School, University of Penna.

The Seminary at Mt. Airy was represented by Messrs. Nolde, Krouse, Kline, Klick, Hemmig, Schaertel, Murtagh, Trexler, Fry, and Tyson.

Lutz, '23, Dillman '22 and Gerhart '22 were also present.

BIBLE DISCUSSION GROUPS ARE STARTED

Y. M. C. A. Has Appointed A Group Leader for Each Hall

Campus Bible discussion groups were begun in practically all the halls of the dormitory on Thursday evening, March 2. The groups will continue meeting weekly on Thursday evenings at six o'clock for a period to ten to twelve weeks.

The aim of the group meetings is to have each man discover for himself the New Testament solution to personal and social problems. As a guide to this end the group leaders are using Harrison Elliot's "How Jesus Faced Life Problems." This little volume is not just another book about the Bible but a kind of sign post directing the student to the pages of the New Testament where are found the words that are "life."

The respective groups are under the leadership of upper-classmen who meet prior to the discussion group meetings for study under faculty guidance. Lower classmen who are interested in this phase of Christian service are invited to join this normal group; why not "scrub" for positions in student activities of this nature as well as for other types of campus work. The normal group for leaders and those who wish to train for leadership meets at 4 o'clock on Thursday afternoons.

SOPHS COMPLETE TEACHER TRAINING

The following Sophomores have successfully completed a course in Teacher Training given by Prof. Fritsch, and received their diplomas last week: Fedko, Flower, Helfrich, Mattson, C. Roepe, E. Roepe, Stauffer, Unverzagt, Waller, Stowell, Strause, Williams.

DR. KNUBEL WILL PREACH AT ST. JOHN'S

Wide-spread interest in our college circles has been aroused over the announcement of the coming of the Rev. Frederick H. Knubel, D.D., LL.D., President of the United Lutheran Church in America, and the special preacher on College Night at St. John's next Sunday evening.

Dr. Knubel has been contemplating filling this engagement ever since these special services were inaugurated three years ago; but this is the first opportunity that has offered for keeping the appointment. Prof. Harold K. Marks is preparing a program of music that will be of especial interest and attraction.

MR. BLEI MAKES APPEAL FOR ARMENIA

"Help the Starving Kiddies in the Near-East," He Said.

Mr. Blei, representative of the Near-East Relief Association made a stirring appeal to the Student Body, Thursday morning in Chapel. He told in a very vivid manner the past history of Armenia, the reasons for Turkish persecutions, and the awful conditions in present-day Armenia.

"I had traveled thru India, North and South China, and the Philippines. In none of these countries is motherhood revered. I have seen disease; I have seen starvation; I have seen death—conditions such as would turn the heart of man to stone. But when I came to Armenia I saw conditions such as would turn the heart of any man to water. Ten million people perished during the World War in the Near East; forty million, mostly women and children, since the Armistice was signed. When I traveled thru this desolate region, I felt that this was a 'land where God was but is not.'"

Armenia was the first Christian na-

REVIGORATED JUNIORS SET BACK SENIORS

At Last the Juniors Are Fighting to Place in the Series

Exhibiting a sudden reversal of form, the Juniors came thru last Tuesday in East Gymnasium and upset the speedy Senior five 29-15. Several tons of luck, a little organized passing and presto—the Seniors were vanquished.

The game started with pep, each side scoring an occasional goal until the score stood 8-6, then Boyer and Brodell cut loose and aided by three sensational long shots by Lutz soon had the Seniors in a bad way. They called time out several times in a vain attempt to halt the fusillade of field goals which the Juniors were raining thru the basket. But it was the Juniors' "day of glory" and they made the most of it, not stopping until the scorer had chalked up thirty-nine points for them. Lutz, playing a steady game at guard, broke up the Seniors' passes consistently in addition to scoring his aforementioned field goals. Boyer, however, was the star of the game, tossing six baskets and feeding Brodell after rescuing the

CATASAUQUA CROWD HEARS GLEE CLUB

Last Pre-Lenten Concert Was A Decided Success

Last Monday evening the Glee Club donned their evening attire at the forms, and after about an hour's ride behind stiff shirts and collars, arrived at Catasauqua where they gave their Annual Concert in the high school auditorium.

The smallest crowd of the season greeted the boys, as the curtain arose, but the greeting was a cordial one despite the small audience, and the club put the concert over with the same old Muhlenberg punch and spirit. The audience heartily applauded every number, and the club responded generously with encores. The skit was the feature as usual, and the novelty act "Vaudeville on Trial" greatly pleased, especially the act of Mattson and Koch, which kept the jury in a series of spasms from start to finish. Mr. Zieber seemed to appeal to the operatic nature of the audience with his Toreador song, and received an unusual amount of applause. Mr. Druckenmiller in the role of the judge, with his whip and robe and judiciary voice, made a big hit, as he passed his judgments in the acts.

After the concert the club was invited to the gymnasium where the young ladies entertained them at a dance. Some of the boys did not care to step around, so they amused themselves in an improvised basketball game. Refreshments were served, and the club returned to Allentown after a very enjoyable eve.

Coach Geary's Tosser's Are Continuing Victorious Season

MORAVIAN 19—M. 25
HAVERFORD 19—M. 21

Coach Roy Geary's basketball team were victorious the second time this season against Moravian College. The Bethlehemites journeyed to Prep school last Wednesday afternoon confident of scoring a victory over the Cardinal and Grey quintette, but were sadly disappointed at the score when the final whistle blew. Muhlenberg kept the lead, as small as it was from the start of the game to the finish. After the first five minutes of play Coach Geary pulled the unexpected by substituting his able second string men for the varsity five, the second string men played a very fast passing game for a few minutes, when the varsity five was again put into the fray after they had received the usual bawling out by the coach. Their return to the game seemed to put some fight into the playing of the team. The Bethlehem quintet gave the local team a hard run in the second half, but the good passing of the Muhlenberg aggregation, coupled with the pretty field goals of Crum, succeeded in keeping on the long end of the score 25 to 19.

The Linup:

Muhlenberg	Moravian
Holstrom	F. McCormick
Johnson	F. Helmich
Campbell	C. Hughes
Freed	G. Kern
Taggart	G. Stocker

Substitutions: Neubling, Benner, Weiss, Schantz, Crum, for Holstrom, Johnson, Campbell, Freed, and Taggart. Campbell for Kintzing. Field goals: Holstrom 2; Campbell 1; Johnson 1; Freed 2; McCormick 3; Helmich 1; Hughes 1; Kern 2. Foul goals: Holstrom 3, Crum 2, Freed 2, Neubling 1, Helmich 2, Hughes 2, Stocker 2. Referee—Flannagan. Time of halves—20 minutes.

Muhlenberg credited itself with another victory in basketball last Friday night at Haverford when the local basketball team came out on the long end of a 21-19 score, in the second last game of the season. The Cardinal and Gray quintet hit stride in the last half of the season and has been showing the sport loving public of the Lehigh Valley a calibre of play that is

ORATORICAL CONTEST WILL BE HELD MAR. 16

On Thursday, March 2, the preliminaries to the Intercollegiate Oratorical Contest were held on the chapel under the direction of Prof. Brown. Stine, Lantz, Sowers, Miller, Fink, and Druckenmiller of the Senior Class and Sweitzer, Rupp, Fritz, and Mann of the Junior Class were the contestants. Professors Simpson and Corbiere acted as judges and they selected the six men who will enter the final contest to determine who will represent Muhlenberg in the Intercollegiate Oratorical Contest at Gettysburg on April 8. The following is the order in which the men are to speak: Rupp, Fritz, Sweitzer, Stine, Druckenmiller and Lantz.

The final contest will be held in the chapel on March 16 at 8 P. M.

Editorial Comment

For the past three or four weeks the campus has been in a muddy condition. When we went to classes, when we went to the Commons three times a day, when we wanted to go down town, we have been compelled to wade through mud and water to get there. Whenever there is a slight rain the same conditions exist. It is worse than if we were living along some country road made of clay and had to walk through the mud every day. But we are not living in the country; we are living in the city of Allentown. And yet we must walk ankle-deep in mud!

We cannot go off the campus without getting our clothing full of mud or muddy water. When we appear down town as college men, we are supposed to at least have a little pride in our personal appearance—we are supposed to be neat and clean. But how can we when the campus is full of mud and there is no place to walk? Why don't we have a place to walk?

Fellows, we all deplore the condition of the roads and paths on the campus. Why can we not get busy and improve them? Back of the power house there are tons and tons of ashes which the college authorities have to have hauled away. We could haul the ashes from the power house with wheel-barrow or with the farmer's wagon. We could fill up the mud holes and grade the roads and paths.

Once that is done, the rest is easy. It takes but a short time for ashes to pack and wherever they have been used they have given satisfaction. Then in a few months, the college authorities could have a few loads of gravel hauled on the roads and they would be satisfactorily repaired. Of course ashes do not look as good as the regular road materials, but wouldn't it be better to have the ashes than the mud and standing water on the campus?

How many men are willing to give a few hours of their time to this worthy cause? Let's hear the sentiment of the Student Body.

H. S. M.

There is so much being said about daylight saving in Allentown and vicinity that it seems only proper that we form some opinion on the subject. Will a daylight saving plan benefit the students at Muhlenberg?

It undoubtedly will benefit us. We will go to bed earlier in the evening without being aware of it and so save electricity. We will get up earlier and reap the benefit of the fresh morning air. We will feel better all day. In the afternoons we will have more time for baseball and track this spring and for football in the early fall. Why, then, should not the student express themselves in favor of daylight saving? H. S. M.

The following announcement recently appeared on the bulletin board in the arcade: "On Tuesday evening the bus will meet the cars at 6:30, 6:45, 7:00, 7:15, and 7:30." This is but a trial schedule to see whether it would be profitable for the bus to run evenings. The dormitory men undoubtedly would rather have the bus service in the evening than during the day. Here is your chance. If the campus is in a muddy condition, you can keep clean and dry by taking the bus. If we use the bus now, we can get better service in the future.

All the fraternity men will be going down town on Tuesday night. USE THE BUS!

H. S. M.

The season of Lent among the various christian denominations is a period of religious meditation and introspection, and comes after a succession of crimes and scandals, and for the Christian is fitting change from the glaring headlines, announcing vice and crimes, on the front pages of the daily newspapers.

But the benefits of such a period are not confined to the religious and emotional uplift of the individual, because there is something of intrinsic value, in the observance of such a period, even for those who regard merely that which is practical, and whose religion is rational, rather than emotional.

In other words, Lent is becoming a period of inspiration, even for those who do not strictly follow its conventional forms. It is teaching us the necessity of a period when we can drop out from the race of life and let our physical and spiritual bodies rest, so as to be stronger for that which is to come.

Fasting above all is of great value to the body. All physical culturists recognize this fact. Not necessarily, do we need, blindly to observe certain conventions, but we may create rules to suit individual needs, and as men interested in the coming track season on we should observe the practical value of a physical "house-cleaning", that the internal organs may be granted a period of rest, so as to become strong for the intensive work and strain that they will be called upon to endure. R. L. W. '24

Representatives

Any team, or any man that goes out in the name of a college, be it to speak, or to sing, or to throw a javelin, is looked upon as a representative of his institution. He is, in a sense on exhibition. His position is "ticklish," for any shortcomings that are his will be charged up against the school from which he comes.

It is not necessary to be hypocritically solemn and grammatical under such circumstances, but the demands of good breeding and decency ought to govern on all occasions.

Oberly Happy at W. & J.

Letters received on the campus from Robert S. Oberly, '22 who is getting his credits for the second semester of his senior year at Washington and Jefferson College in his some town on account of the sickness of his father, indicate that "Babe" is getting along nicely at W. & J. Bob will get his diploma from Muhlenberg with his classmates this June.

PROMINENT ALUMNUS OF MUHLENBERG DIES

1872 he entered the Junior class of Muhlenberg College and was graduated in June, 1874. Among his classmates were Rev. A. E. Erdman of Nazareth, Oscar E. Holman, Esq., of St. Paul, Minn., William L. Lichtenwalner, Esp., of Los Angeles, Cal., Hon. James L. Schaadt, ex-Mayor of Allentown, Dr. Edgar D. Shimer, Assistant Superintendent of the Public Schools of New York City, the late Hon. M. C. Henninger, Judge of the Courts of Lehigh County and the late Hon. Marcus C. L. Kline, member of Congress from the Berks-Lehigh District. While a student, he was a member of the Euterpean Literary Society. In the fall of 1874 he entered the Lutheran Theological Seminary in Philadelphia, from which he was graduated in 1877. In June of the same year he was ordained to the office of the Christian ministry by the Lutheran Ministerium of Pennsylvania. He at once became the pastor of the Sellersville Parish, consisting at that time of three congregations, which charge he served faithfully for eleven years, when in 1888 he succeeded in dividing his large charge into two parishes. Retaining one parish, he combined with it Lansdale, at which place he erected a beautiful house of worship for Trinity Lutheran Congregation in 1890. Here he ministered most acceptably to his Lutheran flock for nearly thirty years until his failing state of health prompted him to resign. In 1911 Muhlenberg College, of which he had been a liberal friend and patron as well as a faithful Trustee for many years, conferred upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity. During the many years of his active service he held various positions of trust and responsibility in the Lutheran Church, such as Secretary of the First District Conference of the Ministerium of Pennsylvania and Chairman of the Board or Education of the same Ministerium.

The burial services were held at Alleman's Church, Berks County, on Friday March 3rd, 1922.

Dr. Becker was a man of tall and dignified personal presence, but of the most modest and unassuming disposition. He was the very soul of honor and was loved and esteemed by all who knew him. Withal he was genial and warm-hearted, with a fine appreciation of a joke, especially of the good-old-fashioned Pennsylvania German type. In the passing of James L. Becker, Muhlenberg College has lost a firm friend and a generous graduate, the Lutheran Church has lost a faithful and exemplary pastor and the community has lost a Christian gentleman and a loyal citizen.

tion. It became a nation in 380. Out of a population of four million, Armenia contributed four hundred forty-four thousand soldiers to the ranks of the Allies. They entered the War in spite of Turkish threats. The Turk promised them freedom from persecution, if they would renounce their God and proclaim Allah in His stead. Lloyd George once declared that the participation of Armenia in the war hastened the Armistice fully six months. Out of the 440,000 Armenian soldiers who fought in the war, only 20,000 returned to their homes, only to find that their homes and wives no longer existed.

The Turks invaded their country, headed by the Germans, devastating their homes and cities, killing the old women and dragging off the young girls as booty for some Turkish official's harem. Sixty thousand girls between the ages of nine and sixteen were removed from their homes and loved ones. When they entered the harems, their cheeks were tattooed with indelible ink so that one Turk could not steal the property of another. Since the Armistice about ten thousand of these girls have been rescued.

But the fate of the women and girls pales into insignificance when compared with the fate of Armenia's one million children. When the savage and merciless hordes of Turks swept the country they killed the old women, dragged off the girls, and left the little children without love and care. These motherless kiddies fled from the awful Turk and sought refuge behind rocks, in caves and in valleys.

When Mr. Morgenthau, then minister to Turkey, heard of these atrocities, he went at the risk of his own life to Armenia and found that conditions were twice as bad as had been reported. Immediately he cabled to Washington and asked the Government to send him ten million dollars. At about this time, President Wilson was trying to persuade Congress to accept a mandate over Armenia. But due to the hostile attitude of Knox, Lodge, etc., Congress refused to accept such a mandate.

Our minister to Turkey, realizing the importance of immediate relief, then began a movement to alleviate conditions by contributing his vast fortune. The Red Cross, at about this time, became interested in Near-East conditions, building hospitals and orphanages. Dodge, a New York millionaire, and his wife left this country, established a hospital at Alexandinople, and are now engaged in relief work among the poor and diseased. Three-quarters of the sick are so weak that they cannot stand up, but are compelled to remain on their cots, and so thin and shriveled that in many cases not one, but four kiddies occupy each cot. For every one in the hospital there are two waiting outside for entrance.

At Mr. Reed's hospital, two hundred patients die each day. One day a group of seven came to the hospital seeking admittance. When they were told that they could not enter, one of the group retorted, "Yes, but we just saw the death cart remove another body, there ought to be room now." "But there are seven of you and that was only one" Then they withdrew, and chose one of their number who should enter the hospital. He returned, smiling proudly, and said "They have picked me out because I am the strongest and perhaps will be of the greatest benefit to Armenia." At this hospital there is a graveyard and in this wilderness of graves, but one gravestone. On this stone are these words: "Alice Mae Winchester, of Fox Chase, Pa., Born 1896, died 1920. All honor to Pennsylvania." Miss Winchester died a few days after she had taken up the work—a victim of typhoid fever.

In that land one lives doing actual Christianity. But in order to do Christian work, one must have the support of others. To keep a child from starving, sixty dollars are necessary per year. If a starving child were here no one would refuse his assistance because one could visualize the actual need. A Catholic boy in Wilkes-Barre placed in the envelope a medalion of the Virgin Mary. When he was asked when he had contributed the medalion, he explained that he was an orphan himself, that he had no money and that he had given the medal so that some poor motherless Christian might have a mother.

"Seventy-five thousand men who gave their all at the front are looking to you. Their last words were: 'Will the folks back home understand why we died? Will they carry on the unfinished work?' If you are thinking of giving two dollars give four, if five give ten; give until it hurts."

LUTHERAN STUDENTS WILL MEET AT MUHLENBERG

students in practically every school in our state.

It is expected that the number of delegates will number close to one hundred. Muhlenberg may well feel honored to be selected for this conference. It is only the second of its kind. Its purpose is to get all Lutheran students into closer touch with each other and get them as a unified group to consider the problems, the tasks, and the opportunities of our great Church.

All of us as Muhlenberg men can do a great deal to make this conference a success. Everyone can help. Many of the delegates will be strangers to Allentown. Will you help to welcome them? We will want men to meet the trains and the electric cars at 8th and Hamilton Streets on April 28th. Other men will be needed to take the delegates to the homes, where they will be entertained, after the registration at Christ Church in the afternoon. Fellows, you have noticed the co-ed schools listed above. Chivalry has never been lacking on the part of Muhlenberg men. So all of you, who can be around on April 28th, just keep your hands free to be of service.

The first session of the conference will be held at Christ Church at eight P. M. Dr. Ettinger will extend the greeting of the college, while Judge Reno will welcome the Lutheran students to Allentown. Dr. W. D. A. Hanson, of Harrisburg will have the address at this session. This meeting will be followed by a social hour.

The Saturday sessions will be held on the campus. Prof. Brown will act as chaplain for these sessions. The morning session will be devoted chiefly to business and organization matters. A noon luncheon will be served in the college commons. At the afternoon meeting representatives from the various boards of our church will present to the group the work of the Lutheran Church, its activities and its great opportunities for service in the Kingdom.

A unique feature of the conference will be an auto ride thru the pretty rural surroundings of our city and a chicken and waffle dinner at Guthsville.

Dr. Haas will preach at the services which the delegates will attend at St. John's Church on Sunday morning. The Conference Dinner will be served at the Hotel Allen. The Conference will close with an afternoon session at St. John's Parish House when Rev. W. C. Schaeffer will be the speaker.

truly representative of the sports of Muhlenberg College.

During the first half Coach Geary's boys kept well in the running but were unable to maintain a lead over the Crimson athletes. The playing of both teams was sensational in both passing and breaking up plays. Both Kintzing and Arnold were accurate in tossing the fifteen foot line. The first half ended with Haverford in the lead by a score of 14-11.

Hardly had the whistle opened the second period when Arnold got a free toss on a foul and made it good. Until the last few minutes the Haverford team kept the lead. But Holstrom started the scoring with a field goal and Kintzing followed it with free shots from the foul line and with a few minutes left to finish the game the score stood 18-18. A foul gave Kintzing another free toss and shortly afterward he threw the lucky shot from a difficult angle that won the game. Haverford attempted a rally but only succeeded in gaining a single point on a foul.

The playing of Kintzing was the feature of the game. He basketed 11 out of 18 free shots, and scored 2 field goals making 15 of the 21 points. Arnold the giant center of the Haverford team starred for his Alma Mater, he having 9 out of 14 fouls and a field goal.

The lineup:

Muhlenberg	F.	Haverford
Holstrom	F.	Matzleman
Johnson	F.	Bucknell
Kintzing	C.	Arnold
Taggart	G.	Taylor
Freed	G.	Minnich

Field goals: Holstrom, 2; Johnson, 1; Kintzing, 2; Matzleman, 1; Bucknell, 1; Arnold, 1. Foul goals: Kintzing, 11; Arnold, 9. Referee: Reichert, Swarthmore. Time of halves, 20 minutes.

ball from all parts of the floor numerous times. In the second half someone bumped Boyer rather hard and he doubled up. He came back tho, with more life than ever.

The Seniors appeared unable to get going at all. They lacked their usual five-man offensive and missed several "Gussie" shots for goals. Kirschner managed to get into the scoring column with a pretty double-decker, clean thru from the corner in the first half, and another dribble shot in the final period. His aim was out of focus on several other attempts tho as was the "goal-sighter" periscope of the rest of the team, save possibly "Taps" Bleiler who dinted the cords thrice before he sprained his ankle. Then "Corps" Reinartz appeared and to impress the rooters he dropped one from the center of the floor thus branding himself as an ideal "pinch-hitter."

The final whistle interrupted the Juniors in another of their mericiless bombardments of the backboards and allowed the tired Seniors to float under the showers and recuperate.

Line up:

MUHLENBERG VICTORIOUS IN FINAL BASKETBALL GAME

Lafayette Leads by One Point at End of First Half

CLOSELY CONTESTED GAME ENDS AT 29-27

The Muhlenberg basketball season came to a successful close last Thursday night when Coach Geary's squad of tossers tilted with Lafayette in the Y. M. C. A. cage and brought home a victory by the score of 29-27.

With five hundred supporters cheering them on, the Cardinal and Gray team went into the fracas determined to make the last game the best of the season. Each man on the floor played his hardest and fastest, and took chances which they ordinarily would not take.

In the first play Holstrom dodged the Lafayette guard and succeeded in getting a field goal. Lafayette got the ball on the jump and missed several fine attempts at a field goal and then Crate fouled and Kintzing got a shot from the fifteen foot line. He made the attempt a good one and Muhlenberg got a lead on the Maroon and White team. On a foul Longacre got two shots from the foul line. He made both good and the Lafayette team began to pull itself together. Holstrom intercepted a pass and carried the ball to within striking distance of the Lafayette basket and caged a pretty field goal. Longacre missed a foul shot but shortly afterward put three in succession through the loop and tied the score. From that time on until the whistle called for half time it was a neck and neck race with the Cardinal and Gray team slightly in the lead. Shortly before the period ended with the score standing 14-13 in favor of Muhlenberg, Brennan took a long shot and the ball cleared the loop with the result that the Muhlenberg outfit was on the short end of the score at half time.

With more scrap than ever Coach Geary's proteges came back in the second half and immediately took the lead from the Maroon boys. Hol-

TIME LIMIT EXTENDED FOR SONG CONTEST

Prizes To Be Offered To The Alumni

The Committee on the Song Contest has made an extension on the time limit for submitting original songs and yells for competition for the cash prizes offered by the Muhlenberg WEEKLY. A further decision of the Committee is to invite alumni to enter the contest. An additional first prize of five dollars in cash and a second prize of two dollars in cash will be offered to any alumni who submits the two best songs. Prizes for undergraduates will be five dollars in cash for the winning song, two dollars in cash for the second best song, and two dollars in cash for the best cheer. The contest will close 12 o'clock noon, Saturday, March 25. All songs and cheer must be in the hands of the Committee Chairman, Ira F. Zartman not later than the above time.

On account of the lack of ready response and interest on the part of undergraduates in the contest the Committee has been forced to make an extension of the time limit. In

Glee Club Sings At St. John's

On Sunday evening the Glee Club exchanged places with the choir of St. John's Lutheran Church at the regular college night services.

It has been the custom for years that the club sing on some special occasion at St. John's, where Prof. Harold K. Marks the director of the club, is organist and choir director.

Dr. Knubel, president of the United Lutheran Church addressed the congregation. The Glee Club sang an anthem, and Mr. Zieber of the club rendered a bass solo.

BUSINESS OPENINGS FOR COLLEGE MEN FEW

Conditions of Graduates Entering Big Corporations Studied by Rohe Walter

(I. N. A. News Service)

During the past few weeks the writer has talked with the heads of the personal departments of some of the largest concerns and international banks in New York City. The purpose underlying this investigation was the ascertaining of the policies used in selecting men for positions in different industries. Out of the study of this whole question some general facts have been emphasized which may be of some value to the undergraduate in determining his future.

As in everything else it is well to face the realities of the situation and if possible make adjustments to meet them. In the matter of wages or income ("Salaries") it is preferably called in college) it is well to disillusion oneself of false notions and standards. The average college graduate working for these large corporations receives from $1,200 to $1,500 a year at the start. Cases are not rare where hundreds of college graduates, some of them from technical schools, are working for less than $1,000 a year. Such an income permits of a moderate living standard here in the city with very little left over for clothes or entertainment. The average college man after two or three years is earning around $2,000 a year, with fluctuations from $1,500 to $3,000 common, depending upon the ability of the man and the opportunities presented to him. After the first ten years the college graduate begins really to capitalize upon his education and training for only then is his progress more rapid, in the general run, than that of the untrained man.

Opportunities and openings this next year in almost any type of industry are going to be unusually hard to secure. Most large concerns and international banks that in the past have been taking on large groups of college men for special training are making no plans to do so this year. The general unemployment situation has left no gaps or opportunities open for any but experienced men and for this reason the man fresh from college is going to find it much harder than usual to secure an opening worth while.

To meet this system of adjustment and finding oneself, which every graduate must go thru, several things seem desirable. As a general rule it is well for the college man to rid himself of the feeling that business

COACH SCHNEIDER ADDRESSES STUD. BODY

Men Report for Tryouts on Monday Afternoon

The first peep at Muhlenberg's new baseball Coach "Dank" Schneider, was given to the fellows last Friday morning at the regular meeting of the student body. Guernsey Afflerbach introduced the speaker, who spoke about the team that Muhlenberg would put on the diamond, the first varsity team in a number of years. He outlined the work for the coming season, and gave the fellows to understand that in order to have a place on the varsity, they will have to show the real stuff all season.

"Dank" has a lot of pep, and if one can judge, by a first meeting, he will build up a real baseball team for Muhlenberg. He called for tryouts for Monday at four o'clock, and about twenty-five men responded to the call, enough to choose up sides and play the first game of the season. There is any amount of good material on hand this year, and we should have no trouble in picking a team that will compare with any of the Eastern College teams.

The following men reported for baseball practice Monday afternoon: Crum, Holstrom, Hoffman, Shook, Neubling, Flower, Ash, Baker, Knute Johnson, Ruhf, Shover, Reese, Witt, Repass, Tursi, Riggs, Demoling and Christman.

J. CAMPBELL WHITE SPEAKS IN CHAPEL

Subject is "Life's Problems and Life's Opportunities"

Dr. J. Campbell White, vice-president of the New York Biblical Seminary of New York City, addressed the students in chapel last Thursday morning on this subject: "Life's Problems and Life's Opportunities."

Dr. White appealed to the students to make their life work one of service to God. "God will not conscript any soldiers," he declared. "All who do His work must volunteer. The only kind of service that He wants is the kind that is willing and free," he continued. Dr. White chose India, a country of 33,000,000 different religions, as the illustration for his lecture. Some of the religions of India are so bad that prosecution would follow the printing of their books in the United States. A large part of this world exercise their religious feelings in the worship of obscenity. All polytheism and pantheism are mixed up with sin. The great fault of one-half of this world is that the other half does not know how to pray. In several far east countries prayers are ground out by machinery. The only way to pray is the way our mothers taught us to kneel and talk to God.

Protestants in the United States contribute on the average one dollar and a half a year for missionary work. The world could be thoroughly Christianized in from ten to twenty

COLLEGE TENNIS RANKS FIRST

New Rating Announced by Tennis Association

Doubtless the most significant aspect of the intercollegiate ranking announced by the United States Lawn Tennis Association, is the remarkable picture the ranking gives of the growth of the sport throughout the country. The fact that it is the first ranking of intercollegiate players speaks for itself, but even more impressive is the distribution of playing strength that is apparent upon analysis of the list.

It is also of interest to note that many of those who are now winning varsity matches, not so long ago were competing under the system of junior tournaments devised by the National Association, for youngsters under 18. Phil Neer of Leland-Stanford, who won the intercollegiate last summer, started his eastern trips as the representative of the Pacific Northwest in the junior events. He competed first at Portland, Oregon where he resides.

Fritz Bastian of Indianapolis, James Davies of Los Angeles, Carl Fischer of Philadelphia, L. E. Williams of Chicago, A. H. Chapin of Springfield all went through these junior tournaments, to name only a few of those whose names are now prominent in intercollegiate tennis. The ranking was based upon performance in intercollegiate events. Walter Westbrook of Michigan, whose playing was interrupted by an attack of appendicitis was not ranked because of insufficient data.

Prizes Offered For Essays

For the best essays on the subject "What Can the INDIVIDUAL DO TO Improve Economic and Business Conditions?" Prizes aggregating one thousand dollars are offered by Kriebel and Company, of Chicago, Illinois. The essays are to range from 250 to 500 words, and must be submitted on or before April 25. Professor Simpson has further details concerning the contest, and will be glad to explain them to any students who are interested. The contest is national in scope, and is open to any one not employed by the banking firm offering the prize.

Cardinal and Grey Team Scores Ten Victories to Opponents' Nine

TEAMWORK OUTSHINES INDIVIDUAL PLAYING

By Harry E. Sharkey

One week before the basketball season opened Muhlenberg had no coach for the team which intended to represent the school in the cage for the season. Coach Roy Geary was selected to fill the position and to him fell the task of whipping the team into shape in less than a week in order that Muhlenberg might be able to play its first game which was with Ursinus. Few of the men on the team had ever worked together before, and all had to learn an entirely new system of playing. Because of these facts the prospects for the early part of the season looked pretty blue. The Cardinal and Gray basketballers were to play the hardest schedule in years and most of the strongest opponents were booked for the top of the list.

However, encouragement came to Geary's camp when his proteges took Ursinus across in the first game of the season by a score of 29-24. It was a team of veterans against a team of hard working novices and the scrap which characterizes Muhlenberg athletics came out on top once more. The following Saturday the team went to Penn and there met the U. of P. championship team and took a pretty bad beating without the morale of the team being broken. The score of 40-14 shows the superiority of the Penn veterans. Muhlenberg's next conquerer was Lafayette. In that game at Easton the Cardinal and Gray boys were touched for a 33-9 score and by that time the whole school was feeling pretty blue and skeptical. But the coach had confidence in the men he was sending out on the floor and the following week took his team to Bethlehem and gave Lehigh a pretty hard run for its money. An excessive number of foul

JUNIORS LOSE TWO INTERCLASS MATCHES

To Freshmen 49-10 and to Sophomores 42-23

The fast Freshmen team defeated the Juniors for the second time last Tuesday afternoon, by a score of 49-10.

The teamwork and excellent passing of the Freshmen presented an unbeatable combination. The game was fast from start to finish, and although the Juniors were on the jump, they were unable to find any opening.

Riggs and Orr were the high scorers for the Freshmen, placing nine and five field goals respectively. Brodell dropped three in the basket for the Juniors.

The Lineup:

Juniors	Freshmen
Brodell	F. Ash
Nagle	F. Orr
Zartman	C. Skidmore
Wagner	G. Riggs
Baker	G. Linsi

Substitutes: Miller for Nagle, Wilson for Linsi, Maglin for Orr, Messinger for Ash. Field Goals: Brodell 3, Zartman 1, Orr 5, Riggs, 9, Skid-

Editorial Comment

Boost Your College

There are many varieties of college men. The two under discussion at present are the boosters and the knockers. They are to be found in every college in the country. The main object of the booster is to spread the spirit of his school, while the knocker adopts an apologetic attitude.

The booster believes in his college, its aims and its ideals, and does his level best to live up to those ideals. In this way he becomes a living example of the kind of men his college produces. It is his college, first, last, and always. When he meets other people he is extremely conscious that his attitude reflects back on the honor of his college. He does not boast but people gain the impression very quickly that his college is a college of high standards. His spirit of college loyalty is infectious.

But the other type of college men under discussion is not quite so praiseworthy. He is dissatisfied, disgruntled, and sees no good in anything, much less convey it to others. In speaking to others about his college, his manner is not only apologetic, it is sometimes disparaging, giving impressions which are very disconcerting to the administrators of his college. Something which he would not be able to knock would be sure death to him. His one great pleasure is knocking; he revels in it; it is the very essence of his being. Apparently, he has never heard of that one great law of human society, a law as inexorable as the laws of the Medes and Persians, "If you can't boost, don't knock."

Here, in our own college, we have both varieties of these men. The knockers are to be pitied because they have failed to catch the spirit of the college. The booster, on the other hand, is to be commended for he is a credit not only to himself, but to his college as well. He is far more ready to solve the problems of life because he faces them with a smile.

As We See Them.

The ministry is the highest avocation to which man is called. His work is to make more real the relation between God and man. In this, his greatest help is his knowledge of mankind. He must have a keen insight to see into the heart of things, to be able to put his finger on the crux of the matter at any moment.

In his daily intercourse with human beings he is constantly called upon to deal with problems which affect the complexities of human character.

While there is no compromise between right and wrong, these problems must be dealt with in a liberal manner. The nucleus of liberalism can be secured in study but it must be rounded out and developed to its fullest extent in contacts with people of different races, colors, and creeds. All of us know from experience which minister is the more interesting to us, the one who has travelled and finished his education, or the one who has not.

Travel is the greatest aid for freeing man from that insularity of mind which is all too common. Wonders may be accomplished thru intelligent travel and the meeting of people. With this knowledge at his fingers' ends, such a man in one short sermon can bring together the four corners of the earth, so related that his illustrations will serve their purpose without detracting from the main theme. J. Campbell White is our ideal of such a man. A college education in Ohio, a ten-years' post-graduate course in India and the Old World, and the rest of his life in a finishing course thru-out the United States, meeting new people daily and using their lives as illustrations to drive home the points of his sermons, records the development of this man.

As we see them, a great many men now preparing for the ministry would be far more successful in their life work were they to spend a year or two of travel to finish their education. The knowledge secured in this way would endow them with that human sympathy necessary to make God more real to man.

—R. K. M.

It Pays To Advertise

If we do say it, the WEEKLY is getting better. However, it is not necessary for us to say it. We quote from a recent bulletin of Professor A. J. Weston, Executive Secretary of the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association:

"The Muhlenberg WEEKLY shows great improvement over last year. It is very marked. The issues as a whole are well worth study. They 'have many good editorials.'"

Words of encouragement like that make us get right down to work with just a little more pep and pleasure than we had before. We want you, dear reader, to get the benefit.

Just to make sure that we are going forward, the staff at its last meeting decided to publish not only the big Easter Number, but also a special funny number, as a "swan song" for the retiring staff.

We found it interesting to look back over the year's file, to see our mistakes and the printer's to compare styles of headlines, to count up the number of cuts used, to talk about "layouts," "feature stories," and other commonplaces of the newspaper trade.

Dedicated to THE FLAPPER

Oh they flop and they flap
 And they sit in your lap
 And they take everything that you give

They'll hug you real tite,
 And they'll kiss you good-nite
 It's a shame what a life they do live.

They'll bill and they'll coo
 And they'll make eyes at you
 And they'll say that you simply are fine

Their hair they will bob,
 But they'll call you a snob,
 If you should not fall for their line.

These sweet little misses
 Will sell all their kisses
 For something that you have got Men fall for their bluff
 And cry, out "Hot Stuff"
 But, 'Gee', men are fools, are they not?

So take my advice
 And don't treat 'em nice
 Or they'll make a fool out of you.
 Let's all stick together
 In all sorts of weather
 And give them a loud might boo!

SPRING FEVER

Spring is that season of the year when flowers, gentle breezes, and baseball managers begin to blow. In Spring young men fall in love. They also fall in love in Winter, Autumn, and Summer. In fact, it might be said that every season is Fall. Such has been the dire fate of man since the world began. He fell in the Garden of Eden and from the appearance of things he liked the sensation so well that he has continued to pull the same trick ever since. By constant repetition it has become a deep-rooted habit. It is even more than that. It is a chronic disease transmitted thru the whole race of man. It is baneful to his mind, detrimental to his health and unadvantageous to his wallet, leaving him speechless, senseless, and penniless.

George Bernard Shaw has said that man is not the hunter, but the hunted, or words to that effect. If we accept this view, there are only two things that can happen to a man who labors under the delusion that he wants to exist in a state of bondage for the rest of his life. If he is caught his case is hopeless. He spends the remainder of his days in sorrow, paying bills for feminine drapery and wondering why he was such an infernal fool. If he escapes the wiles of the waxwork sex he should become ory-eyed with joy.

But he doesn't. Instead he goes with a hand-dog, please-let-me-die alone look in his eyes. He is envious of the man standing beneath a bower of orange-blossoms with an expression on his face that would be more real if his ears were longer. Statistics may or may not prove anything, but statisticians allege that of every 1000 young men who fall in love, only 13 bow under the matrimonial yoke. Of the remainder, 1 commits suicide, and 986 get the wanderlust, but never go anywhere.

Scientists have searched for years for some cure for this malevolent disease of falling for skirts. While they have discovered no positive cure, they find that physical violence administered in large and frequent doses has in some cases alleviated the suffering. Those who give the treatment should be as pitiless and brutal as possible, remembering that to spare the club is to spoil the man. But no one need be a victim of this terrible disease if he will follow the immortal, the somewhat censored words of the late Colonel Watterson: "Hand 'em all the grand razz." ## FRESHMEN DEFEATED BY LITITZ HIGH

Heavier Team Scores 56 Points
To Frosh 13

The Freshmen Cage team that has been showing so much pep in the interclass games, and also in those out of town, received a severe trouncing by the Lititz High School five on Saturday evening at Lititz. The final score was 56-13.

A defeat is so uncommon to this bunch, that it makes one wonder what the trouble was,

The truth is this: The Lititz five outweighed the team by thirty-five pounds to the man. That is something to be considered, and accounts for the seemingly great beating that they received.

The Lineup:

Frosh	Lititz H. S.
Orr	F. A. Hershey
Messinger	F. Gibbel
Skidmore	C. Fasnacht
Riggs	G. N. Hershey
Tursi	G. H. Hackman

Field Goals: A. Hershey 6, Gibbel 1, Fasnacht 1, N. Hershey 3, H. Hackman 2, Grosch 2, Homer Hackman 4, Orr 1, Messinger 2, Riggs 1, Ash 1. Fouls: A. Hershey 18 out of 26, Orr 2 out of 8.

Substitutes: Ash for Skidmore, Skidmore for Riggs, Homer Hackman for Gibbel, Grosch for Fasnacht.

Senior Gives Talk At A. H. S.

strom started with a field goal and was quickly followed by two successive foul shots by Kintzing. During the first half Kintzing was a little off on foul shooting, but Freed substituted and made three out of five shots. But in the second half Kintzing had regained his unerring eye and caged five out of seven shots at the basket. Not to be outdone the Lafayette team forged ahead and within three minutes of the final whistle had succeeded in making the score a 25-25 tie. In desperation Kintzing took the ball from Brennan on the jump and Holstrom came in with one of his timely field goals. Kintzing followed it up with two successive fouls. Crate took the ball down the floor but Freed was on the job and took it away from him before he could get a shot. In the passing to and fro Brennan got his hands on the ball and made his second long shot of the evening with the result that when the final whistle blew a few seconds later the Lafayette team remained behind the Muhlenberg team in the scoring by only two points.

The Lineup:

Muhlenberg	Lafayette
Holstrom	F. Longacre
Johnson	F. Crate
Kintzing	C. Brennan
Freed	G. Bieber
Taggart	G. King

Summary.
Substitutions: Crum for Taggart. Taggart for Crum. Field Goals: Holstrom 5, Kintzing 2, Johnson, Freed, Crate 4, Longacre 3, Brennan 2. Foul Goals: Longacre 9, Kintzing 6, Freed 3, Referee, Flanagan. Time of halves 20 minutes.

TIME LIMIT EXTENDED FOR SONG CONTEST

order to stimulate further interest in the contest among the students and to promote a similar feeling among alumni the Student Council has voted extra funds in addition to those offered by the WEEKLY. This action makes it possible for the Committee to offer two distinct sets of prizes, one for undergrads and the other for alumni.

BASKETBALL SEASON JUST CLOSED REFLECTS GLORY ON MUHLENBERG

goals called on the Muhlenberg team was responsible for the defeat by six points.

In the midst of a terrific snow-storm the team went to Collegeville and beat Ursinus on their own floor. They had a hard battle but they came through victorious and with a renewed hope for continued success throughout the season. Closely following the Ursinus victory came a series of defeats at the hands of City College of New York, Army, Crescent A. C., and Gettysburg. Once more the season began to look blue for Muhlenberg. Moravian had beaten Gettysburg only a few nights before Muhlenberg was scheduled to meet the Bethlehem aggregation, but with a little extra hard work the coach piloted the team through that game to a 17-8 victory.

The Penn Junior Varsity team came to Allentown and nosed out the Cardinal and Gray tossers by the score of 26-23. This defeat was followed by a victory over Bucknell and a defeat at the hands of P. M. C. Six more games remained on the Muhlenberg schedule. In order to make the season a success it was necessary to win the six games and Coach Geary and his team to that goal. As a consequence Temple, Delaware, Swarthmore, Moravian, Haverford, and Lafayette all fell in defeat in consecutive order. It was sweet revenge for the Muhlenberg squad to snow Lafayette under in the last game of the season. The game was fiercely contested, but in the end Muhlenberg came out supreme thanks, to the splendid teamwork shown in the Y. M. C. A. cage last Thursday night.

As for the individuals on the team much could be said. It was consistent hard fighting that brought the season to a successful close and although different individuals starred at various times that fact does not detract anything from the other members of the squad. The scrubs gave the varsity a battle to keep positions in the regular lineup and whenever substitutions were made the scrub or substitute who filled the gap did himself proud. Holstrom played a remarkable game at forward and the consistent foul shooting of Kintzing featured many games, while Freed and Taggart as guards both had their turns at star defensive work and even scoring points for their Alma Mater. Another successful page has been added to the history of the athletics of Muhlenberg, and with the baseball and track prospects looking bright, all indications trend toward the year 1921-1922 being the most successful year of athletics in the history of the institution.

houses are waiting to receive him with open arms and promise of large salaries. This is not true under ordinary conditions and much less so at the present time. It is necessary for the graduate to adjust his mental self-appreciation in financial terms to the standards and levels which industry has set.

In the second place it is highly desirable to make plans as soon as possible to secure connections with some promising business house where a future seems to await the graduate who is determined to succeed by hard work and keen application.

Above all it will not be wise to postpone this securing of a position until next May or June. At that time the already glutted labor market will be further congested with thousands of prospective graduates who have lacked the foresight to prepare ahead of time for one of the most important steps of life. In ordinary times it is the prepared man who succeeds and gets ahead and this is much truer now during the readjustments made necessary by the war.

more 3, Wilson 1, Maglin 3, Messinger 3. Foul Goals: Brodell 1 out of 6, Wagner 1 out of 4, Riggs 1 out of 3. Referee: Butz.

The Junior basketballers went down to defeat Friday afternoon in the Prep School gymnasium, at the hands of the Sophomore five, by a score of 42-23.

The Sophomore have been showing real form, and found little trouble in handing the Juniors a good beating. Demoling and O'Connor did most of the scoring for the Sophomores, while Nagle was the star of the Junior team.

The Lineup:

Juniors		Sophomores
Brodell	F.	E. Roepe
Wagner	F.	O'Connor
Alderfer	C.	Demoling
Weaver	G.	Reinbold
Nagle	G.	Royers

Substitutions—Wright for Roepe, Sittler for Wright, K. Johnson for Reinbold. Field Goals: Brodell 3, Wagner 1, Weaver 2, Demoling 5, O'Connor 4, Rogers 3, Wright 4, Sittler 2, Roepe 1.

Fouls: Brodell 2 out of 5, Nagle 8 out of 12, Demoling 4 out of 8. Referee: Ritter.

GEORGE M. SOWERS CARRIES OFF HONORS IN ORATORICAL CONTEST

Will Represent Muhlenberg in Intercollegiate Oratorical Contest at Gettysburg—Thomas W. Lantz, Russell W. Stine and Ira S. Fritz, Alternates.

George M. Sowers, '22, will represent Muhlenberg College in the Intercollegiate Oratorical Contest to be held at Gettysburg College on April 8th. The Muhlenberg Alternates in the contest will be Thomas W. Lantz, '22, Russell W. Stine '22, and Ira S. Fritz '23.

Awards of these honors followed the annual oratorical contest in the college chapel on Friday evening.

There were seven speakers who tried for the honors and every one acquitted himself well and very creditably.

All Muhlenberg pins its fondest hopes on Mr. Sowers to repeat the success of Conrad S. Voight who last year won first honors in the Intercollegiate contest held at Ursinus.

Since the organization of the Intercollegiate Oratorical Union in 1910, Muhlenberg has won five first places, four second prizes, and three third prizes in competition with Ursinus, Swarthmore, Franklin and Marshall, Bucknell and Gettysburg. This record is far above that of the other schools in the Union, being approached only by Swarthmore, who has a number of victories to her credit. The winner two years ago was Russell Bachman of Muhlenberg, who is now studying in the law school at Dickinson.

Alternating with the speeches on Friday evening there were musical selections by members of the college Glee Club. The judges for the contest were: Rev. G. Harold Kinard, pastor of Christ Lutheran church who won several prizes in public speaking at Franklin and Marshall, and won the Junior Oratorical contest there; Captain Herbert B. Frederick, the attorney, who excelled at public speaking at Muhlenberg and won first

PROF. FRITSCH ENDS LECTURE SERIES

There were about three hundred people present to hear the last of Professor Fritsch's lectures in St. John's Church, Quakertown. A handsome purse was presented to Professor Fritsch in appreciation of the work which he has done, and he has been requested to deliver a series of lectures on "The Acts" next winter.

Professor Fritsch spoke on "The Three Crosses" at a Lenten service in the Episcopal Church at Newtown, Bucks county, on Sunday, March nineteenth.

MUHLENBERG TRACK SCHEDULE ARRANGED

Muhlenberg's track men are working out these days in preparation for the opening of their track schedule on April, when an interclass meet will be held at Muhlenberg. The following is the complete schedule as announced.

- April 8, Interclass meet.
- April 15, Lehigh.
- April 28 and 29, Penn Relays, at Philadelphia.
- May 6, Rutgers, at New Brunswick.
- May 13, Middle Atlantic States meet at Lancaster.
- May 20, Brooklyn Poly., at Brooklyn.
- May 30, P. M. C., at Harrisburg.
- June 10, Gettysburg here.

PRES. HAAS ON "ABUSE OF FRATERNITIES"

Says Groups Frequently Interfere With College Discipline

President Dr. Haas at the chapel meeting on March 8th expressed himself in no uncertain terms on the theme "The Abuse of Fraternities." We feel that an extract of Dr. Haas' talk will be interesting reading to all. Dr. Haas did not mince his views on this vital topic but expressed his thoughts in the matter with clarity, and with the one thought uppermost that loyalty to one's college is a mighty excellent thing.

In part Dr. Haas said: "A good thing is often made bad by the way in which it is employed. Now there is no doubt that where there is a large group of men, smaller groups will gather. The object of these smaller groups professedly is to give satisfaction for right social intercourse, and to help each other in a manner to advance scholarship, and the character of all. Such are the ideals.

"Very frequently it is as Emerson says:—'What you are speaks so loud

DR. CLARK TO LECTURE IN MUHLENBERG CHAPEL

On the evening of April 6, at 8:15, there will be a public lecture in the college chapel by Dr. Charles Upson Clark. This will be an illustrated lecture on "Greater Roumania."

Dr. Clark was formerly Professor of Latin at Yale University. Since 1908 he has been traveling and lecturing, largely on the countries and conditions of Europe. In 1916 he was director of the School of Classical Studies in the American Academy at Rome. During the war he was on the Italian battlefield and in Macedonia and Albania. In 1919-1920 he was in Roumania and other countries of southeastern Europe, from which he brought back a mass of interesting material. He has been in touch with many prominent persons in Europe and has enjoyed unusual opportunities of investigating political and social conditions. He is a man of force and personality, and is a most delightful and informing lecturer.

REV. PROF. C. B. BOWMAN ELECTED INSTRUCTOR

Replaces Prof. Cressman Who Is Now On Leave of Absence

Courses in Business Administration will be offered at Muhlenberg next year, according to an announcement made last week by president, Dr. J. A. W. Haas. This announcement follows the election of the Rev. Prof. C. B. Bowman, now of Northwestern College, Illinois, to the chair of Economics and Sociology at Muhlenberg.

With the addition of Prof. Bowman to the faculty, Muhlenberg will rearrange the required courses of the Ph.B. department to make the work of the department especially valuable for men who intend to go into business pursuits after graduation. Prof. Bowman has had ten years of experience in teaching the subjects bearing on business, and previous to that served as a superintendent of schools for a number of years, and was for a time pastor of one of the large churches of Pittsburgh.

Prof. Bowman replaces the Rev. Prof. Harry P. C. Cressman, who is now on leave of absence on account of ill health resulting from gassing during the war. Prof. Cressman under the advice of his physician, has planned to remain for at least another year at his cottage near Gouldsboro, in the Poconos.

L. S. A. CONFERENCE MEETS HERE IN APRIL

Sessions To Be Held in Christ Lutheran Chapel

An annual conference of The Lutheran Students' Association of Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey will be held in the Parish House of Christ Lutheran Church, 13th and Hamilton Streets, Allentown, on April 28, 29 and 30. The accredited delegates will be two students for the Lutheran group in each school in the jurisdiction. The registration fee has been fixed at $3 which will cover all expenses incident to the conference. The delegates will be entertained by members and friends during their stay in this city. Applications should be filed with Luther F. Gerhart of Muhlenberg College. Delegates are kindly requested to complete their registration at the Parish House immediately upon arrival so that assignments of accommodations may be made without delay. Allentown may be reached via the Philadelphia and Reading railway, the Lehigh Valley railroad, the Central Railroad of New Jersey and the various branches of the Lehigh Valley Transit Company.

Elaborate arrangements are being made for the comfort and entertainment of the visitors, and the conference.

ELECTED NEW STEWARD

Winifred Fritschman, of Bethlehem, was elected to the position of a full-time steward to the staff of the College dining room by the Executive Committee at a meeting held recently.

Mrs. Fritschman was a former student in the pre-medical course, and has many friends on the campus. The present system of having a student taking charge of the dining room was found inadequate to take care of the great number of men dining at the commons. George Sowers, of the senior class, has been serving as student, and has brought the dining room to as high a standing as possible with only part time given to the work.

PHI KAPPA TAU'S MARK 16th ANNIVERSARY

Eta and Xi Chapters Enjoy Banquet at Reading

Eta and Xi chapters of the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity on Saturday evening celebrated the sixteenth anniversary of the founding of the organization at the Berkshire Hotel, Reading. Eta hails from Muhlenberg and Xi from Franklin and Marshall. The ball-room of the Berkshire was tastily decorated with fraternity banners and pennants, and the fraternity flower, red carnation, garnished the tables.

After a menu of queen olives, blue point cocktail, consomme en tasse, broiled sea trout, potatoes natural, roast stuffed turkey, cranberry sauce, chateau potatoes, green peas, lettuce salad, french dressing, vanilla ice cream, fancy cake, and coffee, Dr. Isaac M. Wright of Muhlenberg assumed the toastmastership. He secured responses from the following Xi representatives: Dr. H. J. M. Klein, who brought words of greeting from Franklin and Marshall; Prof. J. A. Rothermel, of F. and M., who spoke for the Xi alumni, and H. C. Rhode, also of F. and M., who officially represented the Xi chapter. Dean George T. Ettinger of Muhlenberg greeted the Franklin and Marshall men. Prof. James G. Morgan of Mansfield State Normal spoke for the Eta alumni. R. H. Werkheiser of Muhlenberg officially represented the Eta chapter. Prof. H. B. Grose, Dean of F. and M., Prof. Harry D. Bailey, Muhlenberg, and Prof. Lawrence M. Fenner,

GLEE CLUB TO CLOSE SEASON, WED. MAY 3

Cardinal and Grey Musicians Enjoy Wonderful Season

Muhlenberg's Glee Club recently completed the first half of one of the most successful seasons in the history of the organization. The club has appeared before upwards of 10,000 people since February 1st and has been acclaimed everywhere as one of the best college musical organizations in the East.

The Cardinal and Grey musicians will wind up their season with the annual local concert in the Allentown High School auditorium on May 3rd. The solo and chorus work this year is of exceptional calibre while the special numbers have been received with much commendation in every concert. One of the features of the program is a one-act comedy skit written by W. Bruce MacIntosh, '19, which under the direction of Prof. J. D. M. Brown, has made an instant hit. The mandolin club and string quartet are additional novelties included in a well-balanced program.

The post Lenten schedule includes concerts in the following places: April 17th, Summit Hill; April 18th, Tamaqua; April 19th, Shamokin; April 20th, Sunbury; April 21st, Tremont; April 22nd, Schuylkill Haven; April 25th, Nazareth; April 26th, Hazleton; April 27th, Wilkes-Barre; April 28th, Scranton.

The management of the 1922 Glee Club includes: Prof. Harold J. Marks, director; Prof. J. D. M. Brown, dramatic director; Thomas W. Lantz, president; William F. Mosser, manager; Edward J. Mattson, assistant manager; Eugene L. Stowell, secretary; J. Walter Koch, press correspondent.

SALVATION THROUGH SACRIFICE ALONE

Rev. C. H. Mengel Brings Us Lenten Season Message

Rev. C. H. Mengel, pastor of Bethany Evangelical Church, this city, was the speaker at the College chapel services this forenoon, and brought us a beautiful Lenten season message. Rev. Mengel selected as the title of his theme, "One Came," based on the words of the 16th verse of the 19th chapter of the Gospel according to St. Matthew, "And, behold, one came."

The speaker in his introductory remarks briefly reviewed the conversation of the rich young man with

REV. C. H. MENGEL

Jesus, revolving around the question by the former, "Good Master, what good thing shall I do, that I may have eternal life?" And how Jesus answered him.

"The one who came was wealthy; he was a person of influence; he was strong, in the vigor of young manhood; he was morally good—all these (commandments) have I kept from my youth up."

DR. ETTINGER SPENDS BUSY LECTURE WEEK

Doctor Ettinger presided at the debate between the teams of the Allentown and Bethlehem High Schools, held in the auditorium of the Allentown High School on Friday, March tenth.

A number of teachers heard Doctor Ettinger's lecture on "Life's Perspective," which he delivered on Saturday, March eleventh in the Lehigh township High School. The principal of this High School is Mr. S. B. Landis.

The Mass Meeting held in the Lyric Theater on Sunday afternoon, March twelfth, in the interest of the Allentown Day Nursery and Children's Home, and the Volunteers of America, at which meeting General Ballington Booth, President and Founder of the Volunteers of America, was the principal speaker, was presided over by Doctor Ettinger.

On the morning of March fourteenth Doctor Ettinger delivered the address of welcome at the annual meeting of the Inter-State circulation Manager's Association held at the Hotel Allen.

Doctor Ettinger delivered an address on "Education" before the Parent-Teachers Association at their meeting in the Monocacy School building, Bethlehem, on Friday evening, March seventeenth. A Muhlenberg alumnus, Mr. C. Morris Sheetz, is principal of the Monocacy Building.

College Fraternities

We take this opportunity of heartily endorsing the thought expressed in a chapel talk recently by President Dr. Haas on "College Fraternities."

There is nothing primarily wrong with college fraternities, but their membership is made up of humans and hence finite and fallible. The very criticism made of fraternities may be made of any other social or fraternal organization with the further admission however that college fraternities embrace largely in their membership college young men and oh how we young fellows are so sophisticated, so self-certain, so readily affronted, so self-important, if you please. May our frailties be truly ascribed to the inability of sound judgment through lack of experience which comes only by mature years. Dr. Haas asserted that fraternities do not always increase the scholastic standing of a member but on the contrary sometimes may be justly charged with making the strong weaker and not adding strength to the weak. At Lafayette College non-fraternity members again proved better students than those affiliated with fraternities in the first semester. The non-fraternity men made an average of 3.06 or a grade between 70 and 80 in each subject. The fraternity group averaged 2.76. It is up to the fraternity men to do all in their power to secure themselves not merely against just criticism but to so conduct themselves that but merited praise may be theirs and that the conduct of the fraternity as a whole and that of each individual member reflect honorably the institution which they represent.

Loyalty to one's college is an admirable thing and should be the pride and pleasure of all students, fraternity or non-fraternity.

We repeat, college fraternities are all right so long as the individual members are all right.

No chain is stronger than its weakest link.

Instructors and Parents

If there is one angle of college life, and this even holds true in our public schools, which we would be bold enough to at least criticize mildly, is the fact that too many of our parents do not know and apparently do not take enough interest in to know personally the members of the faculty.

Now we are not going to criticize the parents nearly as much as we do the professors. We feel that of course too many of our parents send us to college without giving any concern about the personnel of the faculty, being thoroughly satisfied to know that the college bears a good reputation and that their sons can with implicit faith be entrusted to its care so far as their mental, spiritual and physical improvement is concerned.

From a general viewpoint this ought to be sufficient. Yet the individual instructor is "in loco parentis," and as such there is no doubt whatever that the real parent and the "in loco" should be, in fact must be, and remain on the most intimate terms and relations. No man would build a house and then allow the architect and contractor, no matter how efficient the latter might be, to erect the structure without the owner ever consulting them. Our instructors are building, not houses but our futures. How far more important then that parents and instructors should know each other personally, know each others plans, materials, the progress being made, and a host of other mutually interesting matters and things. We feel that the greater responsibility in this regard rests with the school and its teachers. Parents are more or less reticent. They appreciate the fact that in many instances they know so much less than the instructors and do not want their shortcomings revealed. We believe that there should be some point of contact and real wholesome intimacy established and maintained between the school and the parents. It is not enough that our parents get a report at the end of each school semester setting forth our standing in studies. Our parents should know about our general behavior, our industry in studies, our virtues and vices, our innate endowments, our aptitudes, our habits and all those many other things that parents are naturally interested in. Just how all this may be accomplished we shall pass on to the good judgment and keen intellect of those more gifted and experienced. Anyways we are convinced that our parents should want to know more intimately those to whom their sons have been entrusted and we also believe that the sons would find sincere delight in a more personal acquaintance with their teachers. Let's get them together somehow and we shall all be greatly benefitted.

Let Us Learn From Keats

Some time ago the writer read a short article on the celebration in England of the centenary of the death of John Keats, one of the greatest of the English poets.

It was not so much the recognition given to one that dearly deserved it that impressed the writer but the fact that England was celebrating the centenary of a man who had established himself in the hearts and minds of his people by the time he was but twenty-five years of age. Keats was but that old when he died.

There should be a thought in this for us. The young poet Keats had but a few years of mature life but he employed them to wonderful advantage. It is not for us to even make a guess at what he would have accomplished had he been allowed to continue longer to live and serve his fellow men. One hundred years after his death England pays him merited homage.

Had Keats postponed making his life effort until he was thirty or even beyond those years he would have passed on and no one or at least a very few would have ever heard of him and the world of literature would have suffered a great loss, or at least been deprived of a great pleasure.

We may well learn a lesson from the short life of young Keats. We should be reminded that at best life is uncertain and that therefore we should seize every opportunity to improve the present. Today is the day. What we learn today is at our disposal tomorrow. Let us not permit a single day to pass by without doing something or learning something that will improve and strengthen us. It may be but a little that we add each day but remember that many littles will make much in the end.

If we are to live twenty-five years or fifty or eighty let them all be years of improvement and service not merely for ourselves but for those about us and for posterity in general. It is not so much a question of how long we shall live as it is a question of how well we live those years allotted to us.

Like Keats let us not wait.

THE MODERN GIRL

Much has been said of late in this publication of the Flapper, her haunts and her actions. What has been said may be true. Perhaps it is not. But the writer thinks that what his contemporary has said of this species of womankind is the truth.

Everything is classed or grouped in some way or other. So let it be with the so-called Gentle Sex. In the writer's estimation the term "Girls" covers that part of femininity between the ages of sixteen and twenty-five. When a woman who claims she is thirty, but is really twice that age, calls herself a "girl," don't believe her. She is either ignorant or else she is living under a great delusion.

"Girls" may be sub-divided (as is done in Zoology) into three phyla; namely, the Flapper, The Modern Girl, and the Old-Fashioned Girl. The Flapper you are all acquainted with. You have seen her stalking about at night looking for some poor defenseless male. The Old-Fashioned Girl is the kind of girl that we want our sisters and future-wives to be; home-loving, decent, and a good housewife in the making. All honor and praise to her for having sense enough to keep her head level when her sisters all about her are making asses of themselves.

And now we have the Modern Girl! She is a Hybrid, a cross between the Flapper and the Old-Fashioned Girl. Her state is sad indeed. She is an Old-Fashioned Girl, who in trying to become flapperish, has made herself ridiculous. She "rolls her own" because the Flapper does. She wears furs in the summer to keep her cool and silk in the winter to keep her warm. She wears bangs so she doesn't have to powder her forehead and puffs over her ears so she doesn't have to wash them. She says she doesn't wear corsets for comfort's sake, and for hygienic reasons, yet the writer has a hunch that it is for another purpose. (The censor probably would not allow the writer to state this purpose. So use your imagination.)

The writer recently asked six Modern Girls if during the past year they had at any time made "gold-diggers" of themselves. Four frankly and openly gave positive answers, the fifth said she didn't know if she had, and the sixth said she had not but was promptly called a prevaricator by the others. Upon several occasions the writer overheard Modern Girls in conversation and the sum and substance of their talk was, "Get what you can out of them and then leave them flat." And they invariably do leave a fellow flat—flat—broke. That is the Modern Girl in a nut-shell! (Her brains, if they can be found, are also in a nut-shell.)

And so, Gentle Reader, if you would remain gentle, avoid the Modern Girl and the Flapper. But that is practically impossible. For 99.44% of unmarried men now living will fall. The other 0.56% are deaf, dumb, and blind, and so they are safe; that is not the girls' fault, tho. For the Modern Girl and Flapper will hook anything as long as it has money.

If perchance any girl, Flapper or Modern Girl, should consider this discussion unjust, she may write her defense on pink paper, forward it to the writer, and if it is worthy of consideration it will be given due publicity thru these columns.

THE SHIFTERS

Are you a Shifter? This is merely a rhetorical question and you are not required to write long letters to the editor in answer to it. We merely want to call your attention to that organization of "Gimmies," known by the name of Shifters.

The history of the Shifters was long lost in the nebulous uncertainty of antiquity. But recent investigations of the Austro-Bulgarian Society for Anthropological Research have established the fact that the Shifters were in existence away back in prehistoric times. It has been discovered that at one time there was quite a split in the ranks. Ak, one of our long-tailed ancestors of the jungle, desired the beautiful but hairy wife of Woo-Poo. He whispered the magic word, "Gimme", but Woo-Poo considered that Ak was taking an unfair advantage, and internecine war ensued. When the last coconut had been thrown and the last buck private had ceased chattering from the top of a tree, the remnants of the tribe laid down the inexorable law that no Shifter dare meddle in the family affairs of another Shifter. This rule has been followed very closely, with only a few million exceptions.

Since that time the history of the organization has been easier to trace. We can name but a few of the most prominent members. Noah, who paddled his own canoe, was a Shifter. Jonah, who gave himself up to the whale, was another. Crafty Chris Columbus, the heart-breaker for whom Queen Isabella hocked her jewelry, was at one time the president. Cap Smith, the president at a later date, married the coy buxom Indian lass, Pocahontas. But women will be women, and Pocahontas divulged the secrets of the organization to her tribe, so that John was forced to shoot her. A few Hollanders initiated an entire Indian tribe and got Manhattan Island for the price of a pair of shoes at present day prices. The well-known "Fatty" Arbuckle was expelled from the organization by the Grand Omnipotent Conclave of High Moguls because of certain charges brought against him by the district attorney.

The Shifters are founded upon the principles of give-and-take. This has decidedly no reference to the game of put-and-take which passed out of existence a short time ago. If you are a Shifter you are required, at the magic word "Gimme", to hand over anything which you may possess; wallet, chewing-tobacco, best girl, cigarettes, or the latest copy of Hot Dog.

You will find Shifters among people of all classes and occupations; boot-blacks and bankers, society belles and washerwomen, bellhops and those who use weapons, real estate agents and politicians, flappers and less interesting girls; the Shifters make no social distinctions. All recognize the tie that binds them together. If you are in need of anything, stand upon your left ear, give the rifle salute with your right foot, and the world is yours. But try and get it.

COACH SCHNEIDER IS GIVING BASEBALL SQUAD HARD TRY-OUT

—Courtesy Allentown Morning Call

Coach "Dank" Schneider of the baseball squad is fast whipping into form a nine that will worthily represent Muhlenberg on the diamond this season. Dank has divided the squad into two nines and pits them against each other at every opportunity. His varsity nine is still far from selected but we can all rest assured that it will be the best possible to be named from the entire field of aspirants. A number of the boys are giving evidence of a splendid quality and are more or less certain of landing fixed positions on the team. Mr. Schneider knows baseball. He will be recalled for the wonderful work he did as box artist on a Lafayette nine of years ago, and his semi-professional work in later years. As a pitcher he batted exceptionally well. We all would like to see a baseball team of equal prowess with that of our successful football eleven and no one can better take care of that for us than our new coach. Let's all boost for Schneider for he is doing all possible boosting for us. The opening game will be called ere long and the time to do some good boosting is right now. The Allentown Morning Call on Monday morning, under the caption "Hard Week Ahead for Muhlenberg Candidates," said:

"Allentown won't have big-league or minor-league baseball this summer" said a well-known local baseball man yesterday afternoon "but local baseball fans are going to see some fast baseball out there at Muhlenberg just the same. I've seen those Muhlenberg boys throwing the ball around there during the last week, and to me it looks like the spring training camp of one of the major league teams."

And that's the verdict of the majority of fans who have seen Coach Schneider's youngsters in practice. Schneider himself is a veteran of the game, and it not making any rash predictions. Just the same he feels that Allentown fans are going to be treated to some real baseball.

The real practice of the team has not started yet, but it will this week. So far Coach Schneider has been content to let the boys take some of the kinks out of their bones, but the coming week will see him put them down to some real hard training licks.

PRES. HAAS ON "ABUSE OF FRATERNITIES"

that I cannot hear what you say.' In human society no small group has a right to exist if it interferes with the rights of the whole group, and when it becomes undemocratic. There is a limitation of our obligations as Christians. We should be brothers to all who need a brother. Kindness and justice are due to all men irrespective of group membership. Whenever a group interferes with the spirit of unity there is an abuse.

"Frequently fraternities show very poor judgment in their selection of men. Every fraternity carries in it some elements which do it no good. Whenever such elements are not amenable to correction why not eliminate them? Why shall the fraternity carry them? Fraternities are doing a great amount of harm by their failure to remove the undesirable. What ought to be a select group is not.

"The next abuse is the manner in which fraternities rush men. They take out men to dine them and wine them, and they engage in methods which they would not like to have made public. They go into kinds of competition that even politicians do not indulge in. A group ought to appeal to the character of the man, and not be won by dinners. Fraternities are often too anxious to get men, without being judicious whom they rush. It is an evil to the men themselves and to the fraternities.

"It is frequently found that the scholastic average of men after connecting themselves with fraternities has not improved.

"Our list shows that fraternities are too much represented by men who should be in the other group. The helpfulness in scholarship is changed to a situation in which one man does the thinking and the others copy his work. Fraternity brothers helping each other in this way are not helping good, but simply to get men thru. Such help is an abuse.

"Fraternity men do not distinguish between proper loyalty to their promise and keeping things secret that should not be kept secret. The element of loyalty goes to the extreme of covering things up. The man who commits himself to a group so that he has sold his individual right to truth and justice interferes with his own individual obligations. In other words such a man sells his soul. I wouldn't sell my soul to any organization, any religion, or any ideal.

"Fraternities play too large a hand in the politics of the college. Too often they control them with a high hand, not pursuing just methods but underhand methods. Many a student body becomes a sorry group if this kind of politics is played.

"And now to come down to modern history. Fraternity groups frequently interfere with the discipline of the college. Two men are suspended; one has no connection with fraternities, but the other has and brings pressure to bear. If fraternities would apprise themselves of the real facts and exercise equal discipline, then I would believe in fraternities. When a fraternity group in the midst of an investigation goes to a certain man and asks him to withhold certain evidence to shield that group, it is high-handed. When a group tries to carry fraternity politics into the faculty and when it tries to blacken another fraternity by matters that are not relevant then it is fighting in a dirty way."

GEORGE M. SOWERS CARRIES OFF HONORS IN ORATORICAL CONTEST.

prize in the Intercollegiate contest during his Senior year, and Prof. John D. M. Brown, of the Muhlenberg faculty, who has charge of the courses in oratory.

The program was as follows:

Music, George A. Rupp, "Makers of War or Peace"; Ira S. Fritz, "The Wheels of America"; Luke S. Sweitzer, "The Emancipation of Agriculture"; music; Russell W. Stine, "My Country, Right or Wrong"; Titus V. Druckenmiller, "A Friend of Man"; music; Thos. W. Lantz, "The International Saviour"; George W. Sowers, "Americanize Americans"; music; decision of judges.

Prize Winning Oration

A liberal extract of Mr. Sowers'

Prize Winning Oration on "Americanizing Americans" follows:

"Almost every week immigrants can be seen entering New York harbor. They come from all ports of the Mediterranean. They set sail from countries bordering the North and Baltic seas. This unending stream of humanity brings with it confused ideas of freedom and justice and is therefore a menace to America's institutions. We are aware of the stupendous task of assimilating the languages and ideals of foreigners and of making them true Americans. We realize that it is a tremendous undertaking to make this Babel of tongues throb with the spirit of America. But—HARK YOU—the problem of AMERICANIZING AMERICANS is far greater than the problem of Americanizing foreigners.

"It is not a question of teaching Americans the English language and the duties toward the language of their adoption. It is the problem of teaching them a finer interpretation of American principle and imbuing them with a passion for social justice and civic righteousness.

"The average American thinks the greatest freedom exists where every man may do as he pleases. Men secretly or openly defy the law which is the highest expression of the will of the people to preserve order. We have seen the rule of the striking miners in Virginia; we have witnessed the attempted lynching of mayors of cities who tried to enforce law. We are stirred at the assaults of our institutions by organized groups defying law. It is not possible for any man to have a law unto himself in so complicated a society as ours. The Constitution of the United States is the absolute law of the land. It has been the medium of insuring domestic tranquility for over a century and we cannot afford to substitute it for some new untried system of laws.

"We detest those who wilfully break the law, but we detest even more those, who, holding with exactness the letter of the law, yet break the spirit of the law.

"I hold that man a criminal who secretly robs me of my possession, but I hold that man a greater criminal who, openly robs not only me but one hundred million people under the guise of obedience to law.

"The corruption of our body politic is not due to the democratic organization. It is due, either to the neglect of the average citizen to perform his civic duties or due to blind adherence to party.

"I would bow my head in shame if it could be said of me, that by folly or avarice, I sold my vote. Yet it is surprising to know how often this course, or what is as bad how many do not vote at all by sheer neglect or indifference.

"For half a century practically every citizen of New York City has been aware that Tammany Hall is a corrupt organization which has been out for public plunder and yet most of the time Tammany has ruled the city.

"We are inclined to lay the blame for bad legislation upon faulty systems, when many of the causes lie deeper. No governmental device, no matter how ingenious, can entirely neutralize ignorance and indifference. We need better systems, but above all, a higher sense of public righteousness and responsibility. We can have no regeneration in our affairs of administration until we have a rebirth of civic interest and loyalty.

"Another evil of Americanism is blind adherence to party. Loyalty to party is natural enough and to a certain extent commendable, but loyalty to the extent of blind partisanship is one of the greatest vices of the American citizen.

"Patriotism is akin to citizenship. In the past our patriotism was aimed at a foreign foe. We need a patriotism of a new age. Teachers should instill into the hearts of their charges that self-devotion which results in good citizenship. They should breed a bitter contempt for the spirit that would better itself at the expense of others. With infinite skill they should lead growing minds to believe that he is the best patriot who contributes most to the cause of righteousness in his nation's affairs. They should teach that the public servant who uses his position for personal profit is as great a traitor to his country as was Benedict Arnold, and infinitely more contemptible.

"I have pointed out to you some of the defects of American citizenship. We cannot be blind to the fact that Americans have defied and are daily defying both the spirit and the letter of the law. We feel continually the effects of partisanship, indifference, and ignorance.

"If we wish to hand undefiled to our posterity that rightful heritage—the privilege of American Citizenship, and if they are to attain still loftier heights in civic righteousness and responsibility, we must purify the American soul, we must regenerate the American spirit, we must AMERICANIZE AMERICANS."

First Alternate

The oration on "The International Saviour," was first alternate selection for Thomas W. Lantz, who said in part:

"The present and all that it holds belongs to the nations and the peoples who preserve their self-control and the orderly processes of their governments; the future to all those who prove themselves the true friends of mankind. To conquer with arms is to make only a temporary conquest, to conquer the world by earning its esteem is to make a permanent conquest.

"America has won the admiration of the Near East peoples by its disinterested altruism and philanthropy during the past five years. Only thru the Door of the Great Heart of America can these Near East nations be saved. Behold, a republic that after the progress of war, helped distant races whose wrongs were not in contemplation when hostilities began; a republic, that when peace was restored turned a deaf ear to the clamorous voice of greed, and to those borne down by a foreign yoke, spoke the welcome words—Be Free! Let this be the record made on history's page, the silent example of this republic—the International Saviour."

Second Alternate

"My Country, Right or Wrong?" was the title of Russell W. Stine's oration. An extract follows:

"Patriotism is love of country and loyalty is its life and weal. However this idea has been greatly perverted. There is a rule called right, and a measure called truth by which human actions must be gauged.

"Patriotism was once devotion to a King. It was once allegiance to aristocracies. It became duty to a democracy. But each of these expressions were based upon the false doctrine "Our Country, Right or Wrong?" "Real patriotic duty will be expressed when he corrects his nation when she is wrong. Practice that higher patriotism which says if necessary 'Our Country, you are wrong, wrong in the light of history, unjust toward humanity, unrighteous in the sight of God, who has ordained that truth and right shall be eternal.'"

Third Alternate

"The Wheels of America" was the theme of Ira S. Fritz's oration. He said in part:

"What is the real greatness of the age in which we live? The outstanding greatness is its genius for efficiency and organization of personal and physical forces, symbolized by the wheel.

"But this faith in organization, this creed of the wheel, is crushing the individual. Unless, the genius of the wheel is enlivened by a new spirit it will meet with destruction at its own hands.

"For America, this redeeming spirit is the spirit of democracy. True democracy recognizes the rights of the individual. The final form of democracy is spiritual in its nature. It is a kind of organism in which every member of the group comes to his fullest development.

"And there is a higher allegiance of soul to God. The establishment of such a society is the greatest challenge that comes to all Christians everywhere. The real greatness of America in our age will be realized when such a society is set up among men."

Titus V. Druckenmiller

Titus V. Druckenmiller, spoke in part as follows, on "A Friend of Man":—

"The essence of greatness is the spirit of service, and not an ambition to win success, achieve fame or gain a fortune. Service asks the toil and struggle that no discouragement can daunt or defeat.

"America's roll of honor is inscribed with the names of men whose lives were the very embodiment of service. Among these sterling men there is none we love and honor more than Abraham Lincoln. Not only America honors him, but men of every race and clime, of high rank and lowly station speak his praises and glorify his name. Travelers see his picture in the cottages of Alpine mountaineers. Russian peasants know the story of his life. In the East, Far and Near, in awakening China and in tyrannized Korea and in naked, plundered Armenia, little children know his name and his deeds.

"Steeled by work, disciplined by privation, trained by hard experience and chastened by sorrow, Lincoln became a sturdy man. His keen mind sensed the nation's need. In ability and genius he towered above all other men. His influence will forever guide us. Men, of a free nation, will you save the struggling, groping world? Then live your lives true to the ideals of Abraham Lincoln, the servant, the leader and the friend of man."

George A. Rupp, '23

George A. Rupp spoke on "Makers of War or Peace." He said in part: "The greatest good that should come out of the Washington Conference is not the limitation of armaments but the limitation of the thought of war. We must limit international greed; we must prevent international hate. War is simply the boiling point of greed.

"There is no wish to minimize the importance of what this conference has done; but as it progressed it became quite clear that some of the world's leaders are still wallowing in the old war ruts, are still two-gun men at heart, even though they may agree to tote only one gun for awhile. Statesmen may examine with profit the final gain to their countries from the campaigns of the great aggressors, the imperial war makers, the wholesale butchers,—Caesar who ruled the world, Napoleon who conquered Europe, and Wilhelm who sought to dominate it.

"Permanent peace is possible and practicable. The coming generation will hail not the makers of war but the makers of peace."

Luke S. Sweitzer, '23

Luke S. Sweitzer spoke on "The Emancipation of Agriculture." An excerpt follows:—

"For the past five or ten years the farmer as an individual has been competing against unionized industry, and speculation. What is the result? The Agricultural depression is greater today than ever before in our history. The Agricultural Bloc is trying to improve the situation. Its action is greeted with favor among the farmer, because it aims to put agriculture on an equal basis with other industries.

"When as many as one fourth of the farmers of the western states are going bankrupt, is it not time that we rise above the domination of partisan legislation and rescue the industry that feeds and clothes our country. Shall we ignore the occupation that engages one third of our population, and contributes the greater part of our best manhood, or shall we save and protect agriculture from economic ruin, and thus emancipate America's greatest industry."

Muhlenberg has every reason to feel mighty proud of her basketball team which closed such a successful season just a short time ago. The praises of the team were sung as the season progressed, with the loudest notes those emphasizing the harmonious work of the team's personnel. Each member of the team at all times played with a zeal and vigor as if victory rested solely on his individual efforts, and yet no one tried to "star" it all. The team was a galaxy of stars, each shining with a brilliant lustre yet the more brilliant when en semble. As heretofore noted the season did not promise much at the outset but by a persistency and a consistency that was almost uncanny at times, the team went through the season with a whoop, and Muhlenberg wrote another pleasing chapter in her basketball history.

Cornell, made short extemporaneous addresses. P. F. Opp, grand editor of the Laurel, the Phi Kappa Tau organ, concluded the post-prandial season with an address on "National Echoes."

The guests of honor included Dean H. R. Omwake, Prof. H. B. Grose, Franklin and Marshall; Prof. Harry D. Bailey, Muhlenberg, and Prof. Lawrence M. Fenner, Cornell.

Phi Kappa Tau is one of the youngest national fraternities, and Saturday its organizers looked back with pride to the day when they founded their first chapter at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, sixteen years ago.

It was only recently that the Marshall Club of Franklin and Marshall College was installed as the Xi chapter of Phi Kappa Tau.

The Chinese Students Christian Association in North America has about 1500 members. The student Y. M. C. A. in China has 174 associations and 19,000 members.

BASEBALL SCHEDULE FOR ALLENTOWN PREP.

Although the schedule is not as yet complete, the Allentown Prep school base ball team already has twelve games booked for the coming season, and with teams much stronger than those played by the Purple and White teams in other years.

Blair Hall, Penn Freshmen, Mercersburg and Bethlehem Prep are but a few of the hard games booked for the 1922 season. The opening game will be played the second week in April against the Lehigh Freshmen, no definite date yet being set.

Coach Farber, who had charge of the team last season, will again coach the team this season. He issued a call for candidates and had more than thirty men out trying for the team. At least ten good players, members of last year's varsity and scrub team, will not be eligible until after April 1st.

The tentative schedule is as follows:
April—Lehigh Freshmen, pending.
April 22—Open.
April 26—Lafayette Freshmen, away.
April 29—Bethlehem Prep, at home.
May 3—Open.
May 6—Penn Freshmen, home.
May 10—Blair Hall, away.
May 13—Mercersburg Academy away.
May 17—Open.
May 19—Schuylkill Seminary away.
May 20—Phillipsburg High, at home.
May 24—La Salle Prep, of Philadelphia, at home.
May 27—Bethlehem Prep, away.
May 31—Perkiomen school, at home.
June 3—Wyoming Seminary, at home.

SALVATION THROUGH SACRIFICE ALONE

The question the young man desired answered was, "What can I do with my wealth, influence, strength or character, whereby I may come into possession of eternal life?"

"The thoughts in the minds of many is that salvation from sin and the spiritual life are the result of man's own activities. But this is a grave mistake, and to act upon it results in grave trouble and serious disappointment.

"The answer to the question of the young man as formulated from the Gospel records, leads us to say that human salvation is not attained by the use of any quality we may possess, no matter how admirable it may be in itself. Salvation is only secured by sacrifice; by the sacrifice of Christ on the Cross.

"When I survey the wondrous cross, On which the Prince of Glory died, My richest gain I count but loss, And from contempt on all my pride.

Forbid it, Lord, that I should boast Save in the death of Christ, my God, All the vain things that charm me most, I sacrifice them to His blood."

"This is the great work done by God in Christ Jesus, to make salvation possible for all men, and all who accept Him in Faith shall live."

REV. GRAMMES AT EASTON

Rev. Arthur P. Grammes, an alumnus of Muhlenberg College, and a native of near Allentown, on Sunday, March 5th, assumed the pastorate of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Easton. Rev. Grammes was graduated from Muhlenberg in 1914, then going to Mt. Airy Theological Seminary, Philadelphia. After that he went to Cambridge, Mass., where he took post-graduate work at Harvard University, and while there did student pastoral work under the auspices of the Lutheran Synod of New York and New England.

His first pastoral charge was at Berwick, Pa., where he served for two and a half years, coming from there to Easton. He is thirty-two years of age, the youngest pastor that St. Paul's has ever had. His wife was a Miss Kuhns, formerly of Allentown.

REV. OBERLY, '89 IS LAID TO REST

H. Sherman Oberly, '20, and
Robert S. Oberly, '22
Survive

We regret to announce the death of one of our alumni and a close friend of the college, Rev. Frank C. Oberly of Washington, Pa. Mr. Oberly's death is the result of several months' illness. His body was brought to Shoenersville and interred there on Saturday.

Rev. Frank C. Oberly was born at Catsauqua on March 14, 1869, attended the Catsauqua High School, was graduated from Muhlenberg College in 1889, and was ordained in 1892. While at college, he was the Editor-in-chief of the MUHLENBERG and after his graduation taught for a year in Muhlenberg Academy. He is the first of his class to die.

After his ordination, Rev. Oberly held charges at Lurray, Va., Decatur, Ill., Greenville, Pa., Pittsburg, Pa., Butler, Pa., and Washington, Pa. He spent 30 years in the ministry, 25 of which were spent in the Pittsburg Synod.

Rev. Oberly was always a staunch supporter of Muhlenberg. His son, Sherman, was graduated from Muhlenberg in 1920 and Robert will be graduated in 1922. The WEEKLY expresses its deepfelt sympathy to the bereaved family.

EXTENSION DEPT. WILL GRADUATE 16

Majority of Class Will Receive Bachelor of Philosophy
Degree

Sixteen students will receive diplomas in June for completing their college courses in the Extension Department which is under the direction of Dr. Isaac Miles Wright, Ph.D. Ten of these students are ladies who will receive Ph.B. degrees with the exception of one who will receive a B.S. degree. These ladies, together with those who graduated in 1920 and 1921, will make a total of twenty three ladies who received Muhlenberg degrees.

Those who will graduate in June are Miss Emmaline Buss, Ph.B., of Belvidere, N. J., a teacher in Belvidere High School; Miss Ada James, Ph.B., of Palmerton, Pa., head of the English Department of Palmerton High School, and served with the American Expeditionary Forces during the war.

REV. A. G. FLEXLER SPEAKS IN CHAPEL

"Day of Atonement" the Subject of the Speech

"The Day of Atonement" was of great importance in the lives of the Israelites and is equally important today," said Rev. A. G. Flexler, '00, Pastor of Trinity Evangelical Church, in his talk to the students here today, taking his theme from Lev. 16. "This is because it is the day that God appointed for this particular purpose and its purpose is clearly set forth."

Rev. Flexler then stressed the fact that the priest for that day must be made holy by a sacrifice and by putting on clean linen garments. The people were to regard the day as one of rest and refreshment. For them it was a Day of Repentance and of remission of sins.

RECORD HOLDERS IN TRACK GIVE TEAM HEARTY SUPPORT

HARD CONSISTENT WORK WITH STUDENT BODY COOPERATION IS NEEDED

THE ALUMNI ARE BACKING THE TEAM

By Raymond L. Waller

The time is not very far distant when the sharp crack of the pistol, and the sudden rush of crouched figures will denote the actual start of Muhlenberg's track season.

In order that that start may portend a victorious season, the WEEKLY has taken advantage of Professor Fasig's suggestion, and has communicated with former record men and those interested in Muhlenberg's track welfare, and has secured valuable suggestions from men whose successful experience will enable us to profit by former mistakes. It is after all the enthusiasm of the man who has gone out into life and made good that inspires us. For that reason the WEEKLY feels grateful and fortunate in being able to publish suggestions from such men as Benjamin Hubbard, Muhlenberg's title holder of the broad jump, with a distance of 22 ft. 7 1-5 in., who is now at Columbia; and from William Fitzgerald, whose interest in Muhlenberg track has always been recognized. Russel Gaston, record man of the discus, with a throw of 116 ft. 10 in., and Walter Reiser, title man of the hammer throw, with a distance of 113 ft. 7 in., give us valuable information, as to how to build a winning team. Letters from other men will appear in subsequent issues of the WEEKLY.

Encourage the Team

Most branches of sport are what the name implies, but when sport is applied to track a more significant interpretation looms up in the shape of a fellow plugging day after day, rain or shine, kicking up the cinders, and fighting like blazes to do it under 50. These men need encouragement and it should be given in such a manner that the men would feel it and clip seconds off the sprints and add inches to the jumps. And old Muhlenberg's track team would be kept up to standard.

With loads of success for the season,

Very truly yours,
Benjamin A. Hubbard.

Train Well

Track is a sport which has always been of great interest to me, both as a student and an alumnus. It is an event which not only requires physical ability, skill and endurance but it is also a sport which is a great character builder and can be engaged in by a larger group of students than any other collegiate game.

The track team at Muhlenberg, to be successful, must carry forty men on the squad. It should have three times that number turn out and stick throughout the season. Particular attention should be stressed in having fresh men in each event and not repeat the deplorable feature of last year's squad where the college was represented by a "two-man" team.

Regarding my own event, the mile, any student with determination and two legs can run this race. The students of medium height and weight, well proportioned, however, have the best physical requirements.

In this event condition counts more than anything else. The stomach, lungs, heart action and muscles must all work in harmony and be in the best possible shape.

In training for this race, a man must work out regularly and systematically each day, keeping in mind the thought of constant and gradual development. The preliminary work of the first three weeks should consist mostly of body conditioning. Emphasis should be placed on the development of an easy, ground-covering, non-tiring stride with a few wind sprints worked in with the dash men.

Later on, in preparation for races, alternate your daily program with workouts over the three quarters, running strong with speed work over 660 yards for the development of a sprint and rapid striding. This speed work is important, for too many milers are content to stay with the crowd and do not have the necessary burst of speed required at the finish.

Most races in the mile are lost because the runner does not take a fast enough first quarter. It is imperative that a good miler be able to swing the first lap at a good clip without taking too much out of his strength. For students at Muhlenberg to run a mile in four-forty, the first quarter must go in sixty-eight seconds, the half in two-twenty-one, the three quarters in three-thirty-eight and the last quarter in sixty-two.

Wm. A. Fitzgerald, '17.

Practice and Fight

Here are my ideas for a college athlete to follow. There are two things necessary for the successful track man.

1. Practice
2. Fight.

Practice:

Since track meets are won on individual points, much individual initiative is required in practice, and above all keep up in your studies, never get down in them and you'll feel better mentally to go ahead. "Practice must be consistent, practice must be conscientious."

Fight:

Here is where the student body can help keep up the spirit. Never let the old dobber down. Instill men so that they will not be satisfied by merely outpointing their opponents, but will do their best.

If Muhlenberg tracksters make their pass-word "practice" and their watch word "fight" the success of the track season is insured.

Sincerely,

Russ Gaston.

Be A "Go Getter"

VALUABLE BOOKS ARE PRESENTED TO LIBRARY

Mr. Horace Lentz of Mauch Chunk has, through Prof. Fritsch, presented the College Library with a two-volume set of books entitled "Edwin Austin Abbey, A Record of His Life and Works." The two volumes contain several hundred reproductions of his drawings and paintings. The College authorities highly appreciate this interest taken by Mr. Lentz in our institution and hope that he may sometime pay us a visit and address the student body.

SRS. CONQUER JRS. IN FINAL CAGE BATTLE

Interclass Basketball Season Is Ended by a Furious
Struggle

On Prep. School floor last Tuesday the Seniors brought the basketball season to a close by defeating the Juniors in a close game 14-13. The game started rather slowly and at half-time found the Seniors ahead by but two points, 6-4. The second half was fast and furious, each team fighting every inch of the way. With but five minutes to play the Juniors found themselves trailing by five points, so they accordingly spurred and aided by a timely goal by Boyer and two fouls by Brodell had scored thirteen points until the whistle blew. But the Seniors were not to be vanquished and their fourteen points were just enough to win.

Brodell was high scorer with three field and five foul goals. Bleiler rung in three double deckers for the Seniors while Lazarus hooked two more. Hoffman played his usual consistent guarding game while his colleagues were tossing in the counters.

Seniors		Juniors
Bleiler	F.	Brodell
Kirchner	F.	Boyer
Gebert	C.	Alderfer
Lazarus	G.	Lutz
Hoffman	G.	Wagner
	G.	Zartman
	G.	Weaver

Field Goals—Bleiler 3, Brodell 3, Lazarus 2, Kirchner 1, Gebert 1.

Foul Goals—Brodell 5 out of 8.

Referee—Holstrom. Scorer—J. G. Miller.

INTERCLASS B. B. SEASON IS ENDED

Standing of Teams and Best Individual Players Are Announced

The Committee on Inter-Class Basketball announces the Freshman Class as the winner in the Inter-Class Basketball competition, with six victories to their credit and no games lost. The Sophomores take second place while the Seniors finished third with the Junior team occupying the lower berth.

Brodell, although a member of the team finishing last, is awarded first place as the best single player. Orr of the Freshman Team and Reinbold of the Sophomore aggregation are awarded second and third places. The standing of the individual players is rated according to the number of games played, individual scoring and ability in team work.

On the whole, keen interest was shown by the majority of the teams

KIWANIS CLUB HAS MUHLENBERG DAY

Basketball Team And Glee Club
Are Guests at Luncheon

In recognition of their success on the basketball floor the past season the seven letter men were guests of the Kiwanis Club at a dinner given at the Hotel Allen last Thursday noon. The dinner was in charge of Mr. Claude Himelright, who introduced every one of the players to his brother Kiwanians. Mr. Himelright spoke in glowing terms of the accomplishments of the team and lauded them in their sportsmanship conduct shown throughout the entire season. He called upon George Holstrom to say a few words. Mr. Holstrom responded in behalf of the team thanking the Kiwanis Club for the support which they have shown to Muhlenberg athletics.

The Muhlenberg Glee Club sang several selections during the course of the dinner which were very well put over.

Dean E. Ettinger of the faculty delivered an intensely interesting talk. He pointed out the fact that Muhlenberg has done as much advertising for the city of Allentown as any other advertising medium. He also portrayed the four cardinal principles for which the institution stands, Culture, Character, Conscience and Christianity.

Coach "Dank" Schneider of the baseball squad spoke a few words concerning the prospects of a championship base ball team at Muhlenberg this season. He highly complimented the college on the high types of characters of the boys of the college.

GLEE CLUB GIVES INFORMAL CONCERTS

Boys Sing at Masonic Banquet
And At Palmerton

During the past week the Glee Club broke into their Lenten vacation by giving several informal concerts in Allentown. On Tuesday they sang for the Blue Lodge Order of the Masons, at their Temple, Eighth and Hamilton Streets. The numbers were given after the regular meeting and while the members were enjoying their sandwiches, coffee, Eskimo pie, and cigars. Mattson and Koch put on their Vaudeville act, and delighted their audience as usual. The quartette rendered several selections, and the Club sang some of their best numbers. Prof. Marks accompanied the club at the piano. After the singing the boys were invited to indulge in their favorite pastime of eating and smoking. Some of the fellows were even lucky enough to have some boxes of goodies packed for them to take home, which served as their breakfast, and allowed them to pound their ear a little longer the next morning.

The Quartette, consisting of Stowell, Bjerkoe, Winkleman and Lantz, and accompanied by the two versatile artists, Mattson and Koch, went to Palmerton Friday afternoon to give several entertainments. They entertained at both the public and the high school in the afternoon, and at the brotherhood meeting at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church in the evening. Dr. Rees of Leighton spoke at the meeting, on the new common service book and hymnal used by the United Luth-

Editorial Comment

That Wit Number

Hence, loathed Melancholy, and hither ye gloom chasers. Now and emphatically, let Muhlenberg show the world that not all the artists go to Penn State, not all the joke-smiths go to Columbia, and not all of the world's funny men are at U. of P.

The "Wit Number" of the WEEKLY is imminent. Or will it be "wit out wit?" Let the students decide. Rumors are frequent that a new publication is coming, to represent Muhlenberg along with FROTH, TAR BABY, WAG JAG, and the other college funny sheets. Let's try our 'prentice hands on the WEEKLY, and show ourselves that it can be done.

Jokes, verse or worse, cartoons, gags, parodies, bright thoughts, send them all in; the waste paper basket will be under lock and key. Shoot them over before the Easter recess if you can, or immediately afterward. You haven't so much time at that. Get the old bean going, and come across.

Remember the Track Team

We have recently been favored with the letters of several of our alumni whom we have requested to give suggestions and encouragement for our track team. These letters come at a very opportune time because the track team does not have quite as much backing from the student body as in former years. Of course, there is a reason for this: both baseball and track are being carried on at the same time and, since baseball has been revived, more emphasis is put upon that sport than upon track.

Now we certainly want a good baseball team and we want the student body to support it in every way but that does not say that the track team should be neglected. Our alumni are looking for us to make a good showing in both baseball and track and we're going to do it.

So far most of the track work has been indoors. Outdoor work will come with nice weather. Let's get out there on these fine spring afternoons and encourage the men who are grinding away to make our track season a success. —H. S. M.

Let's Move That Coal Pile

Fellows, here is a chance for all of you to use a little of your surplus energy and at the same time show in a concrete way that you are back of that baseball team.

The Graduate Manager of Athletics has requested that the pile of coal which is behind the catcher's box be removed as soon as possible because it interferes with the catcher's work. Already about 50 men have been at work and a large portion of it has been removed but there is still much to be done. We want every man in the student body to do his share.

Some of the men who are out for the baseball team have already done as much in this work as they could. That's spirit. We don't want any slackers in the student body. We want men of action and then we can accomplish big things.

Let's all dig in and MOVE THAT COAL PILE!

—H. S. M.

Campus Courtesy

It is taken for granted that a man entering college has acquired during his preparatory period a knowledge of the essentials of courtesy. Under this assumption, he is supposed to know how to act as a gentleman should. While we realize that there like traditions, there still remain certain hide-bound and machine-tain infallible distinctions which mark the courteous man. We might look for courtesy from some men at Muhlenberg until the stars burn out.

It is a matter of common knowledge that underclassmen, and freshmen especially, are supposed to be the first to offer a greeting when they meet professors or upperclassmen. This is a tradition, a tradition founded upon reason. There is no need to explain the respect due to professors; that is obvious. But perhaps it might be necessary to explain to some underclassmen whose heads have been turned by ideas of their own self-importance that there are well-founded reasons for the respect due upperclassmen. They are higher in academic standing; they have had more experience in college affairs; and as underclassmen themselves, they have rendered respect to the upperclassmen of their day. Rules are made and enforced for such petty and inconsequential offences as failure to wear a freshman cap or walking on the grass, but no effort is made to inculcate the courtesy which marks the college man.

Deviations from courteous conduct are glaring at Muhlenberg. Those who have the interests of their college at heart often wonder what would be the opinion of visitors if they saw a student who forgot himself so far as to drape himself around the neck of a faculty member with cries of "Oh, Doc, Doc, Doc!" It is certain that the visitors would go away with no flattering opinions. In the commons, too, there is no restraint. The only rule is: "Get yours and keep going." A meal at the commons has all the appearance of a savage barbecue.

Some freshmen have such boorish manners as to enter an upperclassman's room without knocking. They do not hesitate to pry into the affairs of the occupant of the room; in some cases being so inquisitive as to read letters which may be left upon the desk.

Perhaps a class in etiquette might be a solution for the problem. But it is doubtful whether a lecture course would be of much avail. If associations up to this time have had no more influence upon the manners of some students than is apparent, a lecture course could add but little. It is the duty of all upperclassmen to demand courteous conduct of underclassmen. But they should remember that there is a great field for improvement in all classes.

UNIV. OF VERMONT WILL PLAY HERE

First Baseball Game of the Season is Scheduled for April 6th

The first team to try the mettle of our baseball team will be the University of Vermont nine, which will play on our diamond on Thursday, April 6th. Final arrangements for the scheduling of the game were made last week. It will be a chance right off the bat for the wearers of the Cardinal and Grey uniform to show what stuff they are made of.

"Dank" Schneider is determined to make that first game a victory. The warm weather of the last few days has allowed a more effective practice. The coach has been running the squad through a snappy infield and outfield practice, followed by games between picked sides.

Some very promising material has been showing up among the thirty or more men who are turning out each afternoon. Candidates for the pitching position include Neubling, Witt, Hoffman, Gebhart, Huey, Baker, and Harris. Crum, Flower, Schweimler, and Voigt have been catching. Infielders include Weston, Grimmet, Campbell, Weiss, Heffley, Rufe, Freed, E. Johnson, Holstrom, Shook, Ash, Freed, K. Johnson and Tursi. Candidates for outfield positions include Di Leo, Wagner, Brodell, Snyder, Demoling, Repass, Winn, Christman, and Shover.

INTER-CLASS VOLLEY BALL

The Interclass Volley Ball games will start immediately following the Easter vacation. Each class manager is asked to have his team ready for the opening game, which will be played Wednesday 4 p. m. April 20. These contests will be important, since it will increase the number of points which a class has to have in order to get the Interclass Championship. If a team does not appear on the stated date, the game will be forfeited to the class which is represented. More details will appear later in the WEEKLY. Following is the schedule as has been arranged.

April 26, Srs. vs. Sophs.
 April 27, Jrs. vs. Frosh.
 April 28, Jrs. vs. Sophs.
 May 2, Srs. vs. Frosh.
 May 3, Sophs vs. Frosh.
 May 4, Srs. vs. Jrs.
 May 5, Srs. vs. Sophs.
 May 8, Jrs. vs. Frosh.
 May 9, Jrs. vs. Sophs.
 May 10, Srs. vs. Frosh.
 May 11, Sophs. vs. Frosh.
 May 12, Srs. vs. Juniors.

All games will be played on the Volley-Ball court, which is adjacent to the Tennis courts.

RECORD HOLDERS IN TRACK GIVE TEAM HEARTY SUPPORT

is the preaching or advice giving habit.

When at the invitation of the WEEKLY I was invited to contribute A MESSAGE from my stock of staid, mature and profitable experience, that might be helpful in the upbuilding of a strong track team this spring, a dozen sermons bobbed up in my mind, each of which I felt confident was just the right antidote for the particular poison of which the men at Muhlenberg are afflicted.

Fellows you'd never believe it but the secret of a successful track season this year lies wrapped up in the little old word WORK. No doubt to many of you this may seem strange, but let me assure you it's truth just the same. Some day you'll learn the most profitable of all lessons. If you haven't learned it—that hard work really does get you somewhere.

To put across a regular track team you've got to be "GO GETTERS INSTEAD OF GOAT GETTERS."

To build for success depends to a very large extent upon the general attitude of the student body and the gumption of each individual in it. Talking won't create a team—the rah raking kind of college stuff won't get you anywhere—neither will stories entitled "How to be come a record holder" achieve the results you are after.

The crux of the matter resolves itself into the power to will and then the willingness to work, plus the real article.

You fellows back HOME must first of all really want a bang up good track team and you must want it badly and whole heartedly too. There must be that sort of honest, reliable enthusiasm current on the campus that makes itself felt in terms of (that much abused something we call) spirit. Not spirits, for they are phantoms. But SPEAR-IT—"the nail it to the mast" variety. We have all seen too much of the mush room brand that sky rockets and flares up every time there is a smoker and is then slept off. What you have to develop is a real honest to goodness let's go attitude, that permeates the entire institution and persists and works and flourishes and finishes head up and going strong.

Inspiration from Muhlenberg's record holders may possibly serve a purpose but the real prescription is cultivation. Cultivate the proper attitude. You can't catch it like the measles. Then fertilize it with education, forcibly, to the nin-cum-poops if necessary. Let us have a real team if we have to fight for it. Which means nothing more than willing, working, enduring, sacrificing, and swearing, you will accomplish your end.

Muhlenberg has the best track material she has ever had. Just put that in your pipe and smoke it. There is no reason why every track record at college shouldn't be literally smashed this spring. A man doesn't know what he can do until he tries and tries and sticks with it. I know of men who worked hard—who wore blisters on their hands and feet, day in and day out—rain or shine, who made the team despite big weight and height handicaps. And I'll tell you another secret, this is the method of becoming a record holder.

So much for the general attitude of the student body.

Now there is the individual in it. A chain is just as strong as its weakest link. If the entire student body wants a successful track team then each individual in it will get out and hustle and sweat to make it one.

I dare say that every team Muhlenberg has ever had could have far eclipsed its record had the entire student body appreciated the need and realized the responsibility of going out as individuals, stripped for action.

You don't know what you can do until you try and try and try.

Give the track team, its captain, and its manager your earnest support.

Learn to work hard while you are in college, for it is a cinch you'll have to dig when you are earning your living. Go out for track—scrub—carry water—cheer—do anything that means service and we'll clean them all up and what is more you will become a man that the College will feel proud of, and, that is of most importance.

Sincerely yours,
Walter L. Reisner, '15.

STUDENT BODY WILL MOVE THE COAL PILE

Professor Horn was present at the regular student body meeting on Friday and appealed to those present to help move the coal pile to a place further removed from the baseball diamond. Immediately after the meeting, Profs. Horn and Fasig led the young army that went to work hauling the coal away.

The student body also passed the following amendment regarding the WEEKLY staff:

"Article V, Section 2a is to be amended to read as follows:

The staff shall consist of an editor-in-chief, who shall be a senior; three senior associate editors; four junior associate editors; one senior business manager; one junior assistant business manager, and two sophomore assistant business managers; a senior circulation manager and a junior assistant circulation manager."

PROF. HORN HEARS DR. MOFFAT

At Lafayette College last Wednesday Professor Horn attended a lecture by Dr. Moffat, one of a series delivered at Lafayette last week on "Love in the New Testament." Dr. Moffat is well known as the author of "Moffat's Translation," one of the most successful of the modern renderings of the New Testament.

No Interclass Wrestling

The Student Council Committee on Interclass Wrestling announced that no wrestling matches can be held because only one class, the sophomores, has entered any men. But the Student Council decided that the Sophomore Class should be awarded four points toward the loving cup because of the spirit that they showed.

offered by the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company of Boston for the best answer to Mr. Edison's question, "Who Was John Hancock?" has been awarded to Leon V. Quigley, a student at the Worcester (Mass.) Polytechnic Institute. This answer, giving a correct, concise and comprehensive statement of the position occupied by John Hancock in American history, is printed below in full.

"Who Was John Hancock?"

JOHN HANCOCK was an American statesman and patriot.
His signature is found on the oldest and most important documents of Massachusetts, and of the United States. He was the first signer of the Declaration of Independence and was the first Governor of Massachusetts.

John Hancock was born at Quincy, Massachusetts, in 1737.
He graduated from Harvard College, and entering upon his uncle's business became a successful merchant in Boston. He gained much in social power and in wealth, being meanwhile justly popular for his integrity and ability.

He was in 1765-1770 a selectman of Boston and a member of the general court. With Samuel Adams he led the Massachusetts Whigs, and only escaped capture at Lexington and Concord by virtue of the valiant fight by the Minute Men on the "Nineteenth of April in '75."

John Hancock was subsequently known in various positions:
as President of the Continental Congress, as Major-General of the Massachusetts military forces, as President of the Constitutional Convention. He died at Quincy, Massachusetts, October eighth, 1793.

The historical position of John Hancock is unique in State and Nation. He wielded great political influence but was always liberal and public-spirited. His name is most prominent as a Whig leader during the American Revolution in such events as the Boston Massacre, the Boston Tea Party and the battles of Lexington and Concord.

John Hancock signed his name first to the Declaration of Independence. He thus risked his own "life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness" that these privileges might be obtained for others to enjoy. To this end he "pledged his life, his fortune, and his sacred honor."

That he was popular and efficient may be judged from the fact that he was for ten years Governor of Massachusetts, being elected annually to this office by popular vote.

LEHIGH VALLEY BRANCH OF CHEMISTS MEETS IN CHAPEL

Prof. Parr of University of Illinois, Speaks on "Fuels"

MANDOLIN AND GLEE CLUBS ENTERTAIN

The members of the Lehigh Valley Section of the American Chemical Society were the guests of Muhlenberg, for the first time, last Thursday evening, when they held their regular meeting in the chapel. There were about seventy-five members of the society present, besides students, faculty-members, and townspeople.

The meeting was opened with several selections by the Glee Club which were well received and enjoyed.

Prof. Fasig, at whose urgent invitation the society came to the college, welcomed the chemists to Muhlenberg. He said that the faculty and students would always be ready to entertain the society.

Then came the feature of the evening, the talk on "Fuels" by Prof. S. W. Parr head of the Department of Applied Chemistry, at the University of Illinois. Prof. Parr illustrated his remarks with stereopticon slides. His discussion was chiefly about the manufacture of coke.

Prof. Parr first gave a review of the sources of the world's coal and oil fields. He stated that practically fifty per cent of the world's coal is mined in the United States, and that three-fourths of the world's oil also comes from this country.

He said that the bituminous coal deposits in Illinois and neighboring states are as valuable as any in the east. Anthracite coal is a curiosity in the Middle West.

Prof. Parr described the coking constituents of coal. He said that if the ratio of hydrogen to oxygen is one to one the coal may be coked, but if the ratio is six-tenths to one, or less, the coal may not be coked. Although the Illinois coal is of the non-coking class, results of experiments at the University of Illinois show that it may be made into a good coking coal and used in the manufacture of a fairly good coke for metallurgical purposes.

Prof. Parr ended his address with the statement that we do not very much about coal.

The meeting was then opened to discussion. A great number of interesting questions relative to the

FRESHMEN ARRANGE BASEBALL SCHEDULE

The Freshman baseball team shows signs of fine material. Manager H. E. Knies has arranged a schedule of big games which includes mostly dates away from home. Only one game will be played on the home field, Lafayette Frosh.

The squad thus far, consists of a goodly number from which some promising material will shortly be chosen. Some of the candidates who have reported are Henry, Reinhard, Riggs, Tursi, DeLeo, Hess, Winn, Hillegas, Orr, Skidmore, Brath, Markowitz, Kremser and Kindt.

The schedule for the season runs as follows:

April 15—Norristown High (Away).
April 27—Reading High (Away).
April 29—Lafayette Frosh (Home).
May 6—Whitehall High (Away).
May 10—Lafayette Frosh (Away).
May 13—Keystone State Normal (Away).
May 17—Bethlehem High (Away).

Lantz Enters Civic Service

Thomas W. Lantz, class of 1922, has been selected as one of the fifteen college men from the universities and colleges in the east for Community Service, Incorporated, One Madison Avenue, New York City. "Community Service" is a large growing national civic organization. Last year Messrs. Hoffberger and Lynch were chosen from Muhlenberg.

TRACK PRACTICE IN SPITE OF RAIN

Squad in Good Condition for Lehigh Meet on the 15th

Altho rain interfered with practice the latter part of the week, decided improvements were noticed among the track aspirants. The track is in fine shape and speed trials can be made in a short while. Reinartz has been kept busy with quite a few new men who look promising, among whom are Wilson of Belleville, N. J. whose work in the dashes has been of high calibre. Kintzing, of Perkiomen, has shown splendid form as a high jumper and big things are expected from him.

Steigerwalt is possible the biggest bet in the quarter mile and as he is rounding into form has been jogging the quarter in fast time. Yehl from Mount Alto Forestry school is stepping thru the half mile like a veteran after several years absence from track.

Hodgin has been taking care of the hurdles and javelin throw while Sowers of last years team has been dusting off with the shot put and javelin. Begel and Rex are figuring in the hurdles, while Webb, Summ, and Seyfried are doing the mile.

DR. HAAS WINS PRIZE CONTEST

For Best Statement Of A Philosophical Creed

Dr. Haas won the prize for the best statement of a personalistic philosophy offered by the "Personalist" a publication of the University of Southern California. The contest was open to professors of philosophy throughout the country. "A Personalistic Creed" which took the prize is printed below.

I believe that the energy of the universe demands will as its solution.

I believe that the order of the universe calls for intellect and purpose.

I believe that the beauty of the universe implies supreme feeling.

I believe that the moral implications of life indicate ultimate goodness.

I believe that the progress of history points to final righteousness.

I believe that a sound theory of education must posit universal human freedom.

I believe that the best philosophy of religion ends in the axiom of God as Spirit and love.

I believe that all these claims are best united in a doctrine of personality, divine and human, individual and social.

Dr. Clark Here On April 6th

Dr. Charles Upson Clark, noted traveler and lecturer will give an illustrated lecture on "Greater Roumania" in the Chapel next Thursday evening, April 6th, at 8:15. The public is cordially invited to attend what promises to be a most interesting lecture.

SENIORS PLAN FOR COMMENCEMENT WEEK

Events Will Extend from the 11th to 16th of June

At a class meeting held last week the Senior Class of Muhlenberg College perfected plans for the celebration of their commencement week, which will extend from the 11th to the 16th of June.

The events of the week include the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday, June 11th; the President's reception to the Senior Class on Monday, the 12th; Class Day Exercises on the afternoon and the Senior farewell dance on the evening of Tuesday, the 13th; ending with the Commencement Exercises and the conferring of degrees on Thursday, June 15. There are other events scheduled for commencement week but these are the ones with which the Seniors are directly connected.

The commencement speaker is secured by the college authorities and at this time no announcement has been made as to who will speak this year.

The class roll will number about 35 men, in addition to which 16 members of the Extension Division will receive their diplomas. The class of 1922 will be the 55th to be graduated from Muhlenberg.

Elections have been held to select the men for the various parts of the class day program, with results as follows:

Roy H. Hoffman, of Oley, the president of the class, will deliver the address of welcome, W. Theodore Benzé, of Philadelphia, and G. Herbert Gebert, of Tamaqua, will give the class prophecy. The committee for the presentation of gifts, "booby prizes", "leather medals", and the like will consist of Frank W. Lazarus, of Bethlehem, Andrew C. Kehrli of Scranton, George M. Sowers of Auburn and Charles M. Bolich and Paul F. Spieker, of this city.

The "Mantle Oration" will be made by Thomas W. Lantz, of Shiremans-town, winner of last year's Junior Oratorical Contest. Robert S. Oberly, of Washington, Pa., was selected as class poet, being noted for many verses contributed to the Muhlenberg WEEKLY. To Russell W. Stine, of this city, falls the task of preparing the last will and testament of the class, bequeathing to their successors all the pains and joys of the Senior year.

Being one of three classes to include in its roll no married man,

Display Cases Completed

Work was completed last week on the placing of four new display cases in the Department of Biology to hold the collection of birds used in connection with the courses in Ornithology.

The cases are of a special design with glass sides and plate glass shelves so arranged that the birds are in full view, and can be taken out at any time for closer examination. Each case is six feet high, six feet wide, and three feet deep. They were presented to the college by the Ladies' Auxiliary.

JUDGE CLAUDE T. RENO ADDRESSES STUDENT BODY

Dr. Ettinger's Speech Reprinted

By special request, the address which Dr. Ettinger delivered at the dinner of the Kiwanis Club on Thursday, March 23, at which the Muhlenberg Basketball Team and Glee Club were present, appeared in the Allentown Morning Call of March 26.

HOLSTROM ELECTED BASEBALL CAPTAIN

Opening Game on Thursday with University of Vermont

Muhlenberg's baseball team is now ready to enter the fray in a test of strength. Last Thursday morning the coach distributed suits among the following men: Crum, Witt, Hoffman, Baker, Weston, E. Johnson, Holstrom, Shook, Rufe, Repass, Ash, Lazarus, Flower, Freed. After the suits had been distributed, he called the men together and then told them that there were four more men whom he considered every bit as good as those who had been more fortunate, and that he hoped to secure four more suits to supply these men. He urged everyone, whether he had made the team or not, to come out for practice. After each man had received his suit, ballots were cast for captain, resulting in the election of Holstrom.

Regular practice was held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Thursday and Friday, due to the inclement weather, the diamond could not be used for practice. Capt. Holstrom will have charge of the team on Monday and Tuesday. During the coming week the team will be given lots of still work to fit them for Thursday's game with the University of Vermont and for Saturday's game with Moravian College.

COURSES OFFERED IN 1922 SUMMER SCHOOL

Prof. Barba Will Take His Place in Faculty at That Time

The Catalog of the Muhlenberg Summer School which appeared last week is more complete than any previous announcements of the same kind have been, and consists of a fair sized pamphlet describing the courses offered. The school this year will extend from July 3rd to August 11th.

Last year the Summer session attracted an enrollment 100 per cent greater than that of 1920, and preparations are being made by Dr. Isaac Miles Wright, head of the Extension Division, to care for an equal increase this year. Dormitory room for women will be provided in the Allentown Preparatory School building, and the men will be accommodated in the college dormitories and dining room.

As announced in the catalog, a special course in the content and method of arithmetic will be given by Prof. H. W. Dodd, Supt. of Schools of this city. The work in the Junior High School methods will be presented by Prof. C. F. Seidel, the supervisor of Junior High School work for the city. Dr. Wright will personally give a course in Oral and Silent Reading.

"College Fraternities" Subject of Interesting and Prac- tical Speech

OUTLINES FRATERNITIES FROM THEIR INCEPTION

Judge Claude T. Reno addressed the student body this morning in Chapel on "College Fraternities." His fifteen years experience as a national officer of college fraternity has enabled him to make an exhaustive study of college fraternities, old and new.

He outlined the spirit of the college fraternity from its very inception, going back to the founding of the parent college fraternity, Phi Beta Kappa, for his illustrations. This fraternity dates back to the beginning of the nation in 1776, when it was founded in Virginia by the sons of the men who were then engaged in throwing off their allegiance to the old world.

To quote the address of Judge Reno: "They took as their motto, Philosophy, the guide of life, and formed what was essentially a literary society. Their meetings consisted of the reading of essays, making speeches, and other routine of such societies.

"Phi Beta Kappa spread into New England, founding chapters at Harvard and Yale, finally reaching Union College, New York, where it met with opposition which manifested itself in the formation of fraternities in imitation of itself.

"All the fraternities founded in those days were essentially literary societies with a Greek name. They laid no claim to being fraternities with the true feelings of brotherhood.

"This type of society lasted until the end of the Civil War, which shot the entire system. After the war the work of reorganization was attempted within the various fraternities, but the war had changed the men so that they were not satisfied with the old ideal of only a literary society.

"They had found a comradeship on the battlefield which they had never dreamed of in college, and they felt that it was the spirit they wanted in their fraternities of the future. The young man who attended college in the South in those days following the war felt that the North and the South must be cemented with a new bond of friendship, in order to wipe out entirely the bitter feeling which existed at that time.

"This spirit manifested itself in the fraternities founded from then on, and from 1870 to 1900 the fraternity was based entirely on brotherhood. But between 1895 and 1905, the college administrators began to examine the fraternities, and found some good and some bad things existing. In some cases the bad outweighed the good, and a movement was started to abolish college fraternities. Legislation to abolish them was even passed in a few states.

"Then the leaders of the fraternities began to examine themselves, and made an effort to alter themselves to conform with the ideas of the college executives. In this effort the college fraternities began to revive the old ideal of Phi Beta Kappa, of a cultural fraternity with high scholastic standing. This has been carried out so that now, without losing their ideal of brotherhood, the college fraternities have brought back the ideal of Phi Beta Kappa. Not that they have become literary societies in any sense of the word, but that they have intertwined the two to make the col-

The Use of the Library

Someone has said that a book is a man's best friend. No one can express the value of a book in better terms. But how many of us have lived for days at a time without giving so much as a thought to the number of good friends about us? The opportunities for many a re-creative hour spent with a good book are offered by numbers of libraries, and are passed by unheeded. Here at college this condition is exemplified by the great number of men who do not use the library. To them we might say that there are quite a few volumes of modern fiction there as well as those representing ancient history and foreign tongues.

On the other hand, there are men at college who like the books so well that they keep them out of the library for a month at a time, and especially at a time when there are some others who need them for their required reading. While there are a few men who might need several weeks for one book, the average man does not require more than a few hours of continuous reading. Their love for the book is apparently so great that they keep it on hand to show to all their friends. In this way, to follow their reasoning, the book will have a much greater circulation than if it had remained in the library where only the few who choose would see and admire it.

These men could serve their friends and the college to much greater advantage if they returned the books on time. The library is open during the day and in the evening for this purpose.

Freshman Fines

The present system of fines for infractions of freshmen rules is not accomplishing results. When this system was instituted it was thought that all petty troubles with freshmen would end when they became familiar with the ways of the college. But apparently they forget the offense as soon as the fine is paid. The penalty of wearing a yellow tag is laughed at by the freshmen and by outsiders as well.

Perhaps the offense would not be so easily forgotten if the fine was worked off. The appearance of the campus could be improved to a great extent with a few hours of work on the part of the freshmen offenders. The walk from the dormitories to Chew street is in need of topping, and there is a pile of cinders behind the power house which could be used for the walk. A part of the coal pile covers a space needed back of the baseball diamond. The tennis courts are constantly in need of attention. With these and other things constantly cropping up there would be no lack of useful occupations for freshmen who persistently break regulations.

All ordinary work on the campus pays thirty-five cents an hour. The equivalent of a one dollar fine would be about three hours work. The system of fines has been employed and has failed. We believe that the system of penalties outlined here would be more successful.

—R. K. M.

Campus Singing

A movement has been started to innovate something at Muhlenberg which is practically a tradition at many other colleges. The Student Council is at present working out the details of a plan whereby we are to have community singing by the student body.

This movement is one of the best started at Muhlenberg in a long while. It is certain to rebound to the advantage of everyone. If we unite upon a common basis in something like community singing we are sure to have a greater and deeper friendliness one toward the other. Many of the petty and inconsequential antagonisms which exist on the campus will be wiped out. A feeling of fellowship and brotherliness will permeate the college. We are taking an important step toward a Greater Muhlenberg.

Everyone should get behind this movement and give it all the support possible. Spring is here and there are no other ways by which we could spend the everlengthening warm evenings more enjoyable than by the singing of college songs. No one is expected to be a grand opera star but we can all carry a tune. When we leave college we will go with a respect for our fellows, a deeper love for our Alma Mater, and precious golden memories of our college days.

—H. W. H. '23.

The Modernola Fund

From all appearances everybody has forgotten the Modernola Record Fund. The few records that the committee has been able to purchase are furnishing a great deal of entertainment for the student body. But these records are overworked and new ones should be procured. As yet not all the members of the student body have contributed to this fund.

During the coming week, the contribution box will be moved to a more conspicuous place near the modernola. If after playing a selection of records, you have enjoyed them and desire more entertainment, make a contribution. If, however, you have not enjoyed them, drop some money in the box, and others more to your taste will be purchased.

reider are working up for the two mile event.

The squad looks very good and with two weeks more of practice before the opening meet with Lehigh on the 15th of April.

OUR OWN BOOK REVIEW

THE SHRIEK, by Boran Deade.
 Romany Publishing Co. $1.35 at all news-stands.

This book is bound to be a best-seller and we earnestly recommend it to all romantic but careful people between the ages of eighteen and eighty. It is safe, sane, and moral, and will make young girls weep, middle-aged ladies blush, and wise men gnash their teeth. From cover to cover it is full of sand dunes, mosquitoes, men of dark, swarthy complexions, and moonshine; meaning, of courses, the refulgent beams of the lunar body.

The heroine of the story is Hazel, a sweet, innocent flapper of nineteen or twenty. Mr. Deade does not state her age explicitly, but we are willing to hazard our guess because of the ingenious remarks she makes when she is off her guard, or when she pretends she is, which amounts to practically the same thing as far as mere man is able to know. Hazel is requested by the authorities to leave college when the matron discovers a still under her bed. Piqued by this little episode, she decides to run away and seek adventure along the Jersey coast.

Belmar is inhabited by people who do nothing but sleep and clean out their attics for the accommodation of summer visitors. Thither flees our playful Hazel.

She takes lodgings at a hotel owned, managed, and kept in order by a man with a wooden leg and a glass eye, who in turn is owned, managed, and kept in order by his wife. His wife is a large, portly red-faced woman, upon whose upper lip a moustache gave early promise but never fulfilled its expectations.

Hazel's good looks, charming smile, and fashionable attire make her the center of attraction. Staying at the hotel are a number of dark, silent men, who sit in the sun all day long with the brims of their hats pulled down on a level with their eyes. In some mysterious way which the novelist does not feel called upon to explain, these men learn of Hazel's secret. They demand of her that she deliver up to them a certain recipe or formula. She refuses and flees in a rowboat. They pursue her in a fast motor launch and just as she is about to be captured, a mysterious stranger in a hydroplane rescues her. He takes her back to her parents and introduces himself as one who had fallen in love with Hazel at first sight two years before. He took a job as janitor at Hazel's college, and when she was expelled, had followed her to protect her from harm.

To prove that the novel is all that can be wished for as romance, we take the liberty to quote the last scene of the last chapter, with some expurgations.

"They stepped out into the soft, mellow moonlight and wandered hand in hand to a remote part of her father's estate. They were overcome by the deep and solemn mystery of the summer night and spoke only in monosyllables.

The narrow glen was full of the brooding power of one universal spirit. The music of her presence was singing a soft melody in Filbert's blood; he was struck with wonder at the marvelous beauty of her womanhood. . . . Some dim-remembered and dream-like images convinced him that they had loved at some time past in the ages, in Ninevah, Carthage, or Babylon.

The magic of the night spelled love and urged him on. The murmur of soft winds in the tree-tops syllabled her name in cautious whispers; the scent of roses that stole to him with every breath of air made his senses reel. He moved slightly and their shoulders touched. They were thrilled, and their souls vibrated in unison. His arm began to encircle her waist. She awaited it with an exquisite torture of delight. Suddenly she found herself leaning on his breast, and as his lips dropped to meet hers, her lips flew upward to meet his. This must be love, she thought in the one moment of reason that was left to her. She wrenched herself free for a moment, gazed for a fleeting second into his dark, luminous eyes, and with a low moan sank back into his embrace. His warm, wet, passionate kisses flooded her eyes, her lips, her cheeks. . . . Then they sat quietly for a long time, awed by the majesty of their emotions.

"Hazel asked him: 'When did you first love me, dear?' She was amazed that she used the word so easily.

"I loved you' sweetheart, from the first time I saw you. All my days I had sought for you with an indefinable yearning. No other girl could ever mean so much to me as you. When I met you my dark hours of longing were swept away like crumbling ashes. Then I felt like some watcher of the skies when a glorious burning star swims across his vision. Do you see all those stars up there, dearest? They are the kisses I must give you."

"But it will take all eternity," she protested.

"We have all eternity to live," he whispered, with a kiss.

"Thus they sat and talked, stung by a delicious throng of sensations. They were thrilled with a sense of cosmic adventure so that they had an exquisite perception of things beautiful and rare and all the world was drenched with a soft golden light."

We have an argument with Mr. Deade. We are rather realistically inclined and we do not believe his account. It is our modest belief that he should have written it thus:

It was the night of the dance given in Hazel's honor. Filbert had every dance but the sixth, which Hazel felt obliged to give to the fiance of her best friend. As the music started up for the next dance, Filbert said to her, "Say, kid, let's beat it away from these eggs and slip out for a smoke."

"Sure," she agreed. They went outside and seated themselves on a rustic bench. Hazel covertly glanced at Filbert as he lit a cigarette, drew the smoke into his lungs, and blew it out with a grunt of satisfaction.

He puffed away in silence for a while. Suddenly he reached out and stroked the back of her hand. "Say, Hazel, you look awfully nice to-night."

"Do you think so?" she parried. "Yes, you look so sweet and—demure, that's the word."

"Oh, quit trying to kid the goldfish."

"I'm not kidding. Honest, I'm not. You do look sweet. You're the sweetest girl on earth. I always thought so."

Hazel considered this avowal of admiration in silence. I wonder if this poor fish is trying to propose to me, she thought; Heaven knows it's about time. As he did not say any more, she was afraid that he had lost his nerve and her chance would be gone. She intertwined her fingers with his and gave a slight pressure. She glanced shyly up into his face and immediately became deeply interested in the tip of her shoe. That ought to get him, she thought. Woman, the incomparable strategist, was playing her old game.

Encouraged, he essayed again. "Do you know," he began in a husky voice, "I like you immensely. you are awfully nice and sweet. Uh—what do you say we get married?" He finished with a gulp.

Now that she had won, Hazel wished to taste the sweetness of her victory in full. "But I don't know you for so very long," she whispered. The recording angel began to write furiously.

"That doesn't count at all," he pleaded. "It's what we feel toward each other. Won't you tell me that you love me just one teeny-weeny bit? Please."

She snuggled closely to him, looked up to him and smiled. "I do," she whispered. He kissed her, and she wished that he would smoke a better brand of cigarettes.

Thus they sat for a long time. Suddenly he said, "Say, uh—How's your old man fixed?"

"Oh, I can handle him all right. He's got plenty of money."

This was their love-making, full of biology and mystery.

COURSES TO BE OFFERED IN 1922 SUMMER SCHOOL

have music on their permanent certificate, Miss Mildred Kemmerer will give a course of two hours a day. Miss Kemmerer was a special student under Dr. Dan, who is now head of the State Department of Music, which means that the course will in every way fulfill the state requirements.

Taking his place on the faculty for the first time, Prof. Albert Barba, newly elected head of the German Department, will offer a few courses this summer. He will give courses in English left open by Professor Brown, who will be taking a vacation this summer. The German work will remain in the hands of Prof. Fritsch.

Coming here for the third consecutive year, Miss Carrie Graham, of Rochester, New York, will again teach methods of supervised study for the grades. Her classes have been very popular.

The summer courses are designed not only for teacher, but also for undergraduates wishing to make up work or desiring to anticipate requirements and shorten their college course. A copy of the Summer School catalog may be had by addressing Isaac Miles Wright, Pd.D., No. 240 North St. Cloud Street, Allentown, Pa. Practically all of the regular college subjects will be found listed in the schedule.

lege fraternity of today.

"They also found that they had a right on the campus only so long as they lived in accord with the wishes of the college presidents. The measure of the worth of a college fraternity is the ability with which it lives up to its ideals. The college fraternity man of today has come to feel that his loyalty is due first to his college and then to his fraternity, and the fraternity is only recognized as a good thing only as it helps to build upon this spirit of loyalty to the college.

"The old day has passed when lawlessness was rampant in the college and in the fraternity. That fraternity cannot long exist which lives in opposition to the laws of the college community.

"The idea has come into the minds of the college fraternity men that the spirit of brotherhood which they strive for should not be limited to their own narrow circle, and they have come to spread their spirit throughout the college and even to outside organizations.

"It is with this widening of their sphere of brotherhood, that they have come to show in their lives the spirit of brotherhood manifesting itself in their relations to all men."

Easter Surety

This space of years called Life is but a breath;
Its period if brief, a flash of light
Flung flambeau-like athwart the awful night
Then, all is darkness and we call it Death.

A hand is lifted and a task begun,
A noble voice is heard by eager ears,
Then silence fills the reaches of the years,
And half the work is laid aside undone.

An innocent is cursed before its birth,
A babe is suckled at a vicious breast,
A wave of social sin lifts high upon its crest
A blameless thing and dashes it to earth.

Take thought, all men who argue for the right,
Is God less just than you? Nay, scorn the thought.
For mortals immortality is bought,
And Death is a dissembler shorn of fright.

MORE ENCOURAGEMENT IS GIVEN TRACK MEN

McGovern, '19, and Kline, '21,
Give Experiences and Advice

Interest in track among the alumni seems to be all that can be desired. The various record holders are sending in encouragement and advice as they have been requested and the WEEKLY hopes that this may stimulate more interest in track among the students.

Both James F. McGovern, '19 and Arlan Kline, '21, have done much during their college days to further the interests of track.

HOW TO TRAIN A TEAM

The Place Track Holds in Sports

"We have foot-ball, base-ball, basket-ball and track. Each is on excellent sport in its respective season, however track is the distinctly individual sport of all four major sports. It is the one sport in which every boy has a chance, regardless of size or weight. There is little doubt but that it tops the list when we speak of true sportsmanship. In all other branches of athletics, we have sportsmanship 'tis true, but at times the intense rivalry in competition, quite out-distances our true sportsmanship ideals. In track we have rivalry but it is displayed in a more friendly manner. There is little if any foul play in track, and the best man wins, and wins on his true merit alone and unaided. I quote Beirl Rudd, the famous Oxford runner, when in a talk at Harvard last summer he said, 'that the track and field meets between representative teams of European countries and U. S., did more to promote good feeling between the various countries, than all the disarmament and peace conferences.'

"Just a passing word on track as a health measure. I have seen boys go out for track who did not heap records, or make varsity teams, but at the end of the season there was a noticeable change for the better in their general physique. We all know the story of John Paul Jones, famous Cornell runner, who had very weak lungs when he started track; and who a few years later broke the world's one mile record and was known as the "leather-lunged Jones." We know the place track holds as a builder for other branches of athletics. There is no sport but which requires speed, and it is track which enables the athlete to increase his speed. It is for this reason that most football coaches encourage their football men in going out for track.

The Proper Position of the Body in Running

"First of all I shall dwell upon what I consider a highly important point in running, the position of the body. The position of the body should be inclined at an angle of about 80 degrees, in other words more forward than perpendicular. The common fault of a great many athletes today, the body is too straight and rigid. How often do we see a novice runner when nearing the finish, lose the poise of his body with the result that he is running back on his heels, instead of keeping the body poised over and running on the balls of his feet. The head should be inclined a little forward, and held firm thruout.

Sprinters and Distance Runners

"The sprinter should spend the first few days of his training in the gymnasium, with the chest weights, and in the exercise of pulling up the body. At least 10 days of jogging should follow using great caution to run far upon the toes, lifting the legs high, and stretching them out as far in front as possible. Another very important point is bounding, that is as soon as the ball of the foot strikes the ground a bound should be cultivated so that the runner will remain on the ground for as short a time as possible. It is a difficult matter to master, but as soon as it is accomplished it is practically half of sprinting. Do not neglect your starts, they are very important, but not too early in the season. Many a pulled tendon is the result of early season starting. I shall not dwell on the proper starting position, the coach should be consulted as to that as it can be far better demonstrated than explained in writing. Proper breathing is also a very important point in sprinting, it should be practiced for a few minutes both morning and night. Assuming that you have taken your preliminary two weeks of road work including jogging and hiking you are now ready to begin active work for your specialty. Each day however, upon reporting on the track, you should jog a lap very slow paying particular attention to developing or lengthening your stride. Next in line follow your wind sprints, which I wish to emphasize as being highly important. By wind sprints I mean, you start out real slow gradually increasing your speed, running the last 20 yards at your maximum speed. The total distance of these sprints should not be over 125 yards, taking 2 or 3 such sprints a day. Follow these with a few starts, and close with jogging a slow lap around the track. I would not advocate any additional work, until at least a week of such training. After that you will add dashes at top speed, starting with the 50 yard dash, and gradually increasing the distance up to the 220. After these distances from day to day, and at least twice a week check up on your time, in this way you are able to note your progress. For the 440 yard men I have found no better distances when ready for actual running than the 300 yds. and 880 yds. The 300 giving the speed, while the 880 builds up the endurance.

"The distance runners would follow the same course of training, laying special emphasis on the jogging. They will find the wind sprints very beneficial to them, for a distance runner too needs a sprint at the finish. They should jog at least 4 laps a day slowly, and run a time trial for their special distance at least once a week. The distance men should not take part in the dashes of the sprinters, but should run distances from the 880 up to the 2-mile, alternating these distances daily. A runner should never neglect the daily rub, it is very important. Eat what agrees with you, avoiding pastry and candy at all times. Eat plenty of fruits, vegetables, roast meats, avoid fried stuffs. Keep the legs well covered until the warm weather sets in. Be careful not to overwork, always having in mind the danger of burning up too much energy in practice. The most important requisite in getting into form is one's personal habits. Regular and sufficient sleep, avoidance of drugs, alcohol, tobacco in any form; in a word the exclusion of every form of even the slightest dissipation. Training should be conducted not as an ordeal to be feared, but on the contrary a process that brings out all that is best in an athlete. The value of fresh air and sunlight cannot be over-estimated. Have a regular time each day to run. The secret of Ted Meredith's success lay in the fact that he ran every day. When you feel good do a lot of work, when not take it easy, take a light workout.

"In closing I wish to mention what 'Bill Bingham,' Harvard track coach, has to say about a successful track team. When congratulated upon winning second place in the inter-collegiate last spring, Bingham replied, 'he was quite proud of the fact, but took a far greater pride in the fact, that he had 250 men out for track at Harvard thruout the entire season.' His reason for this statement is quite obvious, as he later said, 'that in the course of a year or two, Harvard would not finish second, but first in the inter-collegiate.' Let us have a big response to the track call at Muhlenberg this year, so that our coach shall have the same reason to feel proud that made Mr. Bingham feel proud. We had a successful football and basketball team at college this year, its up to the track men to uphold the standards Muhlenberg has set in these other sports. Let us have a winning team at the Penn Relays this year, or better its up to the Relay Team at Penn to attain the same distinction which our Pentathlon man Reinartz is bound to attain."

—J. F. "Mac."

SEE THE THING THROUGH

With the approach of the track the thots of everyone who has ever participated in track work to any extent as well as the mere enthusiast turn toward prospects of the coming season. The usual phenomenal stars of pre-college activities think of what they have done previously or else what they hope to do on a basis of previous laurels, and most of those who have accomplished something look back and wish they had done more. Every loyal alumnus is a booster and if his sphere of influence is confined to external enthusiasm his support is or should be felt in that capacity. If it may fall within his power to so advise his undergraduate fellow-students, and his influence, however slight, is exerted to try to prevent common errors which may and in times past have proven costly such suggestions should be accepted as a sincere effort to aid those to whom they may prove of any value.

Following a phenomenal football season which will stand out conspicuously in Muhlenberg football history, and a very satisfactory season of basketball, there is a duty imposed upon every available man to "see the thing thru" and complete one of the biggest years of athletic history of our Alma Mater with an equally gratifying season of track and baseball. Muhlenberg has acquired a place of recognition in track circle and neither you nor I can afford to allow a single detail to interfere with the advancement of Muhlenberg's prestige. This season will be the first time that the new track will be available for the entire season and no excuses can be advanced for a lack of conditioning facilities. Muhlenberg is handicapped thru the loss of services of Coach Kleckner but on the other hand is particularly fortunate in having the services of Captain Reinartz, without doubt the most versatile track athlete in Muhlenberg's history, as student coach.

It is therefore with great hesitation that I presume to call to the attention of every man in the student body that his individual efforts are necessary to produce a winning squad as well as the direction in which his efforts should be expended.

Competition in track is individualistic and depends upon the particular contender and no one else. The individual runner or jumper is representing his college in the same way as the only remaining backfield man between the goal and the opponent with the pigskin. Everything may depend upon his performance. The only difference is that in track events the contender is always in that status and therefore required to produce consistent results under such a strain. To enable the representative to perform creditably is one of the duties which every member of the student body should assume by competition or encouragement expressed directly or by showing an interest in the monotonous work-outs and trials as well as the meets. The easiest way to discourage a novice in track work is to expect him to faithfully work out with no one to notice him or encourage him. A mere word is sufficient for the winner of an event but a real and sincere demonstration of encouragement is necessary to revive the drooping ambitions of the second or third man to finish. The state of mind of the contender has lost or won many a race. That is the part which the mere enthusiast must perform.

Altho track is an individualistic sport, because of the variety of events there is an opportunity for everyone to make good. Unless you are seriously incapacitated there will be some event in which you can obtain a place. Merely because one is unable to outdo every one else at the first trial is no basis for quitting. On many occasions in the past a second or third place in an event would have materially changed the result. Some-

GEORGE M. SOWERS, '22 WINS I. O. U. ORATORICAL PRIZE

Muhlenberg Man Wins First Place For Third Time in Succession

ANNUAL CONTEST WAS HELD AT GETTYSBURG

George M. Sowers '22 won first place in one of the most heated oratorical contests ever held by the Intercollegiate Oratorical Union at Gettysburg College on Saturday evening. For the first time in the history of the union a woman representing a college was present to take part in the contest. Mr. E. O. Butkowsky of Franklin and Marshall won second place and Miss Sue Belle Mason was awarded third place.

Promptly at eight o'clock Mr. Ira Fritz '23, president of the union called upon Dean R. M. Bikle for the invocation after which Mr. Fritz in a few well chosen words opened the services for the evening and then introducing the first speaker on the program—Mr. E. O. Butkowsky, who represented Franklin and Marshall College. He used as his subject "A Declaration of Interdependence."

GEORGE M. SOWERS

The second speaker was Mr. W. S. Detweiler of Ursinus and took as his subject "The Vital Need", in which he gave several examples showing that America is wasting her natural resources and stressed as the vital need in such a condition—the preservation of our natural resources.

Mr. P. D. Albert represented Gettysburg and took as his subject "Our Heritage and Duty."

"Americanize Americans" was the title of Mr. Sower's oration that again brought the "bacon" back to Muhlenberg. Mr. Sowers in a very finished style and manner presented to the audience a vital subject and illustrated by using a number of examples that there are a large number of people in America under the guise of being true and loyal citizens who in reality nothing more than Benedict Arnolds.

In fact that Mr. Sowers won first prize is all the more important because he was eliminated in the first try out and later was given the privilege to make another tryout and succeed.

STAFF ELECTIONS SET FOR APRIL 28

Nominations to be Made at Special Staff Meeting Called for April 27th

The next staff of the Muhlenberg WEEKLY will be elected at the regular student body meeting of April 28th. A meeting of the present staff has been called by the editor for Thursday evening, April 27th, to consider the nominations to be made for their successors.

The competitive system has been applied to the staff work to a greater extent than ever before, and very fine work has been done by the lower classmen scrubbing for positions.

"ROUMANIA IS VERY SELF-SUFFICIENT"

Says Dr. Charles Upson Clark
In His Illustrated
Lecture

"The stories of persecutions of Hungarians by Roumanians are unfounded. Of course there will be friction between these people until the new governmental alignment becomes customary." In these words Doctor Clark expressed the central impression of his recent visit to Roumania, in the lecture he delivered in the College Chapel on Thursday night.

Doctor Clark, who is gifted with a most pleasing personality, delighted his audience with the presentation of his subject. He was formerly professor of Latin at Yale, and for the past few years has been studying European conditions. He used a number of slides during the course of his lectures, showing scenes and maps of the country through which he traveled. Doctor Clark read two Roumanian poems, first in English, and then in the original tongue. The first one, "Somnoroase Pasarele", which means "The Sleepy Little Bird," was particularly beautiful on account of its euphony. The other poem, "Roumania", was a bit of "Vers de Societe."

Doctor Clark said in part: The general impression of the character of Roumanians is anything but good. In the Hungarian tongue Roumanians are known by a term similar to the English word "dago" or "wop." Austro-Hungarian heroes are still idolized in the textbooks used at the present time in Roumanian parochial schools. Stories of persecutions of Hungarians by Roumanians are unfounded. It will be a sad day for this Republic of ours when we allow prejudice to get the upper hand.

Roumania was colonized by Latins, and although the colonization lasted but 150 years, the Romance language still persists. The Latin however, was not written in Roumania for over 1000 years. This country was invaded.

"WHAT IS THE DUTY OF THE ELDER BROTHER?"

Asked Rev. Wiegand In His Chapel Talk on Wednesday

"I would rather be the prodigal son than the elder brother", stated Rev. John A. Wiegand, S. T. D., pastor of the largest Evangelical Association Church in this city, in a vigorous address to the student body on Wednesday morning.

Dr. Wiegand based his talk upon the parable of the prodigal son, which he interpreted as being largely the parable of the elder brother than of the prodigal son. "The elder brother", he stated, remained at home without having any real love for his father but working in a calculating way in order to improve the value of the estate which he should some day inherit. The return of his prodigal brother showed up his real meanness. He was pretending to love his father when he really had an eye on the inheritance.

"Being lost is not a matter of distance. The prodigal brother was near his father, but he was no more his son than the prodigal was in a far country, because of the jealous and covetous spirit in his heart. He lost sight of the possibility of real partnership and companionship with his father. He was an example of the jealous grouch who envies everybody."

It was one of the most interesting talks the student body has heard and, because of the clear and forceful manner with which it was delivered and which is characteristic of Dr. Wiegand, it was listened to with class-room attention.

On account of the Easter Recess the next number of the WEEKLY will not appear until Tuesday, May 2. This will be the funny number, the last to be edited by the present staff.

INTER-CLASS MEET IS CLOSE CONTEST

Freshmen and Sophomores are Tie With Two Events
To Finish

The large crowd of students and sport lovers of the city who witnessed the inter-class track meet on Monday were certainly shown some fine contests. The Freshmen and Sophomores staged most of the spectacular features of the meet. At the end of each event the result was anxiously awaited by every one because of the close scores of the Freshman and Sophomore teams. Finally at 6:15 it was decided to postpone the discus and shot put events until Tuesday. At the close of the day's action the Sophomores and Freshman were tied for first place with 23½ points. The Juniors were third high while the Seniors finished last.

FRITZ AND WRIGHT TIE IN SONG CONTEST

Freitag, '21, Submits Best Song
From Alumni

The judges of the Muhlenberg Song Contest have, after much work and earnest consideration, selected the best songs submitted to them. In the group open to students the judges admit themselves unable to select the winning song, so they have decided to announce a tie between Ira S. Fritz, '23, and Jack Wright, '24. The committee has decided to divide both the first and second prize among these two men. In the Alumni group the winner is Arthur Freitag '21, the author of "The Cardinal and Gray" which has been one of the features of the Glee Club program for the past two seasons. The title of Mr. Freitag's song is "Dawn and Desire," music to which has been written by Prof. Harold Marks, who also wrote the music to "The Cardinal and Gray."

The title of Mr. Fritz's song is "Muhlenberg, My Muhlenberg" and is sung to the tune of "Maryland, My Maryland." Mr. Wright's song is entitled "Who Put the Mule on Muhlenberg." The committee wishes to thank the judges and the entrants for making the contest a success. It is planned to print the winning songs in the next issue of the WEEKLY.

Last Wednesday night saw the beginning of community singing at Muhlenberg. After the evening meal the fellows remained in the Commons and under the leadership of Ed. Matson, they sang several familiar songs. The committee is having song sheets printed which will be ready by the end of the Easter vacation.

MUHLENBERG NINE WINS FROM MORAVIAN BY 8-3 SCORE

"DANK" SCHNEIDER

VERMONT NINE TAKES INITIAL GAME 7-4

Hoffman and Crum Were Battery For Local Nine

A cold snap did not prevent the Muhlenberg College Baseball Team from bursting into the limelight of the 1921 season last Wednesday afternoon, when Coach Schneider's Cardinal and Gray sluggers came out on the short end of a 7-4 score against the University of Vermont nine. Despite the fact that the game was lost to the visiting team, the Muhlenberg men gave a very good account of themselves for the opening game of the season. With weather conditions the way they were, it could not be expected that the players should make a perfect showing.

With the bleachers and side lines crowded, Umpire "Buck" Boyle called the game at 3:15 with Hoffman and Crum working against Fryon and Kerwin as batteries. In the first few minutes it looked pretty bad for Muhlenberg. The first man up socked the ball for a single to centerfield when Witt played the ball safe instead of trying for the catch. Harris followed it up with a safe bunt and McGuinness worked a walk. The Muhlenberg infield played close and Holstrom picked off a liner from Burns' bat, catching Chevalier before he could cross at home. Holstrom threw Harris out at home and Witt ended the inning by picking Douglas' fly out of the air.

The Muhlenberg half of the inning went quick. Chevalier caught Shook's pop fly. Crum struck out and Holstrom rolled an easy grounder to third, Harris throwing him out at first. Neither team scored in the second inning. Chevalier made first on Holstrom's error but was caught when Crum disregarded a man on third and threw Chevalier out when he tried to steal second. Hoffman was taking it rather easy during the first two innings, depending on his support to keep him out of trouble until he looked the Vermont sluggers over.

In the third inning McGuinness worked a Game of Season

ASH, WESTON, AND
HOLSTROM STAR

Last Saturday afternoon the Muhlenberg pill-tossers beat the Moravian nine on Muhlenberg Field by the score of 8-3. Muhlenberg scoring was due mostly to the bunting game on which the team has practiced for the past several weeks. Muhlenberg succeeded in piling up a big lead in the run column in the second inning. However, a few runs were scored in later innings. Muhlenberg's eight hits, together with the eleven errors of the Bethlehem aggregation, seemed to prove fatal to the Moravian nine. Altho Gardner of the visiting team pitched a nice game, he was given very poor support by his team-mates.

Witt, the Detroit boy, was touched for as many hits as Gardner but he had better support from the Muhlenberg team. The Moravian team was quickly retired in the first inning and Shook, Muhlenberg's lead off man, drew a pass. Crum sacrificed and Holstrom doubled, scoring Shook. Witt once more entered the mound, and after holding the visitors to a blank in the second canto, Muhlenberg started its bunting bee together with Moravian's fumbling and succeeded in adding five runs to the scoring column of Muhlenberg. Weston who batted after Ash succeeded in laying down another bunt.

Moravian succeeded in gathering two runs in the next inning due to the costly errors of Muhlenberg's infield. This did not hamper the scoring of Muhlenberg because they entered the run column again in the eighth and ninth innings. Muhlenberg's bat-work is still to be developed and it is positive that the stick-work of the local nine will improve as the season advances.

Ash, Weston, and Holstrom were the stars for the local team in this game both from the hitting and fielding standpoint. The flashy second-baseman took four hard grounders to

Editorial Comment

Easter Thoughts

At this season the mind of the Christian turns in contemplation to the great fact of Christ's resurrection. This fact stands at the center of historic Christianity, and constitutes the fundamental supernatural reality in the life of Christ and in the faith of Christians. But the great truth of the victory of Jesus over death, assured and strong, brings with it certain great obligations. There are many who are willing enough to take the comfort, but who fail in assuming the duties which follow from the fact of the new life of Christ.

The life of Christ reminds us that we cannot have this life unless we put ourselves into religion with Christ. The abundance of His gift and the greatness of His victory will not avail us unless we desire to receive the gift and long to enter into the results of the victory. The resurrection calls for faith, and only faith will obtain its blessing. There are many people who like Faust, if they are honest, must say, "I hear the message, but faith is lacking in me." Where there is this want, there can be no real Easter.

A second obligation of Christ's resurrection is that, even as He has risen from the dead so we also should walk in newness of life. In other words, Christ's resurrection must bring about our resurrection from evil tendencies, thoughts, desires, words and actions. A strong moral purpose and a pure moral life are the outcome of the influence of the living Christ. Where they are not evident there is no proof that the resurrection of Christ is any vital fact in our life. To acclaim Him on Easter Day, to sing praises to Him, to enter into the common gladness of Him, is not enough. We must receive a new impulse for holiness and a new power for virtue.

The individual renewal of life, if it be genuine, must lead to a new social quickening. Easter must become a reality in all our relation. It must bring about a new society. The old society as it now exists is full of evil. It shows degeneration. Out of it are not coming the forces to save society. Only the resurrection of Jesus, as new life, just, holy, merciful, can bring about a new society, whose motives are pure, whose ideals are high and noble, and whose actions are filled with justice and love.

The First Track Meet

The track season is about to open with our meet with Lehigh on April 15. The following week the team will enter the Penn Relays. What kind of a season shall we have?

It is indeed to be regretted that the first track meet comes during our Easter vacation—right before the holiday. But it seems to us that the student body should make a special effort to be present and give the team a good send-off. The Glee Club will have to give one week of their vacation to a series of concerts. Can not the rest of the student body come back for a day and see this meet?

There is no excuse for absence from this event on the part of the day students and the team has a right to expect one hundred per cent. attendance on their part.

Fellows, the men who are put for track are grinding away day after day to make a successful season possible. But to do this they must have the firm backing of the student body. We are going to have a successful season. Don't forget that. What will YOU do to make this first track meet a success?

—H. S. M.

Easter

Easter is celebrated in every part of the Christian world with great solemnity and devotion. Formerly the churches were ornamented with large wax candles, and the Christians saluted each other with a kiss and the words, "Christ is risen," to which the response was made, "He is risen indeed." This custom is still retained in the Greek church, particularly in Russia. In nearly all Christian countries the recurrence of Easter has been celebrated with various ceremonies and popular sports and observances. Among the best known and which is still popular in our country is the custom of making presents of colored eggs, which are usually highly ornamented. Colored eggs were used by children at Easter time in testing the strength of the egg shells, and this practice is still continued in most Christian countries.

In a very short time we, the students of Muhlenberg College will return to our homes to celebrate the Easter tide. The writer has often wondered if we all really know the true significance of Easter. The Easter vacation ought not only to be a season in which we are to make up back work or to work up reports, but it ought to be a time when we ought to think about the real value of Christ's resurrection. What would be our consolation in after life, if Christ had not arisen? We would be without any and our life after death would be of little significance. How thankful we ought to be that Christ arose from the dead, thus making it possible for mankind to become heir to the Kingdom of God. The resurrection of Christ is the basis of Christianity. Take out the resurrection story and we have lost the most valuable part of Christianity. Let us all become more acquainted with Him who was willing to give His life for us, and then to arise from His death and make it possible for us to have a life after death. The best asset any college man may have is to become acquainted with Christ. As we go to our homes may we be determined to be servants of Christ and thus render our services to Him and to our fellow men.

—R. C. M. '22.

Town Students—Wake Up!

There has always been a tendency at Muhlenberg among the dorm students, to treat the day students with a certain degree of coldness. This may be due in some measure, to the fact that they have not become so well acquainted with one another. But a greater reason for this chilly atmosphere exists than that. The dorm students practically have to shoulder the running of college activities alone, because the day students are apparently not interested in doing anything in this line.

Day students, you are a mighty selfish lot. Nearly all of you, as soon as your classes are over, "beat it" home to mother. How easy it is to prove this with facts. There are two town men out for baseball, and two for track. Is this a fair representation from a group numbering more than half of the entire student body? What kind of college activities can we have if half of the students are laying down on the job. Show some signs of life, and make an effort to redeem your past record.

R. K. Y. '23.

IMPORTANT CHANGES IN FOOTBALL RULES

When a touchdown has been made, the side scoring the touchdown has possession of the ball anywhere on or beyond the five-yard line for a legal play from scrimmage, by which they can pass, kick or run. They may score a touchdown or a field goal and that will net them one point.

If the attacking side make a foul, illegal or incompleting pass, they lose their chance for the one point.

If the defending side offends, a score of one point shall result to the attacking side.

A shift play, both feet stationary on the ground, is interpreted to mean that a sufficient momentary pause has occurred to admit of officials seeing that the play is legal and that the ball was not snapped while the men were in motion.

It is the intention of the rule that when a man shifts to a new position, he shall come to a full stop, so that all momentum is lost, and shall make a new start from a position of rest when the ball is put into play.

Clipping is defined as throwing the body from behind, across the leg or legs, below the knees of a player not carrying the ball, and shall be ruled as unnecessary roughness, and so penalized. This interpretation, however, is not meant to apply to close line play.

Father: "Well, darling, what was the text?"

Son: "I'm not quite sure, papa, but it sounded like 'Many are cold, but few are frozen.'"

MORE ENCOURAGEMENT IS GIVEN TRACK MEN

thing new is learned with each competition and one cannot know all about the game. A hurdler, for instance, cannot be developed in a year, but each year's experience is invaluable for the next. Muhlenberg is generally handicapped by lack of men. The difficulty so far as track is concerned could be remedied by more men making themselves available. Do you know what you can do? If you do, you are an exception to every rule and the first of its kind. If you think you can or cannot perform in a certain event, prove it to yourself and others in an honest effort. Don't compel a few men to sacrifice their chances of doing well those things which they are particularly fitted to perform merely to fill out a vacancy which you might learn to fill. Go out and try and you will surprise yourself and be doing a valuable service to Muhlenberg by trying and thus bettering others by competition and good example. The strength of a chain depends upon its weakest link. Replace those weak links or add new links by offering yourself as material to be forged into a permanent link to connect the past prestige of Muhlenberg with the brightest prospects for the future.

With best wishes for the future,

FRITZ WINS LOCAL PRIZE FOR ESSAY

His Essay Is Submitted In National Pi Delta Epsilon Contest

In the Pi Delta Epsilon Contest for an editorial on "The Practical Value of a Cultural Education," Ira S. Fritz, '23, was judged to have submitted the best paper at Muhlenberg. This paper was then forwarded to the central committee, whose decision has not yet been announced.

Here is Fritz's editorial:

"The other evening a group of successful business and professional men were discussing the value of an education based on the study of the classics. Said one of them, 'Most of this kind of education is tommy-rot, all wrong, since it is practically useless.' No one challenged the statement.

"In marked contrast to such opinion is the plan presented to the governing board of Amherst College several years ago by the class of 1885 proposing to abolish entirely the degree of bachelor of science with the purpose of building up a strictly classical course. 'For statesmen, leaders of public thought, for literature,' said the Committee, 'indeed for all work which demands culture and breadth of view, nothing can take the place of the classical education.'

"These two instances are interesting. They represent the thinking of two kinds of people. The first group says classical education is all wrong. The second group maintains that nothing can take its place. Perhaps

The Best Business Career

Is what every ambitious senior is thinking about at the present time. Life insurance is one of the best, one of the most desirable, and one of the most satisfactory as a permanent calling.

In assets and volume of business, life insurance is one of the three leading businesses of this country, yet the field is comparatively under-developed. Only 7 per cent of the economic value of human life in the United States is covered by insurance. This gives an idea of the big field still to be worked, especially business insurance for firms and corporations.

As to remuneration: Reports of college graduates who have entered business indicate that life insurance is at the very top as a source of income. Now is the time for you to consider what you are going to do after graduation. If you are ambitious and willing to work hard and are interested to know about life insurance, address

COMING GRIDIRON SCHEDULE FORECASTS A HARD SEASON

Spiegel's Warriors Will Meet Such Teams as Lafayette, Lehigh, Syracuse, Bucknell, Gettysburg and Swarthmore

A Successful Team is Expected

By Elwood V. Helfrich '24

Never before in the history of Muhlenberg College has there been so much curiosity and interest shown by the student-body, alumni and people in the city of Allentown regarding a football season of the following year as is now being shown. Muhlenberg, by reason of her string of victories during the past season is being anxiously watched by football fans throughout the entire Eastern United States, and, while it may seem peculiar to us as college students, at this time to look ahead toward our football season for next fall, let us not forget that in the coming season we will play one of the hardest schedules that has ever been arranged for Muhlenberg's gridiron warriors.

Beyond any doubt, Muhlenberg made a record for itself in football during the past season. For this very reason the quicker that the spirit of 'getting ready early' pervades the student body and players, as it has long since been injected into the attitude of Coach "Johnny" Spiegel, so much the easier will the hard become, and so much larger will the string of football victories be. The 1922 season must be a more victorious season than the one just finished. MUHLENBERG CAN DO IT IF SHE GETS THE SPIRIT EARLY.

The WEEKLY in this story is going to set forth as correctly as the material on hand allows, a brief account of the football prospects at the various colleges on our schedule, and at the same time thus give an idea of what Muhlenberg's men will have to 'buck up against' next fall.

"JOHNNY" SPIEGEL

Sept. 23, Muhlenberg vs.

East Stroudsburg Normal

When Coach "Johnny" Spiegel's Muhlenberg warriors trot out on the field to play East Stroudsburg Normal for the opening game of the coming season they are going to meet a team that has high hopes of gaining the Normal School Championship of Eastern Pennsylvania. Coach Richard F. Hayes and Manager Robert Paynter have arranged a schedule which is the most difficult ever attempted by that institution, but with six letter men left from this past season's team in the person of Hanzes, Brenner, Gibbons, Baldwin, Kennedy, and Corcoran they feel confident that it is also going to be the most successful season that they have experienced. The schedule follows:—

- Sept. 23—Muhlenberg
- 30—Lehigh Univ. Freshmen
- Oct. 7—Allentown Prep.
- 14—Bethlehem Prep.
- 21—St. Thomas College.
- 28—Lafayette Freshmen
- Nov. 4—Fordham Univ. Freshmen
- 11—Bloomsburg Normal
- 18—Mansfield Normal

Sept. 30, Muhlenberg vs.

Syracuse University

Muhlenberg should profit in a great variety of ways by playing her first game with East Stroudsburg Normal before attempting to conquer Syracuse, for when we take a glance at the following schedule, we can easily see that Muhlenberg will meet a stiff battle that day:—

- Sept. 23—Hobart
- 30—Muhlenberg
- Oct. 7—New York University
- 14—Brown University
- 21—Pittsburgh
- 28—Penn State
- Nov. 4—Nebraska
- 11—McGill
- 18—Colgate

Coach John Meehan realizes that he has a schedule that is not to be laughed at, but the fact that he has arranged a schedule with MUHLENBERG, N. Y. U., Brown, Pitt, and Penn State, in succession seems to indicate that he must have some wonderful material on hand. In his work of shaping the team he will be assisted by line coach Bill Horr.

Manager Cornwell and Graduate Manager Thurston report that only four letter men will be lost thru graduation this June, Capt. Gulick, Bryant, Thompson, and Clash. They also report that the team next year will be made up entirely of letter men from this year's team and that 'the outlook for 1922 is thus exceptionally bright.'

The captain of the team, Frank

Culver is the Syracuse star center who is one of the lightest men on the squad, weighing only 150 pounds. The feature of the coming season as planned by the coaches is expected to be the work of two backfields which will be alternated or used to suit weather conditions; one a fast and light backfield; and the other, a plunging, bucking one. The coaches are very enthusiastic in regards to the prospects for next year since they claim that they will have a vast amount of good material and a spirit that is one of conscientious work for Syracuse. Muhlenberg is warned that they will have to FIGHT HARD to stave off defeat at the hands of the Syracuse team.

Oct. 7, Muhlenberg

vs. Delaware

Coach Derby's team of Delaware men will most likely be green next year for there are only a few men left from this year's team, who will not graduate in June. Manager Murphy reports that of the sixteen men who received their letter this fall, eleven will be lost, thus making great holes in the line and backfield which will have to be filled by new men. For this reason the Delaware schedule does not start until the Muhlenberg game on October 7th, and is as follows:

- Oct. 7—Muhlenberg
- 14—Ursinus
- 21—Rhode Island State.
- 28—P. M. C.
- Nov. 4—Stevens
- 11—Haverford
- 18—Washington College
- 25—Dickinson

vs. Lafayette

No matter how hard Muhlenberg considers the Syracuse and Delaware games, still when the time for the annual fracas with Lafayette arrives, the team is going to meet one of the best Lafayette teams that has ever been assembled. Although at the present time Williams, captain-elect, and Elliot, fullback, are not in college, Manager Carter has given out the report that both men will be back. In other years Lafayette ended her season with Lehigh, but next season she will play Georgetown at Washington, D. C., on Dec. 2. Muhlenberg in former years has been playing Lafayette earlier in the season than is the case for next season as the following schedule will show:

- Sept. 30—University of Richmond
- Oct. 7—University of Pittsburgh
- 14—Muhlenberg
- 21—Bucknell
- 28—Boston College
- Nov. 4—W. and J.
- 11—Rutgers
- 18—Open
- 25—Lehigh
- Dec. 2—Georgetown Univ.

All football fans are familiar with the fact that Lafayette had a wonderful football aggregation during the past season with men such as Schwab on the All-American team; and with Williams and Elliott receiving mention, but when they realize that Coach 'Jock Sutherland' will have 13 'L' men and 7 substitutes returning for next season they can readily understand why Lafayette should have even a more wonderful eleven. Coach Sutherland will again be assisted by 'Pud' Seidel who will coach the line men and 'Skip' Gougler the backfield. Harold A. Bruce will be trainer. The coaches expect quite a number of new men with football experience to put in their appearance on the opening day of practice, as well as the following 'L' men:— Berry, end; Brunner, halfback; Budd, guard; Chicknoski, halfback; Deible, tackle; Gazella, halfback; Hummel, tackle; Kearney, halfback; Mitinger, tackle; O'Connel, end; Schwab, guard; Brennan, quarterback; and Bartlett, halfback. In addition, the following scrubs from last years squad are expected to return:—Ackroyd, Bentz, Brown, Conti, Crate, Earnst and Marhefka. Lafayette should have the most glorious football season in her history. Muhlenberg must be READY TO FIGHT when they play Lafayette.

Oct. 21, Muhlenberg

vs. Gettysburg

Gettysburg still seems to be rankled at the defeat they received during the past season at the hands of the Muhlenberg eleven, and not a single word has come from their camp to the WEEKLY in regards to their prospects for next season. In order to get some idea of what we will have to face when they come to play us, we will give a few of their scores of last season:—Penn State 24, Gettysburg 0; U. of P. 7, Gettysburg 0; Ursinus 0, Gettysburg 34; Bucknell 34, Gettysburg 0; F. and M. 0, Gettysburg 0. Most football fans realize that comparative scores as a rule do not hold true to the test and it would be unwise, to say the least, to try and compare scores from year to year, so what Gettysburg will have in its bag when it comes here can only be conjectured, for the present at least. Will they come to wipe out the 17-13 defeat of last year? Let's keep that in mind.

Oct. 28, Muhlenberg vs. Lehigh

Lehigh has never been quite able to get it out of their system that Muhlenberg conquered them, and it is enough to say that they will try in all ways possible to make sure that Muhlenberg does not even think of such an occurrence again. Is it any wonder then, that their spirit at the present time is one of secrecy? Naturally Manager Dubois was able to report to us the schedule as it had been arranged, but he also reports that it is all the information that he is able to give out at the present time.

The schedule follows:

- Sept. 30—Gettysburg
- Oct. 7—Catholic Univ.
- 14—Rutgers
- 21—Brown
- 28—Muhlenberg
- Nov. 4—Colgate
- 11—Bucknell
- 18—Lebanon Valley
- 25—Lafayette

Muhlenberg's eleven will be ready to play hard and square for Muhlenberg on October 28th.

Nov. 4, Muhlenberg vs. Bucknell

Bucknell has always been noted for good football teams and Manager Earl DeCoursey and Coach 'Pete' Reynolds report that the season next year has prospects which appear 'unusually bright.' The entire team remains intact, and Bowser, contrary to numerous reports, will be back at college and ready to work with the team. Bucknell has an exceptionally hard schedule and it is worthy to notice that in a space of three weeks they play what might be termed the three strongest teams in this section of the country:—Navy, Lafayette, and Pitt. At Lewisburg they are looking forward to the Muhlenberg game as the best home game of the season, and Alumni Homecoming Day will be celebrated on the day of the Muhlenberg game. Muhlenberg fears no team, and Bucknell will receive the battle of her life that day. The schedule follows:—

- Sept. 23—Mansfield
- 30—Alfred Univ.
- Oct. 7—Susquehanna
- 14—Navy
- 21—Lafayette
- 28—Pittsburgh
- Nov. 4—Muhlenberg
- 11—Lehigh
- 18—Georgetown
- 25—Rutgers
- 30—Dickinson

second walk and Burns grooved a low fly to center which rolled away for a home run. Hoffman fielded Tryon's infield hit and threw him out at first. Muhlenberg tied the score in their half of the inning when Weston put a crimp in the ball for three bags. Johnson's liner hit third base and went travelling to left field, but Boyle called a foul and the decision stood. On Johnson's sacrifice Weston scored. Hoffman made first on an error by McGuiness. Hoffman advanced on Shook's drive through short. Hoffman took third on a liner by Holstrom to Harris, whose throw went a little wild. On the throw Hoffman scored.

In the fourth inning the Vermont team came back and batted the ball all over the lot. Duba got a triple to left and Kerwin followed with a liner that Ash might have gotten. McGuiness flied out to Witt, but Witt made a pretty throw to home and held Duba on third. Burns was good for a single which brought home Duba and Kerwin. Chevalier who had worked a walk also scored. Repass, Ash, and Weston were put out in order. Vermont made it six in the fifth inning through errors in fielding. In the sixth the Green Team added another when Chevalier singled to short center and took second after Weston missed Hoffman's throw to first. McGuiness got a double to left which scored Chevalier. In the Muhlenberg half of the sixth two runs were piled up. Witt got a single and stole second. He followed it up with a steal on third and came home when Harris missed the throw. Repass got a walk and stole second. Weston brought him home by a double to left. The last three innings were goose eggs for both teams. It was more of a pitcher's battle and Hoffman showed up with great form, keeping the hits scattered and striking out two men. Cazward was sent in by the Vermont coach in the seventh to hold the Cardinal and Gray team down, and he got away with it. Unfortunately for Hoffman, Umpire Boyle was not inclined to give the benefit of the corners of the plate to the pitcher and this fact got our sturdy little heaver in tight places at times, but he pulled through with the game and kept Vermont's sugging team to 10 hits.

accomplish assists and had three put-outs himself. Weston, who was at the bat four times, altho he had hit the pill hard, succeeded in gaining only one hit but his fielding was a little less than sensational. Captain Holstrom bungled one hard chance in the infield but succeeded in making a sensational one-hand stop in the last inning. He had four trips to the plate, and out of the four trips he succeeded in reaping three hits, one of which was for two sacks.

GEORGE M. SOWERS '22 WINS I. O. U. ORATORICAL PRIZE

ceeded in being appointed a candidate for the elimination contest. Mr. Sowers under the instruction of Prof. J. D. M. Brown and Mr. Conrad Voigt, winner of the first prize last year, was successful in being appointed the representative of Muhlenberg college. (Space does not permit us to print the winning speech in this issue of the WEEKLY).

The last speaker and by no means the least was Miss Sue B. Mason of Swarthmore college. In a very humorous manner Miss Mason declaimed on the subject "Reforming the Universe." She was instrumental in introducing a new method of oratory into the I. O. U. by speaking extemporaneously. Swarthmore has changed her method of oratory in recent years and instead of pursuing the methods of oratory used in former years the students in this department are not permitted to write and memorize an oration, but must give their oration extemporaneously. Her method proved to be a success and she was awarded the third place.

During the exercises the audience was permitted to listen to a piano solo by Mr. Paul W. Shelley and a baritone solo by H. M. Linn, students at Gettysburg.

Mr. M. C. H. Unger, Mr. Thompson of Mount St. Mary's College, Mr. Ehrenfeld and Dean James H. Dunham of Temple University were the judges. Messrs. Chas. E. Sebold, C. L. Mogel of Gettysburg and R. C. Miller of Muhlenberg were appointed tellers.

Muhlenberg College send three men as her representatives—Geo. M. Sowers, Ira Fritz and R. C. Miller, who were entertained at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon house.

'93. Rev. Joshua H. Miller, Ph.D., of New Castle, Pa., is the author of a volume entitled, "The Bible of Nature and the Bible of Grace" which is to serve as "a defense of the scriptures intended for the people." The book has been very well received and promises fully to serve the purpose for which it was written.

'99. We have received some very interesting literature about the Public Schools of Roselle, New Jersey, in which Charles H. Reagle holds a very prominent place. We wish to congratulate "Charlie" upon the success he has been making in his various school positions in New Jersey. His ability and application tell the secret.

'99. Among the solid business men of the thriving community of Nazareth, Pa., must be mentioned Peter S. Trumbower, wholesale dealer in coal, lumber, cement, etc. "Pete's" application to business likewise has brought his success.

ERNIE JOHNSON ELECTED BASKETBALL CAPTAIN

Ernie Johnson, one of the fastest men on this year's cage team, was recently elected captain for the 1922-23 season by the "M" men. Ernie is very popular in athletic circles and deserves the position as captain of the basketball team.

The "M" men for the past season were also announced: Crum, Holstrom, Taggart, Johnson, Kintzing, Freed and Campbell.

"ROUMANIA IS VERY SELF-SUFFICIENT"

ed by the Vandals, Goths, Huns, and Slavs, and although its neighbor Hungary came under Turkish domination, Roumania never came under Turkish power.

In former times Jews had no civil rights—now they have them all. Roumania is an exceedingly wealthy country. It is rich in salt and in oil, and a great part of it is pastoral country. The peasants are very self-sufficient, the men building the houses and making the furniture, and the women weaving the cloth and making the wearing apparel for the family.

A great problem of Roumania is the influx of refugees from the Ukraine. The Roumanians have not the heart to turn these people away. At present, there are 50,000 Jews from Ukraine, all of whom have relatives in the United States, who are waiting with open arms to receive them. These Jews expect finally to settle down in the East Side of New York.

The clothing of the Roumanians, both men and women, is quite elaborate. The women are noted for their fine embroidery. The men wear tight-fitting trousers which never lose their crease. The men's costumes have remained unchanged for the last 1000 years. Everywhere I went in Roumania they tried to sell me embroidered night-gowns.

The present king of Roumania is the only Hohenzollern doing business today in Europe. Our name is blessed all over Roumania for what our Red Cross has done in that country. The Roumanians have never asked for help, but I feel that they would like to have the sympathy of the United States.

COMING GRIDIRON SCHEDULE FORECASTS A HARD SEASON.

nova team. Muhlenberg-Villanova games have always been well-matched and the chances are that next season's game will be no exception. Quite a number of the players are left from last year's team, and Coach Miller and Assistant Coach Spagna are confident that they will have a remarkable season. The following men return next season: Maher, Duggan, ends; McClearnon, Faley, centers; Stein, Bachman, Ryan, Rhea, Pickett, Kreig, Lynch, Cratty, Greeley, Sayers, and Conway, line; Cronin, Capt., Servidan, Blanchfield, Dara, Connely, O'Brien, Winn, McFarren, backfield. Student Manager McIntyre reports the following schedule:

Sept. 30—West Maryland
Oct. 7—St. Joseph's
14—Catholic Univ.
28—Gettysburg
Nov. 4—Lebanon Valley
11—Muhlenberg
18—St. Marys
25—Duquesne Univ.

Nov. 18, Muhlenberg vs. Swarthmore

Swarthmore is confident of a prosperous year in football because of the fact that they will have a wealth of material on hand to start practice next fall. When Coach Mercer and Assistant Coach Ward call for material the following men will be back from this past season's team: Cornell, center, Capt.; Willis, and Shoemaker, guards; Wilcox, Knauer, and Earnshaw, tackles; Jackson and Baxter, ends; Asplundh, Knapp, Grenhart, Thoenan, Dottered, Courtney, Schneider, and Geiges, backfield. Manager Baker has arranged the following schedule which clearly shows that Swarthmore is expecting a hard season next year:

Oct. 7—Ursinus
14—Dickinson
21—U. of P.
28—Stevens
Nov. 4—Princeton
11—F. and M.
18—Muhlenberg
25—Haverford

Muhlenberg will have to work hard in order to vanquish Swarthmore this coming season for the 7-6 defeat of this past year will still be in their minds.

Nov. 25, Muhlenberg vs. Fordham

The Fordham game for next year is one to which all football fans of Allentown and vicinity can look forward, for although only on our schedule for the past two years, they have always put up a good game, and with sixteen men returning to school next fall, the head coach, Frank Gargan, expects a very victorious season. The schedule for next year includes: Rutgers, Boston, Georgetown, Westminster, Springfield Y. M. C. A. College, Colby, Holy Cross, and Muhlenberg in order mentioned. Fordham is looking forward to a most successful season. Manager Toerner expects the following men back next fall: Meyers, Capt., one of Walter Camp's honorable mention; Kearns, Thornton, Canniff, Boutot, Fallon, Walbridge, Moran, Fadden, Larken, Lesko, Treacy, MacAneny, Theis, Dunn, and Jancey.

Nov. 30, Muhlenberg vs. Ursinus

Although Ursinus was badly defeated last season, the manager there is very optimistic about next season. The schedule will be easier, although Ursinus plays many of Muhlenberg's opponents. This is what the URSINUS WEEKLY says about their next football season:

"The Graduate Manager of Athletics, Mr. Mertz, announces his 1922 football schedule to-day as given below. The attempt has been made to reduce the number of games which are out of the Ursinus class without the sacrifice of standards. It is believed that with the following schedule Ursinus has excellent chances to win a majority of its games. Colleges played this past season which do not appear in the new schedule are Rutgers, Georgetown, Gettysburg, Villanova, and Haverford. It has been impossible to arrange a Haverford-Ursinus game for 1922 because of conflicting dates.

Sept. 23—Williamson School at Collegeville
Sept. 30—Columbia University at New York City
Oct. 7—Swarthmore at Swarthmore
Oct. 14—University of Delaware at Newark
Oct. 21—Juniata at Huntingdon
Oct. 28—Dickinson at Carlisle
Nov. 4—Albright at Norristown or Reading (to be announced)
Nov. 11—Pennsylvania Military College at Collegeville
Nov. 18—Franklin and Marshall College at Collegeville
Nov. 30—Muhlenberg at Allentown.
"The varsity squad will lose only five men by graduation. With the majority of last year's team returning for a nucleus, it is hoped to build up a better fighting machine under the direction of Coach Cornog and Captain Earl K. Miller."

What About Muhlenberg Prospects?

From the schedules and reports of the other colleges it can readily be seen that most of the games on the schedule will be such as to test the mettle of the Muhlenberg gridiron men to the utmost, but with Coach 'Johnny' Spiegel at the helm and George Holstrom as Captain, the men remaining from this year's team, to say nothing of the men who will enter college from the different preparatory schools next fall should give Muhlenberg a BETTER TEAM THAN SHE HAS EVER HAD.

both are wrong. Maybe the truth is to be discovered somewhere between the two.

We do not lay claim to large knowledge along educational lines. We do believe that education ought to prepare for all of life, not merely a segment of it. Science will contribute to a man's living but productiveness along material lines is not all of life. When a man is well fed and clothed there still remains something more to be done. That something more is a spiritual thing. We believe the classics provide this. Our objection is against the tendency to treat as not serious, as unscientific, any type of work that is not carried on with laborious minuteness in a laboratory.

"Some of us believe that the college, in addition to furnishing youth with definite, exact, and advanced information, ought to function in the development of right character. The power to think, to create opinion, to lead men, and as President Hibben has said, 'to create a high potential of mental possibility rather than actual attainment,' ought to be the chief aim of the American college.

"A well trained mind is a laudable thing. The trouble is, a mind may be trained for destructive ends. College men need to be expert workers; they also need to be servants of the common weal.

"Emphasis on character culture is the basis of the humanities. Customs change, standards of action shift, but men react today about the same as they did three thousand years ago. The study of human relationships in literature and history teaches us that men may be very wise, but unless they are good, destruction waits upon them.

"Actually, we cannot remain rational persons and sneer at the so-called impracticability of the cultural course. For, the majority of leaders in national and world achievement who are alive to-day were brought up on the bread and butter diet of the classics. This seems to us to be the strongest kind of an argument in favor of the true practical value of the classics in education."

LUTHERAN STUDENTS CONVENE HERE

Three Day Conference Attracts Delegates From Many Colleges—Helpful Program

"Today we need a new Puritanism, but not like that of the old days of old-fashioned things; we need a sublime faith in God that this day of unrest and anarchy will pass as in former times; we need men and women who have walked with God and looked into His face. Each individual needs a new sense of duty so as to give to human society not what he must but what he ought; he needs a sense of accountability. We can't measure the church by the number of people in it but by what it does for the community. The new religion of the future church and community will be brought about by individual work on the part of both layman and minister."

This is the essence of the message brought to the opening session of the Conference of The Lutheran Students Association of Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey by Reverend H. W. A. Hanson, D.D., of Harrisburg on Friday evening, April 28, in the chapel of Christ Lutheran Church of Allentown. Dr. Hanson in his opening address struck the keynote to the second annual conference of this association.

Previous to the opening session of the conference, the Ladies Auxiliary of Muhlenberg served a bounteous supper to the delegates in the basement of Christ Church. At the conclusion of the meal, Dr. Haas introduced Judge Claude T. Reno of Allentown, who formally welcomed the students to the city. Dr. Ettinger in a few well-chosen words welcomed the students to the College and Rev. G. H. Kinard, Pastor of Christ Lutheran Church, offered the hospitality of the churches of the city.

Rev. Harry Leads Discussion

On Saturday morning, the sessions were held in the College Chapel. Prof. J. D. M. Brown opened the session and then turned the meeting over to Rev. C. P. Harry, Lutheran Student Pastor of the University of Pennsylvania. The problems of the Lutheran Student on the campus were discussed at length in a very lively manner.

After the dinner in the college Commons, the afternoon session took up the work of the Boards of the United Lutheran Church. Miss Mary E.

FRESHMEN HOLD DANCE AT MEALY'S

Mickley's Fantasy Six Presents Pleasing Program of Syncopation

On Wednesday last the Freshmen blossomed forth in their first social endeavor since the banquet last November. Mickley's Jazz Fiends, sometimes called the Fantasy Six filled Mealey's Auditorium with entrancing melodies and harmonies to the rhythm of which the patrons of the affair danced until midnight. It was most enjoyable to the few dance enthusiasts who disported themselves and was certainly worthy of a more representative body of students to attend it. It is very gratifying to see at a class function the small minority who cannot dance, yet appear and make an attempt just to show their interest and give their support while some others who are never late for roll-call at Mealey's on Saturday, find it too much bother to make a class dance a success.

ANNOUNCE APPEARANCE OF NEW BOOK BY DR. HAAS

Doctor Haas' new book, "IN THE LIGHT OF FAITH," which is a group of baccalaureate sermons and educational addresses, has just come off the press. An announcement of its appearance occurred in the LUTHERAN, of April twenty-seventh. The United Lutheran Publication House, of Philadelphia, is the publisher.

The President of Gettysburg Seminary, Doctor J. A. Singmaster, in reviewing Doctor Haas' book, says: "Doctor Haas again proves that he is not only a fine scholar, but also an excellent preacher. The sermons are timely and stirring. The ideas are presented under simple and suggestive headings. The author is not only a preacher, but also a philosopher and educator. He looks upon American philosophy, if it may be so-called, as too superficial and too hasty in its conclusions. There must be a return to a saner and a sounder philosophy than that which now dominates so many minds in America. We need the firm, the strong, the old beliefs to keep us true to our purpose and worthy of our destiny. The author also protests against that philosophy of society which exalts the social group at the expense of the individual. The widespread circulation of this volume will promote a fuller appreciation of religion and learning."

NINE DROPS GAMES TO PENN AND RUTGERS

Errors Responsible For High Scores, 12-0 at Penn, 19-4 at Rutgers

Rutgers Game

Errors cost the Muhlenberg team another defeat last Saturday when the Cardinal and Gray nine faced Rutgers and lost by a score of 19-4. It was a regular swamping, but the Rutgers team earned few of their runs. Witt pitched a very good game but lacked any support. When he finally did go to pieces Gebhart took his place but in the last inning the Rutgers outfit slammed him for a total of ten runs. In the first inning Weston the star first sacker ran amuck with hard luck when he had his little finger broken snatching at a hot grounder. This compelled the shifting of several positions and left the team demoralized. When the New Jersey bunch knocked Gebhart out in the last inning Hoffman was sent in and he retired the last two men at bat. When he did get a stick at the ball in Muhlenberg's half of the inning he knocked the pill for what could have been a homer, but he delayed at third and came in on a wild throw. On Monday a complete reorganization of the team was begun.

Penn Game

The University of Pennsylvania Baseball team ran away with the Muhlenberg team last Tuesday at Franklin Field, by taking the boys across for a 12-0 lacing. The Penn team played better than they knew how, and the Muhlenberg aggregation played worse than a bunch of high school boys. Witt twirled for Muhlenberg but his support was so poor that the thirteen hits he gave Penn were stretched into twelve runs. Penn tried and got away with everything known in the game. The squeeze play, the triple steal and spectacular diving catches were features of the game. Witt was completely outwitted but stuck the game through to the bitter end. Holstrom stayed consistent with his error making, he having two to his credit that gave

"CORP" REINARTZ, MUHLENBERG'S PHENOMENAL TRACK AND FIELD WIZARD, PLACES SECOND TO BOB LEGENDRE OF GEORGETOWN IN PENTATHLON EVENT

G. Herbert, "Corp" Reinartz, Muhlenberg Track and Field Star, Who Placed Second in the Pentathlon at U. of Pa. on Friday.

Reinartz Makes Marvelous Showing for Self-Coached Athlete—Shows Improvement Over Last Year When He Placed Fifth. Relay Team With Steigerwalt, O'Connor, Wilson and Yehl, Finish Fifth in Fast Race.

On the opening day of the Penn Relay carnival, Bob Legendre of Georgetown ran away with honors for the second time when he beat out Reinartz of Muhlenberg by an advantage of nine points. The Georgetown miracle finished with a total of eight points while Reinartz seconded with 17.

The meet last Friday was Reinartz's second opportunity to show his skill as an all around track athlete, he having finished fifth last year. The modest young athlete made a remarkable showing when it is considered that he has the additional responsibility of coaching himself and the rest of the track team.

Legendre established two new records for the Pentathlon, but Reinartz established a remarkable record when he put Muhlenberg into second place the second year she has sent a man to represent her in the famous event.

Reinartz placed third in the javelin throw when he hurled it 165 feet, three feet less than his best throw in any meet. In the broad jump he came a close second to Legendre when he jumped 22 feet 8½ inches. Reinartz also gave Legendre a hard push in the 200 meter run. In the discus he placed third, but fell down in the 1500 meter run by coming in fifth. West of W. and J. finished third in the Pentathlon with a total of 18 points. Emery of Princeton followed on his heels with 21 points.

On Monday in the student body meeting Reinartz was given a rousing reception for the fine work he did at the Penn Relays. Corp came back with a very modest speech about his endeavors with the track team, but had nothing to say with regard to the work he himself had to do in training to put Muhlenberg so prominently on the map.

Penn Relays

On Thursday evening before leaving for the Pentathlon, Coach Reinartz picked out the four men who were to represent Muhlenberg in the Penn Relays. The four successful men were Steigerwalt, O'Connor, Wilson and Yehl. All four of the boys ran a very good race but they were in fast company and finished fifth in the event. Starting eighth from the pole Steigerwalt cut into third place and kept the nether side of the track until the home stretch was reached. There his legs gave out and a man passed him. But he finished fourth and at the finish O'Connor took the stick and tried to recover some of the lost ground. Wilson followed O'Connor and ran a beautiful race. Yehl ran as anchor man and showed up the most speed of the Muhlenberg quartet. He got a good start and kept his pace until the home stretch was reached. There he saw somebody that didn't look so good to him so he put in all he had and passed the man, putting Muhlenberg in fifth place at the finish. The time of the race was 3:29 2-5.

A delay of twelve hours in delivery of this issue allowed forms of the CIARLA to complete a run on the press.

GLEE CLUB BACK FROM FIFTEEN DAY TRIP

All Set for Allentown Concert on May 10th—Seats on Sale Tomorrow

As the old saying goes, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." But we can also reverse the proverb and say that "all play and no work" is equally tiresome. At least this is the opinion of the members of the Glee Club who just returned from two weeks of play. Some may think that Glee Club work is nothing more than evenings of pleasure and enjoyment appearing before the footlights, but let them play for thirteen consecutive nights, as did the club on their last trip, and they will quite agree that it is not as much fun as one may think.

But this is not an editorial on Glee Club life, but a review of the trip the club made through the coal regions, giving thirteen concerts in fifteen days, and appearing before approximately ten thousand people. This is perhaps the first time in the history of the school that a trip of this length has been made. Previous to this time, a weeks' trip has been the longest made by the club.

Starting out on Easter Monday, the club sang before capacity audiences at Summit Hill, Tamaqua, Mahanoy City, Sunbury, Tremont, Schuylkill Haven, Ephrata, Nazareth, Hazleton, Wilkes-Barre, Scranton, Honesdale, and Mickleys. In every town the members were highly complimented on their splendid work, and were also told that the club is far superior to any former Muhlenberg Club, and in fact, to any club that has ever sung in that section. In Sunbury, a graduate of Harvard, who was present at the concert, told one of the club members that the Muhlenberg Club was the finest he had ever heard, and he claims to have heard most of the clubs in the East, including that of Harvard, his Alma Mater. We believe that is the finest compliment ever paid to a Muhlenberg Glee Club.

DELTA THETA ENJOYS FORMAL SPRING DANCE

Country Club is Scene of Jolly Party—Decorations a Feature

On Friday evening April 21 Delta Theta Fraternity gathered at the Lehigh Country Club for its Annual Spring Formal Dance and it was SOME party. Mickley's Fantasy Six tuned up and began giving a most enjoyable and original dance program. In the first half of the program were included a lucky number dance and an elimination dance. Miss Gertrude O'Kell, a Freshman at our sister institution on the hill, just over yonder, was the fortunate lady in the lucky number dance.

FIRST TENNIS MATCH OF SEASON IS LOST

Varsity Team Outclassed by Lafayette's Mid-season
Form—Score 6-0

Muhlenberg's tennis season was opened Saturday; the varsity team losing a dual match against the strong Lafayette team at Easton with a score 6-0.

Four of the sets in the singles matches were entirely lost to Muhlenberg. The mid-season form, and general superior service of the Lafayette racquet men spelled defeat for Muhlenberg.

Single summaries: Weyland, Lafayette, defeated Boyer, Muhlenberg, 6-0, 6-2; Mitchell, Lafayette, defeated Alderfer, Muhlenberg, 6-0, 6-1; Cullingham, Lafayette, defeated Lutz, Muhlenberg, 6-0, 6-2; Kidder, Lafayette, defeated Thomas, Muhlenberg, 6-3, 6-0.

Doubles Summaries: Mitchell and Weyland, Lafayette, defeated Alderfer and Thomas, Muhlenberg, 6-0, 6-1. Weyland and Kidder, Lafayette, defeated Boyer and Lutz, Muhlenberg, 6-1, 6-3.

Total score: Lafayette, 6; Muhlenberg, 0.

Editorial Comment

We Are Proud of Him

Muhlenberg rejoices in the spectacular showing made by her candidate for Pentathlon honors. The track and field events test the stamina of a man as no other sports can, say all who have compared them, and a man who meets the test deserves admiration.

Muhlenberg has had some fine track material during her history, but never has a single Cardinal and Grey athlete achieved as much as has Corp Reinartz. Unselfishly giving his time as student coach of track, and working under handicaps such as inevitably accompany athletics in small colleges, he has made a mark that coming years will not erase, and placed second in the arduous Pentathlon.

Carrying his honors with a true sportsmanlike spirit, Corp has all qualities that go with the athletic hero of popular fiction, but happily he is the genuine article, doing all in his power to advance the fair name of Muhlenberg.

The Ciarla's Coming

Enthusiasts for first editions and bibliomaniacs of all regions are requested to note that within the next month a masterpiece of printer's artistry is to appear in the vicinity of Allentown, at a college known as Muhlenberg. Intimacy with the entire Junior class may be held by a perusal of the proposed work, which is to be handicapped by a foreign name, CIARLA, which students of Italian will recognize as the wop name for gossip. The staff is in hopes that the book will circulate as freely as gossip usually does. It is said that at least three tentative engagements were broken off on account of rough treatment given various men in last year's publication; Additional spiciness is promised in this.

Glee Glow

"Dress Suits Will Shine Tonight," will be the refrain of our leather-lunged score of music mixers a week tomorrow night. With tour after tour thru which to practice, the Glee Club always comes back for the Allentown concert with a line of rapid-fire entertainment that is often applauded.

From sad and previous experience, we warn our friends to be among the early birds in applying for reservations. We have never sold hot cakes, but if there were any profit in glee tickets, we would prefer that business—they sell. For the benefit of those who don't know: reservations open tomorrow, May third.

A hint to the wise starts things.

Modern Reading

Our most strenuous efforts often go toward keeping up to date. We must know today's news, so the publishers print enough newspapers every day to furnish one for almost every man, woman, and infant in the United States. When a new cut of shoes appears in London, the foot-wear fans in San Francisco a few days later will make the same sort of new and strange footprints on the sands of time. A new movie takes the heart out of a dollar bill, and a month later it is shown across the street for fifteen cents with hardly an audience to see it.

Quietly, perhaps belatedly, but always surely, the professor in his class room will try and keep up with the daily turns of human experience.

Let us take the place of the teacher of literature for a moment. He sees the typewriters turning out mountains of manuscripts, and the presses printing piles of books, pamphlets, and magazines; books about books, and books about books about books. How is he to keep "up to date?"

The remarkable thing about it is that he does keep abreast of the times. New books worth reading are the exception rather than the rule, and the reviews will usually show which are the exceptions, and which the rule. Such of those as are available he can read and enjoy, and recommend to his classes. He is one of the rather small group which appreciates good writing, new as well as old. Talk it over with him; he will be glad to tell you which books are which, and why.

NEW STAFF CHOSEN FOR 1922-23 TERM

WEEKLY Will Be In Charge Of Newly Elected Managers and Editors Next Week

Elections to the Weekly Staff for the 1922-23 term resulted Friday morning in the election of Horace S. Mann as Editor-in-chief and Richard C. Lutz as Business Manager.

The new staff will take charge of next week's issue, as provided for by the new Student Body Constitution amendment adopted this year.

Other offices filled Friday were as follows:

Senior Associate Editors:

Robert K. Miller,
Fred W. Weiler,
Harry W. Huey.

Junior Associate Editors:

Carl D. Neubling,
Elwood V. Helfrich,
Raymond L. Waller,
Sterling F. Bashore.

Assistant Business Manager:

Percy F. Rex, '24

Circulation Manager:

Christian E. Mills

Because no one had scrubbed for the position, the assistant Circulation Managership was declared vacant until a willing and capable candidate appears. In the vote for Sophomore Assistant Business Managers, there was a difficulty in deciding the result that has not been cleared up as we go to press.

Both the Editor and Business Manager as elected have a good fund of experience in their lines to draw from, and have shown their ability in the work done up to this time. Both are on the staff of the CIARLA, and both served on the Calendar Staff of their Sophomore year, Lutz being Business Manager, and Mann assistant editor.

S.—Well, you needn't get sore about it. A man can love a dozen women, but I've yet to see the man who can please one, just one.

O.—Well, you could please me if—

S.—If what?

O.—If you'd stop your knocking.

S.—Awright, I'll try to be good. (Tries to put his arm around her, but she evades him.)

O.—Shall we dance?

S.—Oh, no, let's not. The only difference between dancing and hugging is that you dance in a crowd. (Silence a few minutes.) It's funny isn't it?

O.—What?

S.—Every spring the trees leave yet they never go away.

O.—Yeh, when they shoot craps, do they kill 'em?

S.—You're a dumbdora. (Silence for a few minutes.)

O.—Shall I sing for you? My mother was a grand opera star, you know.

S.—No, you'd better not.

O.—Why?

S.—You take after your father.

S.—(Places his arm around back of sofa. Looks at her for a few minutes). You look awfully sweet tonight.

O.—Ooooooh, Steewee, do you think so?

S.—Why, of course I do.

O.—Then you really didn't mean all those nasty things you said about me?

S.—No, honey.

O.—(Snuggling into his embrace). Oh, Stew! (Father suddenly enters. Confusion on sofa).

S.—Good evenin', Mr. Foote. Nice day.

F.—Yeh. Fine. (Exit to kitchen in search of food).

S.—What's the matter with the old man to-night?

O.—Oh, father's kinda peeved at me. He sent me away from the table at supper because I was playing marbles with his pills while he was asking the blessing.

S.—Oh, that's too bad!

O.—Yeh, I know that old one about the three eggs.

S.—I heard a new song out on the campus today. (Sings)

Oh, guess what I had for my breakfast,

Oh, guess what I had for my tea,

Oh, guess what I had for my dinner,

Look over the railing (bluah) you'll see.

Fish, fish, fish fish, oh fish and ice cream don't agree (bluah) with me,

Fish, fish, fish, fish, oh fish and ice cream don't agree (bluah) with me. (Re-enter Mr. Foote).

F.—Don't you feel well to-night?

S.—No, I'm on the blink.

F.—Didn't know you had trouble with your eyes. (Looks at watch)

Well, it's getting pretty late. Guess I'll toddle off to bed. (Exit upstairs).

S.—At last!

O.—What?

S.—I said that was an awful blast.

O.—Wadayamean?

S.—Why, that slam about my eyes.

O.—Ooooooh! (Stew places his arm about her).

S.—Dearest, I'm sorry I spoke so roughly to you this evvening. I'm sorry, sweetie.

O.—(Whispers) I forgive you, sweetums. (Osculatory transaction).

(Five minutes silence broken only by deep sighs). Do you really and truly love me?

S.—(Softly). Uh-huh. (Osculatory transactions continued with renewed vigor).

O.—Sweet daddie!

S.—Hold 'em Berg! (Noise of key in lock. Confusion on sofa). Damit!! (Enter Helen with fiance).

O.—Oh, hello, Helen! Hello John!

H.—Hello, whatcha doin'?

O.—Nuthin'.

H.—That's a funny thing to call it.

S.—Wadayamean?

H.—Oh, nuthin'. (Helen and fiance exit to kitchen in search of food).

S.—Wish that guy was a night-watchman.

O.—Why?

S.—Oh, because. (Arms conference re-opens). (Noise of key in lock. Confusion on sofa. Enter kid brother, Joseph).

J.—Hyah!

S.—Howdo!

O.—It's about time you got home. Where were you?

J.—Out on a date. I always leave early, that's why I'm back so soon. (Grunt from Stew). (Exit Joseph to kitchen in search of food).

S.—What time does John generally leave?

O.—Oh, he'll stay until after you leave.

S.—Holy mackerel! (Re-enter Helen and John). Well, I guess I'll leave now. (Ophelia gets hat and coat).

H.—Not leaving already, are you Stew?

S.—Yeh, I hafta do some studyin' to-night.

H.—Well, don't study too hard. Good night, Stew.

S.—G'night. G'night, Ophie. I'll call you up to-morrow.

O.—Good niight, Steeeew! (Exit Stew, slamming door).

CURTAIN.

"THE MODERN GIRL" PENS PINK ANSWER

Spirited Poetic Defense of Species by "One of Them" Refutes Article in WEEKLY

A short time ago I wrote an article for this paper on "The Modern Girl." I criticized them quite severely but truthfully and invited them to defend themselves by writing to me. The other day I received the following, written according to specifications on pink paper, but there was no scent to it (I mean the scent of perfume). I guess the writer overlooked this matter or perhaps she thought that the paper spoke for itself. Nevertheless, here is what she says:

(Please deliver this to P. H. H., author of "The Modern Girl," with the compliments of one of them.)

"The Modern Girl," says the Modern Man, is a person I cannot endure. She is wicked and bold—that's what I've been told;—please give me the girl who is Pure.

How I despise the girl who can smoke, who jizzes, and hands me a line. The girl with bobbed hair, with knees visibly bare, is the girl who shall never be mine.

The girl I admire is the Old-fashioned girl, who is utterly blameless of vice; whose dresses are long, who thinks kissing is wrong; who is Innocent, Modest, and Nice.

Thus loudly proclaims the Modern Man, and thinks he is fooling the world. But we knew well enough that he's pulling a bluff; he prefers the Modern Girl.

I want to commend the writer on her verse. Credit must be given for her judicious work, but then, two or three weeks of laborious cogitation ought to bring forth a sturdy defense.

Did you ever watch a child with a new toy? He plays with it enthusiastically until it is broken or the paint is worn off. So it is with the Modern Man. He plays with the Modern Girl until the paint is worn

LIFE AND LETTERS

By Fred W. Weiler, B.S. D.

THE RISE AND DECLINE OF AN EDITOR

This being the final issue of the WEEKLY (an announcement which our dear readers will not doubt receive with vociferous eclat) under the present corps of a self-evidently inefficient and irresponsible editorial staff, which has done more to make the WEEKLY a weakly than did all former staffs, we feel moved by a kindly spirit and without any feelings of compunction nor the fear of eternal damnation, and yet withal prompted by a cloudy conscience, to say a few words in defiance of our 'steamed editor-in-chief, Harold Paul Knauss.

Harold has done absolutely nothing to deserve this tribute, and we enter upon our labors without fear or trembling.

The editorial toga fell upon the shoulders of our young and unsophisticated subject about twelve months ago, although his labors did not formally begin until September last. None too soon does the occasion for editorial obituary present itself.

The young subject's life reads like the romance of a dime novel only not quite as romantic nor as edifying. He is still too young to be charged with having accomplished anything, but his relatives and friends entertain the fondest hopes that something worthwhile may yet develop. But we must be on to the life lines.

Once upon a time (all fairy tales begin that way) in the vicinity of the 12th of a hot July in the year of Our Lord, One Nine Hundred, all nature was atune with mystery in the neighborhood of Seipstown, Lehigh County, Pennsylvania, and although the celebration of the anniversary of the country's independence, with due reading of the Declaration of Independence by the village school teacher, had been celebrated with loud acclaim, safely and sanely, just a little better than a sennight previous, yet the mystery like Banquo's ghost persisted, and there were wierd beliefs and rumors entertained by the superstitious and suspicious natives that something terrible was about to happen. On the 12th day of the said month of July it was announced that a son had been born to Henry F. and his good wife, Martha (nee Leibold) Knauss, and there was universal rejoicing in the Knauss household. Never had the sun shone more brightly nor had the wheat crop appeared more prolific, nor did the swallows sing more cheerily, the frogs croak more gutturally, than on the memorable July twelfth.

Early Life

For eight years the irresponsible natives saw this young son grow in stature and in strength, as well as enter upon his intellectual career, matriculating in the township school of his native village. The family then migrated northeastwardly and found habitat in Allentown, in the Spring month of March, 1908, anni Dominoes.

Now Seipstown was a goodly place to be born in for one who in later years was to rise to the proud height and humble distinction of editor of a college weekly in one of the country's leading institutions of learning. Here amidst the barren and inhospitable waste of rocks and farm land, the last place in the world a great man might naturally seek to be born in, began the life of our subject. The sun never lit up a cuter village than Seipstown. Nature had just seemed to wear itself out on Seipstown and Weisenberg township, and then took what was left over to make Hynemansville and Emaus. Here in all their glory the Johnny-Jump-Ups, the daffy-dills, and the yellow jaundice side by each by themselves embellished the banks of the rippling creek in the balmy spring and the sweltering summer.

Here, as already confessed, Harold spent his sleepy and sinless, happy and hungry childhood until Pop Knauss, assisted by Mom Knauss, packed up the family chattels and moved on to greater fields of conquest,

MORE LETTERS FROM FORMER TRACK STARS

Weber '16, Erb '20, and Former Coach Kleckner '10 Give advice and Encouragement

Your communication of March 6th received, asking for a word of encouragement to the track squad at Muhlenberg.

As you know, I have always been vitally interested in athletics at Muhlenberg College, but it has been one of my greatest pleasures to give what time I could to the development of her track teams. There is nothing that I enjoy more than to be back with the boys and help them in their work. There is no reason why Muhlenberg should not have one of the best track teams in her history, but I feel that the student body must realize that the men who are putting forth their efforts for Muhlenberg in track must receive the hearty co-operation of the student body. No athlete can put forth his best efforts unless he receives the proper care and treatment. To do his best he must be in excellent physical condition. The student body can help these men in caring for them after they have finished their daily routine on the track. Don't ask the men if they need help; see to it that they get the proper massage; help and encourage them in their scholastic work and show them that by their victories you too are enjoying the success they are bringing to Muhlenberg.

Hoping that my attempt at encouragement may prove of some help to the men and assuring you that I am with Muhlenberg in all she does, as long as she does it squarely, I am,

Very truly yours,
MARTIN S. KLECKNER, '10.

It is always easier to give advice concerning things you don't know so much about; so I'll tell you how to become a long distance runner. Any sound, healthy son of Muhlenberg can become a good distance man. All you need is the will to get out on the track and work and keep on working. You are bound to round into shape. I never will forget how a bow-legged, patty-toed little fellow won the two-mile run in the Middle Atlantic States Championship held at New York University in 1916. It doesn't necessarily take a “pretty” built man with a “pretty” stride to win a race. All you need is pluck, perseverance and some college spirit. Anybody can develop into a good distance man but to run the easier races you must have a little bit of natural speed. Never get discouraged in a race. I've seen men lose races time and again, having lost heart, because they were put back at the start. A put back of that kind should be an incentive to work all the harder, make you fighting mad, and then the chances are in your favor of making up that lost yard and finishing a yard to the good.

Your situation this year is somewhat like what we faced in 1916. We were without a coach also, but you have bigger advantages and possibilities than we had. You have last year's wonderful season to beat and Reinartz to work with you. I suppose you expect me to add something about our record breaking year in track at old Muhlenberg. I am glad that most of those records have been shattered since that time and hope you will keep on breaking them.

Here's hoping Muhlenberg has the fastest track team that ever wore spikes for her.

Sincerely yours,

E. A. WEBER, '16.

Dear Friends:

I was asked as one who once represented Muhlenberg on the track, to contribute to this column. Let me say from the very beginning, that I value the experience which I received in four years of athletics just as much as the part of the four years spent in the classroom and the study. For a strong, virile body and a sane, strong mind go hand in hand.

It's a great feeling, fellows, to feel someone at your shoulder, as you are coming down the home stretch. It's an effort worth while to keep on fighting, to make that last superhuman spurt to bring victory to dear old Muhlenberg. Each spring the same old feeling and desire comes back to me. Go out fellows, work hard and know what it means to be “Fighting for Muhlenberg.”

Get Muhlenberg on the map in track! Look at the Football season, the Basketball season. Here's a chance to keep it up. Everyone who works faithfully can develop. Work with your Student Coach Reinartz! I know “Corp,” I've run with him, he'll do his best. Go help him.

A prescription for success on the track. Obedience to training rules 5 grs. Patience 2 grs. Sincerity 1 gr. Fight 3 grs. Sticktoitiveness 4 grs.

Shake well before using. Use every day.

Best wishes for a successful season.

Sincerely yours,

EARL S. ERB, '20.

'94. George S. Opp, Mus.B., is the very efficient organist of Salem Lutheran Church, Bethlehem, Pa., of which Rev. Franklin Gehr, D.D., is the regular pastor.

'97. Prof. George E. Kramlich is the competent head of the Latin Department in the Boys' High School, Reading, Pa.

'98. For many years George F. Erdman has been one of the "faithfuls" and consequently also of the "reliables" in the offices of the "Allentown Morning Call."

'01. For many years Percy B. Ruhe has been the very capable editor of the "Allentown Morning Call." His recent editorial on the death of Mr. Max Hess of Allentown elicited very favorable comment.

'03. Charles E. Webb, Esq., is one of the advisory counsels of the Liberty Trust Co., of Allentown, Pa.

'04. Prof. Warren F. Acker is organist of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Allentown, Rev. George A. Greiss, D.D., of the class of '96, pastor, and head of the Music Department of the Allentown High School.

'05. Herbert F. Gernert teaches music in Allentown and is the organist of St. Michael's Lutheran Church, Rev. A. F. W. Steinhäuser, D.D., pastor.

'96. As already announced in the columns of THE MUHLENBERG WEEKLY, at a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees of Muhlenberg College, Prof. Preston A. Barba, Ph.D., was elected head of the German Department and Prof. Robert R. Fritsch, A.M., of the class of 1900, after having served most satisfactorily as professor of German was made professor of Religion. We congratulate both of our fellow-alumni as well as the institution whose Faculty is thus strengthened by this division of duties. Prof. Fritsch is becoming well-known as a lecturer on the Bible. Every week he teaches an interdenominational Bible Class of several hundred members in St. Paul's Lutheran Church and addresses large bodies of Bible Students throughout eastern Pennsylvania.

'06. Prof. John D. M. Brown, of the Faculty, is also becoming prominent through his talks on literature and the drama. His services are in constant demand with the literary clubs in and around Allentown.

'06. Bryan W. Laros is in the office of Charles W. Laros, real estate dealer, Allentown.

'09. The November, 1921, number of "The Annals" of the American Academy of Political and Social Science had for its special theme "Child Welfare" and was ably edited by Prof. James H. S. Bossard, Ph.D., of the Sociological Department of the University of Pennsylvania.

'10. Rev. Karl L. Reisner is pastor of the Church of the Redeemer, Atlanta, Georgia and first vice-president of the Evangelical Ministers' Association of that city.

'11. We extend our sincere sympathy to Rev. Charles L. Grant, of St. Paul, Minn., upon the great loss he has sustained in the death of Mrs. Grant.

'11. We congratulate the people of St. James Lutheran Church, Allentown, Pa., Rev. Frederick C. Wunder, pastor, upon the forward steps they have taken in becoming a self-sustaining congregation.

'20 Amos A. Ettinger, who has been studying History at U. of P. recently received the announcement of his appointment as an assistant instructor in that department of the University.

He—"Say Dorothy, if you were walking along and saw an angleworm on the sidewalk, would you pick it up?"

She—"No."

He—"Well then you're no chicken."

RADIO CARRIES SERMON

Speaking on the very applicable topic of Christ's command to go and make disciples of all nations, the Rev. Charles L. Grant, 1911, preached a sermon which was broadcast by the radio telephone of the St. Paul Pioneer Press, St. Paul, Minn. last Sunday night. It is estimated that an audience of 5000 listened to the program, which included musical numbers by various St. Paul artists. Rev. Grant is pastor of Faith Lutheran Church, of St. Paul.

DELTA THETA ENJOYS FORMAL SPRING DANCE

At midnight the participants of the affair sat down to a tasty dinner and an hour of good fellowship without music. Favors were distributed to all the ladies both at the opening dance and at intermission. The dining room was decorated with hundreds of roses and other flowers with streamers in purple and gold, the colors of the fraternity, leading to each table. The main ball room was decorated in the fraternity colors, with a big dome in the center of the room, and a very artistic light formed the centerpiece of the second room. All the auxiliaries which go to make up a perfect party were present and with four o'clock came the climax and close of the party. No one wanted to leave but the orchestra just happened to remember the Union rules with regard to late dancing and went on strike.

Dr. Wright sprung this one:

A boy came to school one morning holding his head very high.

"Why do you feel so good this morning?" asked the teacher.

"Well, you'd hold your head high too if your vest was made from the seat of father's trousers."

Five minutes later Boyer laughed—the joke had soaked through.

School Training

Now we see Harold tracking his way in lumbering gait, with all the grace and dignity of a future editor, wending his way to the city school through the grades into High School, through the High School into the cold, wonderful beautiful world, armed with a diploma, dated 1918.

Muhlenberg sought him out and he accepted an invitation to continue his intellectual embellishment under the tutorship and guidance of President Dr. Haas and his able associates of intelligent looking highbrows. Deo Volente Harold will leave Muhlenberg by the graduation route this Spring—a bachelor of science but betrothed to the profession of instructor in physics.

Through his gift of unusual talents Harold became a Republican in politics. His church affiliation is with the congregation of Zion United Brethren, while socially he hobnobs with the fellows of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity.

Editor Knauss was in many ways qualified to wear the journalistic toga. He never had a keen appetite for work, and his most liberal endowment along this line was a genial aptitude and proficient ability to have the labors in chief performed by his associates and sub-ordinates who for him produced one of the best if not the best series of WEEKLY'S ever issued by Muhlenberg students.

The editorial toga rested lightly upon his shoulders, and he was wearied of assigning tasks to others.

Editor Knauss, our esteem salutes you. The memories of service under you shall ever remain one of the most pleasant experiences in our college life.

Adieu—Auf Wieder Sehn—Good-bye—Good Night.

"THE MODERN GIRL" PENS PINK ANSWER

off and then casts her aside for something new.

Why do men like sports, big game hunting and the like? Because there is danger in these amusements which adds zest to the game. The Modern Girl is a similar amusement to the Modern Man.

To be sure, it is dangerous to play with fire! Yet every man sooner or later will go out with "The Modern Girl." They will invariably be burnt, for the Modern Girl is a "hot sketch."

This pink papered note is not the only defense I've heard for the Modern Girl and the Flapper. The dear creatures (meaning expensive) have been picking on me ever since my little treatise appeared. One says that I'm prejudiced; another says that I'm rotten; a third says that I don't rate; another says that I'm an "unmilitated liar"; and dear knows what not. Oh! how these dear girls love me! But one can hardly blame them for being peeved when I take them down from their pedestal and tear them to pieces. But don't Shaw's "Man and Superman"; Ibsen's "A Doll's House"; and Fletcher's "The Wild-Goose Chase" imply the same trend of thought? Why not give credit, where credit is due, for having nerve enough to say what I think about this Modern Girl?

In closing let me say, "Don't pick up the shoe unless it fits; if it fits it may pinch; if you don't complain, nobody will know the difference."

P. Hildebrand, '24.

He Reached the Top

THE Vice-President of a great life insurance company who began his career as an agent has this to say to seniors who are about to graduate from college:

"If you love work and desire to pursue an honorable, useful and lucrative mission in life this is the business for you to take up. Life insurance salesmanship offers a fine field for the energies of the splendid young men in our colleges.

"That this is true is demonstrated by those college men who have taken up life insurance for they have shown that the college man is fit for this kind of a job and that the job also is fit for the college man.

"The work of the life insurance salesman is distinguished by independence and opportunity for directing his own. It gives all possible opportunity for individual initiative and a chance to make an ample income at an age when most fellows are struggling on a wage pittance."

That is the story of one who began at the bottom and reached the top without the help of a college education. The advantages are with you who graduate from college. Before deciding your career make inquiries of the "Agency Department."

GLEE CLUB BACK FROM FIFTEEN DAY TRIP

Such compliments as these which were by no means few, speak for themselves, and nothing need be said as to how the boys were received by their audiences.

Men Always Well Received

Nothing seemed to be too good for the boys from Muhlenberg, for in every town they found some means of entertainment that was provided for them by their friends and Alumni of Muhlenberg. After the concert at Summit Hill the club was entertained by the American Legion at their headquarters, where they fellows played cards, smoked twenty-five cent cigars, and enjoyed many good things to eat and drink. But let it be understood that the liquid was of a soft nature.

In Mahanoy City the Masonic rooms were thrown upon to the club. There was dancing, pool playing and more eats. The Alumni Association at Nazareth as usual had a spread waiting for the boys after the concert. Several members of the association made short speeches lauding the work of the Glee Club, and Mr. Lantz, the president, was called upon to speak on Athletics at Muhlenberg. At Wilkes-Barre the Club was met by Rev. P. N. Wohlsen, an Alumnus of Muhlenberg, who took them to the Fort Durkee Hotel, where they dined in a body. After luncheon the boys were the guests of manager John J. Galvin of the Poli Theatre at the matinee performance. Mrs. Galvin, who is also past president of the Kiwanis Club at Wilkes-Barre, reserved the best seats in the house for the Muhlenberg organization, which proves the statement that nothing was too good for them. After the matinee a banquet was given the club at the Hotel Reddington, by the Alumni Association of Wilkes-Barre. More speeches were made praising the work of the club and recalling many happy days that were spent at Muhlenberg. The club members are very thankful to the Alumni Association of Nazareth and Wilkes-Barre, and to Mr. Galvin for their kindness shown in entertaining them, and also to all their friends who helped make their visit at the various towns a pleasant one.

Success at Scranton

Perhaps the largest audiences greeted the club at Wilkes-Barre and Scranton, where approximately a thousand people witness each concert. Scranton, which is the home of Mr. Mattson, asst. manager of the Club gave the boys a hearty welcome. As the old saying goes "A prophet is not without honor save in his own country," but our friend Edward upset the dope and made the biggest hit in his home town. The concert at Scranton was also witnessed by Mrs. Stowell, who came all the way from Rochester, N. Y., to hear the boys sing, and she said she was well repaid for the visit. Mrs. Stowell is anxious to arrange for a concert at Rochester for next year, and she says that she will see to it that the boys will be well entertained if they come.

During the last trip the club entered new territory when they sang at Honesdale Saturday evening, an exceptionally large crowd greeted them, and heartily applauded every number. There is no doubt but that the club will make an annual trip to Honesdale in the future.

There are but two more concerts and the season of 1922 will be over. On Thursday evening the club will sing at North Wales, and the following Wednesday, May 10th, the final concert in Allentown. The diagram of reserved seats opens May 3rd.

Suggested program for chapel exercises:

Monday: Mack Sennett Comedy.
Tuesday: Lecture on Revolution by W. Bryan.

Wednesday: Tambourine selections, Bohemian Troupe.

Thursday: Five Reel Feature; Without Benefit of Clergy.

Friday: Smoker and Cheer Practice.

LUTHERAN STUDENTS CONVENE HERE

Markley presented the work of the Board of Education and explained its efforts to reach the students in the various colleges. Rev. Ambrose Herring of Pittsburg presented the work of the Inner Mission Board. Dr. L. B. Wolfe of the Foreign Mission Board discussed the problems encountered in the foreign field. The Immigrant Mission Board was represented by Dr. A. L. Ramer. Rev. Paul Morentz presented the work of the Jewish Mission Board. Sister Rose Barbour also told of Deaconess.

At the close of the afternoon conference, the party of delegates took an auto trip through Col Trexler's game preserve and took supper at Guthsville Hotel.

At the business session of the conference on Saturday, the officers for the coming year were elected: President, Ira S. Fritz, Muhlenberg Secretary, Miss Nellie Van Metre, Irving; and Treasurer Mark K. Trexler. Mt. Airy.

Sunday Sessions

On Sunday the final sessions of the conference were held. Rev. John A. W. Haas, D.D., LL.D., addressed the delegates on "The Student's Faith" at the regular morning service of St. John's Lutheran Church. "It has been generally said that the more a man knows, the less he believes and that the less he knows, the more he believes. This is not true in the long run. There are three classes of people who are concerned with the question of knowledge: (1) those who do not ask because they are indifferent, (2) those who are afraid to ask, and (3) those who are not afraid to ask the question because they answer by believing." Dr. Haas took the Apostle Paul as an example and showed how this was exemplified in Paul's own life. He concluded, "Faith rests on the reality of a life in Christ. Earnestness and sincerity are lacking in most men who ask of God."

Sunday afternoon the final session of the conference was held in St. John's Parish House. Rev. William C. Schaeffer, Jr., Pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, concluded the conference by a strong and stirring appeal to the students for a life in Christ. "A true Christian must yield himself to Christ to act as a channel for Christ's service."

The conference as a whole was a decided success and a strong inspiration to all the delegates who attended. Delegates attended from Albright, Dickinson, Gettysburg, Gettysburg Seminary, Irving, Keystone State Normal School, Lafayette, Lehigh, Philadelphia Seminary, State College, University of Pennsylvania, Woman's Medical College, West Chester Normal, Cedar Crest College, Swarthmore, and Muhlenberg.

MUHLENBERG LOSES DUAL TRACK MEET

Cardinal and Grey Track Men Show Good Form—Reinartz and Sowers Star

Muhlenberg's track team suffered its first defeat at the hands of the strong Rutgers aggregation at New Brunswick last Saturday afternoon. Rutgers garnered 88½ points to Muhlenberg's 23½ by winning twelve first places and nine seconds out of fourteen events. Muhlenberg took first place only in the broad jump and the javelin throw. "Corp" Reinartz, the Muhlenberg pentathlon star, who pressed Legendre at the Penn Relays, won the broad jump by a leap of 21 feet 10 inches. Sowers won the javelin throw by a heave of 159 feet 3 inches with Reinartz a close second.

Rutgers has one of the strongest track teams she has ever produced and Muhlenberg need feel no shame over the defeat. H. H. Meyer, the Rutgers hurdler, who competes also for the New York Athletic Club, set a new college record when he led home Kolb, a teammate, in the 220-yard low hurdles in 24 4-5 seconds. In the 100-yard dash, Dewitt of Rutgers, after a good start, burned over the century in 10 seconds. He won the 220-yard dash in 22 1-5 seconds. Wilson, of Muhlenberg, won third place in both events. "Corp" Reinartz won second honors in the pole vaults, shot put, discus throw, and javelin throw, and was tied for second place in the high jump with Innet of Rutgers.

MUHLENBERG DEFEATS URSINUS IN TENNIS

Tennis Team is Getting Under Way in Great Style

The tennis team defeated Ursinus by a score of 2-1 last Tuesday at Collegeville in the second match of the season. The matches were very well played thruout. On the Ursinus side, Frutchey was the best man, while Boyer '23 and Roessler '25 played equally fine games for Muhlenberg. Miller, for Ursinus substituted for Sheely who was taken sick during the last set of singles.

The score by sets was as follows:

Singles. Frutchey 6	Roessler 2
6	1
Boyer 6	Sheely 3
6	8
6	Miller 3
Doubles. Frutchey	Boyer
and	and
Miller 6	Roessler 3
4	6
3	6

The next match will be played with Moravian at Bethlehem on May 11. The chances of bringing home a victory look good.

PHI KAPPA TAU MEN ENTERTAIN DADS

The Phi Kappa Tau men had their fathers and several members of the faculty as their guests at the Annual Father's Night Stag at the fraternity house, 1119 Linden St., on Monday evening, May eighth.

A very pleasant evening was spent by all with cards, pool, music, and talks by the different professors as the major diversions.

The faculty guests of the fraternity were: Dr. I. M. Wright, Prof. John V. Shankweiler, Prof. Harry D. Bailey, Dean George Ettinger, and Prof. Stephen G. Simpson. A tasty luncheon was served by the committee which was composed of Harold P. Knauss, Richard C. Lutz, Willis L. Dillman, and Elwood V. Helfrich.

NEW WEEKLY STAFF HAS FIRST MEETING

MANY NEW FEATURES WILL BE ADDED TO THE COMING ISSUES.

HORACE S. MANN
recently elected Editor-in-Chief of the WEEKLY.

"A bigger and better WEEKLY" was the slogan of the new staff as they reorganized on Thursday at the Phi Epsilon house in preparation to taking up their new work.

The seniors on the staff will take charge of the various departments as usual. Huey will take charge of the Features and from what he has done in the past we can expect some consistent work along that line. Miller and Weiler will take care of the news, although most of the assignments will be made to all the members of the staff. It was decided to try to get more Freshmen to scrub for positions on the editorial end of the staff but these men will not be appointed until next fall.

The office of Assistant Circulation

RICHARD C. LUTZ
who is now beginning his duties as Business Manager of the WEEKLY.

Manager is still open and a man will be elected to fill it in the fall.

Preparations were made to send the Editor-in-Chief and the Business Manager to Newark, Delaware, to represent the WEEKLY at the regular spring conference of the Inter-collegiate Newspaper Association.

J. T. WOODRING, '89, DIES IN HOSPITAL

Was Elected to the Bench of Northampton County As Third Judge

Judge James T. Woodring, '89 of the Northampton County court and father of Allen T. Woodring, the Syracuse athlete of Olympic fame, died in St. Luke's Hospital at 11:05 Sunday night of diabetes. He was removed from his home, No. 421 Vine St., Bethlehem, to the hospital three hours before.

Judge Woodring was born in Lower Saucon township, August 4, 1860. He attended the public schools at Hellertown until 1876 in which year he entered the Allentown Preparatory school, the following year enrolling at Muhlenberg college. He was graduated with the class of 1881, being the class valedictorian.

Later he entered the law offices of the late Edward J. Fox, at Easton, and was admitted to the Northampton county bar on June 19, 1885. Shortly after his admission to the bar Judge Woodring rapidly entered upon an active career, which has extended down the last thirty-five years of North-

GLEE CLUB SINGS AT NORTH WALES

After Final Out-of-town Concert
Men are preparing for Allentown

Last Thursday night the Glee Club travelled to North Wales for their final concert away from home. This was the first time for two years that the Club gave a concert at North Wales. Although it was a very stormy night, the people turned out to hear the concert and the auditorium was nearly full. The concert was given in the Lutheran Church and was a great success. The feature of the evening was the rendition of an extra number called "America Triumphant" in keeping with the nationwide music-week program. The entire concert was enjoyed by all who heard it. Afterwards the Club was treated to a little luncheon consisting of ice-cream, cake and coffee. The

Dinner

An "Au Revoir Banquet" in the most approved Lehigh County style was enjoyed by the graduating class of Muhlenberg College at Schnecksville last night, with Prof. Harry D. Bailey and Prof. Stephen G. Simpson as guests of honor.

Tons of food were consumed by the thirty classmates, with "hingle und waffla" as the principal item, accompanied by all of the side dishes that Pennsylvania Dutch ingenuity could place upon the table.

The dinner began at seven thirty and was followed by a number of very effective speeches. Roy S. Hoffman of Oley, the president of the class, served as toastmaster, and called upon

NINE LOSES TO SWARTHMORE IN HARD FOUGHT GAME

Cardinal and Grey Team Begin to Show Real Baseball Form

FAST DOUBLE PLAYS
HOLD DOWN VISITORS

The Allentown Prep and Muhlenberg baseball teams had a sorry time of it last Saturday afternoon. Prep lost to the Penn Frosh by the score of 10-3. Muhlenberg played a great game for the first four innings, but in the fifth, two hits and an error netted the visitors three runs. In the sixth they scored two more runs. Muhlenberg woke up in the seventh when Shook's double to the left scored Hoffman. In the eighth Muhlenberg threatened to tie the score, but it was only a threat. In the ninth Swarthmore settled the game by bringing in two more runs. The game ended with the score 7-2.

This was the first game since Easter in which the Muhlenberg nine was up to form. Swarthmore came here determined to wipe out the defeats in football and basketball but the Cardinal and Grey boys were just as determined. Our men were on their toes from the start and there wasn't much that slipped by them. The

FROSH NINE LOSES TO WHITEHALL HIGH

Tursi pitches exceptional game for First Year Men

The Muhlenberg Freshmen baseball nine proved the victims of the Whitehall High nine by the score of 7 to 6 yesterday afternoon, the game being the third successive win for the Whitehallers. The game was featured by the good pitching of both pitchers. The finish came in the seventh inning, when Tursi walked three of the Whitehall hitters. Winn's hitting was also an outstanding feature of the game.

Editorial Comment

The Wisdom of Article III

Every spring while elections to the various Student Body, Weekly Staff, and Student Council offices are being held, the same discussion is heard, the same question arises, viz., "Is that provision in the By-laws requiring a grade of B a wise one or not?"

This clause, which is found in Article III of the By-laws, reads as follows, "No student who has not received an average of B in his studies for the year preceding an election shall be eligible to any office which the Student Body fills."

In many respects, this is a wise provision. In the first place, it rewards in a visible fashion those persons who have done reasonable well in their studies. It is able to maintain a grade of B if he will but, sorry to say, the will is too often lacking. Article III serves as an incentive and therefore ought to be retained.

Secondly, it assures to the Student studies. Any person of average improved their ability to make good. Even among this group of students, there are some who fail in office. If Body the services of those men who have proved their ability to make good. Even among this group of students, there are some who fail in office. If that type of officer who exhibits a vital concern in his own success should be replaced by that type of officer who does not care two pins about making good and who lacks a sense of responsibility, it is but reasonable to believe that the number of failures in office would be considerably increased. As a result the various student activities would suffer.

Furthermore, there is always the possibility of an office becoming vacant thru the failure of its incumbent to pass the exams. Such a state of affairs might possibly result in the election of a man totally unacquainted with and entirely unprepared for the duties of the office. We ought to have capable and efficient men as leaders; but we cannot secure such leaders, if we make the election of a greenhorn a likelihood—in some cases the only possibility.

Lastly, the man with the grade of B or more can afford to spend more time in the interests of the Student Body than the man with low marks. Undoubtedly the more time an officer spends in carrying out the duties of his office, the better and more satisfactory will be the results he produces. We want results of the proper kind and we expect our leaders to produce them. But they cannot produce results if they are handicapped by scholastic difficulties which require their entire attention and time.

Mother's Day

We celebrate the home coming of our victorious armies—we build memorials to our great statesmen—we honor our writers—we speak fondly of our American Ideals and point with pride to our successful industries, our prosperity, and our enlightened people. Is it not fitting then that we should dedicate one day to the honor of the mothers who gave us our stalwart soldiers, our famous statesmen, our great men in music, art and science, and whose influence have fostered our ideals and to whose patience and spirit of self-sacrifice we owe our prosperity and enlightenment?

We, therefore, have, as a nation, set aside May the fourteenth as Mother's Day.

We cannot measure, nor hope to repay the debt of America to the American mothers, but it is not only a privilege but a duty for us to acknowledge our indebtedness by wearing for them the WHITE CARNATION.

—F. E. P., '25

THE NEW STAFF

Although it is not the beginning of a new school year, we are looking forward to a new year in the files of the MUHLENBERG WEEKLY. The new staff has reorganized and is about to take up the work where the old staff laid down their pens (or is it typewriters?). In this modern age we always hear the slogan that the new shall be better than the old and rightly so. If the men on the new staff cannot profit by the mistakes of the old, they are certainly incompetent men. The new staff is planning to expand the paper wherever possible, to try to include everything that is of interest to students and alumni, and to make a bigger and better paper.

More Co-operation

To work out these plans, we need co-operation from every member of the staff and not only from these men but from every member of the student body. In the masthead of the paper we read, "Owned and published by the students of Muhlenberg College."

But the WEEKLY exists also for the alumni. It is their only official source of information regarding the activities of their Alma Mater. When we who are now undergraduates become alumni, we shall always look forward with joy to the arrival of our copy of the WEEKLY.

Yes, we need co-operation. That means that if any man in the student body knows of anything, he should tell some member of the staff or write the news himself and give it to one of the editors. Please do NOT take the attitude that those who are elected on the staff should do all the work.

This applies particularly to the Freshmen. Many of them have the ability to do newspaper work but we do not find them handing in any news or even signifying their wish to scrub for the WEEKLY. Next fall six sophomore reporters will be chosen for the staff. Every man who scrubs will have an equal chance and merit will be the only basis for the appointment of the new reporters. Freshmen, it is up to you!

Financing a College Paper

While we appeal to the members of student body for help in securing news, let us not forget that money is needed to run any college paper. Who did not pay his subscription for this year? You know whether you have paid or not. Make an effort to do so at once.

We also appeal to you to get new subscriptions among the alumni in your own home town.

And how about advertising? Do you know of anyone who should advertise in the WEEKLY and does not? Go after him. Bring in his ad. We want to expand the paper but we can only do so by having more advertising.

Fellows, this is your paper. If it doesn't please you, tell us. If it does, tell everybody.

MUHLENBERG MEN RUN IN 36-MILE RELAY

Help to Carry Message from Allentown to Reading and Return

The spirit of Muhlenberg in Allentown was well shown last Monday, May 1, when five Muhlenberg runners featured in the relay run from Allentown to Reading to deliver a message between the mayors of these two cities. The run was part of the program conducted to forward Physical Culture Week in Allentown and the men from Muhlenberg who ran were Zartman, Webb, Kleinginna, Messinger and Riggs. Among the seventy four runners, each of whom ran a half a mile, the Muhlenberg group had the honor of being the last to run. The time of the run from Allentown to Reading was 3 hrs. 21 min., and return 3 hrs. 19 min.

After the race, the Muhlenberg men were in for a big treat, which they received from John "Heinie" Leh, the great 1921 Princeton stroke oar, who also conducted them to their respective starting places in his machine.

surprises, in the form of plain straw hats of the farmerette type very much in keeping with the season. These plain hats furnished a great deal of amusement for the party, for very quickly they were decorated with great masses of serpentine streamers, which by this time had been thrown in great quantities over the lights and decorations of the room.

The chaperones for the function were: Dr. and Mrs. I. M. Wright, Prof. and Mrs. Harry D. Bailey, and Prof. and Mrs. John V. Shankweiler. In addition to the chaperones, the fraternity had as its guests: Dr. and Mrs. Martin Kleckner, and Attorney Robert Kleckner. The committee in charge of the dance consisted of: Luther F. Gerhart, Clifford H. Trexler, J. Walter Koch, Royal D. Benner, and Elwood V. Helfrich.

Sings at Rotary Banquet

On Friday night the Glee Club sang at the Rotary banquet. This concert was also a feature of the music week program. It was "Ladies night" and all the rotarians of Allentown had their wives there. There were twenty three visiting rotarians with their wives from Pottstown. The Glee Club sang the "Cardinal and Gray" and "America Triumphant" before the banquet was served. A hearty meal was then disposed of by all and after that the Club sang "On the Sea" and "Old Uncle Moon". The numbers were greatly appreciated.

The fact that a man loves a woman shows that he knows nothing about the female of the species; the fact that a woman marries a man is proof of that blessed virtue, good judgment.

I once knew a man who thought his wife loved him for himself alone, but one morning when he got awake he accidentally saw himself in the mirror and decided it took a mother to do such a thing.

East Stroudsburg Normal

The Muhlenberg baseball team on Tuesday lost to the Stroudsburg Normal School nine by a score of 12 to 6 in a weird game on Muhlenberg field.

The local collegians were away off color. Twelve errors were chalked against the two teams, seven of which were "earned" by Coach Schneider's team.

Hoffman was touched for thirteen safeties by the Stroudsburg batters, one of which was a home run by Hanges in the fourth inning. Conway, the Stroudsburg twirler, used an under-hand ball that had the local collegians baffled, and although touched for eight hits, kept them well scattered.

"Best Paid Hard Work in the World"

IS the way a JOHN HANCOCK salesman described his work. He is a college graduate and in five years has put himself at the very top of his business.

He never yet has called upon a prospect without a previous appointment. The best life insurance salesmen today work on that plan, making it a business of dignity, such as any worthy and ambitious college graduate can find satisfying to his mental needs, and highly remunerative as well.

The man above quoted is the John Hancock's youngest general agent. This shows what college graduates of the right type can do in this business, how they can build up earning power and at the same time provide for an accumulated competence for the years to come.

Graduation is a vital period in your life and you are liable to hold to the business you start in. It would be well before making a definite decision to inquire into life insurance as a career. Address, "Agency Department."

SCANDAL

Stop! Look! Listen!

The hour has come! The fair name and honor of Muhlenberg which we have protected for so many years, which countless hosts of old have so greatly cherished, and which, even now, has been placed in a pinnacle of achievement never before attained, is at last sad to say, to be bowed to the dust.

Scandal in all its many forms has descended upon the campus. It is widely and insistently rumored that certain young and well known Juniors, men heretofore looked up to and respected as men of worth and character for the many good deeds done for Muhlenberg have at last succumbed to the snares and pitfalls of temptation and have brought grave discredit to their Alma Mater.

Acting under orders from exceedingly high authorities, a special representative of the Jr. class has investigated carefully the sad situation and has delved deeply into the past histories of the men in question. The result has been that records surpassing in sensation even the alleged deeds of Ed. Kern have been brought to light. The great mass of data has been taken over by the publishers of the Muhlenberg CIARLA, the official annual publication of the Junior Class and will be presented in lurid form in the next issue.

This is only one of the hundred and one features that will make this year's Ciarla the best published, all of which will be offered to you at a reasonable setback. Acting under a strong organization, the massive minds and intellects of the class and school have been working steadily to produce this studendous chronicle. Order your copy now from your favorite newsboy so that you will be able to secure it promptly. Don't forget that the book is to be the most artistic yet published and will make an admirable present for the ladies. Watch out for future announcements.

Many Hear Talks by Prof. Fritsch

Prof. Fritsch, on Thursday evening April 27th conducted a Bible Study on the "Sermon on the Mount" in the Lutheran Church at Doylestown, Rev. Bernard Repass, Pastor. On Sunday morning he preached for Dr. Greiss in St. Paul's Lutheran Church, and in the afternoon addressed a mass meeting in Weissport. Thursday, May 4th, he spoke in Lancaster on "Religious Education and Democracy" and on Friday of the following week he was the principal speaker at the anniversary of the Lutheran Brotherhood in the Lehigh Lutheran Church, of which Dr. Rees is the Pastor. Prof. Fritsch's Bible Study lectures which he is giving to the Freshman and Sophomores at College are in great demand in the various churches throughout an increasingly wide territory.

amptown county's history.

He served as solicitor for the boroughs of Hellertown, Northampton Heights and South Bethlehem, for one or the other continuously from 1886 to 1915, frequently serving two of them at the same time. During the years 1894 and 1895 he was county solicitor, before a term was fixed by law for the office. He was also district attorney for Northampton county from 1899 to 1902.

the two faculty members present, G. Herbert Reinartz, Harry Sharkey and Herbert Gebert. The "Dum Committee" who arranged the affair consisted of "Puny" Trexler, "Dan" Sharkey, "Para" Miller and "Tom" Lantz.

Professor Bailey, as part of his speech, stressed the connection of two words, investment and interest, pointing out that the returns a man gets out of life are measured by the investment of effort he makes.

Professor Simpson spoke of the importance of future reunions of the class, and closed his remarks by reciting several poems.

A certain father had a son in the service and was proud of the fact. He always spoke of his son when opportunity offered. The neighbors knew this and invariably asked him how his son was faring. One day someone asked him: "Well, Henry, how is your son David coming along?"

"Very well, indeed," said Henry. "He is being promoted rapidly and I have no doubt that he will soon be a lieutenant or a captain, for in his last letter he told me that he had been made a Kitchen Police."

GLEE CLUB SCORES BIG SUCCESS IN FINAL CONCERT

Varied Program Wins Hearts of Allentown Patrons

MANDOLIN CLUB

MAKES HIT

By HARRY W. RUEY

The moving finger writes, and, having writ, moves on, but a large audience at the high school auditorium last Wednesday evening felt that it could not possibly have moved on until it recorded that the annual Allentown concert of the Muhlenberg Musical Club was the best concert ever given by any Muhlenberg representatives.

By its excellent work throughout the season, the club won for itself the reputation of being the best college musical club in the East. If the appreciation shown by the largest audience that ever attended a Muhlenberg concert may be accepted as evidence, the club well deserves its reputation. Round on round of applause greeted the boys' papearance on the stage, and almost every number was encored. In return, the club put forth its best efforts to make the last concert of the season the best.

Luther A. Bennyhoff, '23, rendered a piano solo, "The Two Larks", by Leschetizsky, in a creditable manner. His technique was perfect, and his interpretation so delighted the audience that he was called back for an encore.

Elmer E. Zieber '25, sang a bass solo, "A Song of the Pirate," by Rhys-Herbert. He enunciated well, and although he sang a difficult selection, he rendered it in a way that demonstrated to the audience the range and power of his mellow voice. Winkel-

A. T. O. FORMAL DANCE WAS A BIG SUCCESS

Snappy Jazz and Elaborate Luncheon Make Annual Affair Impressive

The Lehigh Country Club was the scene of much merriment at the annual spring formal dance of the Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity on Friday evening, May 21. The color scheme though not elaborate brought the fraternity colors into view in a most artistic yet unique manner. The blue and gold banners of the fraternity were so arranged as to produce just the proper artistic effect.

A dance program of deamy melodies and snappy jazz selections, which only Mickle's Fantasy Six can interpret together with the clever and witty sketches offered by this well known sextette of entertainers made the dance one long to be remembered.

As the hour of mid-night approached, during an intermission in the dance program, a most elaborate luncheon was served. Silver bud vases with the letters of the fraternity neatly engraved were given as favors.

The chaperones for the affair were: Dr. and Mrs. John A. W. Haas, Prof. and Mrs. Albert C. H. Fasig and Prof. and Mrs. Robert C. Horn. The following alumnae were present: Charles Gebert, Dr. Augustus Merkle, Douglas Steimle, Herman Dimick, Chester Hill, Sherman Oberly, Ralph Raker, Morris Sheitz, Warren Wenner, Clinton Calahan, Raymond Shankweiler, Robert Burkholder, Harry Dubbs, Harold Brathold and Dalton Schwartz. The committee in charge were Paul W. Ramer, chairman, Robert S. Merkle, Foster E. Shook, M. Randolph Grimmette and Robert F. Orr.

I. N. A. WILL MEET AT MUHLENBERG

Spring Convention at Delaware Was Pleasing and Well Attended

"Study the wants of your subscribers and try to supply those wants and you will be able to have a successful college newspaper," said Mr. Frederick William Wile, Washington Correspondent for the Public Ledger, at the seventh semi-annual conference of the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association of the Middle Atlantic States held at the University of Delaware, Newark, Del. Mr. Wile spoke of newspaper work in general and then told of his work as Washington correspondent of one of the largest papers of the East. He gave the "budding editors and business managers" present some idea of the relation of the government to the newspapers.

Mr. Wile spoke at the banquet on Friday evening, May 12. On Saturday morning the regular business session of the conference convened at the quaint printing plant called "Kells", where they were permitted to see some of the art of printing.

At this business session, the officers for the coming year were elected: President, Mr. Jones of Haverford; Vice-President, Mr. Boyce of Delaware; Secretary, Miss Miles of Albright; and Treasurer, Mr. Chauls of Stevens. The Conference accepted the invitation of Muhlenberg to hold the October meeting here.

PHI EPSILON HOLDS ANNUAL BANQUET

Members of Local Fraternity Enjoy Themselves at Guthsville

One of the most successful banquets ever held by the Phi Epsilon Fraternity was held last Friday evening at the Guthsville Hotel. It has been the custom for several years to have a farewell banquet for the seniors of the organization.

Raymond C. Miller, '22, the toastmaster, called upon Dr. George T. Ettinger and Prof. Henry R. Mueller, and then upon the retiring seniors.

The trip to Guthsville was made by machine. The committee in charge of the affair was: Stirling Schmoeyer, Robert Phifer and Alfred Koch.

YEARLINGS LOSE TO LAFAYETTE FROSH

DiLeo and Hartzell Star for Muhlenberg Frosh

The reorganized "Frosh" baseball team journeyed to Lafayette on Wednesday and was beaten by the score 10-2. Although the score seems to tell the tale, the game was fast and replete with thrills. Demoling, the pitcher, after having two bad innings settled down and held the Lafayette Frosh to a few scattered hits. For the Frosh, "Tony" DiLeo, and Hartzell were the outstanding stars. "Tony" had a home run the first time at bat. For Lafayette, Bellis, the pitcher was the shining light, having 3 strike outs.

Dr. Wright spoke at the St. Johns Lutheran Church of Palmerton, Sunday evening May 7th.

"LAY FOUNDATIONS NOW," SAYS DR. J. A. McCUAIG

"The world-upheaval of the past few years has demonstrated the fact that our first business is to lay the foundations for those who come after us. The Man who hung on the Cross gave himself for unborn generations." In these words Dr. J. Aspinall McCuaig opened the short discourse which he delivered in the Chapel on Monday morning. Dr. McCuaig leaves a marked impression upon his hearers, on account of the simplicity of his language and the power of his message.

Dr. McCuaig said in part: "Those who live for unborn generations never die. Is Luther dead? Is Washington dead? Is Lincoln dead? I say to you that their words carry more today than most of the present-day utterances."

"The first business in a man's life is laying foundations. Press on through the long day of service! Press on into eternal morning leaving long wide trails which men and women of all generations may follow."

CHEMISTRY CLASS VISITS GAS PLANT

A Thoro Study of Gas Production Is Afforded Industrial Chemistry Students

By CARL D. NEUBLING, '24

On Friday afternoon May 5, the Industrial Chemistry class under the direction of Mr. Howard Kistler, instructor of the class, went thru the Allentown and Bethlehem Gas Company's plant located at 3rd and Walnut Streets.

Under the direction of Mr. Woodring, the superintendent of the plant, and Mr. Frick, the General Manager of the plant, the class started on its tour of inspection. The first thing that our attention was attracted to, was the loud noise made by the rushing of air thru large chambers into a furnace. The furnaces are constructed of brick lining and in outer surface of sheet iron. The onrush of air thru the furnaces, raises the temperature to somewhere in the neighborhood of 1100 degrees Cent. before the process is started. When the temperature rises above the amount before stated, steam is blown into the bottom of the furnace. The gas thus

SOPHOMORES LEAD IN VOLLEY BALL

Freshmen Are Close Seconds in the Contest

Thursday afternoon at four o'clock the Freshman Volley Ball Team defeated the Seniors 2 - 0. But in spite of the fact that the third game was unnecessary, the Seniors kept the lower classmen on their toes to win. This game marks the end of the first half of the interclass contest. Beside this game, two other games were played last week, in one of which the Freshmen had a battle royal with the Juniors, but finally won by the score 2 - 1 while the Sophomores on the following day "ran away" with the Junior Team with a score of 2 - 0.

Previous to last week, three other sets had been played since the season opened on April 26th. In the first game the Seniors and Juniors played one of the best of the season, the Juniors finally being victorious 2 - 1. In the second game the Sophomores and Freshmen were almost evenly matched and it took the best efforts

BROOKLYN NINE TAKES CLOSE GAME

Hoffman is Given Poor Support—Team is Weak in Pinches

Brooklyn Polytechnical Institute sank our luckless aggregation deeper in the mire Saturday afternoon by taking advantage of five damaging errors and winning a 7-3 contest on Muhlenberg Field. Roy Hoffman twirled a good game and was deserving of better fate. He allowed but six hits and fanned eight men, but the Gothamites backed Koenig with almost faultless support and played consistent baseball by putting a run across on a walk, hit by pitched ball and single to centre. In the locals' half, three men got on bases with no one out but no one could come through with the necessary punch. Crum flied out, Shook was out stealing home, and Freed fanned.

The visitors scored enough in the eighth to win the game. O'Brien nailed out a triple to deep left field. Turani was safe on an error by Lazarus, O'Brien scoring. Koenig doubled to right, scoring Turani, Peister gained first on an error by Flower. Mallary walked. With the bases loaded, Oechner singled to centre bringing in Koenig and Peister. Oechner was caught stealing second and Schwartzman flied out.

Coach Dank Schneider's proteges flared up in the ninth. Freed fanned. Ash singled and gained second on the next play. Lazarus sent Muhlenberg stock soaring with a terrible smash to left field for a complete tour of the bases, scoring Ash and tallying the third run. Rufe flied out and Hoffman ended proceedings with an infield rap to Methfessel.

The Varsity Tennis Team lost a hard-fought tennis match on the Moravian College Courts at Bethlehem on Wednesday, May 10. In the singles, Stengel, Moravian, defeated Roessler, Muhlenberg, 6-4, 6-2. Hoffman, Moravian, defeated Alderfer, Muhlenberg, 6-1, 6-1. Steininger, Moravian, defeated Fritz, Muhlenberg, 6-2, 6-2. Gop, Moravian, defeated Boyer, Muhlenberg, 6-3, 6-3. In the doubles; Hoffman and Stengel, Moravian, defeated Fritz and Alderfer, Muhlenberg, 6-2, 6-0. Steininger and Gop, Moravian, defeated Boyer and Roessler, Muhlenberg, 6-2, 2-6, 6-3.

DR. HAAS ADDRESSES SQUARE CLUB MBRS.

Dr. John A. W. Haas gave an interesting address at the weekly dinner and meeting of the Allentown Square Club at the Hotel Allentown last week. He spoke of the new Americanism emerging from the intermediate stage in its policies toward physique, mentality, politics and society to take its place in the leadership of modern men and women in the affairs of the new-born, democratically inclined world. He cited the fact that the open-mindedness and inclination towards self-criticism brought out by the World War were having their deserved reward.

TEAM PLACES FIFTH WITH THIRTEEN POINTS

Muhlenberg did not win the Middle Atlantic States Collegiate Association championship but "Corp." Reinartz, star and coach of the Cardinal and Grey squad, was the star performer at the 122th annual field and track meet Saturday. "Corp" broke the Middle States javelin record, with a heave of 176 feet, 8 inches, established by Betzmer, of Delaware. The best Betzmer could do today was to place second.

Rutgers College won the championship with a total of 48 points; Lafayette, headed by Captain Crawford, finished second with 33 1/2 points; Delaware third, with 19 points; Swarthmore fourth, with 14 points; Muhlenberg fifth, with 13 points; Bucknell sixth with eight points, and Franklin and Marshall and Washington and Jefferson seventh, with four points. Haverford and Juniata scored three points each, while Gettysburg and Lehigh scored two each.

Reinartz, after smashing the javelin record, landed a first place in the running broad jump and finished second in the shot put. He qualified for the pole vault yesterday but found to-day's competition too strong and failed to place in that event.

Sowers qualified in the javelin on Friday, but did not qualify in the

Editorial Comment

About the first thing that the average student looks for when he picks up his copy of the WEEKLY is "Scissors and Paste." The jokes and humorous features always appeal to him. In fact, the college man has a sense of humor that is all his own. He likes to read jokes no matter how poor they may be and on the campus he is always trying to "crack a wise one."

A few weeks ago the old staff intended to run a wit number with as much original material in it as was possible to find. But owing to lack of space and also somewhat to the lack of first-class material, the "wit" was limited. But don't blame anybody except yourselves.

We are trying to put a bigger and better WEEKLY out during the coming year and one of the features which we wish to adopt is a column of wit in every issue—not "Scissors and Paste" but rather "Original Wit." There are many funny things happening on the campus from day to day that would make fine material for this department of the paper if it could only be collected. Fellows, it is up to YOU to collect it.

We will not be able to increase the size of the paper until next year but we will endeavor to run as much wit as possible in every issue—providing material is turned in. Let's get busy!

Prospective Students

During a college year we hear so much concerning college spirit and school loyalty. Some fellows try to tell us that loyalty and college spirit consist of yelling and making noise at various games, or taking part in some fool escapade that they originate, but for the consequences of which they are not responsible. In fact a large amount of the "sins" of a college are ascribed to a lack of college spirit.

However, if any fellows wish to show real college spirit and loyalty that means something, we would call their attention to the fact that in their home communities, High School and Prep School seniors will soon be graduating. In these senior classes there are good prospects for desirable Muhlenberg students, and it is up to the fellow who really knows what he is talking about when he is speaking of college spirit, to make those prospects acquainted with the advantages and opportunities at Muhlenberg College. In this way he will not only know what he is talking about, but he is making his talk mean something.

Take Advantage of Vacation

If we were to ask a group of men for a definition of ambition, we might get as great a variety of answers as there were men in the group. They would all probably agree that "Ambition is something that—" They would all agree that it exists. But as to what determines ambition, or what causes it to be present in some characters and not in others, they would hardly be able to explain.

It is always puzzling to find so many young men at college with all the opportunities for preparing themselves for a career of leadership, in any activity they choose, who do not appreciate those opportunities, and merely idle away time and money that they have never made an effort to earn.

This condition exists because these men have not been placed in a position where competition is the only law whereby they can earn their daily necessities. It is usually the man who wants something, and "wants it to such an extent, that he is willing to work for it" who is designated as being ambitious. It is merely the application of this rule, when we see a small boy working very industriously to secure his first bicycle.

It is therefore evident, that a vision or aim in life is necessary to determine a successful life, and if any man has come to college without an aim or vision, he does not possess ambition enough to make the most of his college opportunities.

During the few months of vacation that are almost at hand, every fellow is able to learn something of real life that will make him appreciate his next year at college. Every college man, irrespective of push or "cush" should obtain some kind of employment during these months. Whether it be in the factory, in the shop, the office, on the farm, or selling articles from door to door, he will always find miserable conditions that his sense of justice will want to correct, and which will awaken a sense of responsibility. He will always meet people who regret that they could not go to college. This regret is not entirely on a materialistic basis, but these people who have lived, realize that nothing can be done in worth-while improvements, in civic, industrial, or economic life, unless a college education is the basis for such activities.

At least we are certain that every college man will return with greater determination next year, and after college, will be better prepared for the time when the size of his weekly checks will depend entirely upon his own initiative.

GLEE CLUB SCORES BIG SUCCESS IN FINAL CONCERT.

man '25, also essayed a vocal solo.

The theme of "When A Man Marries", a skit by W. Bruce MacIntosh '19, is quite hackneyed and time-worn. It is built almost entirely upon the situation of mistaken identity, and is cheapened somewhat, we believe, by the inclusion of Pennsylvania Dutch characters. And the caricature of a member of the faculty leaves a bad taste in one's mouth.

The plot of the skit is developed upon simple lines. "Jimmie" Thomas, a senior, played by Thomas Lantz, '22, is receiving an extra large allowance from his uncle in South America on the assumption that he is married and requires the extra money for the support of his wife. He receives a letter from his uncle George, who, in real life is Edward Mattson, '24, stating that his uncle is paying a visit to the States to see "Jimmie's" wife. "Jimmie" is in a quandary until he persuades "Mike" (Clyde Summ, '25), a female impersonator on the college glee club, to masquerade as his wife. He, or she—confound these pronouns!—receives the euphonious name of Gladys.

Then the fun begins. The Grumbiere brothers, sophomore and freshman, who, it is an open secret, are no other than Harry Sowers, '22, and J. Walter Koch, '23, appear, and are delighted to meet the beautiful Gladys. That is, they are delighted because she is easy to look at, but they are somewhat mystified by the grip of her handshake. Then Uncle George appears and is quite displeased with Gladys, believing her an adventuress who married for money.

To further complicate matters, Archibald Van Deusan Pinkham, a college junior, (William Mosser, '23, bears the burden of that hifalutin name), falls in love with the beautiful Gladys. She—or should it be he?—agrees to elope with stuttering "Archie."

Uncle George learns of his nephew's subterfuge and becomes very angry. He even declares that he will disinherit the naughty "Jimmie."

But a mollifying influence appears. He is a smallish man, very calm and collected, and his pileus adornments above and below his lips. We can withhold the secret no longer. It is Eugene Stowell, '24, as Dr. Essinger, dean of the college.

Now, there is only one way to gain any concessions from an angry man. You may browbeat, bulldoze, or threaten him, but he will only bark libelous remarks against your ancestry. You may tell him one of the old mother-in-law jokes and he will simply show his teeth. But tell him that you are appealing to his sense of humor and he will sell the old homestead for your benefit.

Dr. Essinger has had forty-two years experience with college men and knows human nature. There is nothing extraordinary about that, but it would be rather surprising if he did not know human nature after such an experience. Four years satisfy most of us. So the doctor appeals to the old codger's sense of humor and all is forgiven.

All the members of the cast played their parts very well, but "Bill" Mosser's acting was the outstanding feature. He easily scored the biggest hit of the performance. He deserves great credit for the way in which he portrayed the stuttering, diffident "Archie."

The inimitable "Ed" Mattson scored his triumph in "Vaudeville On Trial." He was assisted by Titus Druckenmiller, Elmer Zieber, and J. Walter Koch. He is a master of the art of make-up and his funny quips and retorts kept the audience in a continual uproar of laughter.

The Mandolin Club was on hand to render its program of dreamy melodies and weird jazz selections.

The concert ended with the singing of the "Alma Mater" by the entire club. Thus the Musical Club of 1921-22 passed into Muhlenberg history.

CHEMISTRY CLASS VISITS GAS PLANT

formed is then passed into the top of another large chamber known as the carbureter, in which oil is left run over a network of bricks. Passing out of the bottom of the carbureter, the gas passes to a final chamber known as the super-heater, which is the final chamber in the process of manufacture. The gasses then pass thru the tar extractors or collectors, thru coolers, scrubbers to the relief holder, and then to the purifiers, and storage tanks to the consumers. The oils pass out into a large vat and are sold to different manufacturing concerns thruout the country.

The company has about 200 employees, which entails quite a bit of management on the part of the executives. The plant is run on a very efficient basis, everything in run in order, as we could readily see by the system of conveyances used and the placement of the apparatus used in the operation. All of the apparatus installed in the plant is in duplicate, in order that the plant may never be shut down. We were shown the plans for distribution of the gas, apparatus for the measuring of temperatures, and the method of taking the B. T. U. Everything in the operation is practically mechanical, except the regulation of the temperatures, which in time to come will also be controlled automatically.

After going thru the manufacturing end of the plant we were taken to the service department. Here the efficiency is the keynote to the rapid service which the company gives to the public. We were given full realization of the enormous problem arising in the distribution of the gas to the householders of Allentown and its suburbs, of the immense distributing lines necessary, the necessity of keeping the flow of gas constant and available at all times, and necessity of gas stations in the outlying districts in the near future, all of which is one big problem which we and ordinary users of gas cannot realize until we have made a thorough study of a plant of this size, which is necessary to our modern communities.

The trip was very interesting from the standpoint of chemistry combined with economics.

(IN 1774)

"I HAVE ever considered it as the indispensable duty of every member of society to promote, as far as in him lies, the prosperity of every individual, but more especially of the community in which he belongs."

Life insurance is inseparably bound up with the prosperity of every individual, family and community. It is a secure and prosperous business and satisfactory to the salesman in every way.

The JOHN HANCOCK would like to interest a few ambitious men who graduate this year to make JOHN HANCOCK selling their life work.

Statistics on college graduates who have entered life insurance place it at the very top as a source of income. Before making a decision as to your career it would be well to make inquiries of the "Agency Department."

GLEE CLUB CLOSSES SUCCESSFUL SEASON WITH ANNUAL BANQUET

Elect Officers for Next Year at Chicken and Waffle Dinner at Guthsville Hotel

PROFITS EXCEED THOSE OF ANY PREVIOUS YEAR

The Muhlenberg Glee Club held its annual banquet in the Guthsville Hotel last Tuesday afternoon at the end of the most successful season any Muhlenberg Glee Club has ever had. To say that the dinner was a success would be putting it mildly for no member present will forget for a long time those platters of spring chicken and waffles, or those home made pies and cakes for which the Guthsville Hotel is noted.

After the dinner Mr. Thomas Lantz, as toastmaster, spoke briefly. He recommended the drawing up of a new constitution, the saving of the music from year to year and the securing of a faculty director for the Mandolin Club.

Professor Brown then praised the fine work of this year's Glee Club and suggested that the men should be more prompt in coming to rehearsals. He said that his wish was to have a skit contest for next year to secure some good plays for the coming years. He also recommended a change of program to relieve the monotony of the work and suggested an open meeting next fall in which to plan for the coming season.

Professor Marks said that the Glee Club should not merely have particular stars but should all be earnest workers; that they should not rest on their laurels but strive to achieve even greater success. One of the finest paid choirs in the city, he said, was told by their director to study the fine attacks of the Glee Club in their club numbers. Mr. Marks ended his remarks by saying that every member should work for a better club next year.

Mr. Bernheim then had something interesting to read to the members, which of course was their financial report. He said that without the support of the Glee Club funds, athletics would have lost money at Muhlenberg. The report follows:

Glee Club Statement 1922:
Total received .....$3,450.50
Total expenses ..... 2,134.83
Net gain .....$1,315.67

MIDDLE ATLANTIC MEET HERE NEXT YEAR

Muhlenberg Field to be Scene of Big Track Meet—No Date Set

Muhlenberg will be the hosts to the Middle Atlantic States Association at their annual track and field meet next spring. This was decided on following the meet at Lancaster last week, although it did not become known until the latter part of this week.

Guerney Afflerbach, graduate manager of athletics had been trying last year to have the meet staged here this season, but Franklin and Marshall College at Lancaster beat Muhlenberg to it.

No date has yet been selected for the meet, but the close proximity of Lehigh and Lafayette College with Penn right down at Philadelphia should make this affair one of the greatest athletic events ever staged on Muhlenberg Field.

IRA S. FRITZ IS CHOSEN STUDENT BODY HEAD

Non-Fraternity Men Elect Student Council Representatives After Student Body Elections

IRA S. FRITZ
President-Elect of Student Body

Ira S. Fritz was elected president of the student body for next year at the annual election of officers, held Friday. He is held in high esteem on the campus, having come to college after serving in the A. E. F., and has served as editor-in-chief of the 1923 Ciarla, published by his class, as well as in other offices to which he has been elevated.

Other officers elected were: Vice-president, Richard Yehl; secretary, Harry Sowers; treasurer, George Rupp; Cheer Leader, J. Roland Heller; assistant cheer leaders, Harold W. Begel, and Stanley Kurtz; assistant song leader, Edward Mattson; representatives to the Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Oratorical Union, Ira S. Fritz and Clarence E. Beerweiler.

Luther Gerhart, Ray Miller and George Rupp will audit the books of the Student Body Treasurer.

After the Student Body Meeting the non-fraternity men held a meeting, at which the following men were elected: Senior member of Student Council, John G. Miller; Junior Members to Student Council, Eugene Stowell and Bernard Demoling; representative to the A. A., Russell Flower.

DR. McCUAIG SPEAKS ON "CONTROL AND VISION"

Dr. J. A. McCuaig addressed the student body on "Control" on Tuesday morning. He plainly showed how everything is regulated in this life by "Control". His talk was very interesting and instructive.

Dr. McCuaig again addressed the Student Body on Wednesday morning. His talk was based upon "Vision". He told in a most striking manner how we should acquire the sense of seeing things in the true light. He said in part "The Old Man is not the person; it is the little baby inside of him, which tells the real story. We must see or look behind the scars, cuts, marks and other disfigurements and find the real person—then we can judge, and not until we have real Vision will our life be what it should be."

On Sunday afternoon, May 21st Prof. Fritsch delivered the address at the reunion of the Teacher Training Classes of the Moravian Church near Nazareth.

CAGE MEN AWARDED NEAT GOLD CHARMS

Gold basket ball charms were presented to the eight letter men on the Basket ball squad Tuesday morning, the gift of Charles Kline, a loyal member of the Athletic Association of the college.

Graduate Manager Afflerbach in handing out the tokens in the presence of the student body, spoke of the fine work done by the squad in coming out on top after having a discouraging beginning of the season.

The men who were eligible to wear letters and therefore received charms Tuesday morning were: Holstrom, E. Johnson, Grum, Kintzing, Taggart, Freed, Campbell and Manager Gebert.

NINE DEFEATED BY LAFAYETTE & URSINUS

Team Shows Improvement in Lafayette Game but Slumps Again in Ursinus Game

All who saw the game against Lafayette at Easton last Wednesday afternoon were satisfied with the manner in which our crew held the strong opposing team to the score of 13 to 2. Coach "Dank" Schneider's aggregation showed more real team work and played with fewer errors than they did for the past few weeks.

Hoffman worked hard on the mound during the first seven innings and was then relieved by Jack Weston who pitched excellently during the last two innings. Muhlenberg scored a run in the opening inning and then held back the opponents until the fourth inning in which the latter scored three runs. "Bus" Freed starred for Muhlenberg, and Holstrom, who also played excellent ball, was robbed of a base hit. Gazella, Brunner and Chillson were the heavy hitters on the Lafayette squad.

FORMER MUHLENBERG TRACK CAPTAIN MARRIES

Earl S. Erb '20, Captain of the Track Squad in his senior year at college, was married to Miss Alma Dunkelberger, on Saturday, May 20th. While at college, Erb broke the former records, which he still holds, for the mile and half-mile.

He is a member of Delta Theta Fraternity and has a host of friends on the campus.

After a short honeymoon, the couple will reside at East Greenville.

"Dawn and Desire"

We have captured from the sky
The hopeful Gray of dawn,
From the sunset blazing high
The fiery Cardinal torn.
Gray for the promised dawn
Red for the warm desire—
May these ever lead us on
Our souls for Thee to fire.

When we wander on our way
And the evening shadows fall
The Cardinal and the Gray
Will to our hearts recall
The winding roads, the grove,
The boys in the old arcade,
The campus trees we dearly love,
Where we lingered in the shade.

Chorus

Wherever we may roam,
However dark our day,
When'er in days to come,
We see that banner gay—
We'll sing the praise of Muhlenberg,
Loud shall our voices ring
As to our Alma Mater
The days new glory bring.

"Corp" Sets Example for Track Squad and Captures More Than Half of Total Points

YEHL CLOSE SECOND IN HALF MILE EVENT

Coach "Corp" Reinartz and his team mates defeated Brooklyn Polytechnical Institute Saturday afternoon 66-51. It was more than a victory for the track team. It was a crowning personal triumph for the phenomenal Reinartz. The fleet coach of the team participated in eight of the thirteen events on the program and took seven firsts and one tie for first honors in the high jump. The achievement is unparalleled in athletic history at Muhlenberg.

Whenever the Gothamite harriers threatened to make the score look dangerous it was "Corp" that came to the rescue. In the one-hundred yard dash, the 220 low hurdles, the shot-put, the high jump, the discus, the javelin, the pole vault and the broad jump, he breezed away with the field like an Olympic champion. He scored more than half of our 66 points and almost as much as the entire Polytech squad.

The program of thirteen events failed to provide any sensational performances or broken records with the exception of the outstanding individual achievement of Reinartz. The half-mile was one of the most exciting of the heats. Krassel and Judge, of Brooklyn and Yehl, of Muhlenberg, bunched throughout the race and breasted the tape with a split seconds difference in the order named. It was evident that Yehl was caught in a "pocket" for the greater part of the race and was unable to gain open track.

In the two mile event Krassel and Judge of Brooklyn were running an easy gait ahead of Riggs until the last lap when the Cardinal and Grey distance star cut loose with a sudden spurt and passed Krassel. Judge opened up with a sprint and easily finished first. Broadhurst, of Brooklyn, trailed Riggs to the tape.

In the javelin, Reinartz, who smashed the Middle Atlantic States record to smithereens last Saturday a week ago, won with comparative ease. In the field events, he actually competed in the discus, javelin, shot-put and broad jump at the same time and at times the meet was held up to allow the phenomenal star of our team to win one of the events and then immediately get into another.

100 yard dash—Reinartz, Muhlenberg, first; Greismann, Brooklyn second; Wilson, Muhlenberg, third. Time 10 3-5.

Mile run—Krassel and Judge, Brooklyn, tie for first; Webb, Muhlenberg, third. Time 4.57 3-5.

220 low hurdles—Reinartz, Muhlenberg, first; Kline, Brooklyn, second; Hodgkin, Muhlenberg, third. Time 27 3-5.

Shot put—Reinartz, Muhlenberg, first; Provost, Brooklyn, second; Sowers, Muhlenberg, third. Distance 36 feet, 11½ inches.

220 yard dash—Greismann, Brooklyn, first; Wilson, Brooklyn, second; Nelson, Brooklyn, third.

High jump—Reinartz, Muhlenberg, and Kintzing, Muhlenberg, tie for first; McCabe, Brooklyn, third. Height 5 ft. 6 inches.

Half mile run—Krassel, Brooklyn, first; Judge, Brooklyn, second; Yehl, Muhlenberg, third. Time, 2.04.

Editorial Comment

Our Track Team

On Saturday the track team won a great victory over Brooklyn Polytec. This victory is not the result of the efforts of one man in particular but of the united effort of the whole team. Under the efficient coaching of "Corp" Reinartz, there has developed an all-around track team of which we can justly feel proud. In addition to coaching a winning team, "Corp" himself made thirty-nine points, taking seven first places and one tie for first place.

The men against whom our team competed were all strong men in their line and one was as much of a star in distance events as "Corp" is in the field events and the dashes.

This success in track ought to encourage our men to greater effort and the student body ought to be there to back the team in the next dual meet with Gettysburg on June 10.

The fact that we are to be the hosts of next year's Middle Atlantic is significant in that it shows that we are recognized in track circles. Let's get our men working good this season so that we may make a good showing at the big fete here.

Following hard after this track victory, we have a large meet of the P. C. A. A. at Harrisburg. Our team has good chances of winning that meet. Let's back them to the limit!

Let our motto for this week be: ON TO HARRISBURG!

New Song Welcomed

That the Student Body welcomes heartily the new college song which has recently appeared on the campus, is evidenced by the rousing reception it has been receiving. The alumnus and professors who worked diligently to compose 'Dawn and Desire', the latest addition to the college song-book, are to be commended very highly for their fine composition. Such a worthy effort to make Muhlenberg more and more a singing school sets a fine example to the undergraduates. The WEEKLY adds its appreciation of the splendid college composition in addition to the general appreciation which is being heard on every side.

E. V. H. '24.

Campus Duty

A great deal of comment is heard on the campus concerning the bad playing condition of the tennis courts. Some of us are very apt without thinking to blame the tennis manager for this state of affairs, but the fact remains, that the student body has no one to blame but the increasing number of men of the Freshman class who do not appear for the duty assigned to them at various times. The tennis manager, or the manager of any other sport cannot compel the Freshmen to report.

It seems that instead of being willing to do a least bit of work in order to aid interesting and legitimate college activities, there are some men in the Freshmen class who would rather be fined. If that is the case, the time has come when student council or student body action of some other kind than fines should be used as an incentive to help such men see that a little bit of work on the campus at assigned periods is as much a part of the college curriculum as a course in the class room. Picking dandelion flowers might be perhaps more suitable than a fine in such an instance, especially at the present time.

E. V. H. '24.

New Cheers A Necessity

Every year, especially during the football season, the cheer-leaders are confronted in their work by the lack of a sufficient number of real snappy cheers. At different times the remark is heard on the campus that our rooters had out-cheered a larger group upon occasions when our team was away, but at the same time the fact still remains, that the cheer-leaders of almost every college rival of ours, have a greater number of cheers from which to draw.

Beyond a doubt, a lack of good cheers decidedly handicaps our cheer-leaders. Again, there is every reason to believe that there are men in the student body who can arrange some good peppy cheers if they will only take the time to jot down some of their ideas in their spare moments. We expect to have a good football team next fall, and the student body should take enough interest in the team to warrant the spending of a little time to compose some new cheers. Do you think the team wants to hear 'The Long Muhlenberg' thru-out an entire game? It's up to YOU to hand in some new cheers by next fall. YOU have an entire summer to do it.

E. V. H. '24.

1923 CIARLA WILL BE ON SALE THIS WEEK

that one page is devoted to each football game and that an individual snapshot of each "M" man as well as numerous large and small football pictures were added to the usual make-up of the department.

The book will have a larger feature section than any other Ciarla published and will include contributions of all sorts from epics and poems in blank verse to the idiotical nonsensities usually heard on the campus.

The photograph and art department have tried to make their work live up to the rest of the book with the result that the cuts and general art work is unusual and of high grade. There will be some real "art" in it, you may take our word for that.

Other features include a full page to each of the Juniors with an extra intimate and incriminating cut of each included, in addition to the usual "mug" picture. We consider some of these revelations worth the price of the book itself. Be that as it may, it has all passed the censor but we refuse to divulge his notorious name.

There is one other detail we have been withholding and believe us we're not kidding. The book is going to sell like wildfire and there will be only a limited supply on hand. For this reason we advise you to get on the job and see the different fellows who have charge of the sales. Do it now before you get lost in the rush.

SCISSORS AND PASTE

Which Excuse Do You Use?

"I studied the next chapter."
"I didn't hear the assignment."
"I did know it but—"
"I lent my book to—"
"I studied the wrong lesson."
"I don't understand that part."
"I had some unexpected company last night."
"The page is out of my book."
"I was absent yesterday."
"That was as far as I studied."
"I didn't feel well last night."
"Why-er-a—"
"I didn't hear the question."
"I know it but I can't express it."

Our physical instructor is a very versatile individual—judging from the variety of excuses in his course. That he has traveled the Orient and worshipped the god Allah is very evident from the practice he gives us in making obeisance. He must have been a trainman because he is very proficient in signalling. It has also been rumored that he has been the director of the chorus for a certain popular musical comedy—watch us dance. He would make a good business partner for Mona LaMar. We know that he has been a trainer for certain well-known pugilists—witness the "Jack Dempsey" thrust. He is a loyal member of the "Gimme" chapter of the Shifters as is so aptly illustrated in his "grasping" tendencies. Finally, "Bill" is a good lumber jack—how many cords of wood did we cut during the last few weeks?

—H. S. M. & F. B. H.

College Catalogs Wanted

The college library wants several copies of the College Catalogues of 1898 and 1913. Any alumnus who can present these to the College will be doing a great favor.

GLEE CLUB CLOSES SUCCESSFUL SEASON WITH ANNUAL BANQUET.

Mr. William Mosser, to whom great credit is due for his part in making the season a success, presented the following awards: Four year charms to Mr. Thomas Lantz and Mr. Clifford Trexler, the only four year men on the club, and two year charms to Mr. Edward Mattson, Mr. Eugene Stowell, Mr. Harry Sowers, Mr. George Bjerkoe, Mr. Conrad Voigt, Mr. Walter Koch and Mr. Luther Bennyhoff.

Elections were then held in which Mr. Walter Koch was elected president, Mr. Eugene Stowell, secretary; Mr. Luther Bennyhoff, leader, and Mr. Hollenbach, press correspondent. Mr. Mosser will be Manager again next year and Mr. Edward Mattson will be assistant manager.

Mr. Koch thanked the Club for the honor bestowed upon him and after the Alma Mater had been sung and a cheer given for the departing seniors, the Club members climbed into the different machines for a merry race back to the college.

NINE DEFEATED BY LAFAYETTE AND URSINUS

caused the victory for Ursinus College on Saturday, May 20th with a score of 13 to 3.

The Ursinus batters hit our pitchers freely, causing five runs in the first inning. Then Muhlenberg held Ursinus to scoreless innings until the fourth when the Collegeville lads chalked up six runs to their credit.

In the fifth inning Ursinus scored another run while our team was unable to score. During the last inning things began to change when Muhlenberg put across three runs. Weston and Hoffman pitched a good game for Muhlenberg while Cornog and Howell featured for Ursinus.

The score by innings:
Muhlenberg .000 000 003—3|7|8
Ursinus .500 610 10x—13|14|2

"CORP" REINARTZ AGAIN STARS AT C. P. C. A.

Breaks Former Records in Low and High Hurdles and In Broad Jump

MUHLENBERG PLACES SECOND IN MEET

"Corp" Reinartz, phenomenal student coach, captain and mainstay of the Cardinal and Grey track team, led Muhlenberg to second place in the second annual Field and Track Conference of the Central Pennsylvania Collegiate Association held at Island Park, Harrisburg, yesterday afternoon. The flashy Reinartz scored 31 of Muhlenberg's 35½ points. Bucknell won the meet with a total score of 49 points.

Reinartz captured firsts in the century, the 120 high hurdles, 220 low hurdles, high and the broad jump. He took second in the shot put, third in the discus and third in the pole vault. In winning the hundred yard dash, Reinartz breasted the tape ahead of his brother Fritz Reinartz, of the Gettysburg College team. This is the second time that the brothers have been pitted against each other. In the 220 low hurdles he lowered his own record made in the meet last year. In the broad jump Reinartz equalled the record made on the same field by Jim Thorpe, the famous Carlisle Indian athlete with a jump of 22 feet 5 inches and a quarter. The record for the field was 22.5 made by Thorpe when he was at Carlisle.

Summaries—100 yard dash—Won by H. Reinartz, Muhlenberg; second, F. Reinartz, Gettysburg; third, Joseph, Bucknell; fourth, Rentz, Bucknell. Time, 10 1-5 seconds.

120 yard high hurdles—Won by Reinartz, Muhlenberg; second, Burkner, Gettysburg; third, Templin, Dickinson.

PHI EPSILONS HAVE ENJOYABLE OUTING

"Doggie" Roast at Sandspring Park is Very Successful Affair

The members and their lady friends of the Phi Epsilon Fraternity spent a very enjoyable evening at Sandspring Park last Friday at a doggie roast. The party left the Fraternity House in the early part of the evening and motored to the park. There the merry groups contested in quoits, baseball, and numerous other outdoor sports until twilight turned into darkness.

The entire party then assembled into one group around the blazing bon fire which was prepared to roast the "dogs" and toast the marshmallows. After everyone had had enough of these, and of the punch and other delicacies, small Japanese hand-painted luck charms in the shape of dogs and dangling on the end of maroon and gold ribbons, were presented to all. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing and in playing various games. The committee in charge consisted of Sterling Schmoeyer, W. H. Long, and W. A. Hess.

STUDENT COUNCIL ELECTS OFFICERS

At a meeting of the Student Council last Tuesday afternoon the following were elected to their respective offices: George Rupp, President; Ira Zartman, Vice President; Eugene Stowell, Secretary and Treasurer.

LARGE CLASS WILL RECEIVE DEGREES

Honorable Job E. Hedges Will Be Commencement Speaker

All preparations have been made for celebrating commencement week as never before. On Friday, the honor men of the Senior class were announced.

Russell W. Stine, captured first honors and will make the valedictory address. Raymond C. Miller, is second honor man and will be salutatorian. Other honor men are Harold P. Knauss, and Reuben E. Kramer. They will deliver the scientific and the ivy addresses respectively.

The program for commencement week is as follows:

Sunday morning, June 11—10 a. m., baccalaureate sermon, St. John's Lutheran church, by Rev. Paul Z. Strodach, of Trinity Lutheran Church, of Norristown.

Monday afternoon, June 12—1:30 p. m., president's reception to the class at Hotel Allen.

Tuesday, June 13—10:30 a. m., Junior Oratorical Contest; 1:30 p. m., class day exercises at the college grove. The program for the exercises is as follows: Music orchestra; address of welcome, Roy H. Hoffman; presentation of gifts, Charles M. Bolick, Frank W. Lazarus, Andrew C. Kehrl, Geo. M. Sowers and Paul F. Spieker; music, orchestra; class history. Harold P. Knauss; Prophecies, W. Theodore Benze, Herbert G. Gebert; class poem, Robert S. Oberly; music, orchestra; mantle orator, Thomas W. Lantz; Last Will and Testament, Russell W. Stine; ivy orator, Reuben E. Kramer.

Tuesday evening at 8:30 the senior dance, Hotel Traylor.

Wednesday, June 14, Alumni Day address by Dr. E. Howard Griggs, 8 p. m., Junior prom.

Thursday morning at 10:30 the commencement exercises, high school auditorium. Address by Hon. Job E. Hedges.

INTER-CLASS BASEBALL AROUSSES INTEREST

Joy reigned supreme in the sophomore class when on Wednesday evening they defeated the senior team in a five-inning game, 7-2. The seniors started out well by scoring in the first inning but the steady playing of the sophomores took effect when, after tying the score in the second inning, they scored two more runs in the third and four in the fourth to the seniors' one. Neubling pitched a fine game for the sophomores and also showed up well at the bat, while Beerweiler played a fine game at second for the same team. Sowers and Voigt proved an able battery for the seniors.

In a previous game the seniors defeated the juniors 9-7. This game was an interesting from start to finish with Rex pitching for the seniors while Voigt, the senior catcher, excelled at the bat having three hits and a pass in four trips to the plate.

RACQUETEERS LOSE IN STRANGE CONTEST

Locals Bow Before Opponents In Singles But Win Doubles

On Friday Manager Balmer journeyed to Philadelphia with his four-man tennis team to clash with the team of Drexel Institute. Drexel succeeded in winning the single sets but bowed to the superior teamwork of the local team in the doubles. Boyer lost a hard fought singles match with two of the sets running to deuce scores. In the doubles the Muhlenberg players outplayed their opponents. Boyer and Roessler defeated the crack Drexel player Gillum and his team mate Jellett in a hotly contested match. Fritz and Thomas had an easy win over Kelly and Bostwick in the second doubles match. The scores follow:

Gillum, Drexel vs. Roessler, Muhlenberg: 6-2; 6-2.

Jellett, Drexel vs. Boyer, Muhlenberg: 6-2; 6-1; 8-6.

Bostwick, Drexel vs. Fritz, Muhlenberg: 6-3; 6-4.

Kelly, Drexel vs. Thomas, Muhlenberg: 4-6; 6-1; 6-2.

Gillum and Jellett, Drexel vs. Roessler and Boyer, Muhlenberg: 5-7; 6-4; 4-6.

Bostwick and Kelly, Drexel vs. Fritz and Thomas, Muhlenberg: 6-3; 3-6; 1-6.

West Berks Quartette Spends A Few Days On the Road

Foot-sore, weary, hungry, and nearly broke, the four musketeers, Undersagt, Roepe, Mattson and Stowell, arrived in Allentown after a three day hike touching New York and New Jersey states, covering a distance of over two hundred miles.

The West Berks Quartette left Allentown Thursday morning at four o'clock—dressed in kahki with the regulation army pack on their backs, and a road map in their pocket, they

JUNIORS HOLD CLASS ELECTIONS

On Friday morning, at a meeting of the Junior class, the following officers were elected: President, Charles E. Brodell; Vice President, Ernest T. Johnston; Secretary, Raymond V. Thomas; Treasurer, George B. Balmer; and Monitor William H. Rufe.

MUHLENBERG "BAMBINOS" GET SEVERE LACING BY LEHIGH

PILL TOSSERS LOSE TO ALBRIGHT NINE

One Run Lead of First Inning Is Soon Lost

Muhlenberg performed in hectic fashion yesterday afternoon by dropping her usual Saturday afternoon ball game to Albright 1-4. For seven innings it appeared as though the Cardinal and Grey tossers might shake off the jinx that has been hovering over them all season but a damaging flare-up in the last two innings netted the visitors eight runs and bagged the game for the Myerstown collegians.

Coach Dank Schneider's outfit got away to a one run lead in their half of the first when Shook, the first man up, singled, reached second on Witt's sacrifice and romped home on a torrid clout by Holstrom.

Albright touched off enough batting T. N. T. to tally three in the third. Hartzler singled to right and took second on Lincoln's sacrifice. Hoffman filled the bases by walking Miller and Schell. Jones smashed out a double to right, scoring Hartzler and Miller. Hoffman walked Wagner. Schell tallied on the next play when Dech sacrificed. Coach Schneider shooed Hoffman from the pitching peak and Weston fanned Knecht and subdued the side without further damage.

Muhlenberg stock rose in the fifth when Lincoln issued a free pass to Lazarus. Lazarus was caught attempting to steal second. Freed fanned. Weston doubled to right. Shook walked. Witt clouted a terrific double to center, scoring Weston. Holstrom

SOPHS WIN INTER- CLASS VOLLEY-BALL

Freshmen Are Close Seconds In the Contest

Monday afternoon at four the Freshmen Volley Ball Team defeated the Juniors 2-1. This match required a third game between the Juniors and Freshmen. The Juniors kept the lower classmen working to win.

Tuesday afternoon the Sophomores easily defeated the Junior Team with a score of 2-0. This was the last game between the Juniors and Sophomores. The Sophomores ran away with the Juniors in all the games.

On Wednesday two games were played, in one of which the Freshmen Team easily defeated the Seniors 2-0, while the Seniors after a hard fought game defeated the Juniors 2-1. This tied the score between the two upper classes each winning one game in the series.

The closing game of the series was on Thursday between the Sophomores and the Freshmen. The Sophomores and the Freshmen were about evenly matched, but the Sophomores won 2-0.

The lineup of the Sophomore team, which won all the games, was Strauss, Rogers, Reinbold, Schantz, Skean, Helfrich, Heller, and Seyfried.

The Final Score

Sophomores	6	0	1.000
Freshmen	4	2	.666
Seniors	1	5	.167
Juniors	1	5	.167

Brown and White Wallop Ball At Will

ERRORS AGAIN PLAY BIG PART IN DEFEAT

Muhlenberg staged Shakespeare's "Comedy of Errors" on Memorial Day and Coach Tom Keady's base ball team came very close to annihilating the Muhlenberg "Bambinos" in their annual struggle at Taylor field. The Brown and White nine came out of the fray on the long end of a 21 to 2 score.

DuBois, the Lehigh twirler was touched for only six scattered hits, one of which was Weston's drive over the right field wall in the ninth inning. Witt was sent in for the Muhlenberg team and was touched for sixteen hits, coupled with the eleven errors of the local collegians added to the run column of the Lehigh aggregation.

We can offer no alibi for this bad defeat, and anyone that saw the game would accept none; we were outclassed, that's all. The sad news:

THE NEW CIARLA BIG SUCCESS

Many Distinctive Features Set Off New Book

The Class of '23 may not shine in athletics but it certainly has put out the best Ciarla that has ever appeared on the campus. Upon examination of the Ciarlas on file in the library the above statement will be verified.

Each member of the Junior class has two cuts; one of which he is all keyed up for the camera, and another in which his friend caught him in an informal and, it must be admitted, a somewhat foolish mood. The write-ups are very good. They give all that should be known about the subject and give one an inkling as to the phylandering among the fair sex.

Every college activity receives full treatment. The football season is written up well and is illustrated by many pictures. Our great victory over Lehigh is featured by a skit, in

Editorial Comment

Alumni Day.

Where will our alumni be on June 14? Will they be at Muhlenberg College or will they be too busy to attend?

June 14th is the day during commencement week when special provisions are made for alumni. It is the great alumni get-together day. A noted lecturer, Dr. Howard Griggs, will speak. In the afternoon, there will be the baseball game with St. Josephs. In the evening, the Junior Prom will furnish entertainment for all who are interested in the art of Terpsichore. What more could an alumnus want?

Possibly we undergraduates cannot appreciate fully what it means for an alumnus to return on Alumni Day and renew acquaintanceship with the professors and fellow students. However we can parallel this feeling when we meet some of our classmates from prep school or when we return in the fall to continue our studies. Isn't it refreshing to take a day off from the continual grind and to forget oneself in the rapid-fire exchange of experiences which follows such a meeting? Alumni, your Alma Mater has done much for you and many of you have undoubtedly done much for her. But can't we take one day of the year and give it to our Alma Mater?

Some Improvements.

At the present time at Muhlenberg we are face to face with a very serious condition. We dare not bench the question or treat it lightly. We must face the problem squarely and examine the facts honestly.

There is only a small minority of the student body who support college activities. It can be very easily seen that there is a very small group giving freely of their time and energy for the good and welfare of their school. What they do give, they give generously. If they succeed in their efforts they are applauded; if they fail, they become objects of scorn. And yet the very ones who are the first to sneer are so contemptibly deficient in the qualities that go to make up a college man, that they are content to sit by and actually have the crust to poke fun at the men who at least try.

Take the Press Club for an example. It did good work during the football season, but since then its work has been spasmodic and irregular at best. A well organized Press Club working all thru the year should send out articles to newspapers on all college activities, such as athletics, glee club, etc. The Press Club should by all means be put on the same basis as the WEEKLY. The members of the Press Club should not be limited to juniors and seniors, but should include the lower classmen as well. WEEKLY news reaches only subscribers who are usually connected with the college in some way. With a well organized Press Club, the newspapers could reach those on the outside who know little if any thing of the college activities, Muhlenberg would stand second to none.

There are many students, especially freshmen, who do not enter into any activities of the college. They are usually the ones who are the loudest criers, always bellyaching around about something, and are usually dissatisfied with the way things are run, and yet they refuse to enter into any activity with a whole-hearted effort. Compulsory activity seems to be the only solution of the problem. We would suggest that every student, regardless of who he is, where he came from, or why he was sent here, be compelled to enter some college activity.

Think these things over. Make the most of the present college life, because the biggest things you will reach in life come as a result of your own efforts. And remember the bigger the place you reach in your college life, the more worth while will life turn out to be.

proceeded with no definite object in view. They finally reached Easton, with the aid of some kind hearted truck drivers they proceeded towards Delaware Water Gap. There they camped on Island Park until Friday morning. The owner of the island learning that the boys were from Muhlenberg, could not do enough to make their short stay a very pleasant one.

Early Friday morning they packed up and turned their faces toward Port Jervis, N. Y., at which place they arrived at four-thirty in the afternoon. After a visit to the newspaper office, where they gave an account of their trip, they crossed over into New Jersey and started a two hour climb to the top of High Point Mountain. Here on the top of the mountain, the highest point in New Jersey, the boys pitched their tents on the estate of Col. Kuser. Although the atmosphere was slightly above the freezing point, the pup tents offered good protection against the wind, and wild game that inhabit the mountains in this section.

Early Saturday morning, the boys started back by the way of Newton, Hackettstown, Washington and Easton, and finally arrived in Allentown on an M & G ice cream truck.

This was the first trip the boys ever made together, and because of its success, they are planning another trip up thru New York state via the Hudson River and Albany to Buffalo and Niagara Falls. They expect to start on their second sojourn immediately after school closes.

INTERCLASS BASEBALL AROUSES INTEREST

On May 11th the Frosh team won a closely contested game from the Juniors, 10-9. The pitching of Harris for the Frosh and Baker for the Juniors was one of the outstanding features of the game, while Baker and Tursi both were credited with home runs. Heffley played a fine game in the field for the first year men.

"MODERN GIRL" ANSWER SENT ON PINK PAPER

Author of the "Modern Girl",—

We read with a great deal of interest the article printed in one of the editions of the Muhlenberg WEEKLY discussing your classification of girls, namely: "The Old Fashioned Girl," "The Modern Girl," and "The Flapper."

The difference between the Modern Girl and the Flapper however, was not as clearly defined as it should have been. We are not Flappers, yet we hope our friends will at least think that we are Modern Girls. From what we have seen of life, it is the Modern Girl who eventually marries and makes a home of her own, and the Old Fashioned Girl who remains an Old Maid.

The Flapper dresses as conspicuously as possible, irrespective of whether it is becoming or not. The Modern Girl dresses in the latest style, does not adopt a fad simply because it is a fad, but tries to look attractive wherever and whenever she is seen.

Now let us say a few words concerning the male Flapper, more commonly known as "Finalehopper." He dresses conspicuously without any regard to taste, and is usually to be found at public dances, to which place he has gone alone, standing around the edges, trying to flirt with all the girls which were brought there by the Modern Young Man, who is spending not only the evening, but also some loose change, to show the girl a good time.

While P. H. H. '24 prefers the Old Fashioned Girl, she is noticeable at all public functions only by her absence. Even the Flapper outnumbers "her." If one is acquainted with any number of girls recently married, they will immediately know that his statement that the Old Fashioned type of girl is not the one that the Modern Young Man wants for his wife.

We are using pink paper thinking that is the only way this will receive recognition.

Signed: "THE MODERN GIRL."

Once more the so-called Gentler Sex have risen up in unrighteous indignation at my attack upon them. I have all the reason in the world to believe that the following, which I recently received, was written by a group of Modern Girls from our sister institution across the valley. This letter was written on paper of the most delicate shade of pink and the odor which came from it was intoxicating—in fact suffocating. A complete copy of the letter follows:

Altho this letter is not as clever as the last one that was sent, it is written very well. But to all appearances my classification seems to have been "Girl" I do not mean the sort that wear their hair peeled back giving their head an appearance of an onion, nor that go to bed every evening at nine o'clock, but the girl that dresses neatly, but not so loudly that you can hear her a mile away.

The Modern Girl may be summed up as one that wants to be nice but naughty and the Flapper may be summed up as one that is naughty, but wants to be nice. And since naughtiness and niceness don't mix anymore than oil and water there is bound to be the mess that the Flapper and the Modern Girl are.

As for the "Modern Girl" who eventually marries, let me say that I am not in the habit of associating with married girls. It's not done in the best of families. As for styles and fads—in my estimation a style is a fad, so that argument doesn't hold water.

I wish that the writers had borne in mind when they were composing this letter that they were writing to a fellow at Muhlenberg and that therefore he is not well acquainted with the Male-Flapper, for this species of man is very scarce at Muhlenberg altho they will be found in abundance at neighboring institutions. But who is the cause of the existence of the Male-Flapper—the Female Flapper. Why do these cake-eaters stand around on the edge of a public

REV. GRANT, '11, FAVORS LIGHT WINES AND BEER

High lights of a sermon recently delivered by Rev. Charles L. Grant, which appeared in the St. Paul, (Minn.) News have come to the attention of the WEEKLY, and since the author is an alumnus, and since the subject is one about which there is much current comment, we print extracts from Rev. Grant's sermon.

In part, Rev. Grant said, "I am heartily in favor of a movement to have congress permit sale and consumption of such beverages, for I believe and I am sure a majority of right thinking citizens believe likewise—that there is no harm in a glass of wine or beer."

Speaking of "ultrareligious prohibitionists" Rev. Grant said, "There are many who speak in a half-hearted way about the miracle of the wedding-feast, and attempt to apologize for its place in the Scriptures. They tell you that Jesus filled the jars with grape-juice or that he gave the guests a higher regard for right and so worked in them a desire for plain water."

"That's plain nonsense.

"The wine was real wine. The word for wine is 'oinos'. It is used 37 times in the Bible, and means fermented wine. If those disciples and guests had lacked control they could have become well intoxicated.

"When close restrictions are placed on the harmless use of wine," continued Rev. Grant, "the temptation to excess is increased by the possibility of an early shortage."

"Ha, Ha," laughs the habitual drunkard, "that's true. That's what I always have held."

"But just remember that at this home wedding, or that family party where wines are served, the guests do not go home drunk."

The first of the month came around. "Son," exclaimed the incensed father, "what is your idea of an allowance anyway?"

"Father," returned the youth wearily, "it is that which one can neither live without nor within."

dance—not to flirt with the girls, but rather to look them over, because the Flapper and Modern Girl show so much form.

If you still feel that you must write to me and defend the "Modern Girl", do not think that pink writing paper is an essentiality. Any kind of paper will receive recognition, provided what is written on it is worthy of an answer. And furthermore, if you write, sign your names. Don't be ashamed to stand up for what you say if you mean what you say. The fact that you are afraid to disclose your identity leads me to believe that you are just throwing a heavy line. Let's see you lay your cards on the table and come clean. You know that persons who write anonymous letters don't rate very high with respectable people. And you don't rate with me at all. —P. ## Business Building

THE selling of commodities is fundamental in every business, and selling life insurance affords the maximum of satisfaction and remuneration. For the life insurance salesman is a business builder and finds innumerable ways to serve the community and make himself indispensable in the conduct of modern affairs.

The life insurance salesman is not only a business builder but he is in business for himself, creating a competence permanent and continuous. It is the best paid work for those who are ambitious and willing to work, and who have the character and stamina necessary to stamp their individuality upon the business and on their community.

The traditions and practices of the JOHN HANCOCK are such that the college graduate can take a peculiar pride in representing this company. You are liable to remain in the business you enter on leaving college. Before making a definite decision inquire into life insurance as a career. Write, "Agency Department."

went out via Hartzler to Wagner and retired the side.

With the score 3-2 both teams settled down to fair base ball and neither side tallied until the fateful eighth Weston, who had been pitching good ball since he pulled out of a nasty hole in the third, weakened and walked Dech. Knecht reached first when Weston muffed an easy bunt. Stock started a rumpus by doubling to left, scoring Dech. Hartzler doubled scoring Knecht and Stock. The infield tightened up and retired the side.

Muhlenberg retaliated with two in their half of the eighth. Witt singled to center. Flower singled after Holstrom flied out to center field. Crum doubled scoring Witt. Flower was caught at the plate. Crum stole third and scored when Lincoln muffed Grimmer's bunt. Lazarus retired the side on an easy out to short.

The storm broke in the ninth. Schell singled through third. Jones safe on an infield hit. Wagner singled to left scoring Schell. Dech singled, scoring Jones. Knecht singled, scoring Wagner. A free pass by Weston and successive hits by Hartzler and Yost tallied two more. Muhlenberg tried hard in their last half of the ninth. Tursi batting for Freed, singled to right. Weston walked. Shook walked. Witt hoisted a high foul which was gathered in by Schell. Tursi was caught at the plate on an attempt to score on Holstrom's infield rap. Lincoln tightened up and retired the side on an easy out to center.

Stroudsburg Game

For the second time this season, the Stroudsburg Normal School nine on Wednesday defeated the Muhlenberg nine. The game was played at Stroudsburg, and resulted in an 8 to 2 victory for the home team.

With the exception of two bad innings the local collegians showed up very good in this game. Those two innings were the first and second, in which Stroudsburg scored 5 of its 8 runs.

Hoffman started the game for Muhlenberg. He was hit so hard in the first and second innings, that Witt was sent in to relieve him in the third frame.

The first three men to face Witt in the third inning each hit the ball for two bases. After those three hits were out of his system, Witt settled down and pitched fine ball for the remainder of the game. However, the lead made by Stroudsburg in the early innings was too much for the local team, and the game ended with the score 8 to 2 in favor of the opposing team.

Conway, pitching for Stroudsburg, twirled in good style. Although the Cardinad and Grey batters touched him for something like nine hits, he was tight in the pinches.

When we first examined the new Ciarla we were mystified as to how the staff could put it out for the price, until we learned that the work of the advertising manager was responsible for the low figure. The Ciarla is a credit to Muhlenberg and no one should fail to purchase a copy.

Activities of Fifty-fifth Commencement Week are Put on in Fine Style

Baccalaureate Sermon, Senior Reception, Junior Oratorical Contest, Class Day Exercises, Senior Farewell Dance, Alumni Day, Junior Prom. Commencement Exercises and Fraternity Affairs are among the Events of a Busy Week

REV. P. C. STRODACH PREACHES TO SRS.

Baccalaureate Sermon in St. John's Church Is Very Inspiring

The Rev. Paul C. Strodach, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, Norristown, an alumnus of Muhlenberg College, delivered the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of that institution in the St. John's Lutheran Church, South Fifth Street, on Sunday morning at the 10 o'clock services. The students appeared attired in their academic gowns and mortar boards, and were accompanied by the members of the faculty led by President Dr. John A. W. Haas and Dean Dr. George T. Ettinger.

The speaker chose as the basis of his address, I Corinthians, 3:11, "Other foundations can no man lay, than that which was laid, which is Jesus Christ."

"The students who are graduating from college are idealistic, so optimistic during this week, so full of inspiration with a strong will to succeed, but what will all that avail unless they base their educational foundations on Jesus Christ, and if they do not, they will fail as surely as the young man who tried to measure Jerusalem, because in the latter case, (Continued on Page Six)

EXTENSION DEPT. GRADUATES SIXTEEN

Sixteen members of the Extension Division of the college have completed the required courses and graduated with the class of 1922 on Thursday. The work of this department has been steadily growing until this year; the third graduation that it takes part in, it had a total registration of 516. This means that thru these teachers, Muhlenberg College was reaching at least 15,000 school children in the Lehigh Valley. The classes were conducted at the college on Saturdays, at the Central Junior High School in Allentown on four nights each week, at Hellertown on Friday afternoons, and at Hazleton on Tuesday evenings. Classes were refused at two other centers because there was no member of the faculty with sufficient time to meet the appointments.

The plans for the summer school are well under way. Over 3,000 catalogs have been mailed to teachers and students. Last summer there was an increase of one hundred per cent in the attendance over that of the previous year. Indications show that the registration for the summer will be close to three hundred and fifty.

Those who graduated on Thursday were: Emmaline Buss, Ada James, Florence Kline, Eileen Kramer, Stella Newhard, Anna Olweiler, Lillie H. Roth, Laura S. Weinberger, Blanche Kressley, J. Otis Charles, F. A. Christman, W. O. Cressman, C. W. Eisenhard, William H. Seip, and Walter R. Theirolf.

HONORABLE JOB E. HEDGES

SIXTY RECEIVE DEGREES AT 55th COMMENCEMENT

Hon. Job E. Hedges delivers worthy Address and receives Degree

The fifty-fifth annual commencement exercises of Muhlenberg College were held in the High School Auditorium this morning; the class consisting of fifty men and ten women, received their bachelors degree. The Honorable Job E. Hedges of New York City, delivered the commencement oration, which was one of the most important features of the exercises. He expressed what he termed "a few old-fashioned ideas", in which he made plain that a change had taken place in the American peoples' outlook in the last few years. "We have passed into anti-people instead of pro-people" he said, to show the (Continued on Page Two)

IRA S. FRITZ WINS ORATORICAL CONTEST

George A. Rupp Takes Second Prize in Junior Affair

Ira Fritz won the first prize and George Rupp won second prize in the Junior Oratorical Contest held in the College Chapel on Tuesday morning. Although the audience was small it did not detract from the quality of the contest, which was generally conceded to have been one of the best held in years. Five members of the class of 1923 competed speaking on themes of timely interest.

"Better Politics" was the subject used by Ira S. Fritz who said: "History is a picture of action and reaction, sacrifice and denial. The history of our country illustrates this in many ways, in the civil war and in our present day. A change is needed in America, a rebirth, especially in our political system; to free it from greed, and corruption brought about by the spoils system instituted in Jackson's administration. Today the chief aspiration of politicians is the possession of office, the necessary things are neglected. If we are to remain free men we must not be blind to the facts. The word politician has become a term of reproach, it formerly had a dignified meaning but it has lost it. American political life demands a (Continued on Page Three)

PENTATHLON VICTORY IS MEMORIALIZED

Reinartz To Receive A Medal

At a special Student Body meeting it was decided that a medal be presented "Corp" Reinartz, Muhlenberg's Track and Field Star, on commencement day in recognition of his splendid victory by placing second in the Pentathlon at the Penn Relays, Philadelphia, April 29th. His picture and a cup will also be placed in the trophy room.

QUEER GIFTS ARE PRESENTED TO SRS.

Novel Class Prophecy Features Class Day Exercises

Tuesday afternoon the graduates of the Class of 1922, together with their friends, assembled in the College Grove for the Annual Class Day exercises. Roy H. Hoffman, the Class President, opened the exercises with a stirring address of welcome. Then appropriate gifts were presented to each member of the Class, as an inspiration and help in their future work. The gifts included milk bottles, kittens, homes, lanterns, bricks, trolley cars, bloomers, and a varied assortment of other articles. The committee of presentation of these gifts was composed of Charles M. Bolich, Paul R. Orr, Andrew C. Kehrl, George M. Sowers, and Paul F. Spieker.

DR. GRIGGS TALKS TO ALUMNI ASSO.

"Lights and Shadows of the Present Age" is Very Stirring Address

In an address to the Alumni Association on Wednesday morning, in the College Chapel, Doctor Griggs held his hearers' attention for an hour, during which he vividly and accurately portrayed his observations of present-day conditions. After Doctor Griggs' address, the Association held a brief business meeting.

Doctor Griggs said in part: It is always true that men fail to understand their own age: on the other hand it is usually true that they more (Continued on Page Five)

Loss of "Corp" Reinartz and Steigerwalt Hit Local Track Men Hard

KINTZING MAKES NEW RECORD FOR HIGH JUMP

Although the final score stood 75½ to 36½ at the end of the meet, there was close competition in all the events between what was left of the Cardinal and Grey squad and the entire Gettysburg aggregation. The fact that "Corp" Reinartz was in the hospital and Steigerwalt was laid up with a weak ankle did not dampen the ardor of the Muhlenberg men but rather caused them to redouble their efforts to win.

Kintzing broke the record for the high jump at 5 feet 8½ inches and Yehl won a fine race in the half mile. Sowers scored 10 points, making first in both the shot put and the javelin throw.

Bender, of Gettysburg, was high score man with 16 points to his credit. In the dashes Fritz Reinartz, brother of the famous "Corp," showed his class. His time for the 440 was 53 seconds and for the 100 yard, 10-3.

Begel, of Muhlenberg, made a heroic attempt to win the high hurdles, but he was just a fraction of a second slower than Berger, of Gettysburg.

The Muhlenberg men who have earned their track "M" are Reinartz, Sowers, Hodgins, and Kintzing.

The results of the meet:

Shot-put—First, Sowers, Muhlenberg; second, Haehlen, Gettysburg. Distance, 35.5½-35.4.

NINE DROPS LAST GAME OF SEASON

Baseball Game With St. Joseph's Is Hard-Fought Struggle

For the last time of the season, the Cardinal and Grey nine lost to St. Joseph's crew in a hard-fought seven-inning game, by the score 8-7. The whole game was nip and tuck from beginning to end and the decision was in doubt until the last few minutes of play.

In the first inning, the local nine scored four runs while the visitors scored only two runs. The second inning was blank while the Cardinal and Grey again scored two runs in the third, making the score 6-2. The local batmen again scored one run in the fourth while the opponents came back with two runs for St. Joseph's in the fifth. In the sixth inning, the visitors scored three runs when Hoffman of the locals weakened in the pitcher's box. The visitors again scored one in the seventh inning and the home team failed to score.

The batteries for the local nine were Hoffman and Parkes. Weston was substituted for Hoffman in the last inning.

Editorial Comment

Farewell, Seniors!

Another year is finished and about sixty of our friends have stepped out into the unknown future—so different from the four years spent at Muhlenberg. Each man has some goal in view; each is full of the vigor of youth; each will attack his new problems with all the zeal there is in him. But there will be varying degrees of success; some have more ability than others; some have more opportunities; some have more ambition.

While our new alumni were undergraduates, they worked hard to make their Alma Mater better than any other college. This class of '22 was especially hampered by the inroads of the S. A. T. C. in their Freshman year. But undaunted they fought and conquered. They left their mark upon every college activity. Men of the class of '22 gave all they had to football, basketball, and track. Others won glory for their Alma Mater in oratory. We like to think of one who could not complete his course but who gave all he had while he was with us. And the "1922 CIARLA" stands out as one of the better books.

Yes, they were an illustrious class and it is with regret that we bid them farewell. We who remain will strive to carry out their ideals, even to the point of going still higher. The WEEKLY bids the class of '22 farewell and wishes that their successes will be for the glory of Muhlenberg.

Farewell, Seniors, farewell!

The Last Issue

Since this number of the WEEKLY is the last for this year, we take pleasure in wishing our readers a fine vacation. We hope that we shall lose none of our subscribers but rather gain many more so that the larger WEEKLY planned for next fall may be a reality.

The first fall issue of the WEEKLY will appear during the middle of September. You, alumnus, will want to follow our 1922 football season which promises to be bigger than ever before. Our enlarged size will enable us to give you more for your money. Au revoir!

Restriction of college attendance by some form of selection is finding many advocates now. Some presidents suggest personnel tests for freshmen, some advise a strict weeding out of students during all four years, and some ask for admission only of students who have maintained a certain standing in high school.

effect of the spirit that had been cultivated that it was a man's mission to solve all the problems. "When this country was established," he declared, "they announced a few propositions, and let it go at that. We are founded on a very simple foundation, and yet at this time we see the constitution amended nearly every day usually by people who have never read it." These fundamental things as advocated by our government are right of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness, which is very simple. But all these things depend upon our contract of citizenship, which means, that before we can enjoy them as a matter of justice, we must give. "The test of generosity," he said, "is not what you give, but what you get left."

In concluding, he said, "Americanism did not start within the confines of this country. It started on Mount Sinai. Americanism is the spirit of rebellion against the forces that prevent ordinary progress, and the ordinary pursuit of happiness; it is a protest of the world yearning to be relieved of unnecessary shackles, and it rested wherever human hearts congregated, until finally it sang the song, of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness here."

THE COMMENCEMENT PROGRAM

The commencement exercises were opened with a selection by Klingler's orchestra, after which the invocation was offered by Rev. Dr. Fretz.

This was followed by the Latin salutatory by Raymond C. Miller, the scientific oration by Harold P. Knauss, and the valedictory by Russell W. Stine, all of which delivered ideas in such a pleasing manner, that they won the approbation of the entire audience.

After the address by Hon. Job E. Hedges, Dr. Haas conferred the degrees, and announced the various scholastic prizes, after which the exercises were closed with the benediction and the singing of a song.

DEGREES CONFERRED

The following honorary degrees were conferred by President Dr. J. A. Haas, following the commencement address:

Doctor of Letters—Professor Robert C. Horn, of the class of 1900, and now professor of classic languages at Muhlenberg, and Professor C. A. Smith, who is now lecturer on history at Harvard University.

Doctor of Divinity—Rev. Paul C. C. Strodach of the class of 1896, and now pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, Norristown, Pa., and Rev. Frank A. Fretz, who is pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church of Easton, Pa.

Doctor of Law—Honorable Job E. Hedges, the commencement orator, and E. Clarence Miller, treasurer of the board of trustees of the Lutheran Theological Seminary.

Doctor of Music—Professor M. Christiansen of St. Olaf College.

THE SCHOLASTIC PRIZES

The prize to the senior having attained the highest average, was awarded to Russell W. Stine.

The President's prize for the best original essay in the Department of Philosophy, on the subject of "Berkeley's Influence on Philosophy," was awarded to Russell W. Stine.

The Ulrich Junior Oratorical Prize was awarded to Ira Fritz. The second prize was awarded to George Rupp.

The Weinsheimer prize for the best result in a special examination in Calculus was awarded to Harold P. Knauss.

The Reuben Wenrich Prize for the highest average attained in the Sophomore class was awarded to Sterling Bashore.

The Reuben Butz Botanical Prize was equally divided between George Sieger and Clyde Kelchner.

The prize for the best result in a special examination in German was awarded to Truman Koehler.

The honor groups are:

Seniors:—Harold P. Knauss, Raymond C. Miller, Russell W. Stine, and R. Elmer Kramer, Honorable Mention.

Prof. Roy Helton, Winner of America's prize in poetry is speaker

On Tuesday morning Allentown Preparatory School graduated a class of sixty young men, the largest in the history of the school. The commencement exercises were held in the school chapel, which was not large enough to accommodate the large number of patrons and parents.

The speaker was Prof. Roy Helton of the West Philadelphia High School, who was also the winner of America's first prize in poetry in 1921.

He spoke on the necessity of hard work in after life in order to be most successful in life's undertaking.

"Effort is the only thing that will bring you success and happiness", he said. He spoke of the bad influence of movies, automobiles, cheap literature and "canned music" as detrimental to good work. "The movies are not bad, but they invite laziness of the mind. In the same way do motor cars and phonographs work against personal effort." Prof. Helton gave his final point a definition of Americanism and said "Americanism is not yelling when the flag goes by, but it is that which makes America better, so what you should do is to try to make America better."

Strauss Orchestra opened the program with several selections, after which Headmaster Irwin M. Shalter called upon Rev. Robert S. Fritsch, of Muhlenberg College, for the invocation. Harold Kuhns then made the salutatory, followed by orations by Richard Steinmetz and Elmo Chryst. The valedictory was made by John Heilman after which Prof. Helton made his commencement address. Prof. Robert C. Horn, of Muhlenberg College, then awarded the diplomas to the sixty young men, fifty-four of whom will attend college next fall. Prof. Horn also made an admirable address to the class.

Prof. Shalter awarded the following prizes: A four year scholarship at Muhlenberg to the member of the class receiving the highest average in the classical course, to Richard Steinmetz; five dollars in gold to the member of the Senior class who attained the highest final average, to John Heilman; five dollars to the members of the Junior class who had the highest average for the year to Elmer Hepler; five dollars to the highest Sophomore, to Charles Beck; five dollars to the highest Freshman, to Raymond Kuhns; five dollars to the member in the highest Junior department who had the highest average for the year, to Edwin Kline; five dollars to the highest member of the lower Junior department to John Greenwald.

Charles Beck, of Philadelphia was awarded the prize for the best oration in the oratorical contest and another for the best work in biology.

At 9.30 last evening the graduating class held its farewell dance in the Prep school gymnasium. About seventy-five couples attended the affair which was quite a function. Prof. Shalter was master of ceremonies.

Members of the graduating class are: David Alexander, Allentown; Jose L. Azqueta, Havana, Cuba; Douglass Barnes, Broughton Bascof, Allentown; Harold Boyer, Pottstown; William Biery, Allentown; Jose Biga, Humacao, Porto Rica; Cesar Cardenas, Lima, Peru; Fred Chagin, Yucatan, Mexico; Elmo Chryst, Allentown; John Colwell, New Ulitz, N. change for the better. There are three lines of action that will bring about a purer government: First, political education brought about through press, churches and schools, to meet the need of qualified leaders and to awaken interest. Interest is the mother of desire, desire fosters action. Secondly, it is brought about through press, church and ballot, so that no unscrupulous man will be tolerated; thirdly, by repenting and by turning to God, all people not only the politicians. The politician cannot save the nation without help. Let us then have faith in pure religion."

George A. Rupp spoke on American Supremacy. He said: "America holds a supreme position in the world. The rise has been rapid and this speed is a cause for caution. The rise of other nations cannot be compared with our rise. We were oppressed. We revolted from our mother country, were torn by civil strife, we protected Cuba from Spain and now we warred with Germany. The American of today is seeking peace, not war. We first borrowed money from Europe, now Europe borrows from us. We must either develop or die. We are resplendent in past glory but what of the future. We must still hold the scales of rightness and justice."

Horace S. Mann spoke on "America's Forest". He said: all that remains to remind us of the great trees is the blocks of wood in our museums. A few years will take our remaining virgin forests. Where will the coming generation get its supply of timber? We must protect our forests not only for sentimental reasons, but for sound economic reasons. It is for us to do all in our power to protect our resources, to eliminate waste, to prevent forest fires and to increase the growth of our forest by proper methods of forestry."

FACULTY NOTES

After the Summer School sessions, Professor S. G. Simpson intends to finish cataloging the Stopp Library, with which he has been kept busy through the entire school year.

Professor Horn will present the diplomas to the graduating class of the Preparatory School and expects to take a short vacation after the summer sessions are over.

Dr. Wright who will be in charge of the Summer School again this year addressed appreciative audiences in the high schools at Topton, Mountainville, Union Church and North Wales during the past two weeks. The Edward S. Martin Lodge had the pleasure of hearing Dr. Wright speak on "The Philosophy of Happiness" last week.

After a term of faithful service as pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church Fountain Hill, Dr. Bauman resigned to give more attention to the interests of Muhlenberg College.

On Friday evening two weeks ago Professor Bailey delivered a lecture at Grace Episcopal Church this city on the topic "Out of Doors". Recently he also lectured in Grace Episcopal Church Philadelphia, on the topic "Southern Jungles".

Professor Brown recently took a trip out to Wittenberg College Springfield, Ohio where he received the degree of LL. D. Dr. Brown intends to spend the summer in Lebanon and Leechburg, Pennsylvania.

Professor Fritsch addressed the Brotherhood of the Lutheran Church in Emaus upon the celebration of their anniversary. He was also a judge at the oratorical contest held at the Allentown High School last Friday night.

Professor Fritsch will attend the faculty conference held at Silver Bay this summer in conjunction with the student conference held in the same place.

PHI TAUS HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC

On Saturday morning the members of Eta Chapter of Phi Kappa Tau assembled at their house on Linden Street, and were conveyed in machines to Hardner's farm near Guthsville, where the annual picnic was held. An unusual number of alumni were present, who together with the members of the active chapter made it possible to hold a gala day.

A very enjoyable picnic lunch was prepared by the committee in true picnic fashion. The afternoon saw a big eleven inning baseball game between the alumni and the active chapter. The alumni won by the score of 13 to 10.

At six o'clock the bunch got together at the Guthsville Hotel where another hearty supper was served. The only casualties noted as a result of the day are several sore necks and shoulders caused by sunburn.

Using the subject America's Greatest Contribution, Luke S. Sweitzer said in part: "Every child is a bundle of potentialities wrapped in human form. Our nation at first was, like the child, a bundle of potentialities wrapped in human form. As event followed event we were compelled to adopt a policy of self-protection and national isolation. Now we have developed past that stage, and we must take our station as citizens of the world. Self-preservation once was a justified aim, but the day came when American idealism had a powerful effect on world events. The Spanish American war, demonstrated American idealism, the real spirit of disinterested helpfulness of the American heart. The Star and Stripes is looked upon as the international symbol of good will. National humanitarianism shall be our greatest contribution to the world."

Speaking on the subject "The Interpretation of the Law", Harry E. Sowers stressed the preamble of our national constitution as the evidence of our Magna Charta. He pointed out the difficulties in the organization of our nation, and showed how the Supreme Court helped to settle many delicate questions. He said: "To-day Washington is a den of robbers. Who is to blame? You and I. This should be a government for the people, not for the personal benefit of those who dominate politics."

The judges were Prof. J. Warren Fritsch, Edwin K. Kline and H. C. Lilly, D.D. Music was furnished by Luther Bennyhoff '23 and George Seltzer '25.

People who inspire thoughts of murder:

The man who samples your home brew by drinking a gallon of it.

The man who comes to play a sociable game of pinochle and spends the evening chatting with wife.

The prof who assigns two theses

If you should come home

And find your wife

Just breezing in with a happy smile

And she told you that

She just had a perfectly glorious time

With her girl friend Helen

And you knew darn well

That you had just left Helen Whatinell would you say to her?

Soph: Still going with Susan?

Frosh: No, she left me flat and witless.

Soph: Well, then she left you as she found you.

—M. D. R.

Things That Never Happen

Someone getting anxious if not called on in class.

A Soph listening to a Frosh pour forth wisdom.

A day in school without someone kicking about something.

A Soph carrying matches.

Seconds on dessert.

—M. D. R.

Lay off that stuff,

And damned be he who will not heed my bluff.

—C. M. B.

Lay on Macduff,

And damned be he who first cries hold enuf.

—Shakespeare.

Lady: Are these eggs fresh?

Dealer: Yes, Lady! They are so fresh that the hen that laid them hasn't even missed them yet.

—Exchange.

Old Lady: Little boy, don't do that.

Don't you have a handkerchief?

Little Boy: Yes! But I don't lend it to strangers.

—Exchange.

Chivalry—Past and Present

His Desire Satisfied

There was a young bandit named Mack

Who was very hard up for some Jack

So he stepped in a bank

PHI TAUS HOLD ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT DANCE

Thursday evening the members of Phi Kappa Tau will hold their annual Commencement week dance at Community Park near Fogelsville. There will be a large number of alumni present and together with the members of the resident council they should have a very successful affair.

$18,000 BEQUEST FOR MUHLENBERG

Colonel Edward M. Young, all of this city.

Reports from Allentown Preparatory and Muhlenberg College were gratifying to the trustees. Increases in the number of students was the most encouraging item.

Two members of the faculty were elected: Prof. Preston A. Barba, Ph. D., who will teach German, and Rev. Charles B. Bowman, A. M., B. D., will teach Economics and Sociology. All members of the present faculty were re-elected.

The officers were re-elected. They are: Reuben J. Butz, president, and Oscar F. Bernheim, secretary and treasurer.

Trustees present at yesterday's meeting were: Hon. Harry J. Steele, Easton; Rev. Frank Fretz, Easton; Rev. John H. Sandt, Catawissa; Rev. John H. Waidlich, Sellersville; Harry I. Koch, Allentown; Samuel L. Potteiger, Reading; Rev. Charles E. Kistler, Reading; Dr. Howard S. Seip, Allentown; George W. March, Norristown; Rev. A. T. W. Steinhäuser, Oliver M. Clauss, Reuben J. Butz, Colonel E. M. Young and George K. Mosser, all of this city; Hon. C. R. Lantz, Lebanon; L. D. Ulrich, Wilkes-Barre; Dr. D. D. Fritch, Macungie; Dr. Reuben D. Wenrich, Wernersville; George Gebert, Tamaqua, and Raymond Bard, Reading.

SENIORS HOLD FAREWELL DANCE

The farewell dance of the 1922 class of Muhlenberg College was held last evening at the Hotel Traylor and was a most delightful affair in every way. About 75 couples enjoyed a dance program of twelve numbers.

The ball room was artistically decorated in the colors of the college, cardinal and grey, and presented a very fine appearance. The chaperones were: Dr. and Mrs. I. M. Wright, Prof. and Mrs. Harry D. Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Guernsey F. Afflerbach and Dr. and Mrs. John W. Noble.

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the event was composed of the following: "Tabs" Bleiler, "Spike" Spieker and "Paddle" Orr.

Dr. Wright: Schuler, what do we mean by "mental state"?

Schuler (meditating): What—do—we—mean—by—"mental—state"?

Dr. Wright: Why did you repeat that question I asked you, Schuler?

Schuler: I'm just trying to find out whether you've cornered me or whether I'm stuck.

DR. HAAS ENTERTAINS SENIORS

Annual Reception at Hotel Allen was Fine Affair

On Monday afternoon the members of the graduating class were the honored guests of Dr. Haas at a splendid banquet at the Hotel Allen. The reception was formerly held at the president's residence but because Mrs. Haas met with an accident the affair was held at the Allen. After the dinner Dr. Haas called upon various members of the class who responded by giving their impressions of their Alma Mater and each person pledged his loyal support to the college. The affair came to a close with a very impressive heart-to-heart talk by the president. Among other things he said:

"A man will not be a success who goes into any profession merely because of the money he expects to make in it. What a man must do is forget himself and work in behalf of his fellow man and forget all about any reward. I hope that you young men may go out into the world and boost our college. At this time it seems as tho we have learned to understand each other, but now we must part. It makes us feel sad in a sense to part, but in another sense we are glad that we have prepared you to go into life and meet the great demands of this age and generation. In closing I, in behalf of the faculty, want to congratulate you and wish you all the success possible in your work as you go out of our walls."

the class history, in which he gave an interesting account of the events which happened in the four years the class was together. W. Theodore Benze and Herbert C. Gebert followed with an interesting prophecy of the class. It was, however, somewhat of a poor inspiration to the members of the class, as they found themselves in very different places, than some of them are anticipating.

The mantle oration was delivered by Thomas W. Lantz, who gave a vivid account of the achievements of the class, and at the close of his speech, presented the mantle to the Junior Class. Charles Brodell, the Junior Class President, accepted it in behalf of his class.

Raymond C. Miller followed with a number of memorial resolutions, the most interesting one of which was that resolved for Raymond Snyder, who was a member of the class, but was killed in an automobile accident during the summer of 1921. The Last Will and Testament was well delivered by Russel W. Stine, who ably divided the property of the class among their friends.

At this part of the program, the audience and graduates moved to the front part of the Administration building, where Reuben E. Kramer delivered the ivy oration, and subsequently planted the ivy, a significance of all the members being unmarried, near the building. After the planting of the ivy, the members of the class sang the Alma Mater.

SHORT STUDENT BODY MEETING

To the Student Body at the regular meeting on Friday an amendment was proposed by the Student Council, to the By-Laws, Section 17, Article 5, which reads, "Freshmen shall use the rear door of the Administration Building thruout the year, unless they win two of the three events of the Sophomore-Freshman contest"; to read, "Freshmen shall use the basement door thruout the year unless they win two of the three events of the Sophomore-Freshman events." The amendment was unanimously passed by the Student Body.

easily understand historical times. The quotation from Shakespeare: "The evil men do in their lives after them: the good is often interred with their bones," is a fallacy.

It is impossible for anyone outside of America to understand the perfidies of American politics. We are idealists at heart, but materialists in conduct. In the everyday course of events, we seem to be striving only for the almighty dollar, but we are always on hand in any crisis. I believe that the light will conquer the shadow.

We have lived through the greatest war of history. In other wars armies were mobilized: this war mobilized nations. We did not share the great cost of this war, but we did share its spiritual awakening. The war awakened a new kind of patriotism. We learned to think in terms of all the peoples of the earth. Previously we were too occupied with our own affairs. By the war we were called to the place America should hold among the nations of the earth. We learned new agricultural and economic production. We learned the conscious virtue of thrift. Formerly, we wasted excessively, but during the war we practiced the utmost economy. These qualities are fundamental for character.

After the armistice was signed, there was a general hilarious celebration which was due to the sense that we could again do what we pleased. The lid was off! We entered upon a reckless expenditure curtailed only by the present industrial depression.

Emerson said: "Thinking is the hardest work on Earth." And we learned to think. All over the country has gone a mood of hysterical fear. You can jail or depot individuals, but you can't jail or depot their ideas.

We should err if we took these symptoms too seriously—they are a sign we are alive. I believe the recovery will be far more swift than most people think.

This is a mechanical age. More than one-half of the machinery ever invented was invented during the last hundred years. There has been a thorough industrial revolution. Real artisanship has been taken away. Specialization means that the worker is limited in his activities. The joy of creative work has gone out of industry. This is the problem we must solve to solve the industrial situation: to put joy of creative work back into industry. Each step in invention has strengthened the whip hand for the capitalistic exploiters of labor. The workers were forced to organize to protect themselves. There is now an armed truce between capital and labor. The artisan group has been too occupied trying to get more, and has forgotten to work well. The worst of it is not economic waste, but the deterioration in the character of artisan workers. Work is compelled action. Play is free spontaneous action. Let us take America at play to understand it. The characteristic form of amusement is the "movie". The movie is commercialized to the last degree. The producers furnishing what America thinks it wants—excitement. We are in danger of losing deep, logical thinking. The movie is too emotional. It is a direct stimulation to vice and crime. The "movie", if used rightly, is the greatest instrument ever invented to lift people up. It is a fine instrument to spread information.

The next amusement is music and the dance. Jazz band music has eliminated harmony and lessened melody. I saw in a paper the other day; "Wait for the day when we shall beat our swords into plowshares and our Jazz bands into silence." Not being a dancer I don't know how the present-day feels, but I know how it looks.

Americans can well boast of the biggest newspapers of the world. The funny-page is a sample of American humor. Caricature is the adolescence of art. The newspaper is a wonderful textbook of history of the present-day.

There is a great religious conflict. Everywhere is a great skepticism, and indifference is prevalent. However there is also much great seriousness. Out of all these Lights and Shadows, I believe the Lights will eventually conquer the Shadows.

WHERE THEY WILL TEACH

Seven members of the class of 1922 will take up the profession of teaching, and have already obtained positions. Lando Emerich will teach at Westberry, Long Island; Roy Hoffman at Bristol, Pennsylvania; Myron Kistler at Hempstead, New York; Elmer Kramer at the Allentown Preparatory School; Blanche Kressley, Pennsylvania; Leon Rex at Pearl River, New York; and Ruth Kressley at Perkaspie, Pennsylvania.

Dr Wright has also received communications to the effect that promotions in the teaching profession have been given to Warren Snyder, who will be teaching at Bristol, Pennsylvania; Victor Saxe, who will be at Atlantic City; J. E. Laury, who will be at Fountain Hill, Pennsylvania; David Bean who will be at Mountclair, New Jersey; Paul Knedler, who will be at Carnford, New Jersey, and to Leonard Utz who is made superintendent at Nicholsan, Pennsylvania.

JUNIOR "PROM" IS VERY SUCCESSFUL

Commons is Filled With Large and Happy Crowd of Young Folks

The Juniors and their friends enjoyed a very successful Junior "Prom" held in the Commons on Wednesday. The floor was filled to overflowing and Mickle's Fantasy Six were at their best. The decorations for the occasion were blue and white, the colors of the class. The dancing was continued until a late hour and the couples left saying that this affair was the best ever.

The chaperones for the "Prom" were Dr. and Mrs. J. A. W. Haas, Prof. and Mrs. Harry D. Bailey, Prof. and Mrs. Albert C. H. Fasig, and Prof. and Mrs. John V. Shankweiler. The committee in charge were: "Kink" Balmer, chairman, "Dick" Lutz, "Zip" Thomas, and "Speed" Schuler.

The suspension from Columbia U. of two girls caught smoking in their rooms in Whittier Hall has raised the question of when a girl is old enough to smoke. This puzzler is troubling the hundreds of co-eds who seek enlightenment on this subject, for Barnard College rules say nothing about smoking in graduate dormitories but prohibit it among the undergrads.

"Best Paid Hard Work in the World"

IS the way a JOHN HANCOCK salesman described his work. He is a college graduate and in five years has put himself at the very top of his business.

He never yet has called upon a prospect without a previous appointment. The best life insurance salesmen today work on that plan, making it a business of dignity, such as any worthy and ambitious college graduate can find satisfying to his mental needs, and highly remunerative as well.

The man above quoted is the John Hancock's youngest general agent. This shows what college graduates of the right type can do in this business, how they can build up earning power and at the same time provide for an accumulated competence for the years to come.

Graduation is a vital period in your life and you are liable to hold to the business you start in. It would be well before making a definite decision to inquire into life insurance as a career. Address, "Agency Department."

REV. P. C. STRODACH PREACHES TO SRS.

he tired out before he could complete the work, and in the former case because schools of philosophy and science are tending to make the student unbelieving and require a tangible and physical Christ.

"This gospel," continued Rev. Strodach, "is for an educated man, but in the process of time it becomes the gospel of an educated man. We must have a firm foundation of principle by which we may live and guide ourselves. Some men look upon life prosaically, others joyously, and still others have their thoughts far away—idealists. It is in the building of the foundation that our life is molded. There is only one foundation on which we can build firmly and that is on Jesus Christ. He has written with his life that the common man might see, and seeing, follow Him.

"Life is a Romance, and must not be built merely on philosophical foundations, because the Christ of the philosophers is not the Christ on whom we ought truly rely as a foundation, but Christ as seen in contact with daily life religious institutions, the close touch of humanity and the fullness of God. He must be a living God."

Rev. Strodach also stressed the idea of what a college education is intended to do for a young man. He acknowledged the criticisms raised that a college education is not practicable from a commercial viewpoint, but he did insist that one of the aims of a college is to help the man preserve the ideals he has been taught in early life and which are so easily lost when the man goes out into the world to earn a living."

A. T. O.'S START BUILDING NEW HOME

Alumni and Active Chapter Hold Commencement Banquet

A new era began in the history of Muhlenberg when the ground was broken for the first fraternity house on the Muhlenberg campus. The Alpha Iota chapter of Alpha Tau Omega began operations on their new fraternity house by a ground breaking ceremony on Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock. Prof. Albert C. H. Fasig '09, was in charge of the ceremonies. The spade was pushed into the ground by the President of the Allentown Alumni Association of Alpha Tau Omega, David Miller, '95. Registrar Bernheim spoke of the plans for the new house and how it would be a building of which both the college and the fraternity could be proud. George Balmer '23, spoke for the active chapter and expressed their appreciation for the efforts of the alumni which made this undertaking possible.

Intensive building operations will be started July 1st, and it is hoped that the house will be ready for occupancy by the first of the year. The house will be situated at the south-west corner of twenty-third and Chew Streets directly opposite the entrance to the college drive.

COMMENCEMENT BANQUET.

After the commencement exercises were completed to-day the alumni and active men of Alpha Tau Omega journeyed to the Elk's Club for their annual luncheon. After a fine meal served in the best Elk style Toastmaster James Henninger took charge and called on several alumni and active chapter members. The main subject of discussion was the events of the past year and the new house for which ground had been broken yesterday. There were about fifty Taus present at the luncheon.

PICNIC AT SAND SPRING PARK

After the luncheon the brothers and their wives or lady friends journeyed to Sand Spring Park where the chapter held their annual commencement day picnic. There were about fifty couples present and they all voted it the best ever. The picnic was very informal, the brothers in their shirt sleeves and white pants and everyone sitting around and having a general good time. Mick and his orchestra furnished music for dancing during the evening. When the members and their friends were on their homeward way everyone voted the affairs of Commencement week the best and most enjoyable within the memory of any of those present.

SENIOR FAREWELL STAG

On Monday evening the Phi Kappa house was the scene of a very enjoyable stag party given in honor of the Seniors of the fraternity. A short talk was given by each Senior and a few of the alumni who were present. Dr. Ettinger and Prof Simpson were the guests of the fraternity and they also gave some good advice to the departing Seniors and the other men present.

Most of the large institutions, especially those in the larger cities, are carrying on pretentious dramatic rehearsals for elaborate productions. The tendency runs to musical comedies but here and there we note the offering of a heavier production on more classical lines.
